The heaven of poetry and romance still lies around us and within us.

Longfellow—"Drift-Wood."

What is remote . . . we are apt to overrate; what is really best for us lies always within our reach, though often overlooked.

Longfellow—"Kavanagh."

A man's best things are nearest him,
Lie close about his feet.

Clergyman—"It seems he [Arne] wishes to go away in search of life's good."

Margit—"But isn't that just what the old crone did?"

Clergyman—"The old crone?"

Margit—"Yes; she who went away to fetch the sunshine, instead of making windows in the walls to let it in!"

Björnstjerne Björnson in "Arne."

I think that this gathering of his descendants is one upon which the old Puritan Captain may look down with pleasure. . . . I venture to say there is no one who bears his name to-day who is not proud of his hard-handed, hard-headed ancestor. . . . Let us . . . remember that we, too, have an inheritance to preserve and transmit without dishonor.

And now we claim,

Who gather here to celebrate the fame
Of Captain Munson, patriot, pioneer,
The pride of lineage—and we revere
His name and memory; and let us strive
To emulate his virtues—ever keep alive
The sacred record of the good he wrought,—
And in the future treasure up the thought
That every life with good or ill is fraught—
And that the true will live—the false will come to naught.

* Theophilus Goodyear and Baszel Munson in a conveyance 13 June, 1769, mention "a piece of Land we lately bot of our Hon<sup>td</sup> father Joel Munson." Mathew Johnson of Lainsbury, Co. of Barkshire in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay 1 April 1773 sells "my Hon<sup>td</sup> mother M<sup>rs</sup> Mary Munson of New Haven" 18 acres "near the Step Rock;" he mentions also "my Hon<sup>td</sup> father M<sup>r</sup> Joel Munson."

† The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register, xxxix, 384, has the following:—

MUNSON.—A Stately Record Contradicted.—The most ancient volume of vital statistics in New Haven is a great blessing to the genealogist, and he is disposed to regard its statements as authoritative. But the writer finds occasion to impeach an important record which has stood unchallenged upon its pages for more than a hundred and fifty years. This error relates to the birth of 'Squire Baszel Munson, who appears to have been the most prominent citizen of that part of New Haven which became Hamden in 1786.

This man was born in 1730. According to the venerable record which I have mentioned, he was the son of Sergeant John Munson, Jr. But it is certain that he was the son of John's brother Joel. Some of the elements of this certainty may be seen in the following facts.

1. The estate of John's widow was distributed (Pro. Rec. vii. 337) to three sons and two daughters, surviving children; there is no mention of a Baszel. 2. Two of the three sons were minors, and the eldest became their guardian (vii. 134); there is no mention of Baszel, aged 17. 3. In a deed (Land Rec. xlv. 528) Baszel mentions "my mother Mary Munson." Joel married Mary Morriss; John, Jr., married Esther Clark. 4. In another deed (xxxviii. 393) Baszel names "my sister Mary Mallery." John had no Mary; Joel had a Mary who married Peter Mallery. Add that Mary Mallery in a conveyance (xxxiv. 217) speaks of "my brother Baszel Munson." 5. In another deed (xxxii. 92) Baszel names "my Hon<sup>td</sup> father Joel Munson." 6. And finally, in yet other deeds (xvii. 315; xviii. 320), Joel makes mention of "my son Baszel Munson."

As the error which I have brought to view relates to the ancestry of a large group of families, and as it has been published in various genealogical works, I have thought it desirable that the correction, and the data which support it, should be made known through the pages of the Register.

New Haven, Ct.

MYRON A. MUNSON.

The home of Joel<sup>1</sup> was in the Parish of Mount Carmel, "at or near" The Steps, on the west side of Mill River. The high range, which was known as the Blue Hills, extending westerly, at Mill River rises into the conspicuous peak well known as Mount Carmel; the range reappears on the west bank of the river and continues for some distance as a low, broken ridge of trap rock. The records touching Joel's property make mention of "a place called the step Rock," and "the Stepts of the Blew Hills," and "the steps at the west end of the Blew hills," and especially, very often, of The Steps. Job L. Munson informs the author that in his boyhood the big bulge of trap rock cut by the railroad north of Mt. Carmel station, used to have on its east face a series of steps formed by the detachment of blocks of trap, that this rude staircase was popularly known as The Steps, that it was a play-place for himself and companions, and that it was blasted away by the builders of the New Haven and Northampton Canal. A familiar landmark to the early inhabitants: lands in that region were described as at, or near, or below, or above, The Steps. Thus four acres bought by Joel in 1747 lay "on a place Called the step Rock"; another tract which he utilized as security in the same decade, was "Bounded Northward on the Stepts"; another tract employed as security in 1742 was "Bounded South by the Stepts"; a committee of the Proprietors of undivided land in 1756 appropriated to Joel "an acre and Quarter and half Quarter of Land and Rocks" lying "a little northwest of a place Called the Steps;" three or four tracts were described as "lying a little below that place Called the Steps"; a piece bought in 1746 was located "a little above that place Called the Steps"; while various other portions of his property were said to be at or near The Steps. Four acres on which Joel's house, corn-mill and saw-mill stood, were bounded in 1745 "Northward on the Stepts and Cheshire Road*", Easterly by the River Caled the Mill River"; eight acres on which the house and mills stood were in 1753 bounded "Easterly by the Mill River;" and ten acres containing the same buildings were in 1765 bounded "West on Cheshire Road, Southerly on the path that goes Southerly of my house and mills." In June 1769 Theophilus Goodyear and Baszel<sup>6</sup> Munson conveyed to the selectmen land for a highway—"to begin at Cheshire road, to run East where the path now goeth two rods wide to ye Mill River at y<sup>e</sup> foot of y<sup>e</sup> bridge which is made over * "Cheshire Road had the course of Dixwell Avenue, past Henry Munson's, Hamden Plains Meth. Ch., and Centreville Episc. Ch., between Dr. Swift's and (the eastward) burial-ground, on past The Steps.

s<sup>d</sup> river South of y<sup>e</sup> mills." In December 1760 a committee had viewed "y<sup>e</sup> Place for a bridge, Near Joel Munsons house, across y<sup>e</sup> mill River," and in January following £5 had been voted towards the building of the bridge.

Between 1732 and 1762 Joel made some thirty-two purchases of land, the quantities where the measure is specified amounting to about three hundred acres. These lands were nearly all in the vicinity of his home—adjoining Mill River, Pine Brook, Cheshire Road, The Steps, etc.; as many as fifteen were of the Sixth Division. In 1750 he paid a committee of The Proprietors, the Town of New Haven, and the Hopkins Grammar School, "£246 old Tenor" for "Lot No. 4 in Oyster shell field" at New Haven; and he owned real estate in Branford, North Haven, Wallingford and Amity. In several instances it was convenient for Joel to mortgage portions of his property,—in two or three instances to "the Hon<sup>l</sup> Governour and Company of this his maj<sup>ties</sup> English Colony of Connecticut* in New England and in America." In 1765 he borrowed £1000 of Rev<sup>d</sup> Thomas Clap President of Yale College" and others, mortgaging 70 or 80 acres with all houses, mills and other buildings,—“bounded West on New Cheshire Road, North on Peter Mallerys and on highway, East on . . . and Mill River, South on S. Bellamy and highway :” this property was said to be “Near a place upon Cheshire Road Called y<sup>e</sup> Steps.”

At a meeting of The Proprietors “Tuseday” Sept. 3, 1733, “at 2 of the Clock after noon”, Cap<sup>t</sup> John<sup>s</sup> Munson being moderator: “Voted that Joel<sup>h</sup> Munson have the Liberty to erect a Damm across the Mill River near that place called the steps and there to Remaine Dureing the pro<sup>m</sup> pleasure.” The corn-mill and saw-mill served by this ancient dam were principal factors in Joel’s career. He held the property until Feb. 27, 1769, when he conveyed it—80 acres with all the buildings (bounded as in the President Clap mortgage)—to Baszel Munson and Theophilus Good-year, who in another instrument speak of Joel<sup>h</sup> as “our Honrd father.” These purchasers 6 Nov. 1769 sold Wait Chatterton a part of the land with the dwelling-house, corn-mill and saw-mill: the tract containing the buildings was located, according to the conveyance, “in the Elbow of the river and is bounded East and North part on s<sup>d</sup> mill river and part on the mill pond, South on highway.”

Joel was made freeman in April 1728, was chosen a surveyor of highways in 1738 and 1756, grand-juror in 1740, constable in 1757 and 1758, "key-keeper of y<sup>e</sup> pound" . . . in 1756 and 1758, and in 1774 he obtained liberty to build a pound. Seven times, 1748-1758, he was appointed with such men as James Pierpoint, Jared Ingersoll and Samuel Darling, "to remove Incroachments upon ye prop<sup>r</sup> Interests."

Two or three other matters seem worthy of mention. At a Proprietors meeting in December 1733: "Voted that upon Joel<sup>a</sup> Munsons making a feazible highway at the New Way over the steps within two year from this time . . . that Then the said Munson shall have about two acres of Land southeast of sd way." A committee appointed in April 1734, reported in December that "Joel Munson has made a feazible cart way over said steps." Again, as Joel<sup>a</sup> had "flowed part of the prop<sup>r</sup> Land by his Dam," he requested that it be "Confirmed unto him upon some Reasonable Terms": a committee reported to The Proprietors 31 March 1760 that they had "taken a bond of him binding him to make a Good Cart bridge over y<sup>e</sup> brook (which brook runs into y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> Land) in the highway in Cheshire road",—while also Joel relinquished "his fathers right in y<sup>e</sup> Common and undivided Land in s<sup>d</sup> Town in y<sup>e</sup> Ninth Division."*

We are happy to add that Joel<sup>a</sup> became a member of the First Church in New Haven 6 May 1724 at the age of 21, and that Mary Morris who became his wife about two years later, united with the same church 2 June 1725.

In May 1739, agreeably to a petition,† Nathaniel Goodyear, Enos Pardee, Theophilus Goodman, Joel<sup>a</sup> Munson, and ten other citizens of that part of New Haven which became Hamden, were detached from the First Society and "annexed to the parish of North Haven in said town." Thorpe reports Joel's name as appearing on the church-records in Mr. Stiles's day. He was on the Society's committee 1750-1.

† New Haven Rec.

A record dated 30 Oct. 1765 states that Baszel "hath lately built a Saw Mill." Nathan Alling 2 Feb. 1786 granted Baszel the privilege "of Erecting and mentaining a Saw Mill on my farm about thirty five Rods West of my Dwelling House on the same Stream and Damms where s<sup>d</sup> Munson formerly Built a Mill;" in return for which Baszel was to "Saw for me 400 of plank and 400 of Boards p<sup>r</sup> year my finding suitable Loggs;" term of contract twenty years. The above-mentioned saw-mill 17 Feb. 1794 was leased by Baszel for the residue of the twenty years to Jesse Dickerman, for £18.

'Squire Baszel's residence, according to his great-grandson Rowland B. Lacey, stood on the west side of Cheshire Road, between "The Steps" and Mt. Carmel Burial-ground, opposite the road opening easterly towards Wallingford; the north angle between the roads is occupied by the Brockett house; Sereno Cook's house marks the site of 'Squire Baszel's home; it may be an eighth of a mile S. of the Burial-ground, while his son Job Lucianus' tavern lately burned was about twenty-five rods north of the N. W. corner of the Cemetery. Baszel's homestead proper comprised  $44\frac{3}{4}$  acres, 30 rods; there were two barns on it. The inventory of his estate in 1803 included also 10 acres at the N. W. corner of the homestead;  $39\frac{1}{4}$  acres, 32 rods, S. of the above; 2 acres, 37 rods, S. of the above, bounded N. and W. on highway;  $14\frac{1}{4}$  acres, 33 rods, York lot;  $2\frac{3}{4}$  acres, 20 rods, Chunk head Meadow;  $11\frac{1}{2}$  acres, 5 rods, E. of Mill River;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  acres, 11 rods, E. of Cheshire turnpike;  $1\frac{1}{2}$  acres, 34 rods, Payne lot;  $1\frac{1}{2}$  acres, S. of H. Brooks's lot;  $3\frac{3}{4}$  acres, 28 rods, between the river and the Blue hills, bounded N. on highway; 5 acres, 13 rods, on the Blue hills.

Baszel Munson Esq<sup>r</sup> purchased, 2 Dec. 1782, 1 acre "with a Smiths Shop standing on the premises," and eight acres with house and barn, bounded S. and W. on said Munson. Dec. 23, 1796 he bought of Nathaniel Bishop "a Merchants shop"; it adjoined the south side of his own land. Between Jan. 1751 and December 1796 he made as many as thirty-three purchases of land, aggregating nearly three hundred acres. Six pieces were bounded west by the river, and three or more east of the river. Eighteen acres with a house—formerly owned by his father, were sold by Baszel<sup>s</sup> and T. Goodyear to J. Alling, Ju<sup>r</sup>,—bounded W. on the river—"runing North to y<sup>e</sup> foot of y<sup>e</sup> Ledge where y<sup>e</sup> Damm Comes to y<sup>e</sup> Rock." The same partners, for £6.10, in July 1769 conveyed to Abner Todd one acre in M<sup>t</sup> Carmel, bounded "N. partly on Munsons mill pond so Called, E. on the Top of the Rock, and is to run along on y<sup>e</sup> Top of y<sup>e</sup> Rock southerly to the Highway North of the Steps so Called making a point where it Joyns to the highway southerly." We add here that in the distribution of the widow's dower in the estate of Rev. Isaac Stiles, the heirs of Mrs. Kezia Munson received nineteen acres.

Baszel was made freeman in 1756. In 1752 he obtained liberty to build a pound, and again in 1759, and yet again in 1774. He was elected key-keeper in New Haven and Hamden as many as fourteen times. He was chosen one of the collectors of the town rates (New Haven) in 1761 and was chosen a tythingman in 1762. He was a surveyor of highways in both New Haven and Hamden. He began service as lister in Dec. 1764. In January 1782, Baszel Munson of Mount Carmel and Jonathan Dayton of North Haven were made a joint committee to press upon the General Assembly a memorial "for procuring town privileges for the parishes of North Haven and Mount Carmel." The petition did not then prevail, but in 1786 each region was incorporated. In the first year of Hamden's corporate existence (1786), 'Squire Baszel was moderator of the town meetings in November and December; he was chosen moderator at least fourteen times during fifteen years. He was elected selectman in 1790, '91, '96, '97. He was a justice of the peace, e. g., in 1795. In the records at Wallingford there is mention of a court in that town composed of Justice Stanley and six esquires including Baszel Munson. We ought to add that in Dec. 1781, Baszel was chosen by New Haven one of a committee with Charles Chauncey, James Hillhouse, Samuel Bishop, and others, "to report a plan for the Division of this Town into distinct and Separate Towns."

Captain Baszel was active and prominent in local proceedings connected with the Revolution. He and Doctor Eneas<sup>b</sup> were among the twenty-eight citizens of New Haven who were chosen a committee of inspection, Dec. 11, 1775. Jan. 5, 1778 Mess<sup>r</sup> Jeremiah Atwater and Baszel Munson were chosen "to sell the salt belonging to this Town according to their discretion,"—not more than one peck to any one family and only to inhabitants of the town who have taken the oath of fidelity. Further measures for the defence of New Haven were proposed March 16, 1778, and a committee of eighteen, including Baszel Munson, James Hillhouse and Benjamin Trumbull were appointed to view the town, and "Judge what is needful to be done for the Defence of the Town." One week later (March 23) the committee made an interesting report: West bridge should have 2 small works, for 4 pieces of ordnance. The only other pass into the Town from the westward is on the Road by or near the paper mill; the ground there is very advantageous for defence, the whole of it by which the enemy Could pass between the west Rock and any part of the River which is fordable being easily Commanded by Cannon. Should be a small work or Redoubt on the East side of the west River hill on the road leading to Amity, for 2 or 3 field-pieces. West Haven and East Haven have so many high grounds upon which a pass may be taken, and so many places where the enemy can land, etc., etc. The Rev. Mr. Trumbull was requested by the Town to communicate these observations to his Excellency the Gov.<sup>r</sup> and Council of Safety.

The roll of the 2nd Militia Regiment includes the name of "Captain Basil Munson." In the selectmen's book, New Haven, under date of Dec. 6, 1779, appears an order "to Capt. Bazel Munson" for £30. Annie L. Dickerman relates the following: "My great-great-grandfather Baszel Munson, was commissary in the time of the Revolutionary War. At its close he had a large supply of bread on hand. As the troops passed through town on their return to their homes, he invited them into his storehouse and said—'Now boys eat and be merry.' After they had finished their repast, he proposed a game of football with the remaining bread. The proposal was greeted with acclamations, and each carrying his loaf, went into a neighboring field, where they had the merriest game of football on record."

An account-book of Baszel's son, Job Lucianus, has this:

As to Mrs. Kezia, she was the daughter of Esther Hooker, the second wife of Rev. Mr. Stiles. It seems to us curious and very strange that being the daughter of a clergyman, and half-sister of Ezra Stiles, president of Yale College, she should sign a conveyance in 1762 with "her mark." Mrs. Mary, by her husband's Will, received "the use and improvement" of his homestead, and some other real-estate, together with "my best horse and riding carriage and two cows and my negro man Prince," etc. "My son Isaac [is to] have and improve said Real estate given to my said Wife, so long as to her may be satisfactory, paying to her" etc.

The amount of the 'Squire's estate, after all claims were discharged, was £2084. He made bequests to his sons Job L.<sup>o</sup>, Titus<sup>o</sup> and Isaac<sup>o</sup>, the children of his deceased son Ezra<sup>o</sup>, the children of his deceased daughter Keziah<sup>o</sup>, and his daughter Abigail<sup>o</sup>; also to his grandson Basil<sup>7</sup> £30.

Mrs. Allen relates something of the slave, Prince, mentioned above. "All sorts" used to tease him. When once he had some potatoes roasting, he fell asleep; some jocose persons who discovered his project, dug the tubers out of the ashes, and ate them up. He used to go to Mr. Brockett's cooper's-shop for shavings. He was once carrying away a load on his back, when the jokers set them afire. At the distribution of Baszel's estate, Prince fell to the daughter, Abigail B., whose home was in Southington.

The Cong. Ch. at Mt. Carmel was organized 26 Jan. 1764. On the 24 of June following, Baszel Munson was admitted to its communion. The names of the 'Squire and his wife appear on the roll of members in 1783 and in 1800. In Oct. 1785 he paid S. B. £4.10 for one-half of a pew in the meeting-house—"the S. pew next the middle alley."

E. H.*; 6 ch.—(1) Charles<sup>7</sup> † b. 29 Dec.

* F. E. H. states that Amasa owned the whole region about Howard Avenue,—had a farmhouse there. Dea. Stow remembers when he was landlord of an inn at the corner of George and Meadow streets.

† I quote the Am. Cyc.: "He received only a public school education. After coming of age, he joined his father Amasa Goodyear, the pioneer in the American manufacture of hardware, in the hardware business in Philadelphia. The firm being overwhelmed by the commercial disasters of 1830, he selected as a new occupation the improvement of the manufacture of India rubber. His early experiments were carried on at New Haven, Ct., Roxbury, Lynn, Boston, and Woburn, Ms., and the City of New York." He discovered the nitric-acid-gas process in 1836; and in Jan. 1839, the results of an accident by which rubber, sulphur and other ingredients were brought into contact with a red-hot stove, suggested to him the process of vulcanization to which we are indebted for soft and hard rubber as known to-day. "From this time until his death the process of vulcanization occupied his whole attention, but he reaped no adequate pecuniary reward for his labors. The Goodyear patents, now more than sixty in number, have been very expensive in themselves, and still more so from the necessity of defending and protecting them against infringers. The first publication of the process of vulcanization was Goodyear's patent for France, dated April 16, 1844. The French laws require that the patentee shall put and keep his invention in public use in France within two years from its date. Goodyear endeavored to comply with this and with all other requirements of the French laws, and thought he had effectually done so; but the courts of France decided that he had not complied in every particular, and that therefore his patent had become void. In England he was still more unfortunate. Having sent specimens of vulcanized fabrics to Charles Mackintosh & Co. in 1842, and having opened with them negotiations for the sale of the secret of the invention or discovery, one of the partners of that firm named Thomas Hancock availing himself of the hints and opportunities thus presented to him, rediscovered, as he affirms, the process of vulcanization, and described it in a patent for England, which was enrolled on May 21, 1844, about five weeks after the specification and publication of the discovery to the world by Goodyear's patent for vulcanization in France. The patent of Hancock, held good according to English law, thus superseded Goodyear's English patent for vulcanization, which bore date a few days later. Goodyear, however, obtained the great council medal of the exhibition of all nations at London in 1851, the grand medal of honor of the world's exhibition at Paris in 1855, and the cross of the legion of honor, presented by Napoleon III."

The aged Dea. Henry Stow of Wooster St., New Haven, informs me, 10 March 1894, that he was next door neighbor to Charles Goodyear about 1836; their houses were at Congress Avenue, on "Sodom Hill." Between their habitations was a high board fence, against which the inventor erected a shed in which to conduct his experiments. His processes generated odors which were disagreeable and occasioned some complaint among the neighbors. It was their opinion that he did not know much—that he was "a fool." While he devoted himself to his experiments, his property dwindled,—became so reduced that "he could not get trusted for a loaf of bread."

At the quarter-millennial celebration in Springfield, Mass., 1886, Railroad-Commissioner Kinsley said: "I recall with a great deal of interest, the name of a quiet, modest man, who, although he started his enterprise in another place, succeeded in bringing the manufacture of india-rubber to a high state of perfection in a shop now standing on Mill river. I allude to Mr. Charles Goodyear, whose name is world-renowned. I remember distinctly a little incident which happened during his life in Springfield. He was very poor, and one day was arrested for the non-payment of a debt. He was put in the jail limits. He had a suit of clothes making at a tailor-shop in Springfield, and on Saturday night, when the clothes were to be delivered, one of the firm said that Mr.

Goodyear was at Sheriff Foster's. But he said to the trotter-boy in the shop, 'When you go home, take Mr. Goodyear's suit of clothes to him, and tell him that he can pay for them when it suits his convenience.' On the way to the jail the boy stopped at his home for supper. A barrel of fine red apples had been delivered that afternoon at the boy's house, and his mother requested him to unhead it. He did so, and took out of the barrel one of the largest apples and put it in his jacket-pocket. He then started for the jail, which was near by, to deliver the clothes to Mr. Goodyear. To his surprise he found Mr. Goodyear reading in Sheriff Foster's office. He was not behind the bars, but was only in the jail limits. He delivered the clothes and the message of his employer. It occurred to him that, perhaps, the red apple would be acceptable to Mr. Goodyear. He took the apple out of his pocket and handed it to Mr. Goodyear, who thanked him very kindly. On the first of January, 1854, this young man was in Paris. It was Sunday, a fête day. Lord Palmerston and other notable men were in the city conferring with Napoleon about the allied army. The young man went into John Munroe's office and sat down to read some letters that had been received there for him. After he had finished reading, he looked up and saw in the next room Mr. Goodyear. Soon Mr. Munroe came to him and said, 'Do you know that gentleman?' pointing to Mr. Goodyear. He replied that he did; that the gentleman was Mr. Charles Goodyear. Mr. Munroe then said, 'He wishes to see you.' The young man then went to Mr. Goodyear, who looked up from the desk at which he was writing, and said, 'How do you do? You are from Springfield, and used to be a clerk for Palmer & Clark. Do you remember a certain red apple which was given to me once?' The young man replied that he did, and that he was very glad to know that circumstances had greatly changed; and also that he had noticed with a great deal of interest what had been said of Mr. Goodyear, especially in regard to india-rubber pontoons, which he was then making for the French government. After a pleasant conversation, Mr. Goodyear asked the young man to step around to his hotel at 12 o'clock. The young man did so, and soon he was invited by Mr. Goodyear to drive with him to the Bois de Boulogne. The emperor, one other distinguished party, Mr. Goodyear, and the young clerk from the Springfield tailor-shop, were the only ones that drove that day up and down the avenue behind four horses. Gentlemen, the fact that Charles Goodyear carried to such great perfection his india-rubber invention in this town is glory enough for Springfield."

Joel<sup>s</sup> appears 15 Jan. 1753 as witness to an instrument. He was admitted freeman at New Haven 11 April 1757. In May 1765 "Joel Munson Jun<sup>r</sup> and Sarah his wife" quitclaimed their right "in two third parts of y<sup>e</sup> Dwelling house where our Hon<sup>d</sup> father M<sup>r</sup> Samuel Dickerman Dec<sup>d</sup> Last Dwelt in s<sup>d</sup> New Haven."

He bought of his father 15 April 1770 six acres in Wallingford. In Dec. 1771 he received from his father and his mother Mary a quitclaim to their right in "the Real Estate of our Hon<sup>d</sup> father Joseph Morris and our mother M<sup>r</sup> Hester Morris." We quote the Proprietor's records: "May 14. 1771. Then laid out and survey<sup>d</sup> to Joel Munson Jun<sup>r</sup> on the Right of his Grandfather Cap<sup>t</sup> John<sup>s</sup> Munson late of New Haven deceased One Acre and twenty Rods of Seventh Division Land between the first and Second tier of Lotts from Waterbury Line." Joel sold 4½ acres of 8th division land "on Mad Mans Hill" in June 1771; he sold 4½ acres of Ninth Division 31 July 1772.

The amount of Joel's estate after the discharge of all dues was £14.15.10. Doct<sup>r</sup> Walter Munson had a claim "for visiting and tending the Dec<sup>d</sup> in his last sickness Amounting to £8.5.6 . . . a privileged debt." Items from the Inventory are these: "2 tramels 7/ hand Irons 6/ warming pan 7/ 2 Wheels 10/ Tankard 3/ 3 books 5/2 pillion 6/ piggen 8<sup>d</sup> box Iron and heaters 2/6."

Probate records dated 1773 give Joel the title of lieutenant ("Lnt"). Either Joel<sup>s</sup> or (quite likely) his father was enrolled among the members of the Congregational Church, North Haven, 1724-1760.

E. and W. on highways, N. on J. Mansfield's heirs, and S. on his father's land. This appears to be the tract on which he erected the old red tavern. This house—burned in Dec. 1890—stood on the west side of the road 25 rods north of the Mount Carmel burial-ground. He had previously lived in a house south of the one which he built, (about halfway to the burial-ground,) and there some of his children were born. As early as 1780, Oliver Lewis of Southington, made a memorandum concerning the day after his graduation at Yale: "I arose as soon as Sol, and fetched up my horse and rode homeward. Mr. Laud and Nott and Williams rode with me. We breakfasted at Munson's tavern, Mt. Carmel. Laud and Williams parted from Nott and me at Cheshire." Asahel Dickerman writes that his grandfather was a tavern-keeper during forty years.

Job L.<sup>e</sup> 12 Oct. 1779 purchased of J. Bradley, Sen<sup>r</sup>, one-half of a sawmill in Mount Carmel. He was owning one-half of a sawmill standing on land rented of Amasa Bradley in Feb. 1812. In January 1793 Hannah and Joseph Mansfield leased Job "the privilege of erecting a Dam on the Mill Brook near their South line of a lot near s<sup>d</sup> Munsons corn and saw mill." In 1808 his gristmill was said to be located on his farm. In Feb. 1812 he conveyed to Prescott and Sherman of New Haven one-half of twenty acres bounded W. and N. by highways; also one-half of a dwelling-house and gristmill and barn standing thereon. Mrs. Bazel Munson informs the author that Job L.'s flouring mill was about a mile west of the old red tavern,—that he used to grind a good deal, kiln-dry and send the goods off by sea. Mrs. P. J. Burnham says her grandfather was a large dealer in grain, and that he sent ships off with what he ground in his mills. Job L.<sup>s</sup> remembers that his grandfather's mill was on a brook which ran easterly into Mill River about two miles above The Corners; after the Canal was built it emptied into that. The mill was "three-quarters of a mile across lots" from the house. Corn was kiln-dried and ground, says Bazel, and the product put into hogsheads and sent to the West Indies. Custom-work was also done. J. L.<sup>s</sup> says his father and uncle used to carry meal around to customers two or three times a week. He adds that the mill passed from the hands of his father, Bazel<sup>r</sup>, into the hands of Uncle Shanus, the last Munson who owned it. According to public records, "one-half of the mill millhouse and land adjoining" was conveyed to Bazel<sup>r</sup> Munson, B. Ives and H. Bradley; while April 2, 1829 the administrator on the estate of Job L.<sup>e</sup> conveyed to Job L.<sup>r</sup> 20 acres with a sawmill, gristmill, dwelling-house and barn on the same.

The real-estate left by Job L.<sup>e</sup> was valued 17 March 1829 at $4016.91*. The inventory included 3½ acres of land below the Burying-ground, 4 acres east of the Canal, 33 acres west of the Canal, 19⅔ acres east of the Turnpike, 9¼ acres west of the Turnpike, ½ of millhouse and land adjoining, and one hundred acres in Reeds Borough, Vt. There was due his estate from the Farmington Canal Co.: Account $10; building a farm-bridge $80; land-damage and fence $118.86. By his father's Will he had received £90 in real estate, besides "ten acres at the North west corner of my homestead land, . . . to extend south so far as to inclose the Northermost Spring."

Job L.<sup>e</sup> was chosen highway surveyor in 1789. He was chosen a constable of New Haven in 1779, and '81. We quote a New Haven town-record: "Feb. 12 1781 Voted that Samuel Bellamy be released from being Coll<sup>r</sup> of the Tax to be Collected in flour and Job Munson Chosen in his room." Job was made a lister in 1782, '83, '97, '98, '99, and 1800.

His ear-mark recorded 29 Dec. 1788 was—"a nick the under side the Right Ear."

In the day-book of Major Wm. Munson, you may read:

"1789 Oct. 5 Job Munson Dr. To Cash 3 dollars	18 <sup>s</sup>

In Job's own account-book† there are charges against Joseph<sup>s</sup> Munson, "Collectman,"—in 1783, for "ri flower," eleven entries, "ri brand," four entries, "weat flower," two entries. Some other entries are

It is reported that Lucianus was a somnambulist. One cold winter night he retired early, intending to drive next day to New Haven with a load of grain. At length he conceived that it was morning and time to prepare for his journey. He dressed, went to a field a mile away for his oxen—passing over a narrow foot-bridge which spanned Mill River, drove the cattle to the stable, and brought out the cart. While passing the bolt through the tongue, it fell with such a loud sound as to awaken him, and it was still night.

"This may Certify, that in the year 1798, I sold to M<sup>r</sup> Job L. Munson of Hamden, a Neggro woman named Susanna, a slave for life, that at the time I sold her, she had two Children, one a daughter, the other a son named Richard, who was an Infant, under one year of Age, as witness my hand.

New Haven

Mrs. Allen states that her grandfather sold Susanna (whom she names Roxanna) to some one in Derby. The daughter, she says, became free by operation of law at the age of eighteen or twenty; "Aunt Flora" died about 1880, aged 84. Richard became dissipated, went off, and enlisted in the standing army; "he was barracked at Pittsfield."

According to Bazel<sup>s</sup>, our worthy was accustomed to extract teeth for people. He might hear, while up at the mill— $\frac{3}{4}$  of a mile across-lots—that somebody was at the house who wished to have a tooth pulled: he would leave his work and three or four men who must be unprofitable in his absence, proceed to his home and attend to the surgical case. I never knew him to take a cent.

"Old Uncle Job was a prominent man in Hamden," remarked Judge Cornwall. Bazel<sup>s</sup> describes his grandfather as having blue eyes, a rather ruddy complexion, dark-brown hair, and a very prominent nose; as also, a very pursy man with long body and shortish legs. He was a member of the Episcopal Church in Hamden. His wife Lucy is recorded as a member of the Congregational Church in 1800 and 1806; and his wife Nancy was received into that church July 1809 by letter from the First Church in Farmington. It is related that a Bible which Job L. presented to the Mt. Carmel Church was soon after stolen, and that fifty years later his son Bazel<sup>7</sup> while pitching hay from a mow, struck the book with his fork.

We quote Job L.'s account-book :

In 1790 Titus<sup>e</sup> bought of J. Perry three pieces of land aggregating fourteen acres; one piece was bounded west on Mill River and North on Baszel<sup>o</sup>. In 1791 Mary wife of Titus paid Baszel<sup>o</sup> £1 for one and one-half acres bounded east by Mill River. In 1793 Titus<sup>e</sup> bought of Zealous Blakeslee two acres bounded west on Mill River and north and east on Baszel<sup>o</sup>; price, £18. In 1793 Titus<sup>e</sup> sold Lois Crosby five acres for £50. In 1800 he sold Job L.<sup>e</sup> five acres for $120. In 1804 he sold the other heirs of Baszel Munson Esq.<sup>r</sup> his interest in the estate of his grandmother Esther Stiles. In 1805, being of Weston, he conveyed two tracts to “my brother Isaac of Hamden”; price, £45; and he sold him three acres more in 1806.

It is recorded at Weston that Nathan Summers of that town in January 1802 sold Titus Munson 67 acres and nine acres; and it is recorded at both Weston and Canandaigua, N. Y., that Zach<sup>h</sup> Lyon and wife of Weston 8 July 1806 conveyed to Titus<sup>e</sup> No. 59, 240 acres, and No. 51, 154 acres, in Township No. 12 in 4th range of Townships, Co. of Ontario, N. acres in the 4th range in Ontario. Titus<sup>6</sup> and his wife Ruth of Boyle and Isaac<sup>6</sup> of Boyle 7 Sept. 1809 made a sale of property in Boyle.

R. B. Lacey writes: "My grandfather Titus<sup>6</sup> Munson built a house on the west side of the street (on rather high ground) near the Kimberly Store in Mount Carmel." In Dec. 1788 he was elected a surveyor of highways in Hamden. His ear-mark recorded in 1789 was "a Slanting Slit the upper Side the right ear and a half penny the under side the Same." His Will made 27 Sept. 1809 mentions his wife Ruth and his daughters Mary<sup>7</sup> Lacy, Edney<sup>7</sup>, Abigail<sup>7</sup>, Axhsah<sup>7</sup> and Elizebeth<sup>7</sup>.

In view of the fact that the grave of Titus "in the Perrington B. Ground in Pittsford N. Y.", is unmarked and probably could not be identified (since the death of his youngest daughter), a stone was erected to his memory by Deacon Lacey in 1893, at the graves of Titus' first wife and his eldest daughter, in the Mt. Carmel burial-ground.

The wife of Ezra was received to full communion by the Mt. Carmel Church (Cong.) 25 Jan. 1795, and their children Lydia<sup>r</sup>, Harriet<sup>r</sup>, Austin<sup>r</sup>, and Chauncey<sup>r</sup>, were baptized by James Dana, D.D.

The Will of Baszel<sup>s</sup> bequeaths "my five Grandchildren, children of my son Ezra Dec<sup>d</sup>, the dwelling house and one acre of land adjoining said house, opposite the highway from my dwelling house . . . and One hundred and twenty pounds more out of my Estate; the two oldest shall have two pounds each to the two younger one pound each."

Ezra was chosen a "Key keeper" in Dec. 1783 and a "packer" in Dec. 1797.

He excelled in courage as well as strength and alertness. He was fond of athletic sports, particularly that of wrestling, and when in the Army did not find his equal in a single contest. His grandson John C.<sup>s</sup> furnishes this anecdote: "A desperate man shut himself in an upper room, and being armed with a savage knife in each hand, could not be taken or dislodged without endangering the lives of such as should make the attempt. Finally my grandfather was sent for. He opened the door, and as the desperado rushed at him with his knives, grandfather caught him by his wrists, brought him to the floor, and having disarmed him without harm to himself, delivered him to the authorities."

Ezra<sup>a</sup> performed much service in the Army of the Revolution. He enlisted May 24, 1776 in Captain Parmalee's company, (Wm. Munson was 1st Lieut.,) Col. Elmore's regiment. According to Conn. in the Rev., this regiment took the field in July, '76 under Schuyler, and on Aug. 25 marched from Albany into Tryon County. During the remainder of its term, it was posted at Ft. Stanwix and vicinity. It broke up at that point in the Spring of '77. Ezra enlisted again Jan. 1, 1777 in Capt. Wm. Munson's company, Col. Moses Hazen's regiment (1777-'83), and served to the end of the War. This regiment performed duty generally in Washington's main army, and was engaged at Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth, and at the siege and surrender of Yorktown.

Mary's father died when she was about seven years old. She was admitted to membership in the Congregational church at Mount Carmel 6 April 1783. Her strength of character was very remarkable. For an illustration of it we are indebted to Mrs. Thacher:

* During one week of 1802, Mary lost three children; Sally a. 13 on Thursday, Horatia a. 3 on Friday, and Elam a. 1½ on Saturday.

† Another is Mrs. Gilbert Douglass, res. Southern California.

When she was about ten years of age, she had a stepfather who was a Tory. At family worship he was accustomed to offer prayers for the King, which so incensed my grandmother that she told him one morning if he repeated that petition, she would report him to the authorities of the city. The prayer was not heard again. She could remember the landing of Lafayette with his soldiers and has often described for us their march through New Haven.

She had a strong, clear and cultivated mind. She was a keen observer of nature, and has been known to set her clock by the constellations at night as readily as she would by the noon-mark in the daytime. She was so well-informed in politics that she could converse intelligently upon the different political parties which were active during the several presidential campaigns down to 1852. Her first salutation to her gentleman friends often was—What are the doings in the Legislature, or in Congress?

In her religious life she was an example for all; she used to say that she was ever ready to do her Master's bidding. Both she and her husband in early life professed loyalty to the Lord, and they were strict in observing the requirements of such a relation.*

* The following anecdotes, furnished by Mrs. Thatcher, were received too late for insertion in their proper place.

As to her belief in special providences: She was sixteen years of age when her mother passed away, and she felt that she had little kindness to expect from her stepfather. The night after the burial, she was thinking—as she used to express it—of what would become of her, when she saw in a vision a young man, tall and of commanding presence, enter the room, and she arose to kneel to him. But a voice said, "Don't kneel to me, Mary, and don't worry, for I will take care of you." About four years after this, she left New Haven with her maternal aunt, Mrs. Deacon Wait Chatterton, for Rutland, Vt., where she met and at once recognized the young man seen in her vision; and she enjoyed with him over fifty years of admirable married life.

As to her executive ability: My grandfather had been summoned to Rutland as one of the grand-jury in a very important case. But as some of his clothing did not seem presentable, he thought that he should be obliged to decline. Grandmother, nothing daunted, called one of her sons, and directed him to shear a handful of black wool from the back of a sheep; this she mixed with white wool, already in the house. She bade her maid, Rebecca Johnson, to bring out her wheel, and spin the rolls as they fell from grandmother's cards. The result was that grandfather donned his new trousers and started for town in just thirty-six hours after the summons. The carding, spinning, weaving, cutting and making were all done by grandmother and her maid within that time, neither of them having stopped her work for food or sleep.

As to hospitality: Owing to the cold summer of 1816, the crops did not ripen, and many otherwise well-to-do persons suffered from want of bread. Though my grandfather had plenty, he refused to sell. He desired grandmother to keep bread constantly in readiness to give everyone who asked; and most religiously did she fulfil the requirements. Their grain lasted until the next harvest, which was one of unusual abundance. A hillside sloping to the south is often pointed out as the spot where Capt. Mead cut the first clusters of ripening grain to supply his own household.

- i. Joel<sup>7</sup> b. abt. 1800; unm.; d. 31 July 1852, æ. 52; he was admitted freeman at Hamden 1822, in 1826 and 1827 was in Rutland, Vt., was in Hamden from 1828, was in New Orleans about 1836, and returned to Hamden where he was in 1842. Chauncey Allen says that "Joel used to teach school—when he was quite an old bachelor"; that he went to Vermont, was associated in business with others, lost property, got sick of the undertaking, and in settling took a lot of old horses; that he afterwards went to New Orleans,—I remember that he had vinegar sent to him. He is said to have had "some money," would lend it to any who asked, would sometimes make a minute of it, would sometimes not, and would sometimes fail to recover what was loaned.

In Dec. 1824 he sold J. Bassett 6¾ A. in Hamden for $275. In Jan. 1827 he bought of Zebulon Mead property in Rutland amounting to $1330. He was admitted to the Cong. church in West Rutland 1826, to the Mt. Carmel church in Aug. 1828, app'y, dismissed to the church in New Orleans Nov. 1836, and was among the members of the Mt. Carmel church in 1842. The pastor, Joel Munson and three others, 8 Dec. 1843, were appointed a committee "to visit those who had long absented themselves from the communion and ordinances of the church."

Joel was drowned while clamming off west of Savin Rock. When he attempted to return, the tide had risen so high that in passing from bar to bar he lost his life. His estate inventoried $374; the claims against it amounted to $227.75,—the latter covered "funeral expenses including expenses of recovering body."

Mrs. E. Dickerman states that Joel was tall and had light eyes; that he was rather listless, and did not confine himself to anything; that he was very peculiar, an odd genius; that he had a good memory and was a great reader. Lewis Warner relates that when he was a boy, Joel called on his father to sell him a piece of land. He was much impressed with the short, quick, snappy manner in which the caller replied to a question—"Not knowing, couldn't say."

Jesse<sup>6</sup> lived a little north of Kimberley's Store. Widow Amelia joined the Congregational Church in Mount Carmel at the same time with her sister Rebecca, 1 Nov. 1807; the same day her three children Joel, John Linch, and Jesse were baptized.

Jesse<sup>6</sup> sold Titus Street three acres for £83 Sept. 21, 1799; and five days later he paid Chauncey Dickerman £150 for 1¾ acres bounded N. on Baszel Munson, east by the Mill Pond, and 2 acres bounded N. and W. by Titus Munson's land. H. Mead of Rutland, Vt., conveyed to him some real-estate in Hamden 22 July 1803. Jesse was chosen a tythingman in Dec. 1801.

Administration on his estate was granted to Amelia, and Ebenezer B. Munson; bond, $3000. His property was valued at £238. 12. 11. He received from his father's estate, say, 1829, 1 acre 72 rods of the homestead, and one-sixth of the land in Readsborough. Beach's occupation, according to Mrs. L. Allen, was not very regular and settled; he speculated around here and there some, she says. His wife was admitted to the Cong. Church at Mt. Carmel 1 Nov. 1807, and the same day her children Jeremiah, Caroline and Miriam D. were baptized. She was subsequently recommended to a church in Vermont.

Bazel<sup>7</sup> received by the Will of his grandfather Baszel<sup>6</sup> (1803) £30, the only bequest to a grandchild, presumably given for his name. His portion was in the form of 3 acres 25 rods bounded E. and S. on Job L.<sup>7</sup> and W. on the River.

The account-book of Lucianus<sup>6</sup> has :

" Aug. 1805	Bazel Munson Dr.

In 1808 Bazel<sup>7</sup> received from the estate of his grandfather Beach  $2\frac{1}{2}$  acres of the homelot, with the dwelling-house. Being of Wilmington Oct. 1817 he sold Job L.<sup>7</sup> jr.  $\frac{1}{6}$  of ten acres in Hamden. He had from his father's estate in 1829 (prob.) 1 acre, 70 rods. For a short time about 1829 he was part-owner of the mill left by his father: the administrator sold him and two others one-half of the mill, mill-house and land adjoining, that being Job L.'s right in the property at his death; price, \$650.

Bazel<sup>7</sup> was chosen a hayward in Hamden Jan. 1829. His residence in New Haven was on Goffe Street. He did gardening. His wife about 1808 app'y was recommended by the Mt. Carmel church to the church in Wilmington; and on recommendation of the latter was again received by the Mt. Carmel church 13 Sept. 1829; her daughters Julia Abi<sup>8</sup> and Elizabeth<sup>8</sup> were baptized 19 June 1831; and Huldah was dismissed to the Howe St. church, New Haven, by which she was received Aug. 1842.

John Watson<sup>s</sup> b. abt. 1843 ; unm. ; he chose a guardian 23 May 1863 (a. 19½), "having a father who was an imbecile and incapable of taking proper care of said minor ;" he was a soldier in the War of the Rebellion ; he went off somewhere and came back after his father died ; he went to New Zealand, came back after 17 years, and went off again to parts unknown. He has been in the printing-office with his brother and has engaged in repairing watches. His nephew Jerome C.<sup>9</sup> informs me (Oct. 1892) that he died in the Sandwich Islands about May 9, 1891, leaving some $15,000 or $20,000 to the "Salvation Army." (His aunt Mrs. Allen had presented him with some property in Seattle, Wash.)

Job L.<sup>7</sup> was admitted freeman in April 1812. He occupied the homestead of his father. For a time he took charge of the mill,—he owned a share of it. At some period he used to peddle oysters. Dr. Swift remembers that during a number of winters previous to his death, he used to spend his time popping corn, carrying loads of great sacks of it to market, and selling it by the peck and the bushel.

He received in 1808 from the estate of his grandfather Beach the southerly part of the "Barn lot," 4 acres, bounded W. by highway, E. by Mill River ; also 5 acres of the houselot. He received from his father's estate one acre and 62 rods ; and he purchased of the administator the house and other buildings, $525, 3½ acres below the burial-ground, $164.50, 5 acres W. of the Canal, $165.57, 4 acres E. of the Canal, $362.25, etc.

He was chosen constable in 1821 and 1822 ; highway-surveyor in 1813, 1825 and 1845 ; fence-viewer in 1843 and 1852.

As Job was sitting in his arm-chair, he hailed an acquaintance who came along and observed, "I am taking comfort ;" he then proceeded to the well and drew up a pint cup of cold punch, of which they partook together. He used to drink a great deal, it is said. "He was very hard upon his first wife ; his second paid him off." He was very singular, wild, jocose, a great practical joker.

One, Dickerman, relates that Judge Darling got some grind on Job. The latter drew a load of wood to New Haven which the Judge was scrutinizing rear and front. "Mr. Munson, your oxen do not kick?" "Never." Job passed around in front of the oxen; punching one of them he set him kicking. "Excuse me, Judge," he exclaimed, "I never knew that ox to kick before." He once took a load of white-wood to New Haven.* Judge Darling met him and asked him what his price for it was. He named his price "for not-hickory wood; this is (knot) not-hickory." The Judge bought it. When a man came to saw it, he inquired, "What did you buy that wood for?" "Why?" "It is white-wood." The Judge said he was told it was hickory. "That Munson!" he exclaimed. He sent Job a letter requesting him to call at his office. When he called, the Judge taxed him with misrepresenting the wood. "I told you it was not-hickory." "But it wasn't hickory." "I told you it was not hickory!" Dr. Swift relates that Job L. took a load of turnips to New Haven,—long, white, cowhorn turnips. He offered them to a man. "What are they good for?" "I feed mine to my fattening hogs." "Will they fatten hogs?" "Mine grow fat." "You may take them around to my place and leave them; find how many there are, and come and get your pay." Two or three weeks after, Lucianus was in New Haven and met the man. "I thought you told me those turnips would fatten hogs." "I told you I fed them to my fattening hogs, and they grew fat; but I mix some meal with them, and I find that the more meal there is, the better."

He was captain of a company that fought the Indians in Oregon, and was shot through the arm—the ball killing another man. The Idaho Democrat of 9 April 1884 said: "Captain Lyman B. He had been married but a few weeks at the time of his death. All in all, Capt. Munson was one of the best men Idaho ever had. His death is greatly deplored by all who knew him."

- i. Samuel<sup>8</sup> b. 27 Feb. 1834 in Batavia; m. 11 Oct. 1873 at Omaha, Neb., Evelyn Grace O'Connell b. in N. Y. C. 27 Jan. 1855; he d. 2 Oct. 1887 at Farmington, Me. Officer in U. S. Army; Episc.  See below.

At ten years of age Samuel<sup>7</sup> was left an orphan by an epidemic which proved fatal to both his parents. Thereupon a friend of his father made a home for him. His mates always welcomed him as a favorite companion on the play-ground, and his teachers esteemed him for his integrity and his application to his tasks. At the age of nineteen he became loyal to our Lord. He studied at the academy in Farmington, and in 1825 began a course at Bowdoin College. At this period he was a patient student, and was unwilling to leave a subject without understanding it. He was more distinguished for accuracy of judgment than for originality or imagination. One who was associated with him in college says—"He always appeared to me as a fine specimen of one making the best use of his powers, and improving to the utmost his time and opportunities for acquiring useful knowledge."

He sought ministerial equipment in Andover Theological Seminary. One who knew him in that school of the prophets, says: "His talents were highly respectable,—solid rather than showy. As a student he was diligent and thorough. His piety was ardent and deep-toned, exerting upon his whole character a controlling influence." He was president of the Society of Inquiry. His first sermon had for its text John viii. 34.

The greater part of the year after he left Andover, Mr. Munson devoted to the study of medicine in Boston and Brunswick. The friends of missions in Barnstable County, Ms., where he had spent several weeks in the service of the American Board, and where he was ordained, proposed to become responsible for his support while engaged in missionary labors ; and the arrangement was consummated. Just before embarkation, he preached a sermon from Acts viii. 4, which was published by the Board as one of their "Missionary Papers."

On the 10th of June 1833, Samuel Munson and Henry Lyman, with their wives, embarked at Boston, on board the "Duncan," for Batavia. Munson, the voyager, wrote : "At one time we supposed ourselves in great danger. A small sail was discovered ahead, which was soon recognized as a slaver. They appeared to be making directly towards us,—thirty or forty monsters of all colors, languages and nations. To flee was impossible. All hands were called,—our carronades, muskets and pistols were charged. After an half-hour's anxious suspense, we saw them cross our bows and bear away, as we supposed, to the West Indies. I shall never forget the appearance of their vessel,—black hull, black spars, and black masts—fit emblem of their moral character."

July 17th the Rev<sup>d</sup> Samuel wrote to his sister : "The Lord willing, my dear sister, we shall cross the Equator to-morrow morning. The North-star has already disappeared. I looked for it to-night, but it was buried beneath the mists that encircled the horizon, and I shall see it no more." As the voyage of one hundred and three or four days drew towards a close, the missionary beheld palm trees lining the shore.

Soon after arriving in Batavia, our Christians hired a house "with bamboo, cotton, coffee, cocoa-nut and cinnamon trees growing around it. Some beautiful coffee plants are just under our window." They began immediately to acquire the Malay language, and after a short time Munson commenced the study of the Chinese. They also opened a dispensary, where they furnished medicines to those who applied,—ministering at the same time to souls with spoken and printed messages. "I have never seen a Malay refuse a tract," wrote S. M. They engaged withal in preaching.

The duty of exploration was imposed upon Munson and Lyman. Their instructions were to proceed "to Nyas, then to the Battas of Sumatra, then to the interior of Borneo, to fix upon the most eligible locations for other missionaries," who were immediately to be sent thither. Having obtained permission from the Governor-General, they embarked April 7, 1834 on the "Diedricka," to sail from Java to Sumatra. The languages spoken by their fellow-voyagers were twelve,—English, French, Dutch, Spanish, Portuguese, Danish, Bengalee, Moor, Javanese, Malay, Chinese, and Nyas. They arrived in Bencoolen Apr. 21st, and the next day inspected a plantation of spices. They found that "the nutmeg tree very much resembles the apple tree, though the branches are nearly horizontal, and the top more acuminate. The fruit is much like the peach in shape, size, and appearance. The clove tree is one of the most elegant productions of nature. In size and shape it is not unlike the common cherry. The germ of the blossom is, when gathered and cured, the clove of commerce. The flower is of all others the most exquisite in scent." They weighed anchor and visited Padang, where they investigated, preached, and distributed tracts. After calling at various other points, they found themselves, on the morning of May 28th, "in sight of the long-desired Nyas." They fulfilled their mission, improved their opportunities to see some other places, and arrived at Tappanooly (Sumatra) June 17th.

From this port, they set out June 23d on a tour inland to explore the Batta country. They found the road exceedingly difficult—according to the report of their servant Si Jan—consisting of hills and ravines covered with thick forests; so steep in many places, that they were obliged to ascend by means of rattans, tied from the tops of the rocks, and to descend on their haunches. Yet they managed to advance about ten or twelve miles per day. There was seen nothing like a village except at the end of each day's journey. On the second night after their departure, they fell in with a Radjah Swasa, who told them it would be better not to attempt to enter the Batta country at first, but to stay at Pauchon until he should have time to go into the interior and make inquiries, when he would send them a letter from Tobah, informing them whether or not they would be well received. The brethren replied that they came with peaceable intentions, and that there was no necessity for such a measure. Si Jan states while at Pauchon he heard from the Malays residing there such fearful accounts of the murderous practices and cannibal habits of the Battas, that he requested permission to remain behind, but that Mr. Lyman replied they could not do without him.

About four o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 28th, the party came suddenly upon a log fort, only a hundred yards distant, which was occupied by a number of men armed with muskets, spears, etc. The interpreter offered to go first and parley with them; after him followed the coolies with the baggage, the missionaries, their two servants, and finally the police runner. When the interpreter arrived at the fort, Si Jan heard a commotion, and on looking round, beheld on their flank and at their rear a band of about 200 armed men close upon them. The coolies fled; the interpreter also disappeared. Immediately the crowd of Battas rushed upon the explorers, hallooing and brandishing their weapons. Lyman turned aside the spears and muskets with his hands, and entreated the savages to wait a little, that there might be an understanding,—while both gentlemen threw their hats to them, with some tobacco. The rabble not being pacified, Mr. Lyman delivered up his pistols, as did also Mr. Munson. The former then asked Si Jan for the musket which he carried; the man hesitated, but presently gave it to him, when Mr. L. immediately handed it over to the Battas. He then said—"Call the interpreter." Si Jan ran a little way to call him, but failing to discover him, turned about to return to Mr. Lyman, when he heard the report of a musket, and saw Mr. Lyman fall, calling out, "Jan! Jan!" A shout then arose from the encompassing Battas, which was answered by those in the fort. A rush was then made on Mr. Munson, who was run through the body, and fell. Another shout followed.

Sometime afterward, a traveller was informed at Tappanooly that the savages murdered the missionaries ignorantly; they were maintaining warlike relations with a neighboring village, and seeing two strangers of unusual appearance approach, agitated with fear and passion, they did they knew not what. Moreover, when the villages around learned from natives on the coast, and from others on the road, that the Christian strangers were good men, and had come to do the Batta nation good, they all leagued together to execute vengeance against Sacca, the village where the outrage was perpetrated; they set the houses on fire, killed as many of the inhabitants as they could, and destroyed their gardens and fields. Those who escaped were dispersed, the community was dissolved, and the place where the village stood became a melancholy jungle.*

"They never fail who die
In a great cause."

 Capt. Samuel<sup>8</sup>, son of Rev. Samuel<sup>7</sup>, was the first American child ever born on the island of Java. His father, in announcing the event to his grandparents, observed—"We hope and pray that the Spirit of God will prepare his heart for the work of a missionary." April 6th, the Lord's-day previous to the embarkation of the Rev<sup>d</sup> Samuel

Headquarters 9th Infantry,
Orders } Whipple Barracks, Ariz. October 22nd, 1887.
No. 57 }

It becomes the sad duty of the Regimental Commander to announce to the regiment the death of Captain Samuel Munson, on the 2nd day of October 1887, at Farmington, Maine.

Captain Munson entered the 5th regiment of Maine Infantry, on the 6th day of May, 1861; on the 26th of that month he was appointed a 2nd Lieutenant in the same regiment. On the 5th day of August 1861, he was appointed a 2nd Lieutenant in the 9th U. S. Infantry, which appointment he accepted on the 5th day of September 1861, having been honorably mustered out of the volunteer service the day previous. He was promoted to a 1st Lieutenancy the 31st day of December 1862, to a Captaincy the 28th day of September 1865. He was Quartermaster of the regiment from the 9th day of May 1864 to the 7th day of July 1865, and in addition to the foregoing served as Captain and A. Q. M. of Volunteers, from the 27th day of February 1865 until he was honorably mustered out on the 27th day of June 1866.

Captain Munson's frontier service on the Pacific coast and on the Plains was long and arduous and earned him a high repute for the faithful manner in which it was performed, creditable alike to himself and to the regiment. A genial companion, a firm and generous friend, an officer of deservedly high standing, his memory will long be cherished by his comrades in the 9th Infantry.

As a mark of respect to the memory of Captain Munson the Regimental Colors will be draped, and the officers of the Regiment will wear the usual badges of mourning for thirty days.

By Order of Lieut. Colonel Brayton.

(Signed) J. M<sup>c</sup>B. Stembel.

1st Lieutenant 9th Infantry
Adjutant.

My first word from the Captain was dated 21 Sept. 1885, at his Recruiting Office, 116 Chatham St., N. Y. C.: "I am very much pleased to know that the Munsons are so numerous, and so forth-putting, and I'll do all in my power to help you." His widow wrote in the autumn of 1887: "The late Capt. Samuel Munson, U. S. Army, never received your invitation to respond to a toast at the Munson Reunion in August last. It went to Arizona, then to Maryland, and finally reached us in Farmington, Me., a few days before Capt. Munson's death," when he was too ill to attend to matters of this nature. "Had his health permitted, he would have been glad to take part in what was no doubt a very enjoyable occasion."

Capt. Samuel was buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Portland, Me. Bishop Neely read the service at his grave.

Bazel<sup>8</sup> was a peddler during a great many years. His home was on the hills nearly a mile westward of the Canal and Turnpike. He owned the old tavern-place which had been occupied by his father and grandfather.

When ill one time, he summoned Dr. Swift, and desired his prognosis of the case. "Mr. Munson, you have got started on a course of bilious fever, which may run ten days or two weeks." "Well, I can be sick as well now as ever,—I've got my crops all in!"

He was quite eccentric. Nearly all his property, seven thousand dollars, was willed to Jerome. But the oddities of the testator enabled Francis to break the Will, so that the property was treated as intestate.

Ezra<sup>8</sup> was chosen first-sergeant of the North Haven blues at its organization 6 Aug. 1838. He and his wives were church members. A part of his life he was active in church, Sunday-school and temperance work. Business troubles afforded occasion for some faults. In 1850 he had an agricultural warehouse on Chapel St. During forty-five years he was manufacturing or trafficking in agricultural implements. "He was widely known," says a newspaper, "among Connecticut farmers as a genial and obliging gentleman." In May 1851 he changed his home from North Haven to New Haven, in March 1857 removed to North Branford, and in Nov. 1857 returned to North Haven.

He has lectured somewhat and has been a contributor to periodicals. He was admitted to the North Church, New Haven, by certificate in 1852.

 Dr. Edward L.<sup>9</sup> Munson was a graduate of the Hopkins Grammar School, where he obtained prizes for the best Greek translation and the best English essay. We quote the Journal and Courier: "He then entered the academical department at Yale and while at college was one of the editors of one of the leading college papers. On his graduation he was offered the professorship of English literature in Rochester University, which he declined. He entered the medical department at Yale and successfully took in two years the full course of three years' study, and graduated with the two highest prizes out of three, taking one for the best thesis on diabetes, the other for the best paper on obstetrics. Soon after graduating he became a member of the staff of physicians at the Connecticut General Hospital in this city. Here he spent nine months, exhibiting rare adaptation to the work of his chosen profession. Later in a competitive examination for appointments as surgeon in the United States Navy, he passed in the front rank of applicants and was nominated as assistant-surgeon by the President and confirmed by the Senate, but declined this appointment. The same week he underwent an examination by the board of United States medical examiners headed by the surgeon-general of the army: He brilliantly passed the most careful and critical examination, standing at the head of a large class of applicants and taking first place in the line." He was appointed assistant-surgeon in the United States Army, and ordered to report at St. Louis (May 1893), where the troops usually number from 1500 to 2000. Several articles from Dr. Munson's pen have appeared in medical journals.

* Trumbull Ch. Rec.: "Octo<sup>r</sup> 28th 1736 Israel Munson of New Haven and Mary Brinsmead of Unity were married."

† Gravestone; Town Rec., Oct. 30.

‡ Born 7 June 1682, dau. of John, son of Timothy (of Boston). Margaret's sister Mary m. John Dixwell of Boston, son of the regicide; Margaret's niece Margaret Mansfield was the first wife of Benedict Arnold. Capt. Moses Mansfield was b. 1674, son of Major Moses 1640-1703.

In 1730 Israel's residence was on the S. E. corner of College and Grove streets where Benj. Ling and Dixwell the Regicide had formerly lived. In that year, April 30, his father presented him with "that homelot where the said Israel Dwells with the Building thereon, the North Corner of sd lot, Bounded westerly and Northerly by the Town streets, southerly and easterly by s<sup>d</sup> Theophilus Munson his land." Israel<sup>4</sup> was still living on the Dixwell corner when his son William<sup>5</sup> was born in 1747.

It is evident that he was a smith by trade. His father was a locksmith. The latter by Will said—"I give to my son Israel my best Anvil"; this article was valued at £45. The inventory of Israel's estate included: Sea Cole in the Shop £5. 12. 6 p<sup>r</sup> large Bellows £4 Anvil 174<sup>lb</sup> £58 Beek Horn 38<sup>lb</sup> £9. 1. 6 Vice £12 hand D<sup>r</sup> 25/- 1 Sledge and 7 Hammers £4 3 p<sup>r</sup> Smiths Tongs, pinchers, Shears & Butteris 97/ 2 Rasps 11/ Box of sundry small Tools 40/ 7<sup>lb</sup> pewter & brass 49/ 5<sup>lb</sup> Lead 12/6 5<sup>lb</sup> german Steel, old Iron £30. 16 38<sup>lb</sup> new Iron 88/4. His "black Smith's Shop" stood on the south half acre of his home lot. (It passed into the possession of Joseph<sup>6</sup>.)

Capt. Theophilus<sup>3</sup> died in 1747; Gen. Wadsworth's Map of New Haven made in 1748 locates Israel at his father's late residence, southwest corner of College and Wall streets, where President Dwight now lives, and it designates him as Inn-Keeper.

"I give to my son Israel," says Theophilus in his Will, "my silverhilted Sword,"—valued at £30. After some minor bequests, the bulk of his estate is to be divided among his four sons: "Israel is to have a double part and my other Sons a Single part." There fell to Israel<sup>4</sup>, in the distribution—"y<sup>e</sup> Home lot containing about 1½ acres y<sup>e</sup> Dwelling house Barn and appertenances where y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> Dec<sup>d</sup> Last Dwelt, also y<sup>e</sup> Eastern part of Heaton Lot so Called, containing about 2 acres [extending N. to Grove Street], also Davis's Lot, the Mill Lane pasture," and about nine other tracts including "Cheshire Lott" and "Ox hill Lott."

might be supplied: 2 acres "at Shepards* Brook" were voted to the heirs of Capt. Theophilus.

In May 1737, Mr. Israel Munson was confirmed by Assembly "to be Ensign of the northeast company or trainband in the town of New Haven;" this was the North Haven company. In May 1745, he was confirmed "Lieutenant of the second company or trainband." In May 1750, he was confirmed "to be Captain of the 2d company or trainband in the town of New Haven." (In 1739, New Haven—including East, West, North, &c.—had six companies, of which that in North Haven was by far the largest.)

Israel<sup>a</sup> was chosen fence-viewer in 1732—'47 and '50; hayward in 1737; and in 1751 Capt. Israel had liberty to build a pound. He was made a surveyor of highways in 1732, a constable in 1735, a grand-juryman in 1744, a "Brander and Taler for this Town until another be chosen in his place" in 1734, and in 1753 he was one of five branders of horses. He was chosen sealer of weights and measures seven times, 1748 to '53. He was elected a lister in 1730, and was seven times elected townsman or selectman, 1746–1752. He was appointed guardian to his nephew Richardson Miner in June 1750, and was appointed guardian of two other lads in 1752 and 1753. We should add that Israel was admitted to the First Church 20 Nov. 1735, under the ministry of Rev. Joseph Noyes.

Capt. Israel's estate was appraised at £7525.12.4; after all claims were satisfied, there remained £5975.16.7, a large property for those times. The inventory specifies nineteen pieces of land, over 150 acres: Home lot abt. 1¾ acres, Heaton lot 1½, Davis lot 2, Mill Lane pasture 22¼, Beaver Hills 4¾, Ox Hill 4½, Plainfield 10, "back Side of Westfield" 42, "¼ acre of Land by the Landing Tree in the Neck," etc. Other articles enumerated were Cyder mill, 33¾ BB of cyder £101.5, 2 Horses, 1 Bull, 5 Cows, 10 Hogs, Eel spear, Oyster tongs, 2 p<sup>r</sup> fleams 30/, 3 wooden bottles 47/, 2 Saddles, Looking glass £6, Candle-stool 30/, Clock £75, 3 pictures £6, "leath<sup>r</sup> breeches wth silver Buttons" £11, black breeches 65/, Allipeen vest 70/, camblet coat £4.10, silver porringer £12, silver cup £28, silver buckles £5.10, silver headed cane 70/, gun £13, silk sash £6, sword £50, "Right in a Law Book" 10/, Pools Annotat<sup>n</sup> 70/, Bible 30/, do. 15/, Psalter and Testam<sup>t</sup> 12/, Psalm book 7/.

of the homelot, with the house and half of the barn; he purchased of his sister Elizabeth the rest of the homelot ( $\frac{1}{4}$  acre) May 1761. He inherited also one-half of the Davis lot, one acre, with house and barn,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  acres on Ox Hill,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  acres in "Plainfield,"  $12\frac{1}{2}$  acres in ye Mill Lane pasture, "The Whole Right in y<sup>e</sup> 8th Division," etc.; total value £1691.8. His residence was at the southwest corner of College and Wall streets.

He was engaged in commerce and in local trade, and was a prominent business-man. Mrs. Wheeler states that his store was at the head of Long Wharf. She adds that he used to ride a little horse down to Long Wharf—his feet almost touching the ground. The first record respecting his commercial relations is dated 1 August 1763: he purchased of Hannah Austin a warehouse "near the waterside," with the land,—which she had from her mother's estate. In Sept. 1767 "twelve rods of Land on the East side of the [Long] wharff" which had been granted to Daniel Lyman, was wanted for "a Publick Pump for the use of Traders at Sea:" Joseph<sup>s</sup> was one of three to act for The Proprietors. The pump was presently established.

"Capt. Joseph Munson" obtained 18 Oct. 1769 the right of building a wharf "upon the Easterly side of the old wharf;" a committee judged that it would be "a publick Benefit." "Ye Northerly end of s<sup>d</sup> flats . . . is to be fifty feet Southward from Hez~ Sabinss Dike." The grant was forty-six feet wide at the beginning; "when it Comes against The end of the present wharf, to be 60 feet wide, and to be 100 feet North Eastward from the end of s<sup>d</sup> wharf; from thence to Continue 60 feet wide to the Channel, to run in a parallel Line with y<sup>e</sup> grant made to the proprietors of s<sup>d</sup> wharf" 27 Dec. 1731. There was an agreement with the authorities dated 22 April 1771, that if Munson should build the "Length of Long Wharf" within ten years, and "in a Reasonable Time Carry on the wharf to the Channel," he should hold the entire grant. If he neglects to carry it to the Channel within a reasonable time, he shall have no claim except to what he hath built upon. Still, if he shall build the length of Long Wharf in ten years twenty feet wide, he shall suffer people to pass upon the west side of his wharf "and fasten Scows and Canoes to it in the same manner that ye old wharf is used," and the remainder of the grant eastward of what he hath built upon shall be his property. The inventory of Joseph's estate in 1793 included "A Wharf East of Long Wharf £60."

Later, Capt. Joseph appears to have had an interest in Long Wharf. The feeble beginning of this structure was dated 1663. April 30, 1717 six men including Sergt. Theophilus<sup>3</sup> Munson applied for a grant for a wharf, which should cover the grant of 1663, should be eight rods wide, and should extend to the Channel. There was a vote in 1770 to build a pier at the Channel. There was still an interval of nearly a third of a mile between the wharf and the pier. A history of Long Wharf published by the New Haven Historical Society, states that "in 1782 things were looking badly for the Wharf." July 8, J. Rice made an offer to collect the wharfage for the current year, gratis; J. Howell made the same offer for the next year, M. Todd for the third year, "and Capt. Joseph Munson for the fourth year." It may be noticed that Joseph<sup>a</sup> was a grandson of Sergt. Theophilus<sup>3</sup>.

April 1775.—“Upon the memorial of Joseph<sup>s</sup> Munson of New Haven, praying for permission to transport in' the Sea-Flower to the West India Islands twenty-six head of cattle by him purchased for that purpose before laying the embargo of this Assembly: Resolved that the said Munson have liberty,” etc. I quote from the note-book of R. H. Greene, Esq.: “Joseph Munson of New Haven and Jacob Webb of Wethersfield April 3, 1775 had leave from the General Assembly to export to the West Indies 46 cattle and 86 barrels of pork which had been purchased before the embargo.”

Joseph<sup>s</sup> was proprietor of a gristmill at Westville eighteen years. In Feb. 1768 he bought eighteen acres with a cornmill and the other buildings, of Joseph Mix, who was living on the place then and in Jan. 1775. In April 1775 he conveyed to Thomas Green and five other New-Haveners the right “to flow any part of my Land on the west River below my mill for y<sup>e</sup> purpose of a paper mill,” etc. The next year the first paper mill in the town was erected by David Bunce. When Joseph sold Elijah Thompson fifteen acres with the mill and other buildings 15 April 1786, the estate was bounded South on Derby Road, North on the north side of the river, W. on the highway, and S. on Lemuel Hotchkiss.

Joseph's transactions in real-estate were quite too numerous for mention in detail. He made more than eighty purchases, say, 475 acres, between 1759 and 1791. In fourteen years he bought thirteen tracts, 52½ acres, in “Plainfield” (this was the region about Munson Street); “in the beaver hills,” six pieces, 17¾ acres; “in the beaver ponds,” 9th Div., seven pieces, four of which had 5¼ acres; six purchases in “Mill meadows,” four embracing 14½ acres; three “in the Little Neck,” 10 acres; two “in the Great Neck,” 17 acres; two pieces of meadow “Near y<sup>e</sup> Neck Bridge,” 1762–1765; two in Yorkshire Quarter, 3½ acres; 15¾ acres 8th Div. on West Rock; 5 acres in 1784 bounded East on “the Long Lain* so Called;” four tracts, 63½ acres, bounded West on a * Previously to 1801–2, all travel from Farmington and intermediate towns came into the city through Long Lane or Cheshire Road, by the Ditch Corner. This Old Cheshire Road, formerly six rods wide, ran along the east side of Beaver Pond, and was known as Beaver St. in 1805: that part which extended northward from Munson St. is now Dixwell Av. or The Boulevard; the part which extended southward from Munson St. to Munson Park, or Ditch Corner, or Goffe St., was still known as Beaver St. in 1867, but is now a part of Orchard St. Munson Park (a triangle comprising .59 of an acre) was formerly an apple-tree orchard, and belonged to Dr. Alfred S. Munson. A map published in 1877 calls it Beaver Park.

The Beaver Pond tract, at the northerly end of Munson Park, abounded with ditches, and was known as Ditch Corner. During the Invasion of New Haven in 1779, the principal battle was at Ditch Corner, where the British who had entered the town by Thompson's Bridge (at Westville) encountered the militia who were hastening down from the north. The invaders continued their march via Goffe street and Broadway.

"highway called the Mill Lane."* In June 1767, he and his brother Israel, with seven others, deeded a strip two rods wide for a highway through the meadows "across y<sup>e</sup> Great Island"—between bridges that have been built across "y<sup>e</sup> East River" and "the Little River"; and Nov. 1782 he conveyed to the selectmen his right in a piece "near the Long bridge at the Landing tree so Called,"—which was for a highway "at the west end of s<sup>d</sup> Bridge.†"

The account-book of Major William Munson has—

We may here mention the tradition that Joseph made the best punch which was known in New Haven; it is observed explanatorily, that he mixed it with his hands.

This Munson was chosen "Key Keeper of the pound which his father built" in 1756, and from 1758 to 1792 he was continuously elected to the same office. One year he was collector of the town rate, and another was a grand-juryman. Five years he was a highway surveyor, a lister in 1758, and a selectman in 1781 and 1782. In Sept. 1769 Joseph was one of five appointed to consider the request for liberty to set another house of worship on the Market Place. In Dec. 1777 he was chosen member of a committee "to take Care to Prosecute" every "person whatsoever" who shall "Catch any oysters in the Harbour or Cove of this Town in the months of May June July August and Sep<sup>r</sup> Annually, Saving on the monday and Tuesday before the Publick Commencement, nor with a Drag at any Time in the year;" and shells might not be carried away to the shore.

Joseph was conspicuous among the New-Haveners who as civil-ians promoted the Revolutionary cause. A legal meeting held May 23, 1774 made this declaration: "We will coöperate with our Sister Towns in this and the other Colonies in any Constitutional Measures that may be thought most Conducive to the preservation of our invaluable rights and priviledges." A Committee of Correspondence was appointed, to wit, a "Standing Committee for the Salutary purpose of Keeping up a Correspondence with Towns of this and y<sup>e</sup> neighboring colonies." This important committee included Capt. Joseph Munson, Daniel Lyman, Esq., Pierpont Edwards, Esq., and others. (Joseph<sup>a</sup> was entitled Captain as early as 1769.)

A legal meeting Oct. 18, 1774 at the Brick Meeting-house : "Voted that it is the opinion of this Town that a Subscription be sett on foot for the relief of the inhabitants of the Town of Boston that are now Suffering in the Common cause of american Freedom ; and that Mess<sup>rs</sup> Joseph Munson [and 20 others] be a Committee to Receive in Subscriptions and transmit what may be Collected to the Selectmen of the Town of Boston." Roger Sherman, Esq., was moderator of a meeting Nov. 14, 1774, when "a committee," including Joseph Munson and Giles Pierpoint, was chosen "for the purpose mentioned in the 11th Article in y<sup>e</sup> association Entered into by the Late Continental Congress held at Philadelphia." This committee was called "A Committee of inspection" 20 Dec. 1774, when other names were added making fifty-one in all.

Dec. 11, 1775 he was made a member of the committee to consider the best method to procure powder and arms for the use of the town.

The committee of nine "to examine into the reasons of the conduct of those persons who Continued in Town at the Time s<sup>d</sup> Town was in the possession of the Enemy," reported 16 Aug. 1779 : thirty-seven persons including Stephen<sup>b</sup>, Theophilus<sup>c</sup> and Joseph<sup>a</sup> Munson waited on the committee, and gave reasons for tarrying in Town, "which Reasons appear to the Committee Sufficient to Justify their Conduct.*"

At a meeting Jan. 8, 1781 it was voted that Cap<sup>t</sup> Joseph Munson and two others be a committee "to procure the provisions for the Soldiers families in this Town for the future in the room of the Selectmen."

* The reasons of five persons, including Nathan and Jared Mansfield, appeared to the committee "intirely Insufficient to Justify them for putting themselves in the power and under the protection of the Enemies of the united States of America ;" thirty-two persons including Leverett Hubbard, and L. Hubbard, Jr., Wm. Lyon, Stephen Trowbridge, Jeremiah Atwater, John Whiting, Wm. Mansfield, Jeremiah Townsend, jr., and Thos. Howell, gave reasons which "do not appear to the Com.<sup>es</sup> fully Sufficient to Justify their Conduct in tarrying in Town at s<sup>d</sup> Time,"—but the alarm was sudden, the time too short to remove families and effects, many aided to repel the enemy, most of them are good members of the community, so that this group are recommended to the good will of the inhabitants ; six who were notified have failed to appear ; sixteen including Wm. Brintnall and Samuel Tuttle were in town when the enemy took possession, but were either taken off by the enemy, or have since moved out, or have otherwise been out of the way, and have not been notified. The investigators are to wait on Jared Ingersoll and know the reasons why he entertained the prisoners who were lately in this town. It was the duty of the inhabitants, according to this committee, to oppose the enemy and defend the town.

The estate of Capt. Joseph Munson was valued at £1406; after deductions, including £34 due Doctor Eneas Munson, there remained £582. Some items from the inventory: 1/16 part of Sloop Catherine £251 old Scow £6 12½ acres ner the Powder Mills* £66.5 2 acres on Neck Hill† £2 7 acres at Poverty‡ £14 4 acres in Westfield§ £4 5 acres in the Beaver Ponds £1.5 5 acres adjoining the Beaver Ponds £7.10 one right of land in Tinmouth, Vt. Among sales of his estate were three acres salt meadow bounded easterly on Neck Rock, and westerly and northerly on Neck River; two acres in Little Neck, bounded W. on the Neck River; 5 acres bounded westerly on Beaver Pond lots and E. on Cheshire Road; 8 acres on West Rock, bounded westerly by summit of ye Rock.

☞ 'Squire Elisha<sup>6</sup>, according to a Elisha Munson manuscript Obituary Record of Graduates of Yale College, "on leaving College, was for sometime engaged in mercantile concerns." It is further observed that he "was extensively employed in concerns relating to real and personal property." The author has memoranda of 115 purchases of real-estate by E. besides 51 mortgages which he received; of 164 sales of real-estate belonging to himself, 23 of property belonging to others, and 72 lots in Grove Street cemetery. Among these properties were 4 acres "at a place called Westfield or Greenfield;"|| land bounded E. "on Middletown Turnpike road or Neck Lane;" 60 rods at the foot of East Rock beginning at "the s. w. cor. of the Scow-Place by the Mill River"; land situated "near the Canal lock N. of the Burying ground"; "a Ledge bank in the Mill River a little Southerly of the Rock bridge;" ¾ acre on Pine Rock, 9th Div.; 6 acres in "Plainfield" bounded south on Munson Street, 1837; land "near the rope walk in the oyster point quarter," 1816; 78 rods at Beaver Ponds bounded W. by old Cheshire road, the point of beginning at 2nd Canal lock, N. of Joseph Munson's dwelling.

Elisha was chosen a key-keeper annually 1793-1799; was chosen a grand-juryman 1797, 1799; overseer of the poor 1804; "lister" 1796, "Assessor" 1819, 1821. He was elected town clerk Dec. 14, 1801 and served continuously until 1832, when he resigned; he

He was appointed with David Dagget and two others in 1803 to investigate the claim of the town to a certain piece of land; was first member of a committee to inquire respecting the fence around the old Burying Ground in 1815;* and was elected with others to perambulate the line between New Haven and Woodbridge in 1830.

William<sup>5</sup> Munson's account-books charge Elisha<sup>6</sup> in 1784, '85, with 2½ yr. Corduroy, 1 stick Twist, 1 quart Wine, 4 lb. Loaf Sugar, ½ lb. Raisins, 1 handkerchief, 2 Knives, 2 combs, and 1 Bedstead.

Elisha received from his father's estate the south part of the homelot having front on College St. of 4½ rods and bounded north on his brother James. The inventory of his estate has twenty-seven items, including dwellinghouse occupied by deceased $1400, ⅔ of lot S. cor. College and Wall Sts., 50 feet front, $900, lot N. cor. College and Wall, 36 feet front, $900, house occupied by Amos Munson, 133 feet front, $950, house occupied by Wm. G. Munson, 166 feet front, $1100, ¼ part of store occupied by D. Trowbridge in Munson Row, $275; the total was $10,224. Among the items of personal property were 12 shares New Haven Bank stock $1200, 6 shares City Bank stock $552, 1 share Union Wharf stock $300; the total was $19,135. The estate was divided by Will among 11 nephews and nieces, though his surviving sister Esther had a life use of one-third of it. There was however a legacy of $100 to each of the following:—Am. Bible Soc., A. B. C. F. M., Am. Tract Soc., Conn. Missionary Soc., Conn. Education Soc., and the Female Orphan Asylum of New Haven.

Elisha was always entitled 'Squire. He was a bachelor and made a home with his five maiden sisters, at the S. W. corner of College and Wall streets. Their home and James's were burned 27 Jan. 1836, after which Elisha and the sisters lived a little south at 48 College St. The 'Squire was "a smallish, thinnish man," light-complexioned and blue-eyed.† Although his uncle, the Major, was larger and taller, the two were mistaken for each other, and again were taken for brothers. One says that Elisha was a calm, quiet sort of man, had excellent judgment, was accommodating and rather friendly; Mrs. W. and Mrs. G. that he was moderate, affable, genial, social,—“he always came home with us when we went up

The evening before he died, at sunset, he asked to be bolstered up that he might look out upon the world once more ; it would be the last time, he said. Though not a church-member, acquaintances supposed him to be ; "he was a good man." He owned half a pew in the North Church, and had a pecuniary interest in two other churches. Israel's home was on the northeast corner of College and Wall streets, and directly north of the house was his blacksmith's shop. The aged Mrs. Wheeler remarks — "How many times mother has dressed up Richard and me Saturday afternoons to go up to Uncle Israel Munson's!" She remembers looking in through the window of her uncle's shop and seeing the sparks fly: she was so young that she cannot remember his looks.

From his father he inherited seven pieces of land, one being "the Half of Daviss<sup>i</sup> lott, the South Side with the Pound, £275". To 7½ acres in "Plainfield" which he inherited, he added by purchase 11 acres. He and his mother-in-law Hannah Russel ("formerly Hannah Griswold") bought of Samuel Griswold in 1786 his dwelling-house and homelot, where he was living, "bounded N. on the new highway Lately laid out Called Crown Street." Among nine sales of land was one to T. Punderson in 1796—10 acres in Yorkshire Quarter, bounded N. on country road, S. on highway, E. on heirs of Stephen Peck (his brother-in-law), and W. "on Land of my Sister Gilbert;" and one in 1804 to Isaac<sup>o</sup> —¼ acre, bounded northerly by Grove street, "opposite to the New Burying Ground."

Wall Street was laid out by the City from State Street to College Street in June 1787; it was partly on his land, or bounded by his land. Dixwell Avenue was laid out "from Broadway [Peter Johnson's] to Cheshire road or the long lane so called"; the last part of its course was through Israel's land.

William Munson's account-book: Israel<sup>o</sup> Dr.—Sept. 4 1771 Hay At West River 6. Nov. 19 1772 1 gallon Rum 3. 6. Jan 13 1773 1 qt. Gin 2. April 8 1773 1 qt. Wine 10. Aug. 10 1774 1 gallon Rum 4. Cr.—Stone, brick, lime, gice.

Israel<sup>o</sup> was chosen tythingman in 1768, key-keeper in 1782, and was elected sealer of weights and measures at least sixteen years. I quote from the Colonial Records for March 1775: "This Assembly do establish Israel<sup>o</sup> Munson to be Lieutenant of the fifth company or trainband in the second regiment in this Colony."

To him was granted "a right in Connecticut reserve Land . . . on a Loss of £ which he sustained by British depredation" (1779).

Israel's estate, netting $5,175, was distributed equally among Isaac<sup>o</sup>, Lois<sup>o</sup> and the heirs of Anna<sup>o</sup>. Their brother Israel<sup>o</sup> declined to participate. Lois and Anna's children shared the house. Mrs. Anna Munson was admitted to the North Church in April 1767. On Israel<sup>o</sup>'s gravestone is inscribed the following:

" His blameless life proclaim'd the grace
That rais'd him to the realms of peace."

 Israel<sup>o</sup>, "after graduating," says the Yale Obituary Record, "devoted himself to the medical profession, and was for a short time a practising physician. He soon, however, established himself in mercantile business in Boston, where he resided for more than half a century. Few men have passed through so long a period of active business with so unblemished a reputation. He was a distinguished benefactor of humane and literary institutions."

Israel Munson

Being a bachelor, his residence in Boston was at the Tremont House. His partner was Charles Barnard. One of his places of business, as in 1800 and 1809, was Long Wharf, No. 5 ; other places, apparently, were 46 State Street, 17 Central Wharf and 43 Commercial Wharf. Sample of business : Not far from 1830, Munson and Barnard contracted with Charles Whiting of Hartford to furnish some $10,000 for the purchase of about 100,000 pounds of hides, a part of which were to be sold in Hartford and a part to be turned into sole leather by Edmund Hubbard of Chester, Ms.; etc.

Helen E. Munson informs me that after Israel had been engaged in mercantile pursuits for a while, he failed, owing $10,000. He thereupon went to New Haven ; but his creditors induced him to return to Boston and continue the business. He did so and in two years paid all his debts. He was afterwards very successful and accumulated a large fortune, for those days.

His Will makes specific legacies to individuals amounting to $12,500 ; he bequeathed $70,000 to institutions,—to Harvard College $15,000, The Massachusetts General Hospital $20,000, Yale College $15,000 (establishing the Munson Professorship of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy), Medical Department of Yale $5,000, Retreat for the Insane at Hartford $5,000, New England Asylum for the Blind $4,000, Boston Asylum for Indigent Boys $3,000, Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary $3,000 ; and he bequeathed the residue of his estate to the eight children of his brother Isaac, the two children of his sister Anna, and the two children of his sister Lois,—a twelfth part to each. The estate aggregated, in Sept. 1846, $581,676.

We have seen that Israel relinquished to Isaac, Lois and Anna's children, his right in his father's estate. He also relinquished to Isaac and Lois his right to real-estate of his mother. A farm of 250 acres in Wallingford, Vt., which he purchased 9 Nov. 1814, was presented to Isaac in Feb. 1823. Israel sold Isaac in 1825 about thirty rods of land, bounded E. on College street, N. on Grove, and W. and S. on Isaac's land.

ISRAEL MUNSON.

When Israel<sup>e</sup> spent time in Wallingford, Vt., as he often did, he had a home with his brother, and afterwards with Mrs. Hill. Town-Clerk Townsend describes him as white-haired, well-dressed, gentlemanly and sprightly. He used to ride about town on horseback, and knew everybody. He used to speak to us boys on the street, said Mr. T.; he has spoken to me about my ball or hoop. To get a nod from him was a great pleasure. This official added that citizens used to say,—If such a fortune was to come to the town, they would rather it should be to the Munsons than to any others; they were good, nice people, and would not use their money to the disadvantage of others.

Treasurer Farnam of Yale College informs me that "the legacy of Israel Munson in 1844, amounting to $20,000, was the largest bequest that Yale College had received at that time." Helen E. Munson states that her great-uncle Israel<sup>e</sup> practiced medicine six years. He was buried in "Mount Auburn."

The lad was exceedingly promising and became the pet of the Army." His body was interred near the west end of the old Dutch church. To his father in March 1809 he conveyed his right (inherited from his mother) in the homestead. He was "late of Catskill" 3 April 1829 when he conveyed to Grace Wheeler his right in the Collis place, bounded W. on Union St.; next day being "of Cairo" he conveyed to Dr. Charles Hooker his right ( $\frac{1}{2}$ ) in the old home, price, \$680. He replied innocently that it was on the pegs where the men hung their hats. "There were pegs on the east wall under the gallery where the men hung their hats, when I was a little girl." Richard became clerk in a store; but at length, finding the home made by his stepmother deficient in pleasantness, he went before the mast; on a voyage between the port whence he sailed and Porto Rico, his vessel was lost with all on board—was never heard from.

Heaton Lot" and half the Barn, £450, and 5½ acres "in y<sup>e</sup> west River pasture," £135.18. I have memoranda of over fifty instruments of conveyance, quitclaim and mortgage, in which William was concerned. For example: he and his wife in 1771 joined Mary and Abigail Hall in conveying to the selectmen a part of "the homelot of our Hon<sup>d</sup> father John Hall Dec<sup>d</sup>". In 1784 he purchased of Joseph<sup>b</sup> 9¾ rods "in the Creek so Called", bounded E. on a Slip 14 feet wide (for boats). In 1791 he sold James Hillhouse 1¾ acres bounded east on College street, S. on Joseph's heirs, N. partly on Israel<sup>b</sup>; this was transferred to Isaac<sup>b</sup> in 1797. In 1792 he mortgaged his homestead, ¼ acre, to Pierpont Edwards, who assigned the mortgage in 1794 to Aaron Burr of N. Y. C. He bought, in 1799, ½ of the right of Daniel Mansfield in a wharf and store situate on the bank opposite the homestead of the late Sheriff Mansfield in Water Street. William Munson and others in Aug. 1788 recovered judgment in reference to one acre, "being land sold by Samuel Mansfield late of sd New Haven Dec<sup>d</sup> to Benedict Arnold and where s<sup>d</sup> Arnold Built his Dwelling house, and is bounded S. on highway, or Water st., W. partly on land formerly owned by s<sup>d</sup> Ben<sup>t</sup> Arnold and forfeited to this State," etc.

William<sup>b</sup>'s guardian during his minority was his brother Joseph<sup>b</sup>. Later, according to his account-book, he received from Joseph each month £2:10<sup>s</sup> "for Tending Shop" and £1.10 for board; this engagement began as early as May 1768 and continued until May 1, 1775. After the War, in 1784 he had a store, and carried on the business until Oct. 22, 1789, when he rented the place to Bacon and Tomlinson. Indeed his accounts show that before the War, 1771-1774, while he was yet a clerk, he was selling some goods for himself.

William's account-books contain an obscure and indecisive intimation that he was connected with a military company in 1771. He began his career as a soldier in 1775, how early does not appear. He may, or may not, have been among those thirteen hundred men who set out from Cambridge under the command of Arnold in Sept. 1775 to invade Canada by way of the Kennebec and the Maine woods. "It is hard," says an historian, "to conceive the hardships which these men endured. Their way was through tangled thickets and over pathless mountains. Worn out, cold, sick, and disheartened, they still pressed forward. The last ox was killed and eaten,—the last dog was taken for food; and their only resource against starvation was roots and moose-skin mocassins. For two days they ate nothing."

Munson wrote himself Feb. 20, 1823:—"I served as commissioned officer in the Revolutionary Army from the Year 1775 until the Army was discharged in the year 1783: . . . in the winter campaign in Canada from Nov. 1775 until April 1776 in a regiment raised from the American troops then in Canada, to serve five months, under Col. Samuel Elmore;" then, he says, another regiment was raised to serve twelve months under Col. Elmore; when Congress took action to raise an army for three years, or during the War, he became captain in a regiment commanded by Col., afterwards Brig.-Gen. Moses Hazen, and continued on duty till the close of the War.

Arnold's expedition appeared opposite Quebec Nov. 9th. After the arrival of Montgomery's army which had entered Canada by way of Lake Champlain, the united forces numbered only nine hundred effective men; yet the siege of Quebec was maintained for three weeks in December, and on the last day of that month, an assault was attempted in a blinding snowstorm, when Montgomery was killed. On the 15th of April following, William was appointed first-lieutenant. The heroic movement against Quebec was not successful. One of the documents in the possession of our soldier's family is an account of baggage lost by Wm. Munson at the retreat from Quebec in May 1776: we present it in fac-simile.

As noticed above, William Munson was appointed 15 April 1776 first-lieutenant in Capt. Parmalee's Co., Col. Elmore's Regt. The retreat from Quebec occurred in May. In July '76 the regiment took the field under Schuyler, and on Aug. 25 marched from Albany into Tryon Co. During the remainder of its term, it was posted at Ft. Stanwix and vicinity. It broke up at that point in the Spring of '77.

Munson was commissioned lieutenant of a company in Col. Hazen's regiment Jan. 1, 1777; he was commissioned captain Jan. 9, 1777. This regiment was a part of the Continental Army; "it served generally in Washington's main army and was engaged at Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth, and at the siege and surrender of Yorktown." Munson's company was enlisted in Connecticut, largely in New Haven Co. The Captain served to the end of the War when he was made Major by brevet.

"State Papers", New Hampshire, has "A Roull of Cap<sup>t</sup> W<sup>m</sup> Munson Company in Col Moses Hazen's Reg<sup>t</sup> in the Service of the United States Sep<sup>r</sup> 13th 1778." The company was scattered: the Capt. was "on Command White plains"; a Lieut. "on Furlough"; another Lieut. "on Com<sup>d</sup> at Co. Capt. William was in command at Dobb's Ferry, 22 miles north of New York, when André was executed six miles north in 1780. Dispatch from Boston 18 March 1891: "The sale of the famous Leffingwell collection of autographs was begun to-day. The feature of the sale was an interesting letter written by Capt. William Munson, dated Sept. 26, 1780, completed Oct. 2, giving an account of Arnold's treason and the arrest, trial and execution of Maj. André. This was sold for $450." We quote from this valuable letter: "I have this moment* Returned to my tent from the Execution of Major Andre . . . whose Execution was postponed from yesterday to this day at 12 o'clock. I Believe Never a man Dyed the Ignomineous Death of being hanged, was possessed with a Greater Degree of manly fortitude than Major Andre. He marched to the place of Execution entirely Undaunted to appearance, and with such presence of mind Rare to be Discovered in the Human race; in short, he appeared as if he Intended Death Should Not Terrify a British Officer. . . . I could not but Lament that Arnold, who was the Instigator of his Death, was not in his Situation."

After the War, according to R. H. Greene, Capt. William was voted half pay by Congress. He was a member of the Cincinnati. The first time Dr. Harwood, rector of Trinity Church, called upon Mrs. Wheeler, as he observed upon the wall a certificate of her father's membership in the Society of the Cincinnati, he exclaimed—"Ah, you belong to the nobility!"

One day Captain Powell remarked to Major Munson that he was going to the ball that night, and the next day was going to write to General Washington for the position of surveyor of customs. The Major concluded that he would write an application for the office that night instead of going to the ball, obtained the appointment, and retained it thirty-three years—as long as he lived. The instrument by which he was appointed to serve "during the pleasure of the President of the United States for the time being," dated Feb. 20, 1793, was signed by Washington as President and by Jefferson as Secretary of State; for many years it has decorated the wall of his daughter Grace. We again quote his account-books:

Among other antique treasures in the possession of Mrs. Wheeler are some military commissions, a pass for a boats crew, signed by Gen. Washington, given on the day Major André was executed, and a pair of sugar tongs made from the silver contained in Capt. Munson's epaulettes.

William<sup>o</sup> erected his house in 1771, consuming 13,000 shingles, 14,750 bricks, 575 bushels of lime. It was a white, wooden building of two stories, and stood on the (N. E.) corner of State and Fair streets; Fair street was the extension of George eastward of State, and the extension of State southward of George was then Fleet street. On the corner of Fleet and Fair streets stood the wood-colored two-story house of John Hall the father of Mrs. Munson. William's lot sloped eastward to East Creek, which was afterwards converted into the Canal, where now the railroad runs. The house was entered from State street by a spacious hall; at the left was the parlor, and at the right, corner State and Fair streets, was the Major's office. On the Fair street side of the kitchen were two windows; it was under the easterly one that the famous cannon-ball passed. In the garden were pear and plum trees, gooseberries, raspberries, currants, and a vegetable department; there was also a profusion of flowers. When Mrs. Wheeler was a little girl, her father's garden abounded with tulips and roses. In January 1883 the aged Mrs. Bishop of Fair street told me that the Major's house was called The Castle, and that it was the handsomest house in town. She used constantly to pass his place, and always stopped to enjoy the garden with its beautiful flowers; the garden sloped down to the Creek. The house has been removed* and may now be seen at 49 Putnam street.

At the time of the British Invasion in 1779, the wife of Capt. Munson was in Wallingford. Her mother, Mrs. John Hall, who lived opposite, corner of Fair and Fleet streets, went over to the Munson house to attend to some matter of interest. While on the steps, a British officer, espying the string of gold beads which she wore, clipped it from her neck with the point of his sword (she apprehended he intended to kill her), and took the silver buckles from her shoes. An eighteen-pound cannon-ball fired from the retreating fleet, passed through Mr. Sabin's house on Union Street, pierced the wall of the Major's house, under the sill of the window by which his wife usually sat while sewing, struck the back of the great fireplace, and fell down. The Major had it replaced and secured where it struck. There it remained until the Spring of 1863. It is now in the museum of the New Haven Historical Society. Mrs. Wheeler remembers how her father used to take the tongs and brush the soot from the ball, that visitors might see it.

Mrs. Bishop (just quoted) says she used to sit behind Major Munson in Trinity Church; she remembers that he wore short breeches, knee buckles, etc., and describes him as "a fine-looking man." "I remember him well", says Horace Mansfield; "he was a rather large, portly gentleman, and dressed in the fashion of the Continental times. I remember distinctly he was scrupulously neat, and always displayed a nice ruffled shirt in his bosom." Mrs. Wheeler says: "My father liked fine dress. He was a very proud man, but he was not a scornful man; he would treat a poor man as well as a gentleman."

He addressed a letter Dec. 31st, 1812, to "Stephen Wheeler, Esquire, Commander of the Gun Boat No. 33 in the service of the United States: If it is your wish or Intention to Continue in the Navy, you had Better turn your mind to that Business only, and Let that Branch be your whole Study. Let me never hear it said that Stephen Wheeler proved himself a Coward in time of Danger, for that is next to Death itself."

In the summer of 1790, Washington made a tour in the Eastern States. He travelled in great state, says one who remembers, with a coach and four, and having a great retinue, all dressed in livery,—some as out-riders, others as guards, each side of his coach. He arrived on Wednesday, and put up at the stage-house, corner of Church and Crown streets, where "he found a good many old acquaintances, both civil and military,—among the latter, Cols. Jonas Prentice and Hezekiah Sabin, Major William Munson, whom he had appointed surveyor of the port, and Col. John Sherman, brother of Roger." He stayed a week, and walked out every day. Then every street had farmers in it. When the General saw a cartload of pumpkins in one of their yards, he inquired what use they made of them. One replied that rich folks fed them to their hogs, but that poor folks made pies of them. "They make good pies, let who will make them," was the comment of Washington.

With reference to President Monroe's visit to New Haven, Major Munson wrote, under date of July 25, 1817: "On Saturday at 11 o'clock there was about eighteen officers of the Revolution introduced to the President by General Humphrey, of which I had the honor of being the first. . . . I was again introduced to him by the Mayor of our City as surveyor of the District of New Haven."

The History of the Marquis De Lafayette, page 351, says: "From the hotel the General was conducted to the Green. . . . Gov. Wolcott made him welcome to the State in a short and affectionate address. The reply was equally affectionate. The introductions to him were very numerous, and his recognition of many of his old companions in arms, was wonderful. The venerable Colonel Tallmadge, of the old army, had rode all night to meet him; and without introduction, was recognized and embraced by him; so also was Major Munson." (Summer of 1824.)

Major Munson sent to China by Capt. Green for two two-gallon punch-bowls; one designed for himself ornamented with masonic emblems and his initials, W. M.; the other designed for Gen. Washington ornamented with military emblems and his initials, G. W. Before the precious china could be presented to Washington, his death occurred. Soon after, the Major visited the General's widow, presented the bowl, and dined with her. Mrs. Wheeler remembers that he returned in the night, alarming the family with apprehensions of burglary. He brought some lemons picked in the garden at Mt. Vernon, which were carefully preserved. There was a notice of this bowl, it is said, in Harper's Mag., perhaps between 1865 and '70. Mrs. W. remembers distinctly when the Major's own bowl was "christened" by Revolutionary officers and custom-house officials; she and her brothers "peeked in to see them." While standing, they drank punch from the great bowl, and sang such songs as "Hail Columbia," and

"Rejoice, Columbia's sons, rejoice;
To tyrants never bend the knee."

These two were sung a great deal in those days, she says. This bowl, agreeably to Mrs. Wheeler's request, after her death in 1892 was presented by her grandson Stephen W. Glenney to "Hiram Lodge", of which William Munson was the highest officer at the end of the last century and the beginning of the present.

The Major's inventory included a carpet $18, bookcase $15, many books, 2 desks $12, silver spoons $35.63, likeness $55, coat and surtout $17.

It has been said that the nine Hall sisters, of whom Martha Munson was one, "were the handsomest girls in New Haven." Martha was admitted to the communion of the First Church (Cong.) 30 June 1782, and she faithfully attended public worship. President Dwight, Rev. Mr. Stuart of the "Middle Brick" (First Church), Rev. Samuel Merwin of the "North Brick," and Parson Hubbard, Episcopalian, visited her during her long illness, and were all in attendance at her burial. She died "with apparent composure of mind, with resignation to the will of God, and hope of a resurrection to eternal life." (Epit.) The second wife of William<sup>s</sup>, Elizabeth, was a communicant in Trinity Church. His third wife, Mary, was a member of the North Church, to which she was admitted in August 1808.

The Major used to go to the First Church until he married his second wife; he and Uncle (Stephen) Trowbridge and Capt. (Caleb) Brintnal had a pew together at the west end of the house, the south side of the pulpit. Though not in those days a church-member, he used every Sunday to teach Richard H. and Grace the Catechism, and hear them read in the Bible. He did not allow the children to go out in the garden on Sunday. If Grace stepped out, she would hear—"Grace, come in!" He became a communicant in Trinity Church, Easter, 1816.

Letter to his daughter, Patty Boyer, July 25, 1817:

"You cannot conceive what has been my anxiety of mind on the account of his [Richard's] sudden death and leaving the world as I fear he did unprepared to meet his God. Those thoughts are dreadful. My prayer to God is that all living mortals may be duly prepared to leave this world, let it be ever so sudden. If we are prepared, it is not any matter how soon."

A letter to Grace Wheeler in 1820, addressed to 108 Pump st.; her husband was on the sea: it expresses very devout sentiments: "As to our bodies after death, it is of little consequence where they are buried. . . . They will be found at the resurrection, let them be buried where they may."

Mrs. Grace Ann Glenney remembers that Dr. Croswell (Trinity Church) and Rev. Mr. Merwin (North Church) together conducted the funeral services over the body of her grandfather. This was on Saturday. The next day in the forenoon, they all went in a carriage to Trinity, where prayers were offered in their behalf; and in the afternoon, they drove to the North Church, where again prayers were offered for them.

The lands and other properties received from his uncle Elisha's estate were valued at $2383. Among the lands were a piece on East Rock 2 chains and 28 links wide extending from Mill River to the top of the Rock; and 8 acres of woodland on West Rock bounded Easterly on highway at the foot of the rock and Westerly by the top of the Rock or ledges. His Will gave the widow $5000 outright, and after her death the residue, divided into 8 equal parts, was to be given to his brothers and sister or their heirs. The estate was valued at $30,525.

- vii. James Higgins' b. 3 Oct. 1812; unm.; d. 4 March 1892. From some aberration he awoke, as it were, in New Orleans, not knowing how he came there. In 1838 he was a resident of Cincinnati. He left New Haven in 1833; "I have not been there since," he wrote in Dec. 1884, "and during the last thirty years I have neither seen or spoken to a Munson except my brother and sister who came out here on a visit." He led a very secluded life. While in the East, he was an engraver; in San Francisco he was a locksmith and saw-filer. From his uncle Elisha's estate he received $2383, and from his brother Joseph $3364.

"If said Lewis forsake his roving habits and settles down as a peaceful and industrious inhabitant," S. B.' may convey a portion of the estate to him. Lewis went off and came back many times. His mode of departure was—having tied up a bundle of clothes to pass out through a window in the night. He was married, "perhaps in Indiana," to some person not known. He was last heard of about the time the Mexican War broke out; he may have entered the army under an assumed name.

The home of Joseph<sup>e</sup> was at "Plainfield", on Munson street at the foot of Ashmun. A conveyance to Theophilus<sup>3</sup> in 1717 of sequestered land in the First Div., is located "in the field Called Plainfield." "Plainfield road in 1821 was Joseph Munson on the west side of the Grove St. burying-ground; said highway ran "from York street to Joseph Munsons." In Sept. 1815 Ashmun street was laid out three rods wide, extending from the north end of York street in a direct line N. 7° W. to the southwest corner of Joseph Munsons dwelling-house.

He bought August 1807 of D. Mix 14 acres, "Balls pasture", in the Second Quarter, bounded "Easterly by Second Quarter Road [now Prospect Street], Westerly by Plainfield Road." He bought

July 1809 of his sister Hannah her right in "the Powder Mill Lot, near the West Rock." He sold, in 1813,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  acres of woodland in Hamden at Ox hill, about 120 rods northwesterly of the dwelling-house of John Hubbard, Esq. In Dec. 1832 he sold the President, Directors and Co. of the Farmington Canal 18 rods, on which the toll-house occupied by M<sup>r</sup> Sturges is situated, bounded westerly by the tow-path of the Canal. In 1837 he mortgaged to Elisha 6 acres in "Plainfield," bounded S. on Munson St., E. on Plainfield Road; Farmington Canal passed through the tract. His inventory included residence with 6 acres \$1250, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  of the lot at the southwest corner of College and Wall Sts., 50 by 160 feet, \$375; (this  $\frac{1}{4}$  passed to Henry A.<sup>7</sup>, and Mary A.<sup>7</sup> had  $\frac{3}{5}$  from her uncle.)

Joseph<sup>6</sup> used to deal in peat, which he dug at the Beaver Ponds. He was chosen fence-viewer in 1801, '15 and '16, and he was chosen tythingman in 1816. His granddaughter Eliza<sup>7</sup> remembers that as he sat by the great fireplace, his brindle dog came in, when he exclaimed—"Get out, you dumb beast!" Mrs. Hannah Munson was admitted to the North Church July 1798.

Hollister appointed conservator 30 Aug. 1872; value of estate then $9,691, net value at death $4,524, which was divided among his three nieces, who had kept house for him.
748. iii. Rebecca Trowbridge<sup>7</sup> b. 5 April 1814.

James<sup>6</sup> inherited from his father about 80 rods bounded E. (3 rods 15 links) on College street, the north line being one-half rod S. of the paternal dwelling; on that place at marriage he settled—next southward of Elisha's. (His house was burned with Elisha's in 1836.) At a later period, e. g., 1827, his home was in Whiting Street, S. side, nearer Meadow than Fleet (State).

The land which "Trowbridge and Munson's store stands on," extending easterly to and along the creek 21 feet, was leased by Isaac Trowbridge and James Munson May 1, 1816. James owned one-fourth; his administrator in 1840 sold one-eighth of "an old store" "fronting on Custom House Square." He had transferred to Elisha in 1817 one-eighth of a new store—the same which said Trowbridge now occupies.

James and Sarah October 1818 quitclaimed their right to 1 acre bounded westerly on the highway leading from Church street to Oyster Point. In 1833 he mortgaged a lot with 20 feet front on College street, bounded "N. on my old house and land;" "like-wise the new dwelling house which is standing thereon." In April 1837, this place apparently, widened to 27 feet, he sold to Julius Tuttle, reserving a right to use the well in common with said T.

When Prout's Alley (otherwise Peggy's Elbow) was widened eleven feet southward in June 1820, it appropriated a portion of James's land. Elisha, James, his wife, and four others, opened a new road in 1828 and presented the same to the city; it is Lafayette Street.

James's inventory included 98 rods at "Plainfield", bounded E. 2 rods on "old Plainfield road", N. 49 rods on Joseph<sup>7</sup>, W. 2 rods on Farmington Canal, and S. on Elisha<sup>6</sup>, Sarah<sup>6</sup> and Esther<sup>6</sup>; 1½ acres at Ox hill, bounded S. on Joseph<sup>7</sup> 28 rods, and running W. to a point at Sawmill brook; building-lot bounded E. 39 feet on College street, N. on heirs of Joseph<sup>6</sup>. The value of his estate was more than cancelled by claims. His children, Roswell<sup>7</sup> and Rebecca<sup>7</sup>, received 1/11th of Elisha's estate.

Isaac's wife appears to have been a descendant of Dea. Abraham Bradley. "Deacon Bradleys grist mill" on Beaver Pond brook was a recognized institution in 1704. "Bradley's Mill" on the same brook was existing in 1804. In April 1798 Isaac Munson and Sarah with several Bradleys, Lois, Hannah, Lewis, Amos, etc., sold J. Thompson, jr., their interest in "a certain Gristmill situated on the stream of Water proceeding from the beaver ponds, and commonly called Bradley's Mill."

Isaac<sup>6</sup> had from his father's estate property amounting to $1725. It comprised "The black Smith shop and Coal house," and seven pieces of land, including the north side of the homelot bounded easterly by College St., the "Maccumber Lot", 12 acres, bounded E. by Second Quarter Road, W. by Plainfield Path, and salt meadow lying on both sides of the Causeway on Great Island.

In Nov. 1797 Isaac<sup>6</sup> paid James Hillhouse £100 for one and three-fourth acres, bounded S. on Joseph's heirs, E. on College street, W. on H. Barney, and N. on "Hannah Russell formerly Hannah Griswold" and partly on Israel<sup>6</sup>, "being what I purchased of William<sup>6</sup>" 23 March 1791. The 30 rods at the corner of College and Grove streets passed to Lydia Griswold, and from her to numerous heirs whose rights Isaac purchased. Directly west of this corner, "opposite to the New Burying Ground," was  $\frac{1}{4}$  acre which he bought of his father in 1804. He owned five acres and more in the "oyster point quarter" 1811-1818. In Dec. 1813 he bought about  $4\frac{3}{4}$  acres "on the second quarter Lott," bounded E. by the Second Quarter Road. He bought three other pieces bounded E. on the Second Quarter Road. He sold eight acres in 1831, beginning "opposite the centre of the second Canal Lock, North of Joseph Munsons Dwelling house." He made conveyances of land on both sides of College street to Rev. Jeremiah Atwater in 1825, 1826. These are a few of his more significant transactions in real-estate at New Haven.

Isaac as Mrs. Wheeler remembers was rather stocky and of rather swarthy complexion. In New Haven he followed blacksmithing. He was chosen 9 March 1807 to fill out his father's unfinished term as sealer of weights and measures, and he was annually reelected while he remained in New Haven. His wife Sarah was admitted to membership in the North Church July 1798. His residence was the long house still standing on the west side of College street, between Wall and Grove. In November 1814 he removed with his wife and nine children in covered wagons to Wallingford, Vt., where according to Goodyear Clark his brother Israel had purchased a farm for him. Thenceforward he was engaged in agricultural pursuits. He had however a little shop in which he did his own work.

W. remembers seeing him at work on his bench. In July 1820 the Methodists obtained permission to build a new church on the northwest corner of the Upper Green. Rev. Mr. Thacher was instrumental in collecting funds to accomplish the object. In May 1821 the corner-stone was laid, but the incomplete building was demolished by the memorable "September Gale." Harriet<sup>6</sup> was a member of Rev. Dr. Patton's Cong. Ch. Dr. — of Lynn said that Harriet "would adorn either the kitchen or the parlor." Her husband's grandfather Eliphalet Dyer figures conspicuously in the famous story relative to the "Frogs of Windham." On a dismal night in July 1758, the inhabitants soon after midnight were disturbed by terrifying noises in the sky, which were conceived to be the yells of Indians. Some imagined that at intervals they could hear the names of two eminent lawyers called out, which increased the alarm. Old and young, male and female poured forth into the streets,—some of the more daring shouldered their guns and sallied forth to meet the invading foes. The fact was that three-fourths of a mile from the village, at a certain mill-pond, whose extent had been greatly reduced by drouth, a pitched battle was fought by bull-frogs, for possession of the fluid which remained. Those on one side of the channel raised the war cry, "Col. Dyer! Col. Dyer"! and from the opposite side resounded the shout, "Elderkin, too! Elderkin, too!" See Conn. Hist. Coll., page 447, for the story in both prose and verse. In Matteson's celebrated "The First Prayer in Congress," Eliphalet Dyer is the fourth figure from the left hand border (as one faces the picture).

Grace<sup>e</sup> had two sisters in New York; one, Harriet, was teaching, the other had a millinery store; she went to live with them. After two or three years she married; she con- Grace Munson Wheeler† continued living in New York some eight or nine years, after which she returned to New Haven and for a time lived with her father.

* Capt. Wheeler's father was Capt. Stephen, his grf. Daniel, his great-grandfather Ephraim who lived in Redding, Ct., and died in 1806, aged 90. The latter lived with his wife 67 years, had 20 ch., 52 gr. ch., 108 gr.-gr. ch. Capt. W. saw Ephraim at 85 jump up and hit his heels together twice before touching the ground.

† There is a tragical atmosphere about William's death. His companion returned, reported that their voyage was protracted by adverse influences far beyond expectation, that their supplies were exhausted, and that William had expired by starvation. He admitted that he had been subsisting upon his flesh. But those who viewed the boat saw what appeared to be sanguinary evidences of a desperate struggle.

‡ Feb. 6, 1884.

From her father she inherited land bounded east on Union St. and west on the Creek, with the building thereon, \$700. In May 1826 she bought of her cousin Isaac<sup>e</sup> Munson one-fourth of an acre in the New Township, bounded South  $4\frac{1}{2}$  rods on Wooster Street. There she built a house and spent the residue of her long life. That locality when she built was covered with potatoes and corn; there were no neighbors; there were only three houses on the street. "I have known one day when not a person passed the house." She could look out from her home upon the shipping in the harbor and could look out eastward across the river.

Her husband followed the sea mainly. He sailed to the West Indies, Venice, &c. In the War of 1812, he was in the Navy, having command of a gunboat. Prince Murat, son of Caroline Bonaparte, Queen of the Two Sicilies, came to America with Capt. Wheeler in his vessel (apparently in 1821). His mother, sister of Napoleon the Great, a beautiful woman, yet of simple manners, came on board the vessel to attend to the arrangements for the young man's voyage. The vessel was shipwrecked off Gibraltar. Capt. Wheeler escaped with only his shirt and drawers, and a sock drawn over his head. Prince Murat gave him clothes. After he retired from the sea, he was for a while a storekeeper,—first (1833) on the N. W. corner of Wooster and Chestnut streets, and afterward in a small building just east of his house. He made a good deal of cider-vinegar and also of grape-wine and currant-wine. The golden-wedding anniversary of Capt. and Mrs. Wheeler occurred in 1861.

We quote the Journal and Courier of August 16, 1887: "Mrs. Grace Munson Wheeler, of 87 Wooster St., reached the admirable age of 95 years Sunday. She is in good health and her mental faculties are in superior condition. She prepared breakfast with entire success for a group of three persons, and the day previous made some excellent pies. Mrs. Wheeler recollects events which took place when she was two or three years old. She recollects the professional visits which she received from 'Old Doctor Munson' while she was yet in the cradle. She remembers her father's coming into the kitchen and announcing the death of his old General,—'Washington has gone.' She remembers her father's return from a visit of condolence to Lady Washington at Mt. Vernon, and his bringing some lemons and oranges from her garden, which were sacredly preserved."

At the Reunion Aug. 17, 1887, Mrs. Wheeler was the most conspicuous and most honored personage. She attended the protracted exercises in the Church and the more protracted exercises in the Rink, and yet felt herself quite able to attend the evening session. After the Dinner she was formally presented to the great Family by Chairman S. L. Munson in a eulogistic, reminiscencial address :

"She remembers with a pride which we, her kinsmen, also share, that her father was one of the officers on guard, whose vigilance frustrated the attempt of Benedict Arnold to transfer to the British the control of the Hudson River and thus strike a deadly blow at the cause of American Independence. In her hospitable home are to be seen priceless documents bearing the signatures of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Knox and Hancock, showing that her immediate relatives have been held in high regard by the fathers of the Republic. When President Monroe visited New Haven, of the eighteen officers of the Revolutionary Army presented to him, Major William Munson, her father, had the honor of being the first. She is enjoying the evening of a long and eventful life. She has seen the old Thirteen, feeble and poor, but aspiring and resolute, become an imperial Republic. She has listened to the angry echoes of three wars to which she has loyally sent her relatives, and from and through which has come, we hope, enduring peace. She is proud of her lineage, and she has an interest in whatever pertains to the Munson name. She has taken an interest in this Reunion, and it is a great satisfaction to her that she is able to be with us to-day."

Mrs. Wheeler received some pleasing attention on the 99th anniversary of her birth. The Evening Register contained a two-column illustrated account of the observance. Among other callers were members of Hiram Lodge, F. and A. M., including Past Master James D. Dewell and ex-Mayor Henry G. Lewis, with representatives of two other lodges: a rocker of quartered oak in the style of the 16th century was presented, bearing this card,— "With best wishes of Hiram Lodge, No. 1 F. and A. M., to Mrs. Stephen Wheeler, daughter of Major William Munson, who was their Worshipful Master at the close of the last and commencement of the present century."

The Register says : "Mrs. Wheeler possesses remarkable mental faculties and her mind is clear upon even the smallest details of events that have now drifted into history. She is in sympathy and perfect tune with the great world around her. Her face is fair and in it can be seen more than traces of past beauty ; the flush of youth has given place to the charm of age. Her features are delicately fashioned, her locks silver-gray, her manners easy and courteous, and her words and gestures animated." "When I was a little girl," said she, "I used to go up to my father—daddy and mammy we called our parents—and said: 'Daddy, can I come into your cubbyhouse?' and he would move his knees so that I could toddle in between them, and, placing my arms upon them, I would swing back and forth in perfect delight. We lived at the corner of State and Fair streets and could see way down the harbor. There were no buildings in the way then."

The author was among the pleased visitors on this remarkable birthday, and the venerable lady took occasion to present him with a small brass oil-lamp which used to burn in her father's bedroom throughout the night. "How many times I have filled that, and set it in the corner of my father's room," said she. Mrs. Wheeler fondly hoped to reach her centennial birthday; but suffering an attack of la grippe, after a few weeks she died at the age of ninety-nine years, six months, and four days. The author conversed with her about three weeks before the end, when she no longer desired to live. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Meserve of Davenport Church.

In the British Invasion of New Haven, Capt. Townshend described Mrs. Wheeler, then in her eighty-eighth year, as "a lady of wonderful spirit, and energy, and gifted with fine conversational powers." "I could almost wish," wrote Helen E. Meaker in reference to an interview with Mrs. Wheeler, "I could almost wish I were ninety-five years old if I could be as cheery and delightful as Mrs. W."

She remembered her mother and father with peculiar fondness. "I never heard any wicked words come out of his mouth," she said of her father; "I feared him,—I feared him and loved him too." One evening in July 1884 she said to me: "I have thought more of my mother the last week or two than I ever did before. Some would say—'I should think you would think most of your children'. But I do not though I loved them as much as could be. I long to go and see my mother," she added, weeping. She told me in May 1886 how she used to carry the footstove for her mother to church—"the Middle Brick" (First Ch.). In Aug. 1886, she remarked—"I did not love to go to the Episcopal church a bit; I would rather go to my own church, where I was brought up to go with my mother."

Among the treasures of her home was a pair of earrings which belonged to her grandmother Abiah (Macumber) Hall; one jewel contains a specimen of Abiah's hair, black, and the other a specimen of her husband's, light brown.

Among her recollections: the First Church in the days of her childhood had a door at the east end and one on the south side; the pulpit was at the west end. The first minister whom she remembered hearing was Dr. Dana. She used to go into the burial-ground, when on the way to Uncle Israel's. It was on The Green, and was enclosed by a thick, board fence.* She entered the enclosure by a stile—steps up and down; it seems to her that the stile was northward of the First Church.

Mrs. Wheeler was a member of Trinity Church. Some of her religious utterances may be welcome. As I read aloud one Sunday in May 1884—"I will not fear what flesh can do to me; for my trust is in him who made the world," she exclaimed—"That is just as I feel." On a Sunday in October 1885, she remarked—"I often say, 'Make me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me.'" Again—"I wish all the days of my life had been as free from sin as it has been to-day." She once observed—"I have always loved to read my Bible and Testament; I was brought up to do it and I have always loved it." Until six or seven years before the end, she was accustomed to read her Bible and a daily paper; the failure of sight was her chief affliction. But she still guided and controlled the household affairs. On Sunday, May 30, 1886, after listening to some devotional readings, she stepped up towards a Scripture roll which hung upon the wall, saying—"I wonder how long I shall be able to read that;" and then proceeded to read the passages for the day. Again in September she stepped up to her roll and read in a clear, strong voice the Scriptures for that day. At bedtime, as one wished her a good night, she responded—"I wish I could go to bed and wake up more heavenly-minded."

We cannot omit to say that in May 1884, according to a very old custom, she used every day to fill a little tub with water for the birds to drink from. And the author makes grateful and happy mention of the kindly and genial hospitality which he enjoyed in her home during three or four years; adding, that in default of the illumination which she afforded him upon historical subjects, the value and interest of this book would be diminished extremely.

 Daniel W. Glenney became a sailor at the age of thirteen; his first whaling voyage covered three years and seven months, Nov. 11, 1851-June 1855. There is extant a charming letter, a remarkable letter, which he wrote at the age of fourteen to a young girl named Agnes. Another voyage occupied two years. He (and his brother William also) visited St. Helena and Juan Fernandez.

While Daniel appears to have been deficient in veneration and conscientiousness, he was a brilliant and daring fellow, and his career was highly adventurous, sensational and romantic. He was at the Sandwich Islands when news came that the Secession War had broken out; and he returned to join the Navy. He is said to have been the youngest Lieut.-Commander in the service. The New York Herald of Aug. 7, 1876 devoted two and a quarter columns to the story of "Two Unrecorded Traitors", D. W. Glenney and E. P. Nellis,—charging them with assisting a Confederate attempt to capture Admiral Porter's Mississippi Squadron. The Naval Register for 1865 included among acting masters, "Daniel W. Glenney, appointed from Connecticut Dec. 3, 1863;" and the Register for 1866, in its record of "Desertions", has—"Acting Master D. W. Glenney, from the Mississippi Squadron, Nov. 4, 1864."

The San Antonio (Tex.) Express of Aug. 13, 1885 published a remarkable story, as told by Col. Uriah Lott, president of the San Antonio and Arkansas-Pass railroad.

During a portion of the War-period, Col. Lott was in command of a Mississippi steamboat engaged in the cotton trade. While thus employed, he made the acquaintance of a Captain Glenney, commander of the Federal gunboat Rattler, No. 2. Sometime in 1863 (?) Captain Glenney was placed under arrest, charged with attempting to turn his vessel over to the Confederacy for the consideration of 500 bales of cotton, to be delivered on the Rio Grande, convenient for blockade-running. While held as a prisoner on board the Rattler, Glenney watched his opportunity and endeavored to escape by jumping into the river. A volley was fired at him, and as he was not seen again it was believed that he had been killed instantly and the body sunk; and report to this effect was made to Washington.

In 1866, while Colonel Lott was engaged in mercantile pursuits at Brazos, Santiago, on the southwest Texas coast, he was surprised one day to have the veritable Glenney come into his store, in the dress of a Mexican captain. He was introduced as Captain St. Clair, made his purchases, and withdrew. A few moments later, a messenger informed Lott that a man desired to see him immediately at a given place on important business. Heeding the application, he had an interview with Glenney, who gave him the particulars of his escape.

He had dived beneath the gunboat when he jumped overboard and concealed himself under the opposite side until he had a chance to swim for land. He then made his way to Mexico and offered his services to the government, where he became a captain in the regular army. He begged Col. Lott not to reveal his identity, fearing arrest and punishment. As the colonel had been repeatedly befriended by Glenney, he held his peace; and Glenney, alias St. Clair, departed. Lott met him frequently during several months afterward. He was prominent in the Mexican army, and popular with the United States officers. He took a leading part in the capture of Bagdat, and commanded that place for a time. He told the colonel that he frequently met relatives from Connecticut who were connected with the United States quartermaster's department at Ringgold and Brazos, but that they did not know him.

Then came an interval of a dozen years or so; Col. Lott had removed to Corpus Christi. One evening in 1879, a Mexican brought him a message saying that a friend in need desired to meet him on the outskirts of the city. On reaching the place designated, he was again surprised to behold once more the form and features of his almost forgotten friend, the Mexican captain. But, oh, so changed! Instead of the fine, manly form, the handsome features and expressive countenance of the once dashing officer, the colonel beheld an emaciated, dirty, ragged creature who was stretched upon the dirt-floor of the jacal, and suffering from a pistol wound in the forehead. As the wound had been neglected and hungry flies were congregated around it, the sight was sickening. Though weak in body from exposure and hunger, the miserable man was able to make known that he was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and in dire distress,—and that he had been shot by a tramp. The colonel's sympathy was excited, he relieved the sufferer's pressing wants, and gave him twenty dollars in money. The succeeding day, he called to see Glenney, but found him not. Whether the human wreck, once a proud officer, died from his wound, or whether his dramatic career was protracted, Col. Lott does not know.

Commenting upon the above, the mother of Captain Glenney stated to the author that Daniel did not jump overboard, but that his executive officer, Mr. Nellis, at the risk of his life, procured a boat in which the two floated away from the "Rattler". The wound, she alleged, was in the leg, instead of the forehead, and caused by a shot from an Indian during a fight with the Indians, about 1875. He soon found his way home, and spent a considerable part of the winter in the State Hospital for the treatment of his wound. "How well I remember Col. Lott's interest in him at one time,—taking him to a hotel, and relieving his wants by giving him twenty-five dollars."

While at home the last time, Daniel's doings evoked some reproach from his grandmother, whereat he was offended, and never again communicated with the family; indeed nothing has since been known of him. There was a rumor of his being seen in New Haven, say, about 1885 or 6; but it was probably untrue. In those days, I think, a man called on Daniel's mother and grandmother one evening. He professed to be deaf and dumb, and wrote a request for aid. Refreshment was tendered him, and a bit of money, for which he expressed profuse thanks. A suspicion grew very strong within the aged women that their visitor was the curious, startling, erratic Daniel. In their home I have seen a volume of Mexican history, written in French; it made mention of "the celebrated St. Clair."

* Isaac (father also of Deacon Eli) was son of Stephen, son of Isaac, son of Abraham the settler in New Haven, son of Thomas the immigrant 1635 who d. in Dorchester 1657.

Amos' received from his uncle Elisha's estate $2,383, including a lot with dwelling-house on Wall Street (70 feet), and Slip 147 in the gallery of North Church. The Will of his brother Joseph gave him one-eighth of his property. By one of his very few transactions in real-estate he conveyed to Elisha<sup>a</sup> one-third of a lot bounded W. on Ashmun St., "Easterly on Mill Pond or land of John Osborn," S. on Charles Munson. His estate at death inventoried $56,647.

He was sergeant in the Governor's Foot Guard. He became a member of the North Church in Feb. 1821. His first wife became a communicant in Trinity Church 11 April 1816. His second wife became a member of North Church in Aug. 1828. He was permitted to celebrate his golden wedding. He died of paralysis of the throat.

The residue of this sketch is derived essentially from "History of the City of New Haven."

Amos worked at his trade for James Brewster, until his health was ruined. During the years he was endeavoring to recover health, his brother Henry was foreman in the establishment of Sidney E. Morse, geographer and journalist, while Lucius, Amos' eldest son, a keen-witted and energetic youth, was an office-boy in the same establishment. The latter was homesick for the good things in his mother's pantry, and it occurred to him that the sale of the toothsome, old-fashioned pie would be remunerative. The idea approved itself to both his uncle and father, and the latter determined to make a trial of it. At that time there were no bakeries in New England, probably none in the country, devoted to the production of pies.

On the 10th of June 1844 Amos started his factory* in Wall Street, New Haven. It remained upon the same spot until 1874, when it was removed to the more commodious quarters now occupied by S. M. Munson and Co. During the first two months, Mr. Munson's boy drew the pies in a little wagon down to the steamboat dock for the New York market; but after that time, the increased and assured success of the undertaking justified the employment of a horse as the motive power. Almost the entire output of the bakery was sent to New York, for the only restaurants in New Haven then were small lunch-counters at the old railway station and at Tomlinson's bridge. Meantime, in the Metropolis, on the corner of Nassau and Beekman Streets, there had been opened a small lunch-room, called the Connecticut Pie

* The daily production at first was "a dozen pies or so."

Depot. The delicacy met with instant appreciation, and triumphantly vindicated the foresight of Mr. Munson and his son.

His brother Henry was at first associated with him, under the name of A. Munson and Co.; but after a short period, Amos took the control of the whole business, and conducted it in his own name. The rapid increase in the number of restaurants created a continually enlarging demand for pies. During the fourth year the freighting by steamboat cost $1300. There was a production of one thousand pies a day. Accordingly, in the Spring of 1849 Amos erected a building on 21st Street, near 3d Avenue, in New York, and the business has been conducted there (as well as in New Haven) from that time to this.

His latter years were spent in the enjoyment of a well-earned competence, and he saw the business which he had founded widely extended and universally recognized. Many of the most successful men in the same line, in this and other cities, learned their trade with him and trace their business origin to his house; such were Olds of New Haven, Case of Chicago, and Perry of Providence. In 1874 he gave up the business in New Haven to his son Samuel M.<sup>s</sup>, but retained control of the New York establishment until his death.

"Mr. Munson was a man of a remarkably cheerful temper, who loved dearly a good joke and a good friend. He was open-handed, and a generous contributor to the wants of the needy. But his disposition was quiet. He preferred retirement and shunned display. His patience was unbounded. He endured with resignation his final sickness, during which he lay partially helpless for ten months, dying slowly of inanition; and he left behind him a fragrant memory, and many sorrowing friends."

Giles's residence was on the north side of Wall St. While his vocation was that of a dentist, his hope and aim were to become a painter, and he did some art-work.* His special inclination was to reproduce landscapes and flowers. He desired his uncle Elisha by whom he was brought up to afford him some advantages for the study of the art ; but he thought one painter in the family was enough. "You must work," he said ; "that is n't work,—it is fooling." But Giles always believed that art was his proper calling. In the museum of the New Haven Historical Society is the spade with which Gov. Oliver Wolcott commenced (at Southington) the excavation of the New Haven and Farmington Canal, July 4, 1825. The portrait on the implement, executed by Wm. G. Munson, is that of Hon. James Hillhouse, the superintendent.

Dr. Munson was admitted to the membership of the First Church 3 July 1831 ; his first wife was admitted 30 Sept. 1821 ; his second wife 7 July 1844.

He inherited one-eleventh of his uncle Elisha's estate, including a lot with dwelling-house then occupied by Wm. G.<sup>7</sup> and bounded south 66 feet on Wall St. In 1849 he made an assignment to Alfred Walker.

* He is named as dentist in the Directories of 1848 and 1870. "Having learned the trade of a brassfounder with Nehemiah Bradley, he turned away from that art to the practice of dentistry. He had for many years an office in Argyle Street. As a recreation he sometimes painted landscapes. The view of the Green as it was in 1799, which hangs upon the walls of the Historical Society, was one of the productions of this amateur artist."—Hist. of New Haven.

Child:

- i. Walstien Elliot<sup>s</sup> b. 28 Dec. 1852 in N. H.; m. (by Rev. E. S. Lines) 16 Oct. 1883 Grace C. Gorham dau. of his father's cousin Rebecca T.<sup>7</sup>; artist; res. Grand Ave., New Haven, Ct.; 1 ch.—Bertram Trowbridge<sup>9</sup> b. 23 Sept. 1889.

Henry A.<sup>7</sup> was connected with the Morse establishment in New York nineteen or twenty years, Walstien<sup>8</sup> believes. "In 1834," says Appleton's Cyclopedia, Sidney E. Morse (founder of the New York Observer), "conceived the idea of a new mode of engraving, applicable especially to the production of plates for printing maps in connection with type under the common printing-press; and after five years of experiment he succeeded in June, 1839, with the aid of his assistant, Henry A. Munson, in producing by the new art, which he named cerography, superior map prints. One of the first applications of cerography was to the illustration of the school geography written by the inventor, of which more than 100,000 copies were printed and disposed of during the first year. The art of cerography has never been patented, nor has the process been revealed to the public." Walsstien observes—"Father drew all the maps for Morse's Geography; they were drawn on stone and then built up with glue and sizing and one thing and another."

He helped Sidney's brother, Professor Samuel F. B. Morse, in developing the telegraph. "He made the alphabet for him, the one now used," says Walsstien. He was associated with Mr. Morse and Mr. Ormsbee in giving the first public exhibition of the telegraph—to invited friends. This was probably in 1835.

Though Henry A.'s work was mainly done in New York, his family resided in New Haven. His home was on Munson St. in "Plainfield"; a part of his house was the old farmhouse of his father. He was an heir of Elisha and his son inherited from Joseph'. He did not care to sell land. In 1836 however he conveyed to Thomas Kensett (brother of John Frederick, the renowned artist)  $\frac{3}{4}$  of three-fourths of an acre bounded west on East Broadway 4 chains 12 links, south on Munson St. 8 chains 90 links, and east on his own land; price, \$486. He was the owner of Wintergreen Falls. The Munson territory, according to Walsstien, formerly extended from West Rock to East Rock, and up the sides of both eminences. The priceless Whitney place on Whitney Ave. was sold for about a dollar an acre. The nine acres named Homestead Park, on which Henry A. resided, were bounded south by Munson St. 770 feet and east by the New Haven and Northampton Railroad; it was sold in 1882 to the Winchester Arms Company—whose works were on the east side of the R. R.

His Will divided his property equally between his wife and his son. It was appraised at $157,550. The inventory included "Homestead Park", $25,000; lot 262 by 560 feet bounded E. on Prospect St. and W. on "East Drive", $19,650; lot between "East Drive and West Drive" directly west of the above, $8,400; lot between West Drive and Winchester Avenue, W. of the above, $9,450; lot west of Homestead Park bounded south by Munson St., $16,230; lot bounded west on Ashmun St., north on Munson St., $14,900.

Mr. Munson was superintendent of the Sunday-school connected with the Chapel of the Good Shepherd for some twelve years; the fifteen teachers of the school manifested their esteem by presenting him with a photograph of the group. There is also in possession of the family a photograph thus inscribed: "To Henry A. Munson, from his old friend Samuel F. B. Morse. New York, March 17th, 1870."

We quote from the History of the City of New Haven : " Much of the development and prosperity of Mr. Amos Munson's business has been due to his youngest son, Samuel Merwin Munson, who was eleven years old when the enterprise was begun. From that time on he has been engaged in it. He was his father's efficient coadjutor until (in 1868) he entered into partnership with H. H. Olds, with whom he continued until the Fall of 1872. In the following Spring he established himself in business, and in 1874 the full control of his father's New Haven enterprise passed into his hands. It has since been conducted under the firm-name of S. M. Munson and Co., and its good reputation and extent have increased with each year, agencies and wagon-routes being maintained in the principal cities." In 1882 this pie factory was employing about fifty hands, and producing daily some four thousand pies.

It may be interesting to notice that the tract containing the celebrated "Judges Cave" on West Rock was sold by Mr. Munson in 1890 to the city of New Haven, that it might form a part of the public Park; it formerly belonged to his father.

Daniel<sup>b</sup> was residing in Milford as early as 1782. Indeed there is on record at Milford, 1770, a "Town order to Daniel Munson £0.6.0." He was chosen 9 Dec. 1782 a surveyor of highways, an office to which he was again elected in Dec. 1786.

Being "of Milford," he quitclaimed 11 March 1782 to Donald Treat his interest in 3 acres of meadow, bounded S. and W. upon a little creek. He conveyed to Israel Isbel, July 3 following, his right in one acre at Plumb's Mill, bounded N. on the country road and S. upon a creek. He sold John Plumb 1784 lands "at a Place called Red Bush"—11 acres, and 25 acres bounded westerly on a creek, E. and N. upon highway,—“together with the Saw Mill and the Privaliges thereof”; also some more land. He conveyed to J. Plumb 18 Sept. 1789 a dwelling-house "Near the road that leads to Wheelers Farms a little South of Stoney Brook,"—with garden; the same day Plumb conveyed the property to Daniel's wife. In June 1800 he took a lease from Christopher Law of 30 acres and 66 acres (without the dwelling-house), the crops, "cyder" and taxes to be equally divided. He quitclaimed to C. Law 1801 six acres and twenty acres of meadow "at a place called the upper Meadow." And 15 Sept. 1820 Daniel and Mary for $150 conveyed to Lewis<sup>b</sup> Munson two and one-half acres, bounded E., S. and W. on highway, with dwelling-house, barn, &c.

While the records of the marriages of Daniel's children indicate a preference for the Congregational way, his own name is found in a list of persons who "profess to belong to the Episcopal Society of Milford"; date, 14 May 1788. His name is on the list of subscribers for the support of St. George's Church 1786, '87, '88; and he was chosen one of the five vestrymen in May 1786.

"Jo. Munson, Drum<sup>r</sup>" was on the roll of Capt. Joseph Birdsey's Co., in Col. Whiting's Regt. "in a tour at the alarm at New Haven and from there to Fairfield; which was five days in service July 4th, 1779." (This was the period of the New Haven Invasion.) R. H. Greene shows that this drummer was Joseph K.<sup>6</sup> at the age of thirteen; also, that he served previously Oct. 5—Oct. 27, 1777.

While living in Milford, Jos. K.<sup>6</sup> was a shoemaker. He was a resident of that town 30 Oct. 1793, when he paid Isaac Gunn twenty shillings for land forty feet square, in the west part of the town, "at a place called Northrop's Tann Yard." In 1802 he sold Katherine Loudon wife of Peter 2  $\frac{1}{2}$  acres of sequestered land "at Stubing Plains." After his removal, he bought and sold a house situated at Milford. According to the records of the Second Church, Milford, "The covenant was propounded to Jo<sup>s</sup> Munson and wife" 25 March 1798; and the same day Peggy<sup>7</sup>, Francis Plum<sup>7</sup>, Charles<sup>7</sup>, Hannah<sup>7</sup>, and Phebe<sup>7</sup>, were baptized. June 26, 1808, "The church voted a letter of recommendation to Mr. Joseph Munson and his wife Lucinda recommending them to the first church in New Haven."

Public records state that Joseph was "of New Haven" July 1, 1808. On the N. W. corner of Chapel and Academy streets (at Wooster Square) stood the New-Township Academy. The lot next west of this bounded 75 feet on Chapel St., and westerly on Zebul Bradley, was the property of Joseph's son-in-law David Burwell. As administrator of David's estate, Joseph sold this lot with the dwelling-house upon it in 1812, and the same year purchased it himself, and made it his abode. He sold the westerly part of his place, with dwelling-house, to J. Mattoon in Sept. 1822, and the easterly part "with the buildings" to E. Trowbridge in Oct. 1824. Joseph probably followed his trade until he purchased lands for a farm on the west side of the city in 1821.

On the 12th of June he bought four houseless tracts which had belonged to the estate of the late Col. David Humphries: 43 acres "at a place called the Yorkshire quarter," bounded W. on Dr. Eneas Monson and others "and the West River," N. on Derby Turnpike road, E. on highway; one-half acre near the West River bridge at the elbow, bounded Southerly on Derby Turnpike road, W. and N. on West river, easterly on the Watering place; 3 acres bounded E. on Harry Monson; and 13 acres "called the Goodsell lot." He built a home for himself at the corner of Derby and Winthrop avenues. He bought several other pieces later. In 1835 he sold the selectmen 3 acres "in West Mead's", bounded W. by the West River, N. on Derby Turnpike road, and E. "on my own land at the foot of the Hill." The half-acre tract bought in 1821 was sold in 1837 to the Derby Turnpike Company.

Though the letter of the Milford church recommended Joseph K. and his wife to the First Church in New Haven, they were admitted to membership in the North Church in April 1810. Joseph was chosen pound-keeper in Nov. 1823.

His Will dated 14 Jan. 1841 was signed by a mark, "on account of bodily suffering." His farm of 49½ acres at the corner of West street and Derby Turnpike road (bounded E. on West street), with the buildings on it, was valued at $3,750; total value of real-estate, $4,355.

Marcus J.<sup>s</sup> says—"My grandfather used to spin twine, in the old-fashioned way, for seines. I used to go there and turn wheel for him." There is a tradition that William<sup>c</sup> was arrested for spinning on Good Friday: he darkened his windows and muffled his wheel, but was detected and fined; after lengthened litigation he was defeated. By these proceedings he lost the greater part of his property.

W. E. P. adds that he died " of small-pox, in the same room where his father had died of the same disease exactly eight years before."

"At an early age," writes Mr. Peregoy, Samuel A.<sup>7</sup> "ran away from home and took to the sea. He never returned to or met any of his people afterwards and scarcely anything is known concerning his early life or family. When quite a young man he obtained command of the brig Firm, and afterwards commanded the brig Abbotsford, and barques Winifred, Clara Haxall, and Fanny Crenshaw. Later in life he engaged in the stevedore business in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where he died of small-pox, age unknown."

After the death of Mrs. Munson, her sons found a home, a genuine one, with their aunt Mrs. Peregoy. "This branch of the family will very likely expire with John H.<sup>8</sup>"

Hart D.<sup>8</sup> is authority for the statement that his uncle "was the first to raise a rebel flag in Baltimore harbor." He also alleges that one vessel owned by the Captain got away to some South American port, while one or two others were confiscated by the Government. Hart's father had a letter from Samuel A.<sup>7</sup> soon after the War broke out.

He became superintendent of the Fair Haven and Westville Horse R. R. In 1860 he was a councilman. Edwin B. raised Co. K, 10th Conn. Francis<sup>h</sup> engaged in the book-trade at New Haven in October 1843; he took the first prize for the best printed-book binding at the fair of American Institute, N. Y., 1853. In June 1854 he removed to Chicago where he carried on business in books, stationery, printing and binding,—prominently in the manufacture of blank books. Received the first prize for printed-book binding and blank books from Chicago Mech. Inst. 1854, and for best blank books 1855; for the best blank books from Ill. State Agr. Soc. 1856, and from American Institute, N. Y., 1857. In 1883 he “was appointed to a prominent position of trust in the Gov’t Printing Office in Washington,” which he still holds (1892).

During the War of the Rebellion Francis was very active and efficient in supporting the Union cause. He assisted in caring for the sick and wounded on the post-hospital steamer City of Memphis, at Fort Donelson; and was with Commodore Foote when he took possession of Clarksville, Tenn. He was selected by the Sanitary Commission to take charge of a railroad train sent to * Annette has had a semi-romantic and semi-tragical experience. She accepted some attentions from George W. Little, jr., but at length discarded him. “He then swore,” says a newspaper, “that if she didn’t permit his attentions, he would create a sensation such as Kenwood never before had. The night of March 8, 1891, Annette was at home alone at 4607 Vincennes avenue. About 7 o’clock George called and after a stormy scene left. He came back later and brought his brother Albert with him. He asked the girl to go away with him and she refused. Then, says Annette, they attacked her and dragged her out of the house and in a severe storm took her to the house of Little, at 4923 Lake avenue. Mrs. Little called Dr. H. F. Lewis and also sent for Annette’s brother Frank. Both the doctor and the brother were made to believe, it is alleged, that Annette was crazy and tried to kill herself and George [drew a revolver and shot at him]. That night Mrs. Little and the doctor took her to the detention hospital. She was confined there two days and a night, until her mother, who was in Washington, came home and succeeded in getting her released.” Suit was brought against G. W. Little, his wife, and two sons; and after a trial lasting six days, a verdict was rendered awarding the plaintiff $5,500.

convey nurses and sanitary supplies for the relief of those engaged in the siege of Vicksburg; this heavy train was prepared by the Chicago Board of Trade in a single afternoon, $5,000 being raised in one hour. Francis visited "a protégée regiment," the 51st Ill., and presented it with a set of colors; on these were inscribed New Madrid, Island No. 10, Stone River, and Chickamauga "where they were shot to tatters"; he then replaced them with a new set,—eight men were killed in bearing them through the battles in the Atlanta campaign. Francis<sup>s</sup> sent a substitute into the Army and one into the Navy; the latter "was an old man-of-war's man, with an experience of nine years, and did meritorious service under Commodore Farragut, at the fight and capture of Mobile."

Mr. Munson was identified with the Republican party from its organization, and has given it his zealous support. In 1868 he was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives; his career as a member was characterized by activity and fidelity. During the session of the Assembly in 1869 he "exposed the great frauds which had been perpetrated against the State in the contracts for paper and printing"; the contracts were annulled. The correction of this wrong antedated the demolition of the notorious Tweed ring in New York. But his greatest service as legislator consisted in engineering through the House, the South Park system,—1055 acres, with a frontage of  $1\frac{3}{4}$  miles on Lake Michigan. This public ground includes Jackson Park, of about 600 acres, the site of the Columbus Fair. "The bill instituting the South Park was introduced by me, and referred to my committee, that of banks and corporations. My most important work during the session was the management of this bill in both committee and lower house. How well this work was done is proved by the vote, the measure being adopted by eighty-one in favor to four against."

Francis<sup>s</sup> was admitted to the church at Woodbridge in May 1843, and to the North Church, New Haven, in October 1843; Sarah A. was admitted to the North Church in March 1851; both were dismissed in 1855. They were received by Plymouth Church, Chicago in 1859, and were members of the 1st Cong. Ch. in 1884.

This was at the corner of Chapel and York Sts., where the home of Eneas<sup>5</sup> afterwards was. N. H. owned a store “on the South side of the east end of George street.” His “house and homelot,” on the south side of George street, were sold by Eneas<sup>5</sup> Munson as administrator in June 1799. Nathan Howell and wife “publicly owned their baptismal Covenant” at the First Church 27 May 1770.

† Possibly “Hannah” may be a clerical error for Susannah.

‡ Date of N. H.’s Will; Dr. Eneas<sup>5</sup> was chosen guardian to his minor children in 1785; as adm’r, Eneas<sup>5</sup> sold Jer. Atwater, for $10.60, “a certain tract or parcel of Land upon the waters of Lake Erie, which tract of Land was Granted to the Said Nathan deceased and others by the Legislature of the State of Connecticut as a compensation for the loss Suffered by the depredations of the brittish troops during the late American war:” Munson certifies that Howell’s loss was £10.8.

Dr. Eli Ives wrote: "Benjamin<sup>4</sup> Monson was a respectable mechanic, and frequently taught school, and was also a man of original wit." His superior standing is indicated (1747) by the title "Mr." Benj<sup>a</sup> Munson
 Dr. Ives states that he had "a large family of children," a part of whom were "destroyed by that malignant disease called (at that time) black canker,—a gangrenous form of scarlet fever."

Gen. Wadsworth's Plan of New Haven, dated 1748, locates "Ben Munson, schoolmaster," in a two-story, red house, on the west side of York street; it was some distance southward from the present Chapel street. The Yale Medical School, 150 York street, stands on his home-lot. Benjamin<sup>4</sup> had previously owned a dwelling-house (1741-1745) on the north side of Grove St., opposite the ancient homestead of Capt. Thomas' Munson. In 1761 his home was on the corner of York and Chapel Sts.; in January of that year he presented one-half of the habitation to his son Eneas, then twenty-six years of age. He was still a resident of New Haven 5 May 1793, but was accounted a citizen of Branford 4 March 1794, and was still residing there 17 May 1796, when he had reached the age of 85.

Benjamin<sup>4</sup> shared in the distribution of his father's ample estate. We quote the following: "My Will is y<sup>t</sup> my Son Benjamin be reckon<sup>d</sup> & allow £50 ["old Tenor"] before he Comes into Share with his Brethren, in y<sup>e</sup> Consideration of what I laid out upon him while he was in Boston."

Theophilus<sup>3</sup>, 26 March 1741, for "the love goodwill and natural affection that I have and do bear unto my loving son, Benjamin<sup>4</sup> Munson of s<sup>d</sup> New Haven," conveys, "a certain Home lott in s<sup>d</sup> New Haven with the Dwelling House there on standing,"—there being one acre. This was directly opposite the homelot of Benjamin's great-grandfather, Thomas<sup>1</sup>. Benjamin bought of Capt. Isaac Dickerman, in Nov. 1742,  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an acre bounding his property northward. Jan. 8, 174  $\frac{5}{16}$  he sold his lot, now grown to  $2\frac{7}{8}$  acres, to "Capt. James Tallmadge Joyner"—"with all the buildings thereon whether Houses Barns out houses fences yards wells waters water courses Trees orchards Nurseries Gardins or what Ever Else there is on s<sup>d</sup> land"; price, £325. The property was described as being "in the quarter commonly known by the Name of Coopers quarter," bounded "South and Westwardly by a . . . or Back Street of the Town [Grove], Northwesterly by a high way that Leads to the second quarter pastures [= Prospect St., now several rods further west], North eastwardly by Land of Capt. Isaac Dickerman, and South eastwardly by land of M<sup>r</sup> Samuel Mix and said James Tallmadge.”

After the death of Deacon John Punderson, Benjamin and Abigail appear to have had possession of his old home in York St. ;* we should probably date their accession between 1742 and 1748. Between that place and Chapel street was a corner lot containing “about thirty rods, with a Barn on y<sup>e</sup> Same” ; it was bounded Easterly by y<sup>e</sup> Country road, Southerly and Westerly by Land of s<sup>d</sup> Benj<sup>s</sup> Munsons, and Northerly by a two rod highway ; he acquired this property from Thomas Punderson, Weaver, 29 Dec. 1748, the consideration being “a good barn well finished.” On this lot, at a later period, stood the residence of his distinguished son Dr. Eneas.<sup>5</sup>

From his father's estate, Benjamin<sup>4</sup> received ten pieces of land, including “the blackslee pasture,” about 33 acres ; about fourteen acres “in y<sup>e</sup> great plains” ; “y<sup>e</sup> Neck pasture,” except one-half acre set to Israel<sup>4</sup> and Theophilus<sup>4</sup> ; and one-quarter of some lots in Cheshire and Waterbury. From May 5, 1793 to May 17, 1796 he had several transactions with J. Hunt and H. Huggins in regard to some real-estate—a “homestead,” a “shop,” etc.—“between y<sup>e</sup> Neck bridge and long bridge.”

Benjamin<sup>4</sup> made about twenty-four sales of land between 1746 and 1796. These included 28 acres (to J. Atwater) “Towards y<sup>e</sup> upper end of y<sup>e</sup> Great Neck,” bounded S. by “a Certain Highway leading to a place Called y<sup>e</sup> Landing Tree” (Feb. 1749) ; 1¼ acres meadow (to D. Atwater) “at a place Called y<sup>e</sup> Landing tree,” bounded E. by “y<sup>e</sup> East River ;” 2½ acres meadow (to Theophilus<sup>4</sup>) in “Westfield,” bounded E. “on y<sup>e</sup> River Called y<sup>e</sup> West River” ; in 1756, one acre (to Thomas Clap, Prest. of Y. C.) beginning at the southeast “Corner of our Home lot by y<sup>e</sup> Churches Land and thence runing by y<sup>e</sup> Town Street North 34° E., 6 <sup>8</sup>/<sub>10</sub> rods, to a stake standing 30 feet S. from our Dwellinghouse” ; in 1761, he gave to his son Eneas<sup>5</sup> (æ. 26) “The one-half of our Dwelling house including y<sup>e</sup> whole of that part Last built Called the New end as also y<sup>e</sup> one half of our homelot,” and likewise “the one-half of * Since writing the above, I have discovered that the Deacon's Will, dated Jan. 14, 1739/40, gave his dau. Susannah, wid. of Rev. Stephen Munson, the use of his dwelling-house while she should remain single, and it was to pass from her to his son John. But Susannah died about half a year before her father ; the Deacon died July 3, 1742 ; and the following Nov. 26th, his son, Capt. John, died, æ. 33, intestate and childless. (His wife probably died in Oct. 1739.) By an agreement of Capt. John's heirs, Jan. 1747/8, Abigail and Benjamin Munson had ~~the~~ “The Homelot where Said Dec<sup>d</sup> used to dwell, in quantity five acres and an half & 20 Rods, together with all the Building thereon Standing and being ; also 3 acres & 1 quarter of Land in y<sup>e</sup> Pine Rock field ;” and three other pieces.—Abigail had received by her father's Will £200 “in money or moveable estate.” Her son Eneas received three pieces of land.

our well;" in 1765, he presented his grandson Æneas<sup>a</sup> one half acre which he bought of Jonathan Mix, it being "the Northwest corner of y<sup>e</sup> homelot on which I Live," bounded N. on highway, and E. and S. upon my homelot.

Among the parcels of land sold in 1756 to defray the expense of building "the Brick Meeting house," were "Eight Acres of Plow Land at the West End of the Churches which Lyeth South of Mr. Benjamin Munsons."

Benjamin<sup>a</sup> was accepted as freeman at New Haven in 1736; was chosen tythingman for the first Society in Dec. 1744, again (with Aaron Day and others) in 1747, again (with Jared Ingersoll and others) in 1748, and yet again in 1754; in 1747 he was chosen a lister. He was appointed with his brother-in-law David Austin, in Dec. 1742, an administrator on the estate of Capt. John Punder-son; and in April 1752 he was appointed sole administrator on the estate of his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Minor. His wife Abigail became a member of the First Church, New Haven, Nov. 21, 1734. There is an interesting oil portrait of her in possession of Charles C. Monson.

The professional character and public career of Dr. Eneas<sup>6</sup>, so celebrated as a wit and so distinguished in science and in medicine, will be presented below by writers of eminence. He was a graduate of Yale in 1753, and became a preacher* though not a pastor, during a very few years. He was chaplain to Lord Gardner, stationed on Long Island, in the French War of 1755. After he had received his license to preach, says a newspaper, he had occasion to go down South into Virginia. Before he started, he wrote a sermon from the text, "Remember Lot's wife." He preached it all the way down there, and said that it was as good as a new-milch cow to him. When ready to return, he concluded to take another route back, and preach "Lot's wife" all the way home, as this was the only sermon he had with him. Before he got out of Virginia, however, he had, unawares, stopped in a parish to preach where he had preached "Lot's wife" when going South, but he did not remember this till he got up to preach, when as soon as he gave out his text, "Remember Lot's wife," he said that an old woman jumped up and sung out to him—"Why, sir, we have n't forgot her since you was here before."

Eneas<sup>6</sup> began practice as a physician at Bedford, N. Y., in 1756; thence he removed to New Haven in 1760. He continued in practice during seventy years. Lossing, the historian, remarks:

* "Centennial Papers" (1877) relates that one Saturday evening he was in the company of a Connecticut minister with whom he expected to spend the Sabbath, who said to him—"You must preach for me to-morrow." "No, sir; I should be afraid to preach before your congregation, because you have so many intelligent men in it." The next morning the minister took him into his barn-yard, and said to him—"Do you see that great ox? He won't poke. Do you see that great ox?" pointing to another. "He won't poke." He then said, "Do you see that little steer? He can't poke." The minister added, "You will preach for me to-day." Upon this Mr. Munson said he readily assented.

"Being a man of piety, he often administered medicine to the mind, by kneeling at the bedside of his patients and committing them to God in prayer." It was one of the functions of Dr. Eneas "to communicate small-pox by inoculation.*" "March 28. 1785 Voted that D<sup>r</sup> Lewis Morgan be placed in y<sup>e</sup> Same Situation with regard to his small pox hospital with Doct<sup>r</sup> Eneas Munson if he should pursue his innoculation."

There is an oil portrait of Dr. Eneas<sup>6</sup> in the Yale Medical School, and Thatcher's Medical Biography is enriched with an engraving of the same. It represents him as a man of plain features, but with a very sprightly look. His grandson Charles<sup>7</sup> states that he wore a big wig with a queue. According to the same authority, he sometimes wrote whole letters in Latin. His great-granddaughter Mrs. Oviatt informs me that Dr. Eneas<sup>5</sup> did not correct his boys on Sunday; on Monday morning he generally had corrective business to attend to. He was a victim of yellow fever in 1794, and subsequently published an account of the operations of that scourge in New Haven. Benjamin S.<sup>7</sup> informs me that his grandfather dined with Washington as a guest of Roger Sherman; the home of Sherman was on Chapel street nearly opposite the College. The Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences was incorporated in Oct. 1799: Timothy Dwight was president, Dr. Eneas Munson one of the five counsellors, and Noah Webster one of the three secretaries. In Jan. 1861 he was presented with one-half of his father's dwelling-house, where he lived, it is believed, a dozen years or more; he resided, during more than half a century (probably), at the corner of York and Chapel streets,—quitclaimed to him in 1774 by Stephen<sup>8</sup> Munson, who was maternally his first cousin, paternally his second cousin.

Old Dr. Skinner, quite noted as a constable about town, observed that the family of Dr. Eneas Munson was an abridgment of all the nations of men that ever dwelt on the face of the earth,—having reference to the diversified traits of his children, each a strong character yet quite distinct. The Doctor was at one time an owner of slaves. His negro Sabina married 20 Jan. 1774 Cato, servant of Hezekiah Sabin; and on the same day his servant Yankee was baptized. Mrs. Susannah Hotchkiss is authority for the statement that her grandfather Eneas freed his slaves. At any rate there are none included in the inventory of his estate. The first wife of Dr. Eneas was admitted to membership by the First Church 25 Jan. 1783; her epitaph is as follows:

"With pious zeal she served her God
And built her hopes upon his word."

His second wife was a communicant in Trinity Church. He himself switched off to the Episcopal Church in 1814, because, according to Charles<sup>c</sup>, he was indignant that the First Church people would build a new meeting-house,—he thought the old one good enough.

The account of Dr. Eneas<sup>b</sup> with his cousin Major William<sup>b</sup>, in the book of the latter, extends from 1769 to 1792. He buys limes at 8d per dozen, cheese at 2/4 per pound, molasses at 1<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per gallon, mackerel at 3<sup>d</sup> apiece, rum at 3<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup>, coating at 7<sup>d</sup> 6<sup>d</sup>; he is credited with white-oak boards at 4<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per hundred, pitch-pine boards at 5<sup>s</sup>, "By Sundries from his Book" £14. 7. 3, (unc.) "By Medicine and Attendance from June 1788 to March 1792, £2. 14. 4," etc.

Dr. Eneas's transactions in real-estate were numerous. As many as ten mortgages received by him were recorded between 1782 and 1811. We have already seen that his father presented him with one-third of the quarter-acre at the corner of York and Chapel Sts. in 1754, and one-half of his own dwelling-house in 1761. His cousin Stephen<sup>b</sup> Feb. 1, 1774 quitclaimed to him for £150 all right "unto my Dwelling house situate in said Town where I formerly Dwelt, together with all my Interest in the Land where s<sup>d</sup> house stands,— the land Contains one-quarter of an acre bounded North and East on highways, south and west on s<sup>d</sup> Eneas Munsons Land." Eli Whitney secured $10,000 with 100 acres and "all mill seats" &c. to ten persons including Dr. Eneas<sup>b</sup>, who became bound for $20,000 to the U. S. for execution of contract, in 1799.

Between 1755 and 1825 he made 32 sales of real-estate, and united with the Howells in four sales, and with the Perits in five. He sold Rev. Joseph Noyes, 1 July 1755, 10 acres, "lying North East from the Town in an Inclosure Called the Great Neck"—bounded E. upon "the ferry River," and westward upon "the highway that goes from the upper Gate to the ferry." He sold to J. Gilbert, April 1756, salt meadow in y<sup>e</sup> Subburbs Quarter "near y<sup>e</sup> place Called y<sup>e</sup> Red bank," bounded W. by "y<sup>e</sup> River." He conveyed three-fourths of 21 acres of swamp and upland at "ox Hill near the west Rock" in 1772. He conveyed to Henry Daggett, for £270, one-half acre with y<sup>e</sup> Dwelling house &c, in Yorkshire Quarter—fronting on the Town Street and bounded "N. and W. by s<sup>d</sup> Munsons home lot, and S. on land Sequestered to the use of a professor of Divinity in Yale College;" date, 21 Dec. 1752. For the consideration of £20 he transferred to Nathaniel Yale in 1792 "a building formerly occupied as an Hospital." In Nov. 1792 he conveyed 8 acres "on the great road Called the Long lane," bounded "East on the long lane or Cheshire road." Eneas<sup>5</sup>, 12 April 1811, released to Elihu<sup>6</sup> a mortgage on 75 rods with dwelling-house, garden, &c., "where s<sup>d</sup> Elihu<sup>6</sup> now lives", bounded E. on Temple St. and N. on the homestead of John H. Lynde. He and his wife Sarah obtained $1,000 from T. Atwater, in 1818, for five-eighths of 4 rods, with buildings, bounded S. on Water street and W. on Fleet street. It was estimated in 1799 that the Doctor was damaged to the extent of $6 by the Derby Turnpike (which extended from York St. to Derby Landing): the road passed his house and barn, and flanked his property 4 chains 42 links further; it next bounded his son Æneas's land 3 chains 32 links.

Illustrating the change in values, Charles<sup>7</sup> Monson relates that one of his grandfather's patients called and said: "Dr. Munson, I don't see how I'm ever going to pay your bill; I am owing you $200. There is my homelot, adjoining my homestead; take it, please do, and call our debt and credit even." "Oh Mr. Leavenworth," replied the Doctor, "I don't want the lot; you better keep it." "I do wish you would take it," persisted the debtor. Mr. L. departed, when Æneas<sup>6</sup>, jun., who had noted the conversation while he sat silently reading a book, expressed surprise that his father did not accept the lot; "it must be worth something," he said. "My son, what could I do with it?" The tract offered by Mr. L. included the present Library street, and if all the buildings upon it were cleared off, might sell, Mr. Monson estimates, for 150 or 200 thousand dollars.

Eneas<sup>6</sup> was chosen a grand-juryman in 1766 and 1778, a lister in 1767, a highway surveyor in 1790, member of committees concerning support of the poor in 1785, '88, '91, '92, and was a member (with Pierpont Edwards) of the first common-council of the city in 1784, Roger Sherman being mayor. In May 1776, he was appointed a justice of the peace for the county of New Haven. He was chosen seven times during the Revolutionary era a member of the Legislature, serving continuously from May 1778 through 1781, excepting the May session of 1780. In June 1782 the town instructed Eneas Munson and James Hillhouse to request the General Assembly "to appoint a Committee to fix the place to build the bridge over East Haven River;" a lottery for raising £1000 in aid of the undertaking had been authorized.

Judge Lynde Harrison addressed the Historical Society in Dec. 1886 on political questions and parties in New Haven, during which he said: "The prominent New Haven leaders of the patriotic party during the Revolutionary period* were Samuel Bishop, Col. Jonathan Fitch, Dr. Eneas<sup>5</sup> Munson, James Hillhouse, Henry Daggett, Jesse Ford, Pierpont Edwards, Simeon Bristol, Jonathan Ingersoll and Timothy Jones."† The Committee of

The General Assembly in May 1777 appointed Wait Goodrich, Dr. Eneas Munson, Constant Southworth, and Col. Joshua Perlux as inspectors of gunpowder made in the State, and re-inspectors of saltpetre at the powder-mills in this State. At a meeting of the civil-authority 30 Nov. 1777, Eneas was one of fourteen (including Hez<sup>b</sup> Sabin jun. and Joseph Howell) who were granted "License to Trade agreeable to Act of Assembly." At a meeting held 29 Dec. 1777, "The articles of Confederation of the united States of America being laid before this Town, for their consideration," a committee of thirty-three including Eneas<sup>s</sup> and Bazel<sup>s</sup> Munson, Charles Chauncey and Pierpont Edwards, was appointed to deliberate upon the same, and report. Mr. Hillhouse, Mr. Mark Leavenworth, Eneas Munson Esq<sup>r</sup> and Doct<sup>r</sup> Levi Ives, 28 June 1780, were appointed a committee "forthwith to draw an association with regard to the Illicit Trade carried on with our enemies," especially on Long Island, and report the same to this meeting. Benjamin S.<sup>r</sup> informs me that his grandfather cultivated prickly ash in his garden for medicine, and that when the British invaded the town, he threw his silverware into that prickly thicket. His store of medicines was not molested by the enemy.

His personal estate at death was valued at $850, his real-estate at $3410. The inventory includes many books, a lot of medicine, a watch, a silver tankard ($30), 32 ounces of silver, a lot bounded 70 feet on Derby Turnpike, $225, another with dwelling bounded 54 feet on same, $700, another east of above (55 feet front), $275, and a lot with "the old mansion House at the corner of York St. and Derby Turnpike road, $2200. His Will remits what is due him from Elijah<sup>a</sup> and George<sup>a</sup> and Elihu<sup>a</sup>; gives Wealthy A.<sup>a</sup> his portrait and silver tankard; remits all dues to David Daggett (in consideration of his many services and kind attention to me) and presents him with all the volumes of the Christian Observer; gives Dr. Eli Ives "Boerhave's lectures and my medical Physical Journals"; and there are various bequests to his grandchildren, while the Foreign and Home Missionary Societies and the Bible Society receive $20 each. In making provision for his wife, he eulogizes her affectionate, and cheerful attentions during his lengthened indisposition. The testamentary instrument, dated 4 Nov. 1825, commences: "I . . . recommend my soul to my Divine Redeemer who is the resurrection and the life, hoping for a blessed immortality through his merits and mediation,—laboring under the infirmities of age and feeling many harbingers of my speedy departure from this transitory world,—daily expecting and as I hope and trust patiently waiting for that solemn event.” His gravestone in the old burying-ground, on Maple Avenue (W. side), bears a long and eulogistic inscription.

From Thatcher's Medical Biography, published in 1828 :

After graduating at Yale College in 1753, “he entered upon the study of Divinity under the instruction of Dr. Styles, then a tutor at Yale College. At the period of the French War, in 1755, he officiated as chaplain to Lord Gardner, who was stationed on Long Island ; but finding his health decline in consequence of the exertions necessary in preaching, he commenced the study of medicine under the direction of Dr. John Darby of Easthampton.* In 1756 he entered upon his professional course in the town of Bedford, State of New York, from whence in 1760 he removed to New Haven, where he obtained a permanent and very respectable establishment.

“He was active in forming the Medical Society of Connecticut, and was early called to the presidency of that body, and was annually reëlected as long as he was willing to serve. He was appointed a professor in the medical institution of Yale College at the time of its organization, and continued in office until his death, although he did not enter upon the discharge of the active duties of the station. This venerable man sustained for more than half a century the highest reputation as a learned, profound, devoted and successful physician. Endowed by his Creator with a powerful and discriminating mind, animated by an ardent love of knowledge, and habituated from early life to observe, reason and investigate, he was, until age and infirmities checked his career, constantly advancing in professional science and usefulness. Although he came upon the stage before many of the great modern discoveries and improvements had been made, he maintained an extensive acquaintance at home, and a correspondence with eminent men abroad ; he procured and studied the most recent and celebrated works ; obtained specimens of new and important substances ; made many important experiments in pharmacy and in the kindred branches of physical science, and allowed no valuable improvement to escape his observation. He first introduced many indigenous articles of the materia medica into regular practice, and laid the foundation for the study of that important branch, which has since been so successfully pursued at Yale College. Had he entered upon professional life thirty years later, he would probably have been one of the most successful and distinguished cultivators of science, which he always loved for its own sake ; but his great object was practical utility, and he hastened to carry to the bedside of his patients every remedy and every alleviation, the efficiency and safety of which had been fully ascertained.

“His devotion to his patients was unwearied, and the spirit which prompted his efforts was highly benevolent. He was the active friend of the poor, the distressed and the forsaken, and his deportment was happily adapted to the varying character and situation of his patients. When immediate danger was not apprehended, and especially where the spirits of the invalid needed the cordial of cheerfulness, no man knew better than he, how to dissipate the gloom which grows out of the habitual contemplation of corporeal infirmities. This he effected by kind and encouraging remarks, by sallies of humor and pleasantry, and by the historical, biographical and characteristic anecdotes and recollections which a life eventually covering one-half of the whole existence of English America, and rendered the more interesting by personal acquaintance with many distinguished men of the very momentous epochs in which he lived, had enabled him to collect and preserve in his capacious and retentive memory. But Dr. Monson knew also when to be grave, and no unseasonable sprightliness was permitted to appear when serious danger filled the sick-room with anxiety. On such occasions he was able and willing to proffer the comfort and consolations of religion ; and in that awful hour, when all the aids of science and skill availed no more, he could act the part of a Christian friend and instructor, and in solemn prayer at the bedside of his patient could commend the departing soul to the mercy of God through the Savior of men.

“During the War of the Revolution he was repeatedly a member of the Legislature, and for many years in the commission of the peace. While in public life, he actively coöperated with those who now sleep with him in the dust, in securing the rights of the people of his native State. His profession, however, was his theatre of action, and for the long period of seventy years he was here eminently respected. Such was the habitual and even filial confidence reposed by the community in his superior talents, knowledge, skill and professional zeal, that in the rising and risen generations this feeling had become almost traditionary ; and it was with extreme reluctance that his numerous friends and patients could be induced to relinquish his services, even when old age had rendered this indulgence indispensable. After he became confined for the greatest part of the time to his own house, he was still, in difficult cases, the oracle for advice and consultation; and his capacity and his disposition to be in this manner useful, continued to the last.

"Through his long career of almost a century, when he had lived until no one remaining in his native city had survived so long, he found religion the staff of his age, as it had been the guide of his youth. His habitual trust in God through Christ, brightened as he advanced into the full glow of assured hope, and although his last days were distressed by bodily suffering, his sun set with unclouded splendor, the cheering harbinger of a glorious morning."

From Dr. Eli Ives' Historical Sketch of the Medical Society of New Haven Co., published in the Journal and Courier, Oct. 26, 1852. (This sketch includes biographical notices of six physicians: "more than half the space devoted to these prominent individuals is dedicated to Munson." Dr. Bronson, quoted below, derives much of his information from this memoir. I present extracts from Dr. Ives.)

Dr. Ives erred unaccountably in supposing that Eneas was the only child of Benjamin who survived childhood; his sister Abigail became the mother of Susan Sherman, the wife of the celebrated Dr. Croswell, and his sister Susannah was the wife of Nathan Howell.

"Dr. Monson possessed a talent at observation, and a very retentive memory. He was a student and a scholar, and wrote the Latin language with elegance and facility. His reading was extensive and varied. He was a rare instance of a retentive memory, combined with sound judgement.

"He was never a pastor; he did not continue long in the ministry on account of the failure of his health. His manner, when speaking on religious subjects, or in the act of devotion, was always solemn and dignified, and no one doubted his sincerity as a Christian. He ever adhered to his Calvinistic opinions, and it was with much feeling that he denied the charge made against him during the latter part of his life, that he had given up his creed.

"No one in this vicinity was as well acquainted with mineralogy as he. He studied chemistry with zeal and made many chemical experiments. He was looked up to by all his medical brethren on all subjects relating to chemistry and pharmacy. Dr. Monson was a pioneer in the science of botany, extensively acquainted with plants, unrivalled in his knowledge of indigenous materia medica, and in materia medica generally probably his superior was not to be found in Europe. I presume those who hear me, are not aware how much they are indebted to Dr. Monson, for what knowledge they possess of materia medica, and of the practice of medicine. He often prescribed the actæa, the sanguinaria, the aletris, the veratrum, the guilandina, the chrysoplemium, the zanthorrhœa, the hostilis, and the isnardia. Many articles of the materia medica, of a doubtful character, he tested in his practice; and his ideas thence obtained were definite, and his conclusions accurate. When unknown articles of the materia medica were presented to the Medical Society for the purpose of learning their names and uses, all eyes were turned to Dr. Monson, who was able to solve the difficulties, and to give the history of the articles. To Dr. Monson the faculty of this country were more indebted for the introduction of new articles and valuable modes of practice than to any other individual. He was for a long period preëminently at the head of his profession.

“Dr. Monson was fond of agriculture and may be called a scientific agriculturist. He knew well the value of salt as a manure, and was an efficient member of the company which drained and diked out the tide from that large tract of land called the West Meadows. He ever took a lively interest in all the discoveries in the arts and sciences.

“A peculiar trait of the character of Dr. Monson was a talent and fondness for wit. He often lamented it to his friends, but the propensity was so great as to be almost irresistible.* [Yet] he

* I condense Dr. Ives:—The Yale seniors, of whom Eneas<sup>5</sup> was one, were planning for a ball, when the graduates persuaded them that it would be decorous to commit the management of the undertaking to the tutors and graduates; the undergraduates were then excluded! When the dancing began in the third story of the Chapel, Munson and some other students went into the attic, and commenced rolling cannon-balls directly over the heads of the dancers, by which the festivity was interrupted. Rushing upon the offenders, the tutors caught Munson, reprimanded him, and sent him home,—retiring in a very submissive manner. The music and the dance began, when young Munson ascended quietly and alone to the attic and again the thunder of the cannon-balls drowned the music and created disorder in the ranks. A large tierce of ashes stood at the top of the stairs, with a broad shovel in it; and when there was another foray, Munson poured such a shower upon his assailants as caused them to flee in confusion. There was quiet, and music and dancing were resumed, when the dreadful cannonade caused manly bosoms to swell with anger, while the gentler sex stimulated their partners to deeds of valor. A vaster and more suffocating shower repelled the attack. Again there was quiet, then music and the dance, and again was the insufferable discord of Munson's cannonade. A fourth sortie was repulse with the same weapon, when, the ashes becoming nearly exhausted, Munson raised the tierce with its remaining contents over the railing, and precipitated the whole armory down the stairs. He followed and escaped, and according to Professor Ives was “never suspected by the faculty.”

In travelling from the Oblong (on the frontier of Conn. and N. Y.), Dr. Eneas<sup>5</sup> was so annoyed at a public house by bugs, that he could not sleep. He got up and, having dressed himself, called for a pitcher of molasses and a light; he then took the bed, placed it in the middle rarely laughed, and from his appearance and the expression of his countenance, a stranger would think him austere. It is said that when travelling, he was once invited by a clergyman to preach, but objected, giving as his reason that he had no clean linen. A shirt was loaned him by the clergyman, and the next day the Doctor left carrying the shirt with him. The clergyman pursued and a race occurred to the great amusement of all who were acquainted with the facts.

"During the struggle for the American Independence the Doctor took a decided stand with the Whigs. At this period he frequently represented the town in the Legislature, and sustained the office of justice of the peace. The committee of the public safety brought all their cases before Dr. Monson, who fearlessly condemned the enemies of the country. This required no small share of political courage, when we recollect that the town at the commencement of the struggle, was very near equally divided. It was thought that the Tories would have carried the vote at the first town-meeting after the commencement of the War, but for the speech of General Wooster.

"If natural abilities, varied information, great industry, ready pen, a caustic and yet kindly humor, professional knowledge, acquired under great difficulties and dispensed with unbounded generosity, a probity that never waived, and a benevolence that knew no limits, constitute a character to be admired as well as loved, then the subject of our memoir will be both. We should be wanting in gratitude* and affection, if we did not, to the best of our abilities, set forth his claims to the respect of the profession, and to be ranked with the illustrious dead."

of the room, made a circle round it with molasses, and with a loaded pistol watched the enemy. Soon such numbers of the little animals became fixed in the viscid fluid as to form a bridge, while others began to "scale the walls" by means of this bridge,—when the Doctor fired. The inmates of the whole house were aroused, supposing some horrid accident had occurred, and rushed into the Doctor's room exclaiming—"What is the matter!" "Matter enough: don't you see they are scaling the walls? is it not time to fire?"

Capt. Walter Brown invited Dr. M. to drink "a glass of white wine", handing him a glass of peppered vinegar; the Doctor tasted without remark. The latter soon had an opportunity of presenting the Captain with a root of arum, upon which he chewed for some minutes before perceiving the acrimony, when he exclaimed: "It is burning me to death! what is it?" The Doctor coldly remarked—"It is white wine."

Mrs. Reynolds of West Haven had angina pectoris, which the Doctor expected would prove fatal, and he advised her to prepare for death. In repeated visits he found her no worse, but she continued to be excessively agitated by the opinion which he had expressed. He remarked to her that he hoped she would not "die out of politeness to his opinion!"

* Dr. Eli Ives was a favorite pupil of Dr. Munson, and was associated with him as Adjunct Professor of Materia Medica and Botany in Yale Medical College. His father, Dr. Levi Ives, was also a pupil of Dr. Munson.

"His instructors were Dr. John Darby of Easthampton and Dr. Townsend of Gardner's Island. At Bedford he remained about two years. He was a practising physician for seventy years.

"From his correspondent Baron Störck, of Vienna, who resuscitated from oblivion and restored to medical activity the famous old poison that assisted at the euthanasia of Socrates, he received some of its seeds in a letter, by which means Conium maculatum, having taken the Munson garden for its port of entry, still takes the opportunity of loafing along our road-sides, graceful, lurid and malodorous. Dr. Munson's attainments in chemistry and mineralogy added to his local renown. 'Upon these subjects he was the oracle of all this portion of the country,' says Dr. Knight, much sought after by bucolic finders of iron pyrites and other showy stones. It gives an agreeable flavor of antiquity to the Medical College to say that its oldest professor was an experimental alchemist.*

"In spite of Dr. Munson's invalidism in early life and frequent sicknesses in later years, his vitality was of a tough fibre, so that it took a long time for an old man's malady to weary him out at the age of ninety-two—the oldest inhabitant then of the city.

"A distinguished medical ancestry is very apt to beget doctors. Since Dr. Eneas, the vocation has been hereditary in the Munson stock. New Haven has has never been without some of his lineal descendants maintaining the family reputation in the medical profession."

From Professor Silliman, jr.'s, sketch in the ponderous and sumptuous Yale Book, edited by Prof. Kingsley, and published in 1879. (Extracts.)

"Dr. Munson was licensed to preach, in connection with the Congregational denomination. His failing health fortunately turned his talents into their proper channel—the study of medicine. It was a deserved tribute of respect for his eminent talents and acquisitions, especially in the department of materia medica and botany, that, in spite of his great age (then nearly eighty years), he was selected to fill the Chair of Materia Medica and Botany in the Medical Institution of Yale College. It was well understood to be an emeritus appointment, the duties of which would be discharged by his fond pupil and associate, Dr. Eli Ives. His wit and anecdotic power were among his most distinguishing characteristics. These enlivened not only his daily intercourse with society, but shed the sunshine of cheerfulness in the chamber of sickness. His humor was genial, his spirit kindly, and rarely sarcastic. . . . A life full of active and zealous work in many lines of public and private duty and beneficence. No name in the early annals of medicine in New England stands out more sharply defined in the light of superior learning and wisdom than that of Dr. Æneas Munson."

From Bronson's Medical History and Biography, published in 1877. (We give extracts.)

"Eneas was brought up tenderly and sent to Yale College. Having done more than his share of mischief, for the most part without detection, he was graduated in 1753. Soon after, he was in Northampton,* engaged in teaching, where he joined the church. . . . He was fond of metaphysics, and became a rigid Calvinist, maintaining opinions he never renounced. He was licensed to preach." He was never settled as a minister and did not long continue in that work. "He was afflicted with dyspepsia; became a hypochondriac; was afraid of being struck by lightning if he rode out; and felt obliged to change his profession. Another reason was afterward given for the change. His instinct for wit and humor and his love of mirth sometimes got the better of his solemn and dignified endeavor, causing him to place the sacred and profane in irreverent juxtaposition. Numerous amusing anecdotes relating to his pulpit and other official performances are yet in circulation. On one occasion he read all the old notices which he found in the pulpit; on another, he rode off with a shirt he had borrowed of a brother minister to preach in, hotly pursued by its destitute owner, who wanted it for the afternoon service."†

With a very meagre knowledge of medicine, in his own estimation, Dr. Munson in 1756 began practice in Bedford, N. Y., within the limits of the disputed territory then known as the Oblong or Nine Partners, whence, in 1760, he removed to New Haven. "Before the Revolution, Dr. Munson had acquired a wide reputation as a skillful and scientific physician. He was a patriot during the War. He was one of the committee of distinguished medical men selected from different parts of the State to determine the qualifications of those proposing to enter the surgical department of the Army." He was one of those who organized the Medical Society of New Haven County. "No one was more influential than he in maintaining its usefulness, and giving it a reputation at home and abroad. From the beginning, he was a member of the committees of correspondence and examination, and did probably as much to establish the Connecticut Medical Society as any other individual, possibly more. He was the first vice-president. He was honored with the degree of M.D., the third conferred by that body. For seven successive years he held the office of president."

On the list of members of the New Haven Medical Association, organized in 1803, "Dr. Munson's name stands at the head. He was at that time, and had been since Col. Hubbard's death, the first practitioner in the city. For a much longer period he had ranked highest in learning and science." In 1818 the association no longer met at his residence. "He had nearly given up practice though he still prescribed for those applying to him at his house. Even when much enfeebled by a protracted and painful disease (an enlargement of the prostate gland), his old friends did not feel safe till they had taken his advice. At the time of his death, he was the oldest person in the city. His funeral was attended at the Episcopal church where a sermon was preached by Mr. Crosswell."

He was never weary of accumulating knowledge—reading, conversing, observing, experimenting, corresponding by letter, etc., as he had opportunity. It is undoubtedly true that in the matter of professional learning and scientific information, he ranked with the eminent men of his country. It was practical knowledge which he most sought—that which he could carry to the bedside of sickness, and make useful in prescription. Dr. Eli Ives, his medical student and habitual eulogist, speaks in the most exalted terms of his attainments in science. He was a pioneer, laboring heroically and alone in a new and glorious field of inquiry.

"For ready and genuine wit, Dr. Munson was one of the most remarkable men of his day. His conversation was racy and spicy, abounding in pithy sentences and amusing anecdote, with a perennial flow of quaint, humorous remark. Having a keen sense of the ludicrous, and an innate love of mirth, he grouped ideas in the drollest and most unexpected manner, and presented them in the most fantastic combinations. When disposed to be facetious, he would catch at a trivial observation or circumstance, and by adding a casual remark would make it appear supremely ridiculous. His liveliest and sharpest sallies escaped him without effort and almost unconsciously. While others were splitting their sides with laughter, he looked serious and unconcerned as if nothing had happened.

"The Doctor was once attending his son-in-law, David Daggett, a very able lawyer, much feared by his legal opponents. An anxious neighbor met him at the gate and inquired, 'How is your patient?' 'So so.' 'Is he dangerous?' 'No, nor will he be till he's better than now.' A woman with a large mouth, preparing to have a tooth drawn, threw open her heavy jaws; Munson looked into the gulf, and stepping back, remarked blandly—'Madam, you need not open your mouth so wide,—I shall stand outside.' He was once dining with the corporation at Commencement dinner, when President Dwight, who was a good trencher-man, remarked, 'You observe, gentlemen, that I eat a great deal of bread with my meat.' 'Yes', said the Doctor instantly, 'and we notice that you eat much meat with your bread.'* He gave to a student a writing certifying to his indisposition. The holder took it to President Dwight, and asked to be excused from recitation. The latter, ambitious to be thought to know symptoms, told him to put out his tongue. 'Your tongue, sir, is clean; you cannot be excused.' The Doctor was again consulted, and resolving to take the conceit out of the President, gave the youth a bit of coloring substance, saying, 'Chew this, and go again to your master.' He did so; the tongue was again called for, and its owner promptly excused. He gave an emetic to a troublesome neighbor, Isaac Doolittle, who in a fit of intoxication had taken an ounce of laudanum. The next day, finding his patient sober, he admonished him in the most solemn manner of the error of his ways, saying he had rescued him from a horrible death. 'I do not thank you for what you have done,' Doolittle replied. 'Well, I am sure the neighbors wont,' responded the Doctor. Nor did he spare his own household. His sons differed widely in their notions of the value and uses of money, and he was accustomed to speak of their peculiarities in a characteristic way: Eneas, Money-making Munson; Elijah, Money-saving Munson; Elihu, Money-spending Munson; George, No-money Munson; Henry, Catch-penny Munson. The boys in retaliation termed the old gentleman, Old Money Munson.

"Pleasantry rather than satire was in harmony with his instincts. His humor was naturally of the genial, kindly sort—of the kind which excites agreeable emotions, and makes one a lively, cheerful companion. He was not a ready talker; would not speak unless he had something to say, and did not make random statements. He could make the sick-room cheerful, keep up the spirits of the desponding, and inspire courage and confidence.

"Professional opinion in his day did not permit a man of his standing to put his name on his door, and thus invite custom. He expected custom to come to him unasked, as it did. The dignity of the profession was well supported by him.

* President Clap obtained an insulated chair contrived by Dr. Franklin, in which a person could sit and fill himself with electricity, without experiencing any inconvenience from it, and yet could give a shock to a bystander by touching him. The President conceived the theory that if the electric spark on its passage from the operator in the chair, should go through a compound of medicine before it reached the bystander, it would carry the essence of the medicine along with it. He asked Dr. Munson's opinion of it, and he replied that the idea was a most capital one. The small tube was filled with medicines. "Upon whom shall we make the first experiment?" inquired President Clap. "As you invented the theory, the honor to be the first one to attest its merits, belongs to yourself." The President readily assented, his countenance full of hopes and fears, and the Doctor's full of gravity. The latter seated himself in the chair, and filled himself with a powerful charge of electricity. He then remarked to the President (who had a very long nose), that a new idea had just come into his mind, which is that if I touch the end of your nose with the tube, you will be able to see what effect the smell of medicine will have upon you. Dr. Clap thought that this was a good idea. The tube was applied to the President's nose, and down he fell sprawling on the floor.

"Dr. Munson was above the average size, erect and dignified in appearance. He wore a wig with a pig-tail, which is still preserved. His grave countenance, rarely ruffled by a smile, and his serious, somewhat reserved manner led strangers to think him unsocial and austere. They could form no conception of the fun which lay pressed down beneath that rigid exterior, nor of the struggle it cost to keep the fastenings secure.

"He was an honest man, sincere in his professions, faithful to his convictions,* a good member of society, just and true in all his relations.

"Dr. Munson belonged to the First Church of New Haven, and was a prominent member of the society; but in 1814, dissatisfied with the proceedings which resulted in pulling down the old meeting-house and building a new one, he took a dismission, and went to Trinity Church. He did not, it is said, renounce his opinions.†"

In March 1754 Abigail's father presented her with one-third of the  $\frac{1}{4}$  acre at the southwest corner of York and Chapel Sts. In 1757 she received \$66 from Samuel Osborn for 22 acres of 7th Division land bounded west upon the "Country Road Leading to Waterbury" and east and north upon highway.

 The Rev. Harry Croswell D. D. is remembered as both journalist and clergyman. In 1802 he became known as the editor of The Balance, a journal founded by him at Hudson, N. Y. He was a Federalist, and "wrote in the then prevailing spirit of bitterness," says the American Cyclopaedia, "and became involved in many libel suits and prosecutions, celebrated at the time." The trenchant wit and pungent sarcasm of his editorials, and especially an article published in The Wasp, a journal under his direction, brought him into collision with "the powers that be." Alexander Hamilton, says the Journal and Courier, "made in his behalf a speech, memorable as the greatest forensic effort of the greatest mind of his age, and which led to that constitutional immunity of freedom, that the truth, properly uttered, cannot be a libel." Mr. Croswell afterwards published a Federal paper in Albany, whither he removed in 1809.

* At the time of the British Invasion, Susan was six months old; she was in her father's arms, out on the street, when a British officer came along and impressed him; her mother, beholding what was done, exclaimed—"Give me my child!" The officer seized the child and tossed her into her mother's arms, exclaiming—"Take your brat!"

‡ B. B. ran a packet between New Haven and New York; later, 1821, he navigated the "United States," the first steamboat owned by New-Haveners, running it as far as Byram's River, the N. Y. boundary, whence passengers were carried 35 miles by stage to N. Y. C. The "Fulton" had been running to New Haven for six years; her owners (Fulton and Livingston) claimed a monopoly in N. Y. waters; and there was contention for three years, when a decision of the U. S. Sup. Court sustained the right of New Haven.

He was of Congregational ancestry, but at Albany conformed to the Episcopal church, and was baptized at St. Peters July 19, 1812. His wife and children were baptized June 13, 1813. He became a candidate for Holy Orders, spent a few months in charge of Christ Church, Hudson, was called to the rectorship of Trinity Church, New Haven, and entered upon his duties in that parish Jan. 1, 1815. "In the latter part of his life," says Am. Cyc., "he became almost as remarkable for the dignity and gravity of his deportment as he had been in his earlier career for its impetuosity." Since he turned his attention to the ministry "he has never attended a public meeting except for religious purposes, or given a vote in any political election."

Dr. Croswell and Elihu Munson divided between them the distinction of being among New-Haveners the greatest in stature. The Doctor wore high top boots, with breeches. Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Glenney add that he always carried a green umbrella, which looked rather curious. "He rose uniformly at four o'clock, and completed his allotted task of study before nine." During his first year in New Haven, he conducted services in the original sanctuary of the Episcopalians, "a modest wooden building of moderate dimensions," situated on the east side of Church street, about eight rods south of Chapel. (This street received its name from this structure.) In Feb. 1816 worship was transferred to the stone edifice on The Green, then "the largest Gothic structure in New England, if not in the country."

"He was," says Henry Howe, "one of the living pictures that in the olden time beautified our streets as he passed along, a patriarchal personage of majestic presence, with a mild, benignant face, flowing grey locks, attired in clerical costume, and always in the ancient fashion of high top boots. It was a grand picture to see Parson Croswell on a bright Sunday morning pass down the full length of the aisle facing the congregation on his way from the chancel to the robing room at the front of the church, in his flowing garments of white, with folded hands and slow and measured tread, while the organ pealed forth its solemn tones through the vaulted arches."

"He was in truth a complete pastor, a faithful shepherd over his flock, visiting them at all seasons, an ever present comforter and adviser.*" At his funeral "were the high and the low, the rich and the poor, the white and the black, all silently witnessing to the universal grief." "From his lips," observes the Register, "the beautiful service of the Church came as from one inspired, imparting a double influence from his majestic and venerable appearance, and his peculiarly impressive manner." "As a preacher," says one to whom he ministered, "Dr. Croswell was eminently practical and impressive. His style was easy, vigorous, never elaborate, always pure and finished, occasionally eloquent."

"The virtues of Susan Sherman commended her to his love for more than half a century." Their sons Sherman<sup>7</sup> and William<sup>7</sup> were graduates of Yale in 1822. When they were examined for admission, Sherman, the elder but smaller, was first questioned and found to be of competent age; William, who was under the required age, was passed without question. And his name to this day stands first on college triennials. Sherman<sup>7</sup> chose the profession of law; he entered the law school the winter following his academic graduation. He was the architect of St. Paul's Church in New Haven, the corner-stone of which was laid in 1829. He became an editor of the Albany Argus.

William<sup>7</sup> became an editor of the Episcopal Watchman in 1827, was rector of Christ Church, Boston, 1829-1839, rector of St. Peter's Church, Auburn, 1840-1844, and thenceforward rector of the Church of the Advent in Boston. He received the honorary degree of D.D. from Trinity College in 1846. We quote the Boston Transcript: "In person, Dr. Croswell was above the medium size, finely built, and a very pattern of manly beauty. His mind was an admirable combination of genius and practical wisdom." The Churchman said: "Dr. Croswell, the gifted and the good, has passed away from us, closing up his useful and beautiful life on the very field of his heavenly warfare. His breadth, and compass, and variety of intellectual endowment, his clearness of style and subtilty of method, rendered him an admirable study." Bishop Horatio Potter wrote: "He departed at the going down of the sun on God's holy day,—was called even in the holy place, and in the midst of his sacred ministrations. Who ever met him without wishing to meet him again,—this gentlest and kindest of friends, this lovely Christian gentleman, this zealous minister of God's Church—whose spirit, calm and cheerful, but elevated and glowing, kept the fire ever alive on the altar, and diffused warmth and brightness wherever it appeared?" A volume of his poems, edited by Bishop A. C. Coxe, is on sale in the bookstores. A memoir by his father comprises more than five hundred pages; its frontispiece is a portrait of William. One of his poems appears in our hymn-books:

* A member of his parish was "Old Grimes," an aged mulatto who got his living by doing chores for people and selling a small biography of himself. He often called upon the Doctor in his study, says Mr. Howe, when the latter would help his necessities by the gift of a trifling sum. An incident of one of these calls, the Doctor, who was fond of the humorous, used to relate with relish. Said Croswell kindly, "I'm afraid, Grimes, you are not industrious—that you do not love to work." Upon that, Grimes, who was gentle in his manner, stepped up to the great man, and tapping him on the shoulder, softly replied, "Doctor, you and I are just there alike; you don't want to work and I don't want to work; the truth is, Doctor, we both know too much to work."

"Lord, lead the way the Saviour went,
By lane and cell obscure."

We quote the poem entitled "To My Mother":

"My mother! many a burning word
Would not suffice the love to tell
With which my inmost soul is stirred,
As thoughts of thee my bosom swell;
But better I should ill express
The passion thus, than leave untold
The glow of filial tenderness
Which never in my heart grows cold.

"Oft, as I muse o'er all the wrong,
The silent grief, the secret pain,
My froward youth has caused, I long
To live my childhood o'er again;
And yet they were not all in vain,
The lessons which thy love then taught;
Nor always has it dormant lain,
The fire from thy example caught.

"And now, as feelings all divine
With deepest power my spirit touch,
I feel as if some prayer of thine,
My mother! were availing much,
And thus availing, more and more,
O, be it thine, in bliss, to see
The hopes with which thy heart runs o'er,
In fondest hour, fulfilled in me!"

Frederick<sup>7</sup> had a notion-store* (stationery, cutlery, &c.) on the south side of Chapel St. near State. He is believed to have studied law. He became Judge of Probate (1850-1854). Prof. Simeon Baldwin, in an address before the Historical Society, spoke of him as "one of those centres about whom men like to gather;" and a resolution of the Historical Society presented by Thomas R. Trowbridge celebrates "the purity of his private and the unsullied probity of his public character, and his wide sympathy with the unfortunate and the unhappy." Judge Crosswell prepared a history of Trinity Church which is published in the collections of the Historical Society, vol. I.

From Johnston's Yale in the Revolution.

"Very soon after graduation, or Sept. 1, 1780, Munson was commissioned surgeon's mate in Col. Swift's Seventh Conn., Continental Line. During the winter of 1780-81 his regiment was hutted with the Conn. Division on the Hudson, opposite West Point. In June following he was detached to assist Surgeon Thatcher, of the Mass. Line, in Col. Scammell's Light Infantry corps, which, after engaging in one or two sharp skirmishes in Westchester Co., marched in August with the army to Yorktown, Va. There it took a leading part in the siege,*—was placed with the other select troops under Lafayette, whose position was on the right of the besieging line. In after life Dr. Munson had many incidents to tell of the operations and surrender. Returned North, he rejoined his regiment, which in 1781–82 was the Fourth Conn., under Col. Butler, with Dr. Timothy Hosmer as chief surgeon. Remaining in the Highlands, he served until the disbandment in June, 1783."

From Bronson's Medical History and Biography.

"At the close of the war, he returned to New Haven, and took charge of a hospital (supposed to be a private one) for the inoculation and treatment of small-pox—a disease quite rife at that day—often communicated by the returning soldiers. Capt. James Barney of Westville, born in 1777, informed me in 1870 that, in 1791 or 1792, he with sixty others went into a pock-house on Grapevine Point, under the care of Dr. Munson, Jr., where all had the inoculated small-pox. None died. In after life the Doctor used to point out an old building near West Rock, on the way to Wintergreen Lake, where he once had small-pox patients. The farther end of Goffe St., it is said, used to be called Pock-house Lane. Dr. Munson appears to have joined the County Medical Society in 1785; he read a dissertation at the meeting in April, 1786; and became a member of the Conn. Medical Society in Sept., 1792. It is understood that his private practice was quite limited. Not liking the business, he did not seek it.

"So soon as he had accumulated some property, by degrees he turned his attention to other and more lucrative pursuits. He loaned money and made profitable investments, buying and selling as opportunity presented. In October, 1799, he bought of David Austin, Jr., a store on the wharf which, in February following, he conveyed to Munson, Mulford & Co. The building is described as on or adjoining to Union Wharf, 'no 1 in the range of stores built by David Austin, Jr.' The company was engaged in the West India and coasting trade, and had another store on State street; but in October, 1802, Munson quitclaimed to his partners his interest in the Wharf property, and at the same time probably quit the business. In May, 1806, he had connected himself with Ransom Shelton. The company (Munson and Shelton) sold dry-goods and groceries on the northeast corner of Elm and York streets. At a later date he was associated with Harvey Sanford in the same business. In 1808, 1809 and 1810 the name of the firm was Shelton & Sanford, Munson still being a partner.

"Besides trade, he sometimes engaged in outside commercial enterprises or speculations, took ventures in whaling voyages, etc. Before chartered insurance companies were common, he occasionally insured against losses at sea. He gained a wide reputation for the sagacity, prudence and success with which he managed his own affairs, and in 1812 was elected president of the New Haven Bank. Till 1831, nineteen years, during a period of great financial difficulty, he managed this institution with uprightness, judgment and skill. In 1832 he was chosen president of the Mechanics' Bank, which office he held three years. Still later, in 1837, he accepted the presidency of the City Bank, and discharged the duties one year.

"In June 1801, Dr. Munson purchased of Ezra Ford, for $1725, one-quarter of an acre of land, and the house recently standing on the northerly side of Elm street, a little west of College, where he resided. Two years later, he bought of Noah Barber, for $6,500, three acres of land, with a wood dwelling (nearly new), 'and all other buildings,' on the northeasterly corner of Elm and York streets, where [155 Elm St.*] he afterwards lived and died.

"As a business man Dr. Munson achieved success by persistent industry and economy, by unfailing punctuality and scrupulous integrity. For financial ability, sound discretion and shrewd practical sense, no man in New Haven had a better reputation. An undertaking or adventure which he condemned was almost sure to turn out poorly. He had no confidence for instance in the old Farmington canal, refused to take stock in it, and was of course denounced for his want of 'public spirit.' He was one of the very few who can safely go outside their regular business, and embark in speculative enterprises. His risks were so divided or otherwise guarded that if one turned out unfortunately there was compensation in some other, and the damage was soon repaired. So great was the confidence of the public in his wisdom and skill that they indulged in exaggerated estimates of his riches.

"He had a reasonable confidence in himself, so that when he had once formed an opinion deliberately he was not easily driven from it. Having made up his mind that railroads for travel were better fitted to break the necks of people than carry them safely, he never could be persuaded to ride on one. He held decided opinions, but was not considered obstinate, and had none of the family eccentricities. Though he loved anecdote and enjoyed a good story, he lacked the sharp wit of the father. He was a well-dressed man, a gentleman in his manners, and an excellent card-player.*

"Though never an applicant for public favor, Dr. Munson in several instances accepted office. He was a councilman in 1804; an alderman in 1805, 1819 and 1828; justice of the peace in 1808, 1818 and 1824, and perhaps at other times. In politics he was first a Federalist, next a Whig; but was never a partisan or the slave of a party. In religion he was a Congregationalist, till about 1814, when he left the First Society for the same reason that influenced his father, and became a Churchman. He died of dysentery, aged eighty-nine, leaving property of the value of about $65,000."

From this excellent sketch by Dr. Bronson, we pass to a variety of particulars.

The manuscript Obituary Record of Y. C. says of Æneas: "He was the youngest member of the class, and the last survivor thereof, and after the death of Rev. Dr. Nott, he was the oldest living graduate of the college. Soon after receiving his first degree, he entered the American army as assistant surgeon. He was at the battle of Harlem Heights and at the siege of Yorktown. After the War he superintended for a time a small-pox hospital in this vicinity."

Æneas<sup>6</sup> like his father published an account of the yellow fever which visited New Haven in 1794. His wife Mary Shepherd was a granddaughter of Col. Seth Pomeroy, and was descended from the celebrated Rev. Thomas Shepard† of Cambridge (1605-1649). They appear to have lived several years in New Haven, where Mary was admitted to the communion of the First Church 29 July 1798, where he is recorded as "having a house" Jan. 1804, and as losing a child Jan. 1805. They appear to have lived for a time in Northampton, where one of their children died in 1803, and whence Æneas<sup>6</sup> brought a certificate recommending him to the First Church, by which he was received 30 Oct. 1808. He was dismissed in 1814. Mary became a communicant of Trinity Church in May 1833, and Æneas<sup>6</sup> in March 1837. According to Charles<sup>7</sup>, Æneas<sup>6</sup> wore a wig which was powdered and had a cigar-shaped queue.

Between 1786 and 1840 Æneas<sup>6</sup> made 86 purchases of real-estate and received 60 mortgages; during the same period he made 53 sales and granted 54 releases; these transactions were all personal. The half-acre given to him by his grandfather in 1765, he sold in 1803, when it was bounded south and east on his father. There may be interest in the record that in March 1791 he purchased fifteen acres at a place called "Half Mile" in East Haven.

Æneas<sup>e</sup> was admitted freeman at New Haven in Sept. 1788. He was chosen lister in 1798, '99 and 1800. He was chosen in Dec. 1804 member of a committee "to enquire into the situation of Draggon Bridge and the propriety of applying to the General Assembly for a toll for its support." A meeting 10 Dec. 1792 "Voted y<sup>t</sup> Docter Levi Ives and Eneas<sup>e</sup> Munson J<sup>s</sup> have Liberty . to set up an inoculating Hospital for y<sup>e</sup> Small pox." Doctor Eneas<sup>e</sup> was appointed one of seven to select a place for the same, and the time when such inoculation shall begin. The town account-book 1788-1806 has: "1795 To Eneas Munson Jun<sup>r</sup> for attendance in Yell<sup>e</sup> fever £9..13..6."

His chief place of business was at the N. E. corner of Elm and York streets; the premises were afterwards occupied by Charles<sup>l</sup>. He used to buy hogsheads of molasses and hold them for a rise in price. He joined his brother Elijah<sup>a</sup> in purchasing opium for the same purpose. "The brig Huron, owned by Hervey Mulford, Æneas Munson, jr., Joel Root, Abraham Bradley, third, and Benjamin Thompson, sailed 2 Sept. 1802 for the Pacific Ocean to procure a cargo of hair seal skins," says Sketches of Southington. I have been told the following: Æneas personally insured a cargo of nankeens which was dispatched for the West Indies. Presently the men who navigated the vessel returned and reported that she had been wrecked off the south shore of Long Island. The underwriter, suspecting foul play, remarked: "I have this bill to pay; call at such a time and get your money. But I give you warning that you will be glad to pay it back." Not long after, these sailors were drinking when some trouble arose, probably in regard to a division of the spoils. One of them, while mad, betrayed his fellows, disclosing that they had removed the nankeens from the tierces, substituting sawdust, had scuttled the vessel, and had escaped to the shore in the long boat. Two of the men lived in this street, said my informant.

Mr. Charles<sup>l</sup> Munson relates the following incidents: "A detachment of 1500 men received a sudden order to 'scour out Morrisania'; the detachment included Capt. Henry Daggett of New Haven; my father was the only surgeon. The latter represented his own service as lively and perilous,—that he was kept busy in dressing wounds and extracting bullets in the open field under exposure to the enemy's fire till Capt. Daggett, discovering him, rode up in great excitement, and shouted—'Dr. Monson, who put you there? You are the only surgeon on the field, and we may all be in your hands yet. Move instantly to a position behind yonder large rock.' 'I was quite willing,' said my father, 'for the change and took the position quick time. The wonder was that the bullets did not take me quicker than I could take the shelter.' He added—'I extracted sixty bullets during that skirmish.'

"While before Yorktown, a part of the time my father was in the same redoubt (professionally, I suppose) with some of the celebrities of his day; I remember the names of Generals Hamilton and Knox. He recalled to me an anecdote connected with the frequent outcry of 'Shell, shell!' when every man jumped for the nearest covert. It was forbidden to cry, 'Shot!'—a needless and evil alarm, as that missile would strike too quick for escape. But shells fired upward into the air, so as to sweep over and fall to explode within earthworks or elsewhere, might be avoided by jumping in time: so it was allowable to cry, 'Shell!' Hamilton, I believe, was a square, well-built man, not tall at all,—a man of small stature by the side of Knox, who was quite large. On one of these alarm-cries, General Hamilton—to make the best of the first opportunity—jumped behind General Knox, and held on,—letting General Knox have what would probably be the best view of the shell when it burst. Knox, however, not well appreciating the civility, roared out—'Don't make a breastwork of me!' and suiting the act to the word, shook him off roughly, and Hamilton rolled down the parapet. The shell came and burst, but did no harm, and broad laughter came speedily to the relief of that alarm.

"The fighting at Yorktown, I think, was not wholly between forces partly protected by forts or similar defences: my father has given me some lively descriptions of charges in the open field. On one occasion, a large body of French cavalry were ready for the charge. They had been forbidden to fire, and were waiting impatiently for the word—Charge! At length the French general gives the command, and gives it with a will. In my father's imitation, the word was 'sharze.' His representation of the scene was exciting. Every movement of man and horse, every yell of command, every flashing sabre,—every thing was something to him, for all of it he felt, and part of it he was. The French general calling out to his troops,—distinguishing them by their military title, in French,—loud and long drawn out, articulate and emphatic, and rising to a marvellous peroration upon the word charge, repeating it over and over, till it had risen into a perfect scream (such a scream!)—"Sharze, sharze! SHARZE!!"—its last utterance yet louder and longer till it seemed to lose and to overtake again, its own echoes, while riders and horses equally electrified, flew to the conflict as on wings of the wind—the whirlwind. The very recital almost made me fly, too! I deem it memorable to have felt the thrill of such a scene, as given by such a witness, who saw and felt it all."

Lossing's Field-Book states that Scammel's regiment at Yorktown was attached to Gen. Hamilton's brigade; that the Colonel while reconnoitering, at twilight, was shot by a Hessian cavalry officer, to whom he had surrendered, that he was carried to Williamsburg mortally wounded, and that Dr. Munson was the first surgeon in attendance upon him. Col. S. died Oct. 6. There is a portrait of Dr. Æneas<sup>6</sup> in the Field-Book, I. 430. There is an oil portrait of him in the parlor of his grandson Charles C.<sup>8</sup> Dr. Monson was a member of the Cincinnati.

His estate inventoried $60,654. It included "the homestead" bounded on Elm, York, and Wall streets, and Dr. A. S. Munson, $14,000. Alfred S.<sup>7</sup> was named executor. Mrs. Grace Munson Wheeler attended the funeral of Elihu<sup>6</sup> Munson at his house on the west side of York St., south of Chapel, and the same afternoon attended the funeral of his brother Æneas<sup>6</sup> at his house in Elm St.; Rev. Dr. Croswell conducted both services.

☞ Charles<sup>7</sup> occupied (c. g., 1867) the old residence of his father, 155 Elm street, now adjoining the new Yale Gymnasium, westward. As early as 1835 he paid  his father \$2,000 for a lot, with two buildings, at the corner of York and Elm ( $30\frac{1}{2} \times 94\frac{1}{2}$ ), bounded E. and N. "by my homestead," says the deed. There, presumably, Munson & Thomas (Aner C.) were carrying on business in Jan. and April 1835; for the purpose of "general traffic in merchandise at the store" on that corner, Harris Smith, Charles Monson and James Smith formed a co-partnership in 1837,—Charles, as "special partner," putting in \$3000. "I had a book-store", he said to me, "where the Insurance Building is [opposite The Green, southward]; and I sold lottery tickets. But I got heartily sick of it, and gave up in disgust: I saw that in almost every case where a prize was drawn, it had a damaging effect,—it had a damaging effect on almost everybody."

Charles invested in a foundry and machine shop. Deacon Smith, city-missionary, in partnership with Kilbourn owned the business; they sent sugar-mills to the West Indies, etc. Charles "loaned to them as special partner"; and the deacon persuaded him to buy out Kilbourn. Benj. S.<sup>7</sup> says Charles put $50,000 against Smith's knowledge of the business, and lost all. Charles' himself said to me—"I'd better have sold out to Kilbourn, and taken his note, and burned it up."

At the corner of Goffe and Orchard streets was "Ditch Corner"—a region of ditches, for fences and drainage. "I had a good many acres in Beaver Ponds," said C., "and took measures to have the whole tract drained, but was prevented by the unfavorable attitude of some of the other owners." The ponds were of a peat formation: to utilize the article, Charles had a manufactory in Madison for the production of a fertilizer by compounding menhaden or white fish with pulverized peat. He sold thousands of sacks of it. His trade-mark was the image of a fish, with this annex:

"Life from the very dead;
Joy to the sandy soil;
Plant-food for the famished;
Pay to the hand of toil."

He did much business, alone and with others, especially his brother Alfred S.<sup>7</sup>, in real-estate, and loaning on mortgage. The New Haven records show as many as 14 purchases, 34 sales, 19 mortgages taken, and 13 releases. He made a journey of 1700 miles on horseback, to Peoria and Nauvoo; 900 miles he carried a gun, shooting game, especially prairie chickens. Records speak of "Munson and Sanford's Addition to the city of Peoria." A tract at Nauvoo which cost him $1500 was appraised at $25,000; his title was before the courts six years, and he paid lawyers for defending it $2500.

He made extensive investments in patents and in mines. He bought patents which he never made use of; again he paid $10,000 for a patent, and lost more than that in using it. He put his money into the copper mines of Cheshire and Bristol, into a mine of mica and magnetic iron in North Carolina, and into more than one hole in New Hampshire. "He would keep buying, and buying, and buying," says his cousin, "and it never amounted to anything. His property in the block where he lived was considered worth $150,000." When he was past ninety years of age, he was completing the invention of a very ingenious and most complicated structure, an air-compressor, for economizing power; some features of it he had already patented. As it was necessary not only that Cæsar's wife should be virtuous, but that people should believe her to be such, so he said it was necessary not only that his invention be valuable, but that proper persons should believe it to be such.

Mr. Monson was tall, erect, courtly in manner, wore a tall silk hat and an antique cloak, was intellectual and cultivated, and in both conversation and correspondence was racy, rich and elegant. He was an admirable and picturesque personage, a genuine nobleman. The author used every endeavor to persuade him to give the address of welcome at the Reunion, but in vain. He afterwards acknowledged his regret, to his generous friend F. E. Hotchkiss. Charles was admitted freeman at New Haven, March 30, 1820.

He was anxious to know from his physician, one time, whether he was or was not unsound in a certain organ: "There is no use," he said to me, "in being bad off or well off unless one can know about it." In a letter, he wrote: "If people can't say anything else against a thing, they can say (snarling) 'Nya'!"

He wrote to me in April 1888: "And you are married. Done well, I have no doubt. I came mighty near doing so myself once: yes, very likely more than once: and any of the times, I have no doubt, would have been very, very well for both sides—I guess. It did not seem to be my fault that I did not marry,* but it may have been. I suppose that it was in the order of events that I should not be.—And so, too, (perhaps,) as to money. O, how many times have I escaped the dangers of being very, very rich! But so far I have escaped the fact of it, at least. Am in some little danger, however, yet."

Uncle Charles published many brief articles in both prose and verse. His patriotic pen during the Rebellion of 1861-65 wrote just words which scorched. I present one remarkable poem, entitled The Tramp, which was given to the press in 1878:—

"Then welcome vagabond! My soul and thine
May be as precious to the heart divine
As many a worshipper at Mammon's shrine.
Hail my new friends!—which way soever wending,
Wishing life better now, and well, at ending;
See upward, friends!—the blue above us bending,
Tells of a listener to the prayer ascending—
Is it not God, who in his sunshine smiles,
And in our evening light, with darkness blending,
And nearer still, in Him who reconciles;
Who, to the poor, his priceless gospel sends,
And gives to earth's bereft ones, angel-friends.
Hear it, ye trusting outcasts, where so e'er ye roam,
The universe is God's and ye may have a home.
That home of the soul, where the heart never grieves,
The gift of all gifts, which the world never gives,
God giveth to him who but loves and believes.

* "It is miserable business to be a bachelor!" was his remark 24 Feb. 1887.

The dear homes we make here are passing away,
 They come with man's toil, and are gone with his day.
     O God of the home of the blest, let us sing,
     Of our souls all forgiven, our death without sting,
     Of thy wisdom and power, of thy sheltering wing—
     Creation proclaims thee, from tiniest thing,
 To the wonders of space, the march of the spheres,
 Where suns beyond suns light the cycles of years.
     In sight of this grandeur of worlds marching on,
     Sin-stricken we ask, can they save, even one,
     From homeless unrest, who is lost and undone?
 Or wait we for tidings from worlds yet unseen,
 Till the veil of mortality drops from between?
     Lo, faith now hath vision, all worlds are its own,
     It sees even God, in the gift of his Son,
     And heirship with him, in his victory won!
 As light through the cloud, when we see through the rift,
 That home of the soul doth our vision uplift.
     O light increate! whence the infinite gift
     Of life without end, the immortal abode—
     All revealed, and yet hidden, with Christ in God—
 That home of the soul, which the world never gives,
 God giveth to him who but loves and believes."

The last stage of Charles Monson's earthly career is said to have been beautiful and affecting: divining that the end was near, he grasped the hands of his nephew Charles C. and his wife who stood on opposite sides of his dying bed, and poured out his soul in fervent prayer for them and other kindred whom he was leaving, and for himself, that he might lack nothing of preparation for the sainted presence of many loved ones who had gone before him into the unseen world.

self, says Benjamin S.'; when I was a child, he adds, I used to paste labels on boxes of Elijah Monson's Eye-Salve, which went all over the United States, and there was a Noel's Plaster prepared and sold by him. The town, March 12, 1827, paid him $15 for an "electric mashain"; and paid him $12 for an "electric machain" in 1821. In connection with his brother Æneas<sup>e</sup>, he speculated in opium.

Charles<sup>r</sup> states that his uncle had remarkable success in typhoid fever; that, contrary to the uniform practice, he stimulated instead of depleting. Some one said to a high-toned doctor of New York City—"Dr. Elijah Monson cures typhoid patients by stimulating." "It is bad practice," was the retort. "He says that strength is reduced, and that he must stimulate,—and he cures the patients." "It's d—n bad practice, anyway."

Aug. 29, 1794, Voted y<sup>t</sup> Doct<sup>r</sup> Levi Ives, Doctor Elijah Munson and M<sup>r</sup> William Powell be health officers for the Port. [Office then originated: in '94, 191 deaths, of which 63 from yellow fever, 50 from scarlet fever.] The town was indebted to Elijah 7 Dec. 1795—"To Vissiting Vesseles as Health officer." Vote of June 5, 1798: "Doct<sup>r</sup> Elijah Munson is appointed Health officer for the year ensuing." Aug. 3, 1801, "John Barker, Elijah Munson and John Skinner were Chosen Helth Committee."

An old account-book of the town, 1790-1796, credits Elijah<sup>e</sup> in April 1803—"By his ac<sup>t</sup> for attendance &c. Hospital," and in Oct. 1803—"By acc<sup>t</sup> for Hospital, small pox." This book under dates 1795, '96, '97, records eleven orders in favor of Doctor Elijah, one for £35..15..7, another for £33..17..7, and another for £15..10..0.

He was chosen a tythingman in Dec. 1797, again in 1801 with Naphtali Daggett, and again in 1808. He was elected lister in 1798, '99, 1800. He was chosen selectman 10 Jan. 1803.

His first decisive action towards securing the dwelling-house and homelot fronting W. on Church St., formerly owned and occupied by David Austin, jr., and bounded N. on Crown St., was dated 24 Feb. 1800; cost of the property, £800. Land and a dwelling next south he bought and sold in 1829. He received half a dozen mortgages. His second wife, Grace Thompson, seems to have had considerable property from her father, including land near the West Bridge bounded N. on Litchfield Turnpike road, with tan-house, bark-mill, tan-vats, and water-privileges; this property was in "Westfield"; it was leased to B. Bradley in 1825 for ten years, and then another ten.

His estate included the house, store, and land in Church St., $8000, one-half the dwelling-house, barn and other small buildings and about six acres of land adjoining (Crown St.), occupied by Nathan Munson and owned as tenants in common with Nathan Curtiss, $1000, gold watch and chain, $110, one-half of a dwelling-house, land, and appurtenances, in Southbury, "now occupied by said Nathan" (Oct. 1838).

Dr. Elijah thought he ought to worship with the aid of his Bible, and in the fields. He was three or four days in dying; his brother Henry who was with him inquired—"Brother, have you faith, still?" "Brother, I have Abraham's faith." His epitaph is:

"Guided by God's most holy laws,
His faith was strong as Abram's was;
To God he gave his parting breath,
His faith and hope was strong in death."

From Bronson's Med. Hist. and Biog. (Extracts.)

"Elijah Munson probably began practice before 1790. He was admitted to the Connecticut Medical Society Jan. 1793. He soon obtained a respectable practice. Sept. 23, 1794 he was elected clerk and librarian for the year ensuing, holding the office two years. For seven years, first in 1794, Dr. Munson was one of the examining committee (twice chairman) of the Conn. Med. Soc. for his own county, and at different times was a member of other important committees. He was one of the original eight or nine who founded the New Haven Medical Association. In 1814 or 1815, he became somewhat distinguished for his success in dysentery, and on one occasion President Dwight publicly recommended him to his classes for his successful treatment of the anginose forms of scarlet fever. In 1820 he was at his own request released from the burdens of the Conn. Med. Soc. His health was not good, and thenceforth he devoted his time chiefly to the drug business. His shop stood next south of his house, which is yet standing.

"In his mental constitution Dr. Munson departed widely from the common standard, his thoughts flowing stubbornly in a channel of his own. Though his mind was not refined by literature or enlarged by science, it was naturally vigorous. He detested chemistry. According to his own story, his father set him to watching the fire in some chemical experiment, telling him how to proceed. He forgot his instructions, in consequence of which the apparatus blew up, and he was flogged. Ever after, the sound of the word chemistry cost him a sigh and a shudder. He was an eccentric man, uncouth, erratic, crochety and perverse; but there was no lack of better qualities. He was kind, charitable to the poor, honest, conscientious and terribly in earnest. In trifling he never indulged, and was too serious to enjoy a joke. The Bible was his favorite book, and he astonished those with whom he conversed by his familiarity with it. Though very religious, he did not attend church, having a creed of his own. On one occasion, however, he was persuaded by the new wife he had married to go to Trinity. Of course the congregation stared, but nothing serious happened till the minister [Dr. Croswell] announced the text: 'Behold! Elijah is here.' The doctor was greatly affronted, and never forgave the indignity.

"In person Dr. Munson was heavily built, sluggish in his movements (lingual excepted), and inclined to corpulency. In company, he talked incessantly. The new theology called Taylorism he detested. He loved to descant on ecclesiastical abuses, the wiles of the clergy, and the inconsistencies of professors. Sometimes he would pull out a sermon he had written from his pocket, and beg his unwilling friend to listen to it. He was inclined to be censorious, finding fault with physicians and their practice. He always rode a hobby, and did not leave one till he had found another. At one time it was a point in theology, at another, a new watch or gun, a razor of superior manufacture, an improved rake or hoe. Though intelligent, he was superstitious, saw spectres, and conversed with angels in the night. He thought much, spoke as he thought, and was annoyed by criticism. Those who could divest themselves of prejudice, looking beneath the rugged surface, acknowledged the vigor of his mind, and excellent moral qualities.

"He was often, in 1802 and afterward, a Democratic candidate for Assistant,* and Member of Congress. When the anti-masonic furor broke out in 1828, his moral sense was touched. He took the fever in a virulent form, and became an enthusiastic and loquacious anti-mason. He died on the day he had predicted, Oct. 10, 1838."

"I have never known him to be sick in bed for a day, and death came at last instantaneously, from rupture of the heart. He had preached in the South Ch., Hartford, Sunday morning, had called on friends Monday and Tuesday evenings, and died soon after midnight Tuesday night."

David and Wealthy<sup>a</sup> are said to have had nineteen or twenty children, several of them not born alive. Trinity Church records have under date of March 11, 1792 : "Baptised Susan Edwards<sup>7</sup>, Leonard Augustus<sup>7</sup>, David Lewis<sup>7</sup>, children of David and Welthy Dagget." Wealthy A.<sup>a</sup> was admitted to the communion of the First Church 26 April 1795, was admitted to the North Church in July 1807, and was re-admitted to the First Church 12 Jan. 1821. David was admitted to the communion of the North Church in August 1832. Wealthy received by Will her father's portrait and his silver tankard.

David Daggett's residence was in Elm street, opposite The Green, on the site of Thomas R. Trowbridge's mansion. His lot extended to Wall St. The 120 rods of land between his place and Temple street was sold by H. B. P. in 1801 for $2,000,—“the same land I purchased of John Pierpont, commonly called the Pierpont lot.”

D. D. “enjoyed an extensive practice, not only in New Haven, but throughout the State.” He was much in public office. He was chosen highway surveyor in Dec. 1790; was councilman 1791–1802; was mayor 2 June 1828–1830. He was elected deputy to the Legislature fifteen times, Oct. 1791—May 1797 and Oct. 1804—Oct. 1805; in 1794 he was Speaker of the House. Seventeen years, 1797–1813, he was elected to the upper house of the Legislature. He was United States Senator 1813–1819.

In 1826 he was chosen a judge of the Superior Court, which office he held until 1832, when he was elected Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. (Retired Dec. 31, 1834.) He received the degree of LL.D. from Yale in 1827. He was Kent professor of law in that institution 1826–1848.

“His success as a lawyer was due to his innate knowledge of human nature, his sound judgment, and his strong common sense. He abounded in wit and humor, and had at command a fund of anecdotes to illustrate his positions and arguments. His manner of speaking was calm and deliberate. His knowledge of the law was thoroughly and eminently practical. His punctuality was extraordinary, and his integrity was thorough, stern and exact.* He was very familiar with the Bible, and frequently used its strong and popular language† in his arguments, and even in his charges to the jury when he was a judge.” Mr. Charles’ Monson describes Judge Daggett as a man of distinguished appearance, though his features were homely. He had a Roman nose, powdered his hair, and wore white top boots, short breeches, and a blue coat with brass buttons. A sketch of his life and character was published by the Rev. Dr. Dutton.

Benj. S.' He was in college, says Mrs. O., but cut up so many pranks that he did not complete the course. He "had some of the ready wit of his father", writes Bronson. Both of the families into which he married are said to have been wealthy. He is reported to have had from 19 to 22 children; at one Thanksgiving dinner, 14 were present. He became a member of the North Church in June 1831.

He resided 1807-1811 on the west side of Temple street, next south of John H. Lynde who lived on the corner of Wall St., where Rev. Dr. Smyth now lives (formerly Rev. Dr. N. W. Taylor's); his grounds extended to College St. About 1829 he was living in York St., and in 1847 at No. 60 in that street. At his death in 1852, his residence is said to have been at "Martin's Park," presumably in York street. He was early a dealer in real-estate; later he was a peripatetic broker—furthering bargains for others. And the directory of 1847 makes his calling that of an auctioneer. He was also much employed in public service.

He was chosen grand-juryman in Dec. 1797 and 1799; tythingman in 1808, '11, '15, '23, '32; constable twelve years, Dec. 1819—Nov. 1832, excepting 1826, '27; city sheriff seven years, June 6, 1820—1827, 1830; and he was the first of three "superintendents of the nightwatch of the city" appointed Sept. 4, 1821, and the first of four appointed Jan. 17, 1824.

In Oct. 1808, twenty-one New Haveners petitioned the Assembly for the establishment of that company of cavalry which became the Governor's Horse Guard; Elihu's name was at the head of the petition, and he was chosen the first commander, with the title of Major. He continued to hold the highest office until 1814. The company numbered sixty men. Its uniform consisted of a blue suit elaborately trimmed with buff, and a hat from which waved a long white plume. "It was customary, the evening previous to the opening of the Legislature, for the company to march out of the city, intercept the Governor on his journey, and escort him with great pomp to his lodging."

Elihu's first purchase of land in Temple street, 10 July 1801, comprised 45 rods bounded South on John Pierpont and heirs of John Mix; he paid David Daggett $600 for it. There were "buildings" on the lot in 1805. He was residing there 12 March 1807. In June 1807 he and John H. Lynde bought of Deodate Mix 42 rods lying between their gardens and College St.; and in Oct. 1808, he bought of the same D. M. 28 rods (with house and barn) situate between his garden and College St. This College St. lot and house he sold to Leverit Griswold for $800 in Oct.

1813. The Temple St. property was mortgaged to D. Daggett and N. Smith in 1805 for \$1500; in 1807 for \$2000; to I. Butler ( $4\frac{1}{2}$  acres, between Temple and College) in Jan. 1811 for \$3655; (he had "failed" before Jan. 12, 1811;) mortgaged to his father for \$500, released 12 April 1811; sold his residence 12 April 1811 to I. Mills for \$2200. In May 1809 he paid J. Brainerd \$300 for 100 rods on the N. E. corner of Church and Elm streets, and sold it the same day to Prentice. The wardens and vestry of Trinity Church leased to David Daggett, Elihu Monson and John Clark, for 50 years from May 1, 1810, "Gregson's lot," bounded N. by Chapel St.  $76\frac{1}{2}$  feet, and E. by Church St. In 1810 he made 15 purchases of real-estate, including  $4\frac{1}{4}$  acres of N. Porter, and 18 acres of H. Barney. In Jan. 1805, he and Jonathan Atwater, "Merch<sup>s</sup> in C<sup>c</sup> under the firm of Munson and Atwater," recovered judgment against S. & S.; levy on pew No. 30 in Trinity Church. In 1808 he made a small sale to A. Jarvis, "Bishop of Conn."; and in 1811 one of  $4\frac{1}{4}$  acres in "Plainfield" to Titus Street of Cheshire. He sold 10 pieces,  $79\frac{1}{4}$  acres, to Col. David Humphreys of Humphreysville in 1810.

The Will of Eneas<sup>5</sup> remitted to Elihu<sup>6</sup> all charges, notes and other obligations; and restored "all the furniture that I have not disposed of which I had from him as security for what was due to me on his failure, except a clock, sideboard and wardrobe"; a codicil conveys the furniture to Elihu's children. Eneas<sup>5</sup> gave  $\frac{2}{3}$  of "the residue" of his estate ("the residue" was the bulk of it) to the children of Elihu<sup>6</sup>; and his second wife gave her "only child," the wife of Elihu, all her property (\$2415), except some small legacies,—one of which was—"To an infant grandson now at Mr. Umberfield's in Woodbridge fifty dollars for his support." During several years, Charles<sup>7</sup> Monson was conservator of the estate of Elihu's widow, "an incompetent person." At her death it inventoried \$1161.

Dr. Croswell officiated one afternoon at Elihu's funeral, which was from his home in York St., and at a later hour officiated at the burial of Æneas.<sup>8</sup>

North of Trinity Church, until about 1830, stood the brick State-House (which served also as court-house); one of the four or five collegians who helped destroy The Whipping Post one stormy midnight, not far from 1830, says that institution "stood by the side of the old Court-House"; Mrs. Grace Wheeler Glenney, who used to play about there in her girlhood, remembers that it stood "nearly opposite the middle door of Trinity Church, but a little south." We quote Henry Howe: "Its last victim was whipped there in the Fall of 1831. About the last constable to officiate* was Elihu Munson, who is remembered as much of a wag. On a well-remembered occasion, he punished a poverty-stricken wretch for stealing a suit of clothes. Munson's heart was tender, and after laying on the assigned number of lashes very lightly, he went among the by-standers and got up a contribution, bought the stolen suit of the owner, and presented it to the culprit."

During this intemperate period his watch disappeared. In 1867 he was living at 268 George street. He used to go out pruning trees, gardening, &c. Dr. Eneas<sup>6</sup> for £30 conveyed to Henry<sup>6</sup>  $\frac{1}{4}$  acre, "being part of the Garden belonging to the House where I now dwell," bounded E. on York street and S. on David Dorman; on that Henry built a house for himself. March 16, 1805 the Doctor leased Henry<sup>6</sup> for fifteen years a bit of ground between their dwellings, 15 by 21 feet, "for the purpose of erecting a Store thereon"; no cellar was to be digged. Henry had received from his father in Nov. 1798 the gift of  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre, "part of the homelot, where I now dwell," bounded easterly on the gardens of Dr. Eneas<sup>6</sup>, D. Dorman, and Benj. Sherman, W. on Dr. Eneas, N. on "the highway leading into the Yorkshire quarter," S. "on land belonging to the Corporation of Yale College"; this he sold in Jan. 1824 to R. Booth, "Reserving one half the grafted trees in the Nursery, to be removed within One Year." He sold in 1806 and re-purchased in 1809 three acres of meadow in Yorkshire quarter, bounded W. on the river and S. "in the place where the River is nearest to the hill."

Henry<sup>6</sup> used to be called "Doctor," so that many supposed him to be a physician. He used to mix medicines for his father; he provided family-medicines; he extracted teeth: on the fly leaf of an old Bible, I have read—"Henry Monson, the celebrated Tooth-Drawer. (Andrew Jackson, Pres. of these U. S. of America.)" He kept a grocery, and afterwards did gardening, etc.

He was chosen lister in Jan. 1803, key-keeper in Dec. 1805, 1806, pound-keeper in Nov. 1817, '18, '20, highway-surveyor in 1820, and fence-viewer 12 years, 1812-'18, 1823-'27. He was councilman in 1820 and 1821.

We called him "Uncle Harry," says one. Dr. Eneas<sup>6</sup> bequeathed to Henry's children  $\frac{1}{3}$  of "the residue" of his estate, viz., his residence. Henry had built a house just south of his father's; but later he occupied his father's old home. When arrangement was made in May 1847 for widening and straightening Sherman avenue, now West Chapel St., "the house and lot of Doctor Henry Monson" were "diminished"; the amendment took "13 feet 4 inches from the north part of Henry Munson's house"; damages appraised at \$350. Henry received \$130 by the Will of Elijah.<sup>6</sup> His own Will gave Henry H.<sup>7</sup> \$25; the residue of the estate (appraised at \$4457) was bequeathed to Eneas<sup>7</sup>, William<sup>7</sup>, Susan<sup>7</sup>, and James D.<sup>7</sup> The homestead, valued at \$3100, extended 110 feet on York street and 80 feet deep; a strip along Chapel St. was already owned by Jas. D.<sup>7</sup>

Alfred S.<sup>7</sup> graduated at Y. C. in 1815*, and took the degree of M.D. at the University of Pennsylvania in 1819. His grandfather Eneas<sup>6</sup> bequeathed to him all his chemical apparatus, all his medicines, and the residue of his medical books. Alfred practiced in New Haven, but retired many years before his death.

His home was next east of his father's; it has recently been displaced by the new Gymnasium of Yale College. On the 10 of Sept. 1825, his father presented him with ½ acre, bounded S. on Elm St., and W. and N. on his own land. He had already been presented in 1823 with the lot at the S. E. corner of College and Wall streets, which was bounded S. on Leverit Griswold. In July 1839 he received from Gerard Hallock a mortgage, securing \$4800, on his "summer residence in New Haven"— $3\frac{1}{2}$  acres with "the Gothic Villa," bounded easterly by the harbor and westerly by Cedar St. His transactions in real-estate were numerous, and he seems to have been a good financier. His wife is said to have been wealthy at the time of marriage.

The Yale Library has a printed copy of an address delivered by Dr. Munson before the New Haven Horticultural Society in 1843. I am credibly informed that he was offered the professorship of Botany in Yale College, and also a professorship in the Medical Department of the Institution; but as his health was not very firm, he declined them. He and his wife were received to membership in the First Church July 3, 1831.

His personal estate inventoried $76,717, real-estate $139,300; total $216,017. In the city of New Haven he owned some twenty-three lots of land and eleven houses; there was a lot in the rear of his homestead, with 100 ft. front on Wall St., $10,000; another, a lot on the N. E. corner of York and Wall streets, (94x117,) $10,500; a lot on the S. E. corner of York and Wall streets, (158x127,) $18,000; a lot with 700 feet front on Ashmun street, and running through to the Canal R. R., with cottage, house and barn, $18,000.

(Other ch. of Mary and D. G. W. d. y.)

G. Y. C. graduated at Y. C. 1816, married “not very long after,” opened a lawyer's office in Watertown, and after a time removed it to New Haven. He subsequently settled in New York City, writes Charles<sup>7</sup>, “and engaged in the book-trade, supplying several country stores. He consigned to myself at New Haven extensive invoices which I bought and sold. A few years afterwards he sold out his book-business; and my father owning western lands (soldiers' rights scattered through the military-bounty tract of Illinois), Mr. Cutler and myself went through that country and a portion of the Indian country over the river west, a zigzag journey on horseback, hunting and describing lands. Mr. C. went meaning to make a new home West. I went for the excitement of adventure and for the love I bore him. He made his home upon the then frontier line of Illinois, at the head of the Des Moines rapids of the Mississippi. There we together began building a log-cabin. At about that locality he engaged in a land agency and was somewhat in the Indian trade. To that home when it was ready, which was soon, his wife followed him; and there they resided till his decease.”

The grave of Mary A. P.<sup>7</sup> is in the burial ground of Quincy. D. G. W. subsequently migrated to California, where he died by a railroad accident. A Sacramento paper says—“Capt. D. G. Whitney will be remembered by old residents as holding a prominent position here with the California Steam Navigation company.”

corner to Sanford in 1831. By his father's Will he received $25. He removed to Henrietta, N. Y., in 1826. About the time of his second marriage he was studying medicine; he attended lectures at Fairfield, Herkimer Co., N. Y.

Henry H. commenced practice as a student of Hartwell Carver, M. D., at Pittsford, N. Y. In 1837 he moved to Belfast, N. Y., where he continued practice. In 1854 (after his third marriage) he moved to Potter Co., Penn., where he still devoted himself to his profession.

Dr. Munson was a small man. He was unusually healthy and active until the last five years of his life, and then was never confined to his bed more than a day or two. He became a member of Hiram Lodge of Free Masons in New Haven, and was afterwards a member of Western Union Lodge, Belfast, and of the chapter at Wellsville. "He was a decided Abolitionist in days when advocating such sentiments was unpopular and even dangerous. He was quite decided in his likes and dislikes, and a man who could say yes and no."

One year before his marriage Theophilus<sup>4</sup> bought about  $\frac{1}{8}$  of an acre on the south side of Chapel street ; and the next year, less than three months before his marriage, his father presented him with three-fourths of an acre adjoining his purchase on the west, with a house and barn ; he then had seven-eighths of an acre and one rod, with a frontage on Chapel St. of about  $17\frac{1}{2}$  rods ( $289\frac{1}{2}$  feet), and a depth of  $131\frac{1}{2}$  feet. His homelot thus occupied one-third of the frontage between State street and Church street. Wadsworth's Plan, made a few years later, 1748, puts only one house between his and the State St. corner lot, and no building whatever between his place and Church St. ; his house is located east of the line of Orange St. which did not then exist. The building west of his house, on the site of Orange St., was probably his barn ; and the building east of his house, his blacksmith shop, as it is there located in the Plan of 1786 by Deacon Bostwick. The only tree on this plan is on Theophilus' land east of the shop ; what entitled it to such distinction ? In 1786 there was one house between his and Titus Street's house and store on the corner of State street, while between his place and Church street there were two drug-stores, two general stores, one hat-store, two tailor-shops, (all these were combined with dwellings,) and three other houses. Adjoining him on the west was E. Beardsley's house and drug-store.

He purchased of Jo<sup>1</sup> Todd 28 Sept. 1738 the west one-fourth of the land he had bought of John Huggins, paying £20 ; it was formerly part of Nathaniel Heaton's homelot. Bounded east by this land, and west by Samuel Mix, was that which his father gave him 3 July 1739; it was valued at £130. He disposed of this property by piecemeal as follows: in 1767, to J. Fitch, for 18 shillings, one triangular rod of ground on the west side, coming to a point at Chapel St.; in 1769, to N. Callahan, for £50,  $\frac{1}{4}$  acre from the west side; in 1770, to Jacob Heaton  $\frac{1}{8}$  acre, for £30, from the west side; in 1783,\* to Pierpoint Edwards for "£3.9.10 and costs" (a court-case), a strip from the west side  $15\frac{1}{2}$  inches wide; in 1786, to Bradley and Huggins, for £139.18.6, a strip 50 feet wide on the east side; in 1787, to J. Lothrop for "22.18.8 and costs" (a court-case), a strip 8 feet wide on the west side; and by transactions in 1791 and 1792 the residue of  $\frac{1}{10}$  acre, 38 feet front by 120 deep, with the dwelling, passed into the possession of William Lyon, merchant—cost, £120. In his old home, according to record, Theophilus was still living Dec. 31, 1792, less than a year before his demise.

Theophilus had from his father's estate: the West end or part of Heaton Lott; also Munson Lott so called (about  $1\frac{3}{4}$  A.); y<sup>e</sup> Second Quarter pasture; Warner Lott; Six acre Lott; Tharp Lott; one Half of bever hill Lott at y<sup>e</sup> West Side the upper meadow; half s<sup>d</sup> Dec<sup>d</sup> right in y<sup>e</sup> undivided Lands;  $\frac{1}{4}$  of Stony hill Lott;  $\frac{1}{4}$  Cheshire Lott;  $\frac{1}{2}$  meadow on y<sup>e</sup> Great Island—viz. Southern half—[ $\frac{1}{2}$  in quality not quantity];  $\frac{1}{4}$  of Land at Waterbury; also a right of £179.16.1 in Lands back of Westfield;—y<sup>e</sup> whole valued at £514;—Israel<sup>a</sup> and Theoph.<sup>a</sup> to have, in equal proportions,  $\frac{1}{2}$  an A. in y<sup>e</sup> Great Neck at y<sup>e</sup> South east Corner of s<sup>d</sup> Dec<sup>d</sup> Land in s<sup>d</sup> Neck at y<sup>e</sup> Landing tree So Called.

Theophilus is recorded as having made nine purchases of real-estate, given six mortgages, and made thirty-two sales. Among the latter was one in April 1754 to his brother Captain Israel of land "East of y<sup>t</sup> Rock Called the high rock," on New Haven line, viz., one-fourth of that right "Y<sup>t</sup> did belong unto my Hon<sup>d</sup> father Theophilus<sup>3</sup> Munson Dec<sup>d</sup>", i.e., 10 acres—the whole 80 acres: another in February 1768, a conditional sale of 6 acres to Rev. Naphtali Daggett: and 30 Nov. 1750 he conveyed lot No. 75 in Oystershell-field as security for £100 old Tenor (34 oz. 6 dwt. 16 gr. Coined silver troy wt. sterling alloy); a witness of this transaction was David Wooster (afterward General), who also witnessed a mortgage given by Theophilus<sup>a</sup> on 4 acres to Roger Sherman, Esq<sup>r</sup>, and J. A. Hillhouse May 5, 1772.

* The mention of "Chapple Street" in this instrument is the first mention of a street by name which I observed in the New Haven records.

"My Will is," declared his father, "y<sup>t</sup> my Negro Dick Shall not be accounted amongst y<sup>e</sup> Moveables, but Shall be to my wife for use during her Life, & at her Decease he shall be to my Son Theophilus Munson at y<sup>e</sup> price of £100 old Tenor." "I also give Theophilus my Small Anvil" [valued at £15]. In Major William Munson's account-book, we have :

1786	Oct. 21	Theophilus Munson Dr.
		To 21 Coat buttons 1:2 <sup>d</sup> ; 3 vest do.	1½ <sup>d</sup>

A report on the estate of Daniel Lyman, Esq. 5 Aug. 1789 mentions sixteen persons from whom "bad Debts" are due: there is a note of Theophilus for £1.13.0; ten debtors are dead; four are "dead in Law"; and one has "run away to Canada."

Theophilus<sup>4</sup> was chosen grand-juryman in Dec. 1745, lister 1748, highway surveyor 1750, and at the same time member of "Committee to remove Incroachm<sup>t</sup> off from the highways," brander of horses 1754, 1756 to '83, (29 years,) sealer of weights 1763 to '66, sealer of weights and measures 1754 to '61, '77 to '82, '84, '85, '88, (21 years.)

Theophilus<sup>4</sup> was among those who gave reasons for tarrying in town 1779 "at the Time s<sup>d</sup> Town was in the possession of the Enemy," "which Reasons appear to the Committee Sufficient to Justify their Conduct." Theophilus became a member of the North Church* in June 1788; his wife Abigail had joined the First Church 24 Feb. 1737. A gravestone commemorating both Theophilus and Abigail stands against the north wall of the Grove St. cemetery; it bears this epitaph:

"They who the longest life enjoy
Have told us with a sigh
That to be born seems little more Than to begin to die."

A part of the White-Haven Soc. seceded and formed the Fair Haven Church in June 1771; and the two came together in 1796 as the United Society (North Church). Theophilus was among those who were "constituted an ecclesiastical society . . . by the name of Fair Haven" in Jan. 1774. These seceders were already worshipping "in the new meeting-house," on The Green.

† The identity of Theophilus' daughter and Hills' wife is conjectural, but the conjecture seems free from objection.

Theophilus<sup>5</sup> was a graduate of Yale in 1768. He was admitted freeman at New Haven 13 April 1772. During the Revolutionary War he always gave his residence as New Haven. He was obviously a member of Col. Glover's Massachusetts Regiment 1775-76; he was a captain, according to Johnston, but previously, perhaps, lieutenant, as R. H. Greene finds him Lieut. 14th Regt. Continentals 1776. "He was in the field almost constantly," Prof. Johnston remarked to me; "he was at the storming of Stony Point—a great feather in an officer's cap." Mrs. McGraw writes: "I have heard my father tell my children that he wished them never to forget that their great-grandfather served through the whole War. My father said he possessed rare musical powers, —was called the best singer in the army to which he belonged; Washington used frequently to send for him to sing for him." Johnston writes: "Mr. Charles Munson told me at New Haven that he recollected his father Dr. Æneas used to speak of a Theophilus Munson as an officer in the army, who was a good singer."

* Was promoted to Major of 3d Regt. of Light Horse May 1777.

† Was a man of public spirit, patriotism and piety, and was much in public life both civil and military. For his service in surveying the State he was granted a tract called The Oblong, which however lapsed by the statute of limitation. He resided at the "Lonetown Manor." His father John graduated at Harvard 1697, preached at Waterbury, Hartford and Stratford, was admitted to the bar in 1708, and in 1712 was appointed Queen's Attorney for the Colony. In 1714 he bought of the Indians a large tract of land in Lonetown and settled there. In 1722 he removed to Boston "and soon became known as the most eminent lawyer in the Colonies." He was several years Attorney-General of Mass., and was a member of the Council.

‡ All the descendants of Theophilus<sup>6</sup>, so far as I have heard, are Republicans, says Henry<sup>7</sup>.

Greene states that by vote of Congress Capt. Theophilus was to be on half pay after the War. He was brevetted Major at the close of the War, and became a member of the Cincinnati. By Act of Congress in 1796 his family became entitled to a tract of 234 acres in Muskingum tp., Ohio, "appropriated for military services." Theophilus' career in the Army is treated more particularly below.

We quote Johnston's Yale in the Revolution :

"Theophilus Munson, Captain, Continental Army. . . According to the Cincinnati Society records he was commissioned captain March 10, 1776, in which case he may have been [undoubtedly was] the Theophilus Munson who was captain that year in Col. Glover's Massachusetts Regiment, the command that proved so serviceable on the retreat from Long Island in crossing the river, and again at the crossing of the Delaware before the battle of Trenton. He was also at Princeton. Whatever his service, it entitled him to recognition, and on January 1, 1777, he was commissioned Captain in the Eighth Connecticut Continental Line under Col. Chandler, which fought at the battle of Germantown and wintered at Valley Forge. It was also present at Monmouth. In 1779 Captain Munson, who commanded the Light Company of his regiment, was detached to Col. Meigs' battalion in Wayne's Light Infantry Corps, and took part with it in the storming of Stony Point on the night of July 15th. He was at the Morristown encampment during the winter of 1779-80. Upon the reduction of the regiments, Jan. 1, 1781, he was transferred to Col. Butler's Fourth, and on Jan. 1, 1783, to the First, [second,] Col. Swift's, with which he retired from service in the fall [June]." Elsewhere the book states that Munson was "in the thick of this attack"—upon Stony Point, which it describes as a rugged promontory jutting into the Hudson at the southern bend of Haverstraw Bay.

"Record of Connecticut Men in the Revolution" is more specific. The Eight Regiment "Conn. Line" went into the field at Camp Peekskill, spring of '77; fought at Germantown Oct. 4, '77; assigned to Varnum's Brigade Oct. 16. A detachment from the regt. with one from Durkee's continued the stubborn defence of Ft. Mifflin, Mud Island, Penn., Nov. 12-16, '77. Wintered at Valley Forge, '77-'78, and on June 28th following present at battle of Monmouth. Encamped during the summer at White Plains with Huntington's Brigade. Wintered '78-'79 at Redding, Ct. In summer of '79, on the Hudson, east side; "its Light Company under Capt. Munson detached to Meigs' Light Regt. and engaged in storming of Stony Point, July 15, '79." Wintered '79-'80 at Morristown huts. Summer of '80 with main army on the Hudson. Wintered '80-'81 at Camp "Connecticut Village," above Robinson's House.

Gen. Wayne's corps of light troops was organized in July to attempt the capture of Stony Point, which the enemy had occupied since May; it "was composed of picked men from all the regiments then under Washington's immediate command"; Meigs' Conn. Regt. numbered 400 men. In the assault, which occurred at midnight, July 15, '79, the Conn. Regt. formed part of Wayne's right column. "The brilliant exploit had an inspiring effect upon the American Army."

The Fourth Regt. "Conn. Line" (which served Jan. '81-Jan. '83) marched from "Connecticut village" to Peekskill in June '81; was in order of battle, at Camp Phillipsburg, near Dobb's Ferry, in July; Washington marched Aug. 19 with a part of his army towards Yorktown, while a part remained under Gen. Heath to hold the Highlands. Ten Conn. light companies went with Washington, five in Gimat's regt., three in Scammell's regt., and two in Alexander Hamilton's battalion; all formed a part of Lafayette's Light Division which held the right of the besieging line before Yorktown. Whether Capt. Theophilus was with Washington, or remained with Heath, does not appear. His grandson, William<sup>7</sup>, however, states that he served under Lafayette. The winter quarters, '81-'82, were in the Highlands: "as usual, officers and men received furloughs during this winter." In Aug. 1782, the troops were moved down the river to Verplanck's Point; in October they crossed the river and proceeded by way of West Point up to Newburgh.

The Second Regt. "Conn. Line," the result of consolidation Jan. 1, 1783—the third re-organization since '77,—remained in camp at West Point and vicinity until early in June, when by Washington's orders it was disbanded with the greater portion of the army.

Captain Theophilus<sup>a</sup> probably became acquainted with his future wife while he was in winter quarters at Redding. The Captain after marriage first appears as a resident of Weston which adjoins Redding on the south; he was there 10 May 1788, where he may have lived the previous half dozen years. Sarah's home with her former husband was in Weston. Munson was already a citizen of Redding 29 Nov. 1788. His home in that town was about a mile and a quarter north of the village and was a short distance north-westerly of the "Lonetown Manor," the residence of the Reads.

The Munson homestead of 70 acres was conveyed by widow Sarah to her daughter Sarah and son-in-law Timothy Platt, was afterward occupied by their children, and then passed into the hands of the present owner Henry Adams. After her husband's death Mrs. Munson returned to Weston where she was already living 15 March 1797.

The wife of Theophilus<sup>a</sup> in 1788 bought a homestead of 70 acres, including "dwelling-house, barn and fruit trees," bounded northerly on Danbury south line, easterly on the road leading from Redding to Danbury, and southerly on a cross road; also 100 acres some distance westerly of the former purchase, "at a place called the lime kills." The Farmer's Journal of June 10, 1790, and the seven following weeks, had this advertisement :*

THE BEST OF

THEOPHILUS MUNSON,

The widow in 1797 leased the "lime kiln farm" (100 acres) to her son John R. Hill of Weston "for the purpose of plowing and pasturing: also to have the liberty to erect a lime kiln or kilns on said land and to burn as much stone lime as to him seems best,"—and to cut wood and timber, etc. This farm is now owned by John Todd. There were purchases by Theophilus, in Nov. 1788, of four acres and six acres.

Major Munson was chosen a surveyor of highways in Dec. 1789, and likewise a member of the "Committee to remove encroachments." In 1790 he was again chosen surveyor of highways, and also a grand-juror. In Dec. 1792 he was elected school-committee.

* Copy supplied by Myron R. Sanford. The F. J. was published in Danbury "near the court house," later "near the meeting house."

While the widow Sarah's estate was appraised in 1809 at $2076, which was reduced by debts and charges to the extent of only $169, the estate of the Major was appraised at about £216, which was exceeded by claims. The inventory included 3 volumes of music, 10 Latin books, natural philosophy, astronomical lectures; p<sup>r</sup> silk stockings, p<sup>r</sup> shoe buckles, gold buttons, small sword; pewter platters, chaffing dish, warming pan; side-saddle, man's saddle; colt, cow, yoke of oxen; 5 acres of rye on the ground; "the new Lands he was entitled to for his service in the late War, £180.0";* and "forty-eight Dollars from the Funds of the Cincinnati Society."

The Will of Mrs. Sarah Munson states that her three Hill children have already had their share of her property, "or near it", and devises the rest of her estate, save $52, to the four Munson children, "to be equally divided among them"; only Urania was to have "all my Household Furniture." The instrument ends thus amiably: "As a concluding Legacy and the last words of an affectionate Parent, I recommend to all my loving Children to cultivate harmony among themselves, love to God, and peace with all mankind."

About 1810, some fifteen years after his father's death, Samuel<sup>6</sup> was appointed (supplementary) administrator on his father's estate, —apparently to qualify him to receive for the estate the funds due from the Cincinnati Society; at that time he was a resident of Hartford. Samuel afterward lived in Amenia, N.Y., where Rev. Aaron S. Hill† saw him 1828–30; his place was in The Oblong, south part of Amenia. At the age of fifty he removed to Avon, N. Frederick A.<sup>6</sup> when nine or ten years old was "bound" to his uncle Morris Read; after that date he attended only a night-school. He is said to have been a great reader, and to have acquired a good store of historical knowledge. Stephen Adams thinks he learned the tailor's trade in Hartford or New Haven. At the time of his marriage he was living in Auburn; he removed to Middlebury about 1825; and in 1830 he removed to Muskingum, where he rented a house until he could build. He followed his trade exclusively until he settled in the latter place, after which (for twenty years) it was combined with farming.

It appears that Frederick A.<sup>6</sup> took possession of his one-fourth of the tract of military bounty land a dozen years or more before the other three-fourths was divided; to this farm of 78 acres he added 8 Dec. 1843 his brother Samuel's portion of the tract at a cost of $500; and Sept. 24, 1844 he sold 100 acres of his territory to Jacob Lane for $1200. His homestead is occupied by his son Henry.

We have a glimpse of Frederick's quality in a letter which he wrote his brother Samuel in 1837; I quote from his own free and neat handwriting: "There is something sublime in the idea that you are breaking the soil which has been forming since Creation. There is pleasure in the reflection that you have reduced the wilderness to cultivated fields: that where once stood majestic trees, now stand the peach, apple, plum and pear tree; and where once roamed the wolf, the bear, and the panther, now feed quietly the calf, the sheep, and the lamb."

little south from Peck's Mill," was bounded N. on Abel; and a piece bought by Moses<sup>4</sup>, northeastward from his homestead (1742), was bounded S. on Abel.

At the age of twenty-five, nearly three years before his marriage, Abel<sup>4</sup> purchased 31 acres on the east side of Muddy River near the sawmill; date 12 Jan. 1726. (In the distribution of his father's estate, reported 1 Jan. 1727 $\frac{7}{8}$ , he as the eldest son received a double share, i. e., £103..6..1; and in the division of the widow's dower, reported 1764, he had £41..4..2.) From his father's estate (1727) he received "Land at Muddy River" valued at £63..10..3. He received, Jan. 1734/5,  $3\frac{3}{4}$  acres of 7th Division land, "on his Grandfather Munsons and Grandfather Hitchcock right"; "it lieth West of Muddy river." He purchased, 1735,  $5\frac{1}{2}$  acres on the "East side of the town between Cook's rock and Muddy river," bounded E. on Muddy River. He paid £70 in 1737 for  $6\frac{1}{2}$  acres on Muddy River, "which is on y<sup>e</sup> south side of the land." In April 1740 he bought 4 acres on the east side of Muddy River, "neare a saw mill and corn mill." He bought  $3\frac{1}{2}$  acres on the "east side of the town," bounded W. on Moses<sup>4</sup>, in the 14th year of George II. He made another purchase east of Muddy River, near the mill, in 1742. His son Lud<sup>8</sup> sold him 12 acres at "the pine Swamp" in 1779. We should add that in January 1740 he bought of S. Gaylord 46 acres 94 rods in Goshen, Ct., "bounded all round upon undivided Land."

Only five sales of real-estate are on Wallingford records: one comprised "four acres of land lying on the east side Muddy river near a saw mill and corn mill," dated 17 June 1728; and another in 1767 consisted of the "southwest side of my Farm—against the path that comes from Dea. Merriman<sup>4</sup> Munsons dwelling house."

At the institution of the Northford Church 17 June 1750, Abel was one of the 18 male members.* His wife Sarah was admitted by certificate from another church July 1, 1750. In the church-record of his death, he has the title of "Sergt."

His granddaughter Sarah (Munson) Nash testifies that his son Joseph<sup>6</sup> remained on the homestead and took care of his parents as long as they lived. Abel's Will was dated 21 Dec. 1778; Dea. Merriman Munson and Samuel Munson, Jr., were witnesses; inventory £1226.

- vi. Titus<sup>s</sup> b. 10 June 1771; bp. 21 July 1771, ib.; he is mentioned in the distribution of his father's estate and in the Will of his grandfather. Mary F. Munson of Guilford reports, from the "A Count" book of John Linsley, that young Tytus in 1786 had numerous "gakits" of all colors,—two of them described as "spotted and streect." He was in college, and this Mr. Linsley had charge of his money, and sometimes boarded him. After attending "Schol" in Wallingford, and "Colledge," he went to Lyme to live in Jan. 1792. Our informant adds that Titus "was fearfully hard on 'schues,' buying six pairs at a time, and soon after having sixteen pairs mended." A Titus Munson was enrolled as a member of the Episcopal Society in North Haven between 1784 and 1790.
- vii. Rebecca<sup>s</sup> b. 6 May 1775; bp. 9 July 1775, ib.; d. 5 March 1776.

In 1757 Titus<sup>s</sup> paid £65 for 4 acres on the east side of Muddy River, "a little southward from pecks Mill;" this land was bounded North on his father Abel<sup>a</sup>, and appears to have been the site of Titus munson his home. He joined Dan and Joseph Linsley and eighteen others in buying  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an acre "at the half mile near muddy river near Smiths Bridge;" date, Nov. 1764.

Titus<sup>s</sup> was chosen highway-surveyor in 1762 and 1769. He and Lydia were admitted to the communion of the Northford Church in 1761. The records of the church at Northford have this item: "Apr. 12, 1776 Ensign Titus Munson died on Long Island, age 42." The tradition is that "he was a captain, and died of small-pox while in the Revolutionary Army."

His estate inventoried £247.11.5, and included 4 acres of land £32, dwellinghouse £50, barn £16, pair of steers £6, 3 cows 100/, 90/, 70/, 3 geese 4/6, 2 saddles 68/, pillion 2/, gun and bayonet 36/, cartouch box 6/, cutlash 9/, etc.

He and Benjamin 26 June 1795 sold their "right in the dwellinghouse and farm that were their fathers." He removed from Wallingford to Palestine, Mont. Co., N. Y., between 7 Jan. 1776 and 11 Jan. 1797.

Convicted of sin by her brother Benjamin's dying reproof, in 1815, she became a happy Christian, "and was the means of doing much good." Her pastor, Rev. Matthew Noyes, under her influence had a new religious experience, and preached the new birth as he had never preached before, while many were added to the church.

In August 1769 Lud<sup>b</sup> bought  $3\frac{1}{4}$  acres in W. of Hannah Munson of Goshen; in Dec. 1778 he bought 2 acres of his father. We quote the Wall. horse-branding and traffic book: "1765 Oct<sup>r</sup> 29. Sold by Lud Munson to Tho<sup>r</sup> Ensign Munson a Black Pide Horse 5 years old price £10.0.0." He entered an ear-mark in 1767, and his widow took M. Tuttle's in 1781. Lud was chosen highway-surveyor Dec. 1758, 1771; grand-juror, 1764, 1772; assessor 1777.

Lud munson

He was administrator on the estate of his brother Titus<sup>5</sup>. Lud<sup>5</sup> and Joseph<sup>5</sup> were named executors of their father's Will. Lud's own Will dated 9 March 1779 mentions wife Lois, grandmother Peck, brother Joseph, and his three sons and four daughters; Samuel and Joseph Munson were witnesses. Inventory, £697. Wid. Lois afterwards married Enoch Culver.

Lud's name as sergeant is found on the roster of Captain Samuel Eells's company in the Revolution. (Samuel Eells was accepted captain of a company of 57 volunteers raised in Branford, Jan. 13, 1777.) Lud was sergeant also in Captain Abraham Foote's Co. of militia in Col<sup>1</sup> Andrew Ward's regiment; engaged 8 May 1777, discharged 6 June '77. Charles H.<sup>5</sup> Munson of Northford writes: "When Capt. Linsley read the Roll of Honor on Memorial Day, he said he had heard his grandmother say that Lud Munson took his six sons and went into the Revolutionary War." Ought it rather to have been said that Lud was one of six brothers who thus served their country?

881. ix. Lud Augustus<sup>6</sup> b. 21 Aug. 1781 (rec. Wall.).

In 1764, at the age of twenty-six, the residence of Levi<sup>5</sup> was in Wallingford, on "the east side of the town"—on the highway that ran past the dwelling-house of Caleb<sup>s</sup> "to Muddy River." In 1782, between April 13 and July 6, he removed to Harwinton. He was still residing there in Jan. 1797, and as late as Feb. 1802 made sale of a "mill place" on the brook. He next lived in Windham, N. Y., whence he removed about 1808 to Camden, where he died.

In 1765 he mortgaged his dwelling-house with  $\frac{1}{4}$  acre of land bounded N. and W. on Samuel Munson; and he sold 9 acres in Wallingford 15 Nov. 1780. He purchased 13 April 1782 in Harwinton 31 acres with dwelling-house, barn and cider-mill, and 19 acres with barn; price, £200. Within three years he made three other purchases of land, aggregating  $34\frac{1}{2}$  acres. In April 1784 he bought a mill-privilege on a brook; he had a sawmill in Jan. 1786; he leased in Oct. 1792—"as long as trees Grow and water Runs"—"a Certain mill place Situate in the West Part of sd Harwinton." The Harwinton Treasurer's Book has: "1790 Jan. 11th to an order to Levi Munson for plank and putting on  $8\frac{1}{2}$ ;" "1790, "for work done at the hill beyond Munsons."

Levi<sup>s</sup> was chosen grand-juror at Wallingford Dec. 1765. He took the oath of fidelity Dec. 1, 1778,—being then entitled "Levi." His ear-mark, 1762, was "a Half Cross on the Upper Side of Each Ear & a half penny on the Upper Side of the Right." The History of Harwinton mentions Lt. Levi<sup>s</sup> as one of five "prominent individuals" in an Episcopal Society formed about 1784. An "old teaster curtain" made by the hand of Mary Cooley is in the possession of her great-granddaughter Mrs. Griggs; its white squares,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  by 2 inches, are surrounded by dull blue stripes  $\frac{1}{8}$  of an inch wide.

Lieut. Levi<sup>s</sup> was among the Revolutionary worthies. In the list of men who marched from the town of Branford "for the Relief of Boston in the Lexington Alarm," April, 1775, occurs the name of Levi, and he held the office of "Clerk;" he is credited with six days service.

He was among those who engaged in the attempt upon Montreal. He made declaration to the Legislature in 1778 that he was a sergeant in Capt. Douglass' company, Col. Wooster's regiment, was taken prisoner in the Isle of Montreal, carried to Quebec, and thence with Green, a soldier, and Col. Ethan Allen, to Falmouth, in England, and that he returned from Falmouth to Halifax about June 29, 1776. According to Conn. Men in the Rev., he was among those who surrendered with Col. Allen near Montreal, Sept. 25, 1775, was sent to England with others, but returned to Halifax

June 21, '76, and was subsequently exchanged. According to Hinman, Sergt. Levi and other Connecticut men, 16 Sept. 1776, were confined at Halifax in one room "among felons, thieves and negroes." Mrs. Lucy A. Smith reports that "he did not see the sun for nine months."

The Sixth Regt. "Connecticut Line," raised for the "Continental Line" of '77, was recruited mainly in New Haven Co.; rendezvous at New Haven: it was, according to Prof. Johnston, one of the best of the Conn. regiments—"regarded as first for service." Levi was commissioned 2nd Lieut. in this regiment Jan. 1, 1777; resigned Sept. 8, 1780 (about a fortnight before the discovery of Arnold's treason). His sons Almond<sup>6</sup>, Orange<sup>6</sup> and Lent<sup>6</sup>, and his nephew Ithiel<sup>6</sup>, served in the same regiment. The Sixth was commanded by Col. Douglass, and after by Col. Meigs. It went into camp at Peekskill in the summer of '77, but was frequently detached on expeditions or outpost duty on the lines above King's Bridge. Served in Aug.—Oct. on the Hudson, in Parson's Brigade, under Putnam, and engaged in all movements made in consequence of the enemy's move against Ft. Montgomery, etc. Wintered '77-'78 at West Point, and assisted in constructing permanent fortifications, 'Meigs' redoubt,' etc.; also redoubts opposite on the east side. In summer of '78 encamped with the main army under Washington, at White Plains. Wintered '78-'79 at Redding, Ct. In the operations of '79 served with Conn. Division on the east side of the Hudson in Heath's wing; its Light Co., detached, engaged in the storming of Stony Point July 15, '79. Wintered '79-'80 at Morristown huts, N. J., and in the movements of 1780 served with the Division on both sides of the Hudson.

 Lent<sup>6</sup>, according to Mrs. Lucy A.<sup>8</sup> Smith, when only eleven years old accompanied his father into the Army "as an officer's waiter."* But according to Conn. Men in the Rev., he had been in the Army several weeks before he was ten years old! He enlisted in the Sixth Regt. Jan. 21, 1778; term, "for the War"; service, musician (fifer). He was associated with his brothers in Capt. Ely's Co. He appears as musician (drummer) in the Fourth Regt. "Conn. Line" Jan. 1, 1781—Dec. 31, '81. He appears as drummer Feb. 1, 1783 on the "Size Roll of Captain Potter's Company," Second Regt. "Conn. Line" (Jan.—June, 1783).

* Lorenzo W.<sup>8</sup> understands that Lent "went as waiter for his father." Also, that while a captive, he "was driven before the horses, with only three kernels of corn a day." After a while, they let him have a knife. One day, as he saw a deer coming on the ice, he hid behind a tree; when he jumped out from his hiding-place, the frightened deer slipped up, and Lent killed him with his knife. After that exploit, the Indians gave him more liberty. When he finally reached home, his mother could not recognize him; but a scar which she remembered, satisfied her.

An old pamphlet, to which my attention was courteously called by Librarian Bowers of the New Haven Historical Society, perpetuates a discourse commemorative of Lent,<sup>o</sup> and what is more valuable, a memoir, entitled—

“A Short Sketch of the Life of Mr. Lent Munson.”

“MR. LENT MUNSON, the son of Lieut. Levi Munson, now of Harwinton, in Connecticut, was born in Wallingford, the 3d of March 1768. In the 10th year of his age, he entered as a musician into the Continental Army, where he continued until the establishment of peace; after which he joined the family, who had in his absence removed to Harwinton. Here he resided until the year 1787, when he again entered into the service of his country, in the corps raised by Col. David Humphreys, with the rank of Sergeant-Musician. The short duration of that command soon left him again under the direction of his parents, where he continued until the year 1788,—when he once more determined upon a military life. Accordingly he went to Hartford, and engaged for the term of three years; and joined the army at Fort Harmer, in the Western Country; where he performed the duty of Musician until early in the year 1789, when he was advanced to the rank of Quarter-Master Sergeant to the garrison, in both of which stations his conduct was unexceptionable. In December 1790, orders came out at Fort Washington, where Mr. Munson was then stationed, for re-enlisting the men. He engaged for three years more, and was soon after ordered to Connecticut on the recruiting service. He was stationed at Middletown, where he continued in that duty until 1793, when he joined the army again at Fort Washington. During his residence at Middletown, he cultivated an acquaintance with many respectable inhabitants of that city, who notwithstanding his humble rank in life, discovered his real merits, and treated him with the politeness and respect they deserved. The attention paid him at this and other places, had a tendency to wean him from the army, and he had drawn up in his mind a determination, after the expiration of his present engagement, to obtain his bread by some other means. But not long after he joined the army, he was sent on a detachment, as an escort to provision, under the command of Lieut. Loury. On the 17th of October, the party was attacked by the Savages, and totally defeated: The officers, and many of the soldiers, were killed: Mr. Munson, being with others missing, was supposed to be among the slain.

“The melancholy tidings of this unhappy affair, were communicated to the family, and other friends, who lamented his untimely end, with all the bitterness of grief natural to the circumstances of his supposed death.

“But Providence had reserved him for other scenes. Finding no hopes in flight, he had determined to act the part of a soldier, and sell his life as dear as possible, but being quite spent with fatigue, he was soon disarmed by the Savages, and stript of all his clothes, except shoes, socks, and overalls. They gave him in exchange an old Indian coat, and the second day an old shirt. In this dress he was driven five or six days; the Indians on horse-back still riding upon his heels, till his strength was almost wholly exhausted, and he more than once concluded, he could struggle no longer with his fate, but must seek a refuge in the shades of death. On the third day after his capture they painted him, in token of life and pardon. Each night he was fast bound, and placed between two Savages; so that there was no possibility of escaping from them. They moreover had left the place of action in such haste, for fear of pursuit, that they could take but very little provision ; in consequence of which the prisoners had the additional misery of hunger to encounter. There were eleven taken ; but one of the unhappy number, being unable to travel at the unmerciful rate the Savages required, was killed : The other ten arrived at an Indian town, belonging to the Ottawa tribe. For several days after their arrival, Mr. Munson was unable to walk : On the 11th of his captivity they cut his hair, and put a jewel in his nose ; they attempted also to cut his ears, which he resisted with such spirit and perseverance that they finally did not insist on his compliance. His principal diet was corn, either parched or boiled in water, without salt. 'Tis true they had meat, but as their custom was to let it putrify before they ate it, he could not partake of their repast, and to stay in their huts at meal time was almost intolerable.

" In this wretched situation he continued for eight months, compelled to hard labour ; almost without clothing exposed to the inclemencies of the winter season, far removed from all his friends who, ignorant of his fate, supposed him beyond all the troubles of this life.—His fortitude, however, did not forsake him ;—he revolved in his mind various plans for escaping from them : But being a stranger to the country thro' which he must pass, ignorant of the course he ought to steer, and beset with the jealous vigilance of his enemies, he still found insurmountable obstacles before him. Having however by much complaisance and seeming tranquility, flattered his Master into a security, he came to the determination of taking his gun, and trusting himself to fortune : But before he had put this hazardous experiment in execution, he happily met with an English trader, who suggested a safer method. After receiving from this trader the point of compass he ought to observe, and other useful directions, on the 17th of June he left them in a profound sleep ; and assisted by the light of the moon, which was now rising, he took his unknown way through the uninhabited wilderness, amid the solemn silence of the night. He travelled till the dawn of day, when he secreted himself in some weeds and grass, about 15 rods from a kind of road in which he travelled. In this situation he saw two of his enemies pursuing after him on horseback. In about an hour and a half they returned the same way. The next night he pursued his course, and arrived at some French settlement, where the people showed him kindness. Having washed the paint from his face, and refreshed himself, about day-break he continued his rout, and travelled 26 miles ; about 11 o'clock he came to another settlement. He had but just stepped into the house, when accidentally looking out at the window, he saw twelve Indians crossing a river within twelve rods of the house. The gentleman proved to be friendly, and concealed him in an upper loft for his security in case they had entered : But they pursued the road by which he came ; so that had he been ten minutes later, he must inevitably have fallen into their hands,—the fatal consequences of which are easily conceived. Here he stayed two days, and the people shewed him much kindness. The Lady gave him a good shirt, and a hat, the first which had been on his head in eight months,—they procured him a passage by water to Detroit, and gave him a sufficient quantity of provisions for the journey. Such are the blessed fruits of benevolence !—When he arrived at that fortress, Col. English, the commanding officer, was no less benevolent : he gave him a plenty of provisions, and a passport ;—put him on board of a vessel in his Majesty's service, and sent him to Niagara, where he met with a number of New-England gentlemen, whose liberality supplied him with necessaries to complete his journey.

Capt. Guernsey, late of Durham, and Mr. Salmon Goodrich of Berlin, were of the number of these gentlemen whose kindness did honor both to themselves and their country, and whose names Mr. Munson hath frequently mentioned with gratitude.

"Here, after eight months of almost incessant fatigue of body and mind, he took a short repose; and afterwards getting a passage by water to Skenectady, on the 21st of July he again arrived at his Father's house. The joy and surprise of his Parents, on receiving again that Son to their arms whom they had thought no longer an inhabitant of this world;—whom they had mourned as dead for many sorrowful months, is much better conceived than expressed.

"Mr. Munson's military career here ended. After staying a short time with his friends, in Harwinton, he repaired to Middletown, where he gladdened the hearts of his acquaintance, and with whom he consulted upon the future plans of his life. As the seas seemed to open the fairest prospect for him towards wealth and respectability, he applied himself to the study of navigation, and soon became master of it. His earnest desire of perfecting himself in the maritime profession, induced him to ship on board a vessel as a raw hand, in an European voyage. The several duties to which he was called, during this undertaking, were performed with so much ingenuity and dispatch, that in his settlement with the owners, on his return, they allowed him Four Dollars a month for extra services. He remained with his friends a short time, arranging his affairs for another voyage, which he undertook for the West-Indies. This voyage proved his last: He was captured by the French, and carried into the island of St. Croix a prisoner, where he was seized with a violent fever, which in a short time put an end to his labors. He died on the 21st of Sept. 1796;—after a toilsome life of 28 years, 6 months, and 18 days,—11 years and four months of which was spent in the service of his country.

"In the course of his travels, he had contracted an acquaintance with many worthy and respectable people: As their friendship for him was wholly disinterested, the unusual warmth of their affection, affords us the highest encomium upon his character.—'The opportunity I had of knowing him (saith one of these,*) licences me to declare, that he was honest, prudent, charitable, and just in all his dealings:—That possessing these qualities, together with an amiable disposition, he bid fair to honor society, make his family happy, and himself respected. Those who knew him, loved and respected him; those who may know his character, if they have any regard to merit, will revere his memory. The above observations I have made to you without solicitation: I have offered them as a testimony of my great esteem and regard for a deceased friend; and let me assure you, they fall far short of the evidence I feel within me.'

"Lieut. Munson<sup>s</sup>, whose family, consisting of eight sons and a daughter, had many of them often been engaged in the service of the public, and consequently dispersed into various parts of the country, had the pleasure of seeing the most of them together on the 11th day of January 1792,—a pleasure well known to those who are parents. In consequence of this favor, he had desired his neighbors and friends to meet with him and his family at the House of GOD, on the 11th of January 1797, to offer at the foot of his Altar public Thanks for his goodness. But in the mean time arrived the sad news that one of this Family was no longer amongst the living. The proposed Meeting of course gave place to another on a different occasion,—when the following DISCOURSE was delivered."

In 1770 the estate of Caleb Todd, Northford, was in debt to Nathaniel<sup>o</sup> £0.1.0.<sup>d</sup>. It would seem probable that the 46 acres 94 rods purchased 1740 in Goshen by Abel<sup>h</sup>, passed soon after his death into the hands of Nathaniel<sup>o</sup>‡. He was chosen a member of the school-committee in Goshen Dec. 1783 ; he was elected highway-surveyor in 1788 and 1796. He and Avis made a sale (in Wallingford) Oct. 1791. He presented William<sup>o</sup> with 12 acres in 1800. He sold his grandson Benjamin<sup>o</sup> 6 acres in 1821 ; price, $500. He secured a debt of $263 to Benjamin<sup>o</sup> with a mortgage on 46 acres 1 April 1828. They spent their last years with this grandson. Avis is reputed to have been good and cheerful, and to have had a pleasant word for everybody.

When Joseph married at the age of twenty-two, his father was aged 72; he remained on the old place and took care of his parents, and his grandmother Peck. (His grandmother Munson had married his grandfather Stephen Peck; she survived her children "many years.") He and his wife became members of the Northford Church 28 Jan. 1776. He was entered freeman at Wallingford in April following. He was appointed executor of his father's Will in 1781. He was elected lister in Dec. 1787, '89, '92, and highway-surveyor in 1790. He was chosen member of a committee to divide the town into highway districts in Oct. 1792.

In 1780 he paid Stephen Peck £50 for one-half of the "Mill on Muddy River known as Peck Mill." He bought land "near Pecks Mill" in 1791. In 1794 he sold Ithiel<sup>6</sup> Munson and Munson Lindsey of Wallingford  $\frac{1}{3}$  of a sawmill known as Pecks Mills. About this time he removed "to what was then called the Royal Grant," in N. Y.; his residence thenceforward was Salisbury.

When he was about to migrate to the western wilds, says Dr. Isaac<sup>7</sup> Munson, his brothers and sisters of the church convened at Deacon Baldwin's to pray especially for his welfare,—that God would prosper him in the great enterprise of removing into a distant wilderness, to procure farms for his numerous sons. In the migration he was assisted by two horse teams and two ox teams, and "was some six weeks on the journey, over the new log-roads." He purchased about 500 acres of land, and "as his sons grew up and married, he settled four of them around him, helping each to a farm." His granddaughter Mrs. Marsh represents him as an old-school Puritan. All his records and other papers were destroyed by the burning of his house about the time of his death.

At the age of eighteen Ithiel<sup>6</sup> appears in his grandfather Abel's Will as "Ithel" and "Ethal." He and his wife Sarah united with the Northford Church 31 July 1785. His residence was on the south side of the road, nearly east of the Dea. Merriman Munson place, say, a mile, and a little way S. E. of Tyler's Mills; the present owner is Pat. McKinney.

He took the oath of fidelity at Wallingford April 7, 1783. He was chosen highway-surveyor in 1783, '92, '94 and 1800; he was chosen lister in Dec. 1797. We quote: "In the Custody of Ithiel Munson Four Sheep marked with a hole through the Right Ear and Two half pennies upper side the same. Entered Septem<sup>r</sup> 3<sup>d</sup> 1788."

Ithiel<sup>s</sup> bought of Samuel Peck, Jr., 12 acres on the E. side of the town, 1784. He purchased, in 1794,  $\frac{1}{8}$  of a sawmill on Muddy river, known as Peck's mill; this property, he presented to his son Titus<sup>7</sup> in 1827. He made a purchase of 70 rods in Branford (Northford) in 1805.

Ithiel<sup>s</sup> enlisted in Capt. Ely's Co., Sixth Regt., April 24, 1777, for the term of 8 months, when he was discharged. An uncle and three cousins were in the same regiment. His name also appears (without explanation) on the pay-roll of Capt. Abraham Foot's Co. in Col. Andrew Ward's Regt. as serving May 8—May 11, 1777.

* A captain in the Revolution. His children were all daughters, and during the absence of men in the Army, they had to go out into the fields to work. One time news came from the Captain that the British regulars were passing over the Neck Bridge (New Haven) in the direction of his home. His wife was sick abed; she told the daughters to drive the cows up over the hills, to save them. After the British had crossed the bridge, they tore it away; but the Captain ran his horse across one of the stringers, while the beholders expected to see him fall into the river.

She related with zest that when but 3 years old, she sang a campaign song, "Hurrah for Jefferson," and was rewarded with a pair of red morocco shoes. Reminiscences of the War of 1812 and the political anxieties of that time she readily recalled; also the visit of Lafayette, and "the great fire" on Long Wharf. At the age of 90 she wrote the author two or three lengthened letters. She was converted in 1815 under the labors of the Rev. Gad Smith, the first Methodist preacher stationed in New Haven. She followed the First Church from its location in Temple St. to the north corner of The Green, and at last to its present site. There she worshipped for many years, serving the church with the earnestness of her nature and rendering especial assistance in the service of song. At death she was the oldest member of Trinity M. E. Church.

Benjamin<sup>6</sup> was "of Wallingford" in 1793, but "of Branford" in October of that year. He and Betsey 1 July 1803 bought of her father one acre in North Haven "where Benjamin is building a dwelling-house", bounded E. on the Cheshire Turnpike. He was "of North Haven" Sept. 1807 when he sold real-estate which fell to him from his mother Lois Culver.

Betsey was received to the East-Plains Congregational Church in Hamden, Sept. 1803, on a letter from Rev. Matthew Noyes. In April 1821, as Betsey "had for several years almost constantly absented herself from their worship and communion and had become united with a different denomination," "the church voted to withdraw their fellowship," etc.

* White Plains, N. Y., 1836.

"My father was sick a number of years with the long consumption, unable to work," wrote Henrietta at the age of 90. While this daughter was visiting in New Haven, she attended the revival meetings of Gad Smith in the Temple St. church now occupied by colored people; she was at one of the meetings when a messenger notified her that her father was supposed to be dying. On reaching his bedside, she "asked him the state of his mind." He replied that he did not feel as he wanted to. A number talked to him, and Henrietta sung a hymn. Addressing the sister who brought him up, he said: "Nabby, you have been a good sister, but you never said a word about my soul."

Almond<sup>a</sup> and Orange<sup>a</sup> bought of their father, Jan. 1786, 1½ acres with buildings in Harwinton, and another piece with a frame for a sawmill, a mill and mill place. Almond, being "of Watertown," re-sold his half of the mill property to his father 5 June 1790,—it was "near Waterbury river." Phila<sup>7</sup> and two or three brothers were Episcopally christened in Connecticut. Emeline<sup>a</sup> has often heard (from her mother Phila<sup>7</sup>) in regard to her grandfather's having service every Sunday, and having his children repeat the Catechism. Almond went to Windham, N. Y., where he remained a short time; in 1800* he settled in Great Bend. He had a farm, where he lived, about four miles above the village.

Almond<sup>a</sup> observed that only two or three men attended town-meeting who did not wear leather clothes. He said his children never should wear leather (deer-skin). But they came to it.

* But when his son Almond<sup>7</sup> was 14 years old, according to Chester.<sup>8</sup> Grandfather was one of the best-dispositioned men I ever knew, says Emeline<sup>8</sup>.

For at least five years, Almond was a Revolutionary Soldier. His thigh was fractured by a musket-ball, which crippled him. "He was one of the Spartan band," writes J. S. Buck, "which spent that memorable winter with Washington at Valley Forge." "Grandfather said we did not know anything what they suffered in the War,—their bare feet cut in the snow," etc., remarked Mrs. Griggs. Almond joined the Sixth Regt. "Conn. Line," March 6, 1777; discharged March 3, 1782. He is on the roll of the Fourth Regt. "Conn. Line," Jan. 1, 1781—Dec. 31, '81. Under the Act of 1818, he received a pension as a Conn. soldier resident in N. Y., and is described as having the rank of musician.

Abel<sup>6</sup> settled in Windham, N. Y., whence he removed to Camden in 1808.

 We quote the Geneseo Republic of Nov. 7, 1884:—"Mr. Merritt Munson died at his home in this city at 10 o'clock last Sunday night, after a painful illness of several weeks, of gastric and other troubles incident thereto. He was among the pioneer citizens of Geneseo, having come here in 1852, since which time he has been identified with the interests of Geneseo, and of Henry County. The township of Munson adjoining Geneseo on the south bears his name, and the business portion of Geneseo at present was originally his property, being now known as 'Munson's Addition.' He was editor and proprietor of this paper in 1860, at which time he conducted it as a neutral journal. He was a profound thinker and vigorous writer; and besides his newspaper work, several books and pamphlets and numerous writings for the press were the fruits of his literary labors. During his active business career, his fellow-citizens honored him with such official positions as he would consent to hold. He served them a long time as justice of the peace, and was the first president of our town council. For a number of years he has lived a retired life, but up to his last and fatal illness he preserved to a remarkable degree his mental and physical powers, and few men were his match as conversationalists. His reasoning powers were very acute, and in argument upon topics which interested him, opponents always found him alert and able. If he possessed one virtue that might be extolled above another, it was integrity. Though firm and unyielding in his opinions, men who differed from him found him ever willing to concede to them all that was right and just."

About three years later he purchased another fraction of the property. He was still one of the owners of the mill in March 1811. Jacob<sup>7</sup> lived on a farm adjoining his father's. In Jan. 1798 he made a sale of 6 acres in the south part of Wallingford. Mrs. Marsh represents that Jacob found the strict ideas and customs of his father irksome to him, and that as he grew to manhood he eagerly embraced the more liberal doctrines preached by Hosea Ballou. "My father," she adds, "held the reins of government very lightly, yet my brothers, all of them, were good men. I am very sure that neither of them ever committed a mean or dishonorable act."

Lyman<sup>7</sup> was admitted freeman at Wallingford, 13 April 1801. He lived some ten years in Westfield, where he worked in Fowler's grist mill. He bought of Elijah Porter, 16 March 1809, 60 acres in Southwick, bounded N. on Isaac Porter and E. "on the Ledges of the East Mountain"; price, $1000. This he sold in April 1814 to Lyman Easton for $1300, "reserving to the Grantor the Winter rye now growing on said Land." He purchased 28 March 1810 of Isaac Porter of Westfield his right in 57½ acres in Southwick, bounded E. on the Mountain; price, $700. He paid $75, 23 April 1810, for one acre in Westfield, "in that part of the town called little River"; this he sold to Charles Ensign 7 Nov. 1817. A mortgage ($296) on 5 acres in W. with Samuel Martindale's dwelling-house, barn, and shop, was assigned to him in April 1810, and by him quitclaimed (for $364) to C. Ensign in May 1812. He paid G. Pease $115, 9 May 1812, for one-half acre "near to Fowler's Mill so called," bounded easterly on "two mile brook" two rods, "thence in a circular line to a peach tree."

In 1817 Lyman<sup>7</sup> and Jacob<sup>7</sup> removed to Ohio, employing a four-ox team. They were seven weeks on the way.

Lyman settled in Guilford tp., (Medina county,) then an unbroken wilderness, now populous and wealthy. He located where the flourishing village of Seville now stands. This region was a part of the Western Reserve.

The pioneer's photograph exhibits a long nose and firm lips. He was very conservative,—did not welcome such novelties as photographs and improved agricultural implements. He was six feet tall and strongly built, and claimed that he could walk sixty miles a day. On two occasions he walked to Westfield, Ms., and back. Albert writes: "I have often heard it said that he had helped to clear 3000 acres of land covered with heavy timber." He adds—"My mother was of the Porter stock to which General Grant belonged."

Isaac<sup>7</sup> (Jacob<sup>6</sup>, Joseph<sup>6</sup>, Abel<sup>4</sup>) b. 4 March 1812; m. 24 May 1836 Cornelia dau. of Amos. Stebbins of Rutland, N. Y., b. 8 Nov. 1815; he d. 8 March 1886. Physician, lawyer, pres. Ins. Co.; Dem.; Presb.; res. Watertown, N. Y.

Children :

Dr. Isaac grad. Fairfield Med. Coll. in 1834, and practiced medicine at Evans Mills, and then for 13 years at Rutland, N. Y. "As a physician, he enjoyed the respect of his professional brethren, and by kindness and faithfulness, combined with a well-cultivated medical ability, he endeared himself to the community in which he practiced." In Dec. 1849 he removed to Watertown, and from Jan. 1, 1850 through 1853 he served as county-clerk and clerk of the courts of Jeff. Co. In connection with these official duties, he took up the study of the law, and in 1852 was authorized to practice law in all the courts of the State of N. Y.

The organization of the Agricultural Insurance Co., begun in Aug. 1851, was perfected in March 1853,—a result largely due to the persistent energy of Vice-President Munson. The company took risks upon farm property exclusively, and in two years issued about 1500 policies. Dr. Munson was elected secretary May 3, 1855; he held the position for twenty-seven years, until his election as president April 21, 1882. For about a third of a century, he was the acknowledged head of this prosperous institution.

His "power of organizing co-workers, and arousing enthusiasm in their hearts," has been mentioned as his prominent characteristic ; while his buoyant confidence, unselfish devotion and varied resources were specific traits accredited to him. A minute adopted by the Company's board of directors, three days after his death, says : "The native strength and vigor of his mind, disciplined by the mastery of two professions, could not but make itself felt wherever it was vested with authority. His tireless industry seemed to take no note of time ; his capacity of toil grew with the demands upon it ; fatigue never relaxed his alertness. . . . But the finest trait of Dr. Munson's nature, was the power of winning many and fast friends. . . . His impulsive generosity, his tender sensibility, his joyousness and geniality, lasting through his long and wearing illness* to the day of his death, will ever keep his memory green in our hearts."

Children :

- ii. Lyman Eugene<sup>9</sup> b. 3 March 1862; unm.; partner with his father in hardware business; res. Medina.

Albert's education was acquired in log-schoolhouses, except during two winters. He taught school several winters. He bought a farm in 1855 and adhered to agricultural pursuits until 1877. He studied law during the winter months, and was admitted to the bar by the supreme court 4 Feb. 1873.

On the 25 Sept. 1863 he was elected colonel of the 2nd Regt. of Ohio Militia, and served until the law creating that branch of the military service was repealed. In 1869 and 1870 he was elected to represent Medina Co. in the Legislature, serving in all four years. In 1877 and 1881 he was elected probate judge of Medina Co., serving six years. Ever since Albert was of age, he has taken an active part in the politics of his county and State; was one of the organizers of the Republican party; took an active part in the first and second elections of President Lincoln; and stumped the county many times during the War and since that era. During the heat of political campaigns, he makes speeches night after night.

Since leaving the bench in 1885 he has been connected with his son in an extensive hardware and queensware business, while also practicing law to some extent in his own and adjoining counties.

The writer enjoyed the hospitality and companionship of this able and influential Munson on Thanksgiving day 1884. He was informed by a railroad man in Medina that Judge Albert was mainly instrumental in building the railroad from Akron to Tiffin, 84 miles, which is operated by the B. & O.,—all others would have given it up.

It is essential to add that the Judge is a patriot of the most pronounced type. He expatiates eloquently and unweariedly upon the superiority of our native land, our marvellous development, our matchless institutions,—a nation the most enlightened, the richest and the most powerful on the globe. In the past, the present, and the prospective glory of his country, he exults.

When Luzerne I. went to Waterbury, he had not a dollar, and knew not a soul in the place. He received for his services the first year, his board and $75; the second year, his board and $100. L. S. Munson He was connected with manufacturing in Meriden a year and a half; excepting three years he has been connected with Apothecaries' Hall, of which business he became the manager in 1863. His father-in-law and himself own a controlling interest in this large and flourishing establishment.*

* Since the above was written Mr. Rice has deceased, and Luzerne has advanced from the office of Sec. and Treas. to that of Pres. During 1894 the Company will erect a seven-story building, at a cost of $50,000. "The structure," according to the Herald, "will be the handsomest one in the city."

Luzerne I. has occupied many various and important official positions. In 1883 he had already been for several years chairman of the First Church Society's committee, member of the board of sewerage commissioners, five years member of the board of fire commissioners, chairman of Republican city committee eight or nine years, member of State central committee eight years, president of the Pharmaceutical society of Connecticut, grand master of the Odd Fellows of the State, about three years deputy collector of Internal Revenue; in 1884 he was delegate to the Republican national convention at Chicago, and was also elected comptroller of the State of Connecticut; and among other recent official positions he occupies that of president of the Munson Association. He will be remembered as having given the address of welcome at the Reunion in New Haven, 1887. This very incomplete account of Luzerne's public services indicates a career that is remarkable. We are pleased to add that he became a member of the First Church, Waterbury, by profession, 6 July 1856; and that after his return from Meriden, he and his wife were welcomed to that church on certificate.

He has an interest in a planing-mill at Huntingdon and in one at Bedford. Around his lumber-mill near Philipsburg, on the Beach Creek R. R., "quite a town has grown up," and the R. R. authorities have named the place Munson's Station. Chester<sup>a</sup> is reputed prosperous and wealthy, and is reported as prominent in his section, having served as associate judge of Centre Co. six years. "Cousin Chester is one of the best of men."

At the age of twenty-one Levi W.<sup>8</sup> went from Great Bend to Philipsburg and lived at Bowman's Mill, below town, where his brother Chester was engaged in lumbering. At marriage, three years later, he settled near Clearfield Bridge. About 1861 he established his home in Philipsburg. While serving a term as sheriff of Centre County (elected 1875), he sojourned in Bellefonte. The last four years of his life he managed the large lumbering operations of his brother, Chester Munson, at Munson's Mill, on the Beech Creek R. R., near town.

During his last sickness his house was burned June 29, 1886. His disease was cancer of the pancreas. "He bore his sufferings and met his end with a quiet heroism which few men possess. He expressed his full hope of pardon and salvation, and spoke in the clearest manner of his trust in his Redeemer. A man whose whole life, from start to finish, has been an example of integrity and uprightness," says the Philipsburg Ledger. He was buried with Masonic rites. The funeral cortege was nearly three-quarters of a mile long.

F. W. Munson.

 As a child, Rial L.<sup>9</sup>, thoughtful and studious beyond his years, very early evinced an unusual aptitude for mathematics and the languages; and his boyish decision to become a civil engineer never wavered. At nineteen years of age he left the farm, and with only self-preparation for that profession, commenced engineering work on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé R. R., where his natural talent in that direction and his intense and conscientious application caused him to be rapidly promoted from one position to another, until at the early age of twenty—we quote his superior officer—"he was made Division Engineer on one of the most important and difficult divisions of the road."

The malaria of Kansas conquered his indomitable will and perseverance. During his long and terrible illness the fear that his work was needing his presence constantly worried him; but when the R. R. Co. (through the Resident Engineer) signified their intention to continue his salary, his characteristic reply was, "A man should not be paid for work he does not do"; to which was quickly responded, "The Company can well afford to pay you, for you have done two men's work." Long years after, this same official writes to his parents: "No brighter, purer, boy ever left the East." He died in his twenty-second year.

 In his childhood, Melvin H.<sup>o</sup>, unlike his brother, was brimming over with almost irrepressible animal spirits. A born leader among  his playmates, acquiring any knowledge to which he applied his mind with great readiness, he easily kept abreast of the older pupils in the home school without calling into action the mental power he afterward evinced. The departure of his older brother, and his rapid promotion in his chosen profession, seemed first to awaken him to the possibilities of life, and as one said of him, "He went with great bounds," completing a four years' course in a high-school in two years. The subject of his graduating oration was, "The Railway of the Future." His abounding energy was bent upon one object—to be his brother's compeer in the same line of work.

One year after Rial's death, he left the home of his boyhood (at the age of nineteen, like his brother) to begin his life work, on the same road, the A. T. & Santa Fé. His design was to earn money to take him through the University at Ann Arbor, but he could never be spared. Possessing mathematical ability nearly equal to his brother's, and developing the same absorbing love for the profession, Rial's mantle seemed almost from the first to have fallen upon him. So perfectly had he won the confidence of his superiors, that even before he was twenty-one years of age, responsibilities were placed upon him that might well make older men tremble. At twenty-two, he built some of the longest bridges on the road. At twenty-three, he had charge of track-laying on the first railroad through Oklahoma, and the "last spike" was given him in recognition of his services.

During all the next summer, he, with his office-car and a chosen crew of young men, was sent all over Kansas wherever rapid work was required to save bonds. At Leavenworth, in 1887, twelve miles of track must be laid by June 1st or $90,000 in bonds would be forfeited. May 25th, Chief-Engineer Kingman called him from Abilene to take one end of the track, while he himself should take the other. May 31st at 5 P. M. the track was laid, and Melvin and his men had laid eight miles of it. Where he led, his men were ready to follow.

Called back to California in 1888, he acted as Assistant-Engineer, and had sole charge of construction of the road from San Diego north on the Pacific Coast, until in Jan. 1889 he went to Mexico. At this date we find among his papers the following from Chief-Eng. Perris: "Mr. Munson leaves the service of the Company simply from lack of work to keep him employed, and being almost the last of a large force of engineers lately employed, is the best tribute I can pay to his integrity and worth." He had already acquired a fair knowledge of the Spanish language and took the post of Division Engineer where but one other man in town could speak English.

For the next four years he was connected with the Mexican Southern R. R. until its completion to Oaxaca, mostly in charge of construction and iron bridge work, and his parents now have the "last spike" (silver), driven by the Governor, and engraved in Spanish with the Governor's name and the date, presented to Melvin as Engineer of the road. The company also gave him a cash bonus of $750 for the prompt completion of the work.

He had commenced at the lowest round of the engineering ladder. In less than ten years, the intervening steps had been honorably and successfully passed and he was appointed Engineer in charge of the Mexico, Cuernavaca and Pacific R. R. Here, in the absence of the president, his labors and exposure were too much for even his strength; but, faithful to the last, he fought the dreadful fever for weeks, until he completed the Section, and turned over the responsibility to other hands.

He then obtained leave of absence and started for the North, reaching Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he hoped to recruit before returning home. It was not to be, and the same loving thought which concealed his illness when writing home, kept him from telegraphing of his danger until it was too late. His parents arrived the day after his departure from Earth. The energy which had enabled him to do more of the world's work in his short life than most men do in a long life was a surprise to his physicians; but at last his overworked heart could respond no longer to the demand made upon it.

While living, he had abundant proof of the estimation in which he was held; and when gone, his parents were overwhelmed with expressions of his worth. One says: "When I met him in Oaxaca, he was a perfect athlete, strong, active, popular, wonderfully versatile in everything pertaining to his profession, and with the knack of getting good work out of the peons. I attended a banquet in his honor." Another says: "He was regarded as the best young engineer in Mexico." President Hampson writes: "His future promised nothing but good to himself, and to all who were associated with him." He has made his mark. His work will live. Rial and Melvin have shown how, without the advantage of wealth, farmer's sons, with pluck, brains and integrity, may climb the heights of success.

Eliasaph Preston's, valued at £51.13.1<sup>3</sup>/<sub>8</sub>; quantity about 32 $\frac{1}{2}$  acres, as determined in 1751. May 19, 1736 (three years before his marriage), he paid the estate of Dorcas Wheeler £120 "currant money" for 25 acres of Sixth Division land in Branford,—adjoining to y<sup>e</sup> Dividend line between y<sup>e</sup> Towns of Branford and Wallingford on y<sup>e</sup> North side of y<sup>e</sup> highway to Pauge,\* so called"; dated, "in y<sup>e</sup> Ninth year of y<sup>e</sup> Reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Second of great Brittain & King annoque Dom<sup>i</sup> 1736." In March 1736 he sold S. Cook and N. Bedle 37 acres in Wallingford "mesered from y<sup>e</sup> west end of a large tract belonging to y<sup>e</sup> heirs of Ens. Joseph Munson;" and 5 Feb. 1765 (after his removal to Mass.), he sold his brother Joseph his interest in the land on which his brother was dwelling and which had been the homestead where their father last dwelt; and the 19th of the same month he sold his sister Abigail Merriam of Wallingford 15 acres "over ye West Rocks," and 10 acres "East side of y<sup>e</sup> High Rock," both in New Cheshire parish. Ephraim's ear-mark, entered at Branford 28 April 1741, was "a hollow Cross off y<sup>e</sup> right ear, and two half pennys y<sup>e</sup> upper side of y<sup>e</sup> Left ear." We quote a Wallingford record:

"December the 1th day 1735
then sold by John andrus to ephrem monson booth of Wallingford A dark brown mair coming three yers old no brand pris=<sup>1b</sup>12—<sup>o</sup>0=<sup>d</sup>0"

* For many years Northford was known by the Indian name of Paug. My scribe, Miss Nettie C. Smith, points to an ancient advertisement of John Maltby (a fuller) in the Connecticut Journal of Nov. 25, 1801:

"He lives in Northford, a place called Pog, North from Branford, along as you'd Jog."

Ephraim<sup>4</sup> was still "of Brandford" 11 March 1742; he became an early settler of Granville, Ms. This township was bounded south by Connecticut line, its eastern boundary was  $4\frac{1}{2}$  miles west of the Connecticut river, and it extended 15 miles to Farmington river, with a breadth of from 5 to 7 miles. It was bounded easterly by Westfield,\* of which Southwick was then a part. The territory was sold in 1686 by Toto an Indian to Cornish, for a gun and 16 brass buttons, and in 1718 was conveyed to "a set of proprietors." The name originally applied to the place was Bedford. It became known as the District of Granville in 1754, and was organized as a town in 1786. The first settler, Samuel Bancroft, in 1735 built his rude log-cabin, to which he brought his family the following year. "The next settlers," according to Holland's History of Western Massachusetts, included Ephraim Munson, Jonathan Rose and Daniel Cooley.

Ephraim Munson of Branford and Nathaniel Byinton of Guilford 11 March 174 $\frac{1}{2}$  purchased of Dr. N. Morrison of Hartford "a certain piece or parcell of land in the Township of Bedford County of Hampshire and province of the Massachusetts bay in New England . Containing Five Hundred Acres," bounded W. in part on "Doct: Cotton Mathers Heirs," and E. on Westfield; price, £425. In Sept. 1746 Ephraim acquired 236 $\frac{2}{3}$  acres of the above tract which belonged to Byington, at a cost of £200. In June of the same year he bought of Nathaniel Gillet 20 acres "in a place knowne by the Name of Soddom plane." (Sodom Mountain was on the east boundary of Granville.) Being "of the District of Granville," "Husbandman," 2 Feb. 1759 he purchased of A. Walling of Boston 386 acres, bounded E. "on Westfield Bounds."

The old account-book of Ephraim<sup>4</sup> has this :

Illustrating the complications in that region, it is said that Roger Moore was born in Westfield, Hampshire Co., lived in Simsbury and Granby, Hartford Co., died in Southwick, Hamden Co., and yet never left the place of his birth,—a citizen of two States, a resident of three counties, a voter in four towns.

Ephraim's death was memorable. While manufacturing potash at a late hour in the night, he slipped into the cauldron of boiling lye; he leaped out, but survived only a few hours.

field line; the dwelling-house on the first lot was not included. In Feb. 1773 he bought of Jemima<sup>e</sup> her inherited lands and one-half of a sawmill. In May 1774 he purchased of Thaddeus<sup>e</sup> his "dividend in lands," bounded E. partly "on land in possession of my mother Comfort Bishop." In November of the same year he bought of Hannah<sup>e</sup> her heritage in real-estate. In April 1776 he secured the lands which Adah<sup>e</sup> inherited from her father. In April 1782 he paid Comfort<sup>e</sup> £40 for her inheritance. In June 1783 the land distributed to Ephraim<sup>e</sup> from his father's estate was conveyed to him.

November 23, 1804, Jesse<sup>e</sup> conveyed to John Rothbane and Jonas Stanbery of N. Y. C. 320 acres—the southern half—of his 386 acre tract, bounded E. on Southwick line and S. on Rose, Gillet, and Bancroft; price, $4,246. The north half of a 70 acre lot was quitclaimed to E. Strong in 1814 for $100.

In 1805 Lieut. Jesse<sup>e</sup> at the age of 65, emigrated "with his entire family" to Ohio, a part of the colony of Granville people who settled Granville, Ohio. The colonists purchased 12,000 of the 16,000 acres comprising the township, together with 16,000 acres in other townships. Jesse<sup>e</sup> Munson's share was 1500 acres, larger than that of any other colonist. Some had as little as 100 acres.

Marvin M.<sup>r</sup> understands that his grandfather was of medium height, a little full in habit, of fair complexion, and possessed of a full, clear voice; that he was quiet in movement, self-possessed, stern in deportment and speech—altogether a man of command, an English gentleman of the olden time. He and his three sons all voted for Jefferson in 1804, and for Madison in 1808 and 1812; and they advocated and sustained the second war with England. The history of Lieut. Jesse<sup>e</sup> and of his sons Major Jeremiah<sup>e</sup> and Gen. Augustine<sup>e</sup> is interwoven with the history of their County and State; and it is said that much has been published concerning them. The author copied from a stone at Granville the following:

There is a tradition that Jared<sup>5</sup> was born in Suffield, which at that date was in Hampshire County, Mass. During his childhood and youth, the home of the family was in Granville, Ms., where he was still residing at the age of about 30 (Jan. 1772), when he sold his brother Jesse<sup>5</sup> the lands inherited from his father. At the age of 35 (Sept. 1778) he was a citizen of Lanesborough, Berkshire Co., Mass. He removed to Manchester, Vt., 1778 and became freeman there 29 March 1779. Nearly the whole village of Manchester is built on confiscated Tory property. Jared<sup>5</sup> Munson secured 200 acres lying west of the main street north of the north line of the Shattuck place.* His house was the first south of the Congregational Church.

"I John Fasset Com' for the sale of Confiscated Lands" for £1200 convey to "Jared Munson of Lainsborough in the County of Barkshire and State of the Massachusetts Bay" a "tract of Land Lying in the Tp of Manchester, about 200 acres," bounded as follows—"Beginning at the S. W. corner of the Glebe Lott, running E. 10 S. half a mile, thence S. 10 E. 100 rods"—100 acres—"formerly the property of Jeremiah French, forfeited to this State by said French Treasonable conduct." Also 100 acres forfeited by William Marsh son-in-law of French,—beginning at the S. W. corner of the above lot, extending W. 10° N. one mile, and thence N. 10° E. fifty rods.

Jared<sup>o</sup> had some part in the Revolutionary War. His name is on "Pay roll Capt. Gideon Ormsbees Co. in Col. Ira Allen Regt. of Militia—for service done this State in the alarm in the month of March 1780": men were paid for from one to seven days.

Judge Loveland<sup>s</sup> Munson observes in reference to his great-grandfather: "He must have had abundant faith in the American cause, for all the land he bought on coming here in 1778 was property taken from the tories by confiscation, the title to which depended on success."

George Munson<sup>o</sup> Curtis discovered that while the Granville records make the name of Jared's wife "Honorah," the Will of her father, Joseph Hale of Suffield, gives it as "Annora," and that her tombstone in Manchester also gives it as "Annorah." Moreover, he raises the difficulty that the Will dated 10 Feb. 1782 speaks of Annora as already deceased. She is supposed to have been buried on the ground where the court-house now stands, in Manchester.

The County Gazetteer represents him as an attorney of good standing and as having a good practice. The list of N. Y. S. attorneys for 1821 does not include his name. His nephew, Major T.<sup>7</sup>, writes that about 1828 or '30 Lyman spent a year or two at his brother Anson's in Hinesburgh, whence he went to Bristol, Vt., where he opened an office and continued to practice law while he lived. Silas H.<sup>7</sup> remembers that some of his effects were sent to Anson.

Thaddeus<sup>5</sup> was "of Granville," Ms., 7 May 1774; he witnessed a deed given to Jared<sup>5</sup> at Manchester, Vt., 13 Sept. 1778; was made freeman at Manchester 29 March 1779; was living in Hinesburgh, Vt., 13 Feb. 1792,—a part of his farm was in Monkton, in which town he was buried. He was again a citizen of Manchester 17 March 1797 when he quitclaimed to Jesse<sup>5</sup> his right in their mother's dower; and his new inn at Manchester was raised 4 March 1801. He, however, returned to Hinesburgh.

John Fasset Com<sup>r</sup> for £790 conveyed to Thaddeus<sup>5</sup> Munson of Manchester 28 Jan. 1780 about 82 acres on the "W. side of the highway or great road in the centre of Manchester," and lying next southward of Jared's purchase (i. e., S. of the N. line of the Shattuck place),—"forfeited to this State by William Marsh by his Treasonable conduct."

There is extant a notice dated 21 Oct. 1783 of Commissioners Meeting "at the dwelling house of Thaddeus Munson innkeeper." The Legislature began its annual session at Manchester Oct. 1788, the Assembly occupying the meeting-house and the Council sitting in the chamber of Thaddeus Munson's inn. I have been shown an order dated 27 Oct. 1788: "An accompt Allowed M<sup>r</sup> Thadeus Munson for the use of the Chamber &c., and an order drawn on the Treasurer for Nine pounds, hard Money Orders, £9.0.0." In Feb. 1792 the Vermont Gazette advertised as "for sale or to let the farm in Manchester where a public house has been kept for a number of years past by Thaddeus Munson the owner of the premises." In June following Martin Powell notified the public that he had become landlord of this "tavern." Powell in Feb. 1791 had purchased Thaddeus' "interest in the house called the jail standing opposite the house in which he lived, near the burying-ground; that is to say, all that part of the sd jail house which is West of the log body that was laid up for a jail."

"The day of the first inauguration of Thomas Jefferson, was celebrated in Manchester by the raising of Thaddeus Munson's new inn, the building which is now the north part of the Taconic House. It was considered the largest and finest hotel in Vermont." Thaddeus was still living in this tavern in 1812, "but kept it open only in court time."

The following account was allowed by the Judge of Sup. Court:

" The State of Vermont to Thad. Munson	Dr.

An Act pertaining to the raising of five hundred dollars by lottery predicated upon the petition of Thaddeus Munson and others was passed by the House of Representatives, but was not concurred in by the Governor and Council 22 Oct. 1801.

We are indebted to Loveland Munson for records pertaining to Thaddeus's Revolutionary service:—"Pay roll of men belonging to Manchester who assisted the Sheriff in the execution of his office in May and June 1779;" there were fourteen including "Lieut. Thaddeus" who were allowed for eight days each, three for other periods. This service seems to have been in Cumberland Co. "Pay roll of Capt. Thomas Bulls Co. in Col. Ira Allens Regt. of Militia for service done the State of Vermont on alarm which commenced the 11th day of October 1780;" there were 43 including Thaddeus<sup>s</sup>,—they served from three to twenty-one days.

"Pay roll Capt. Thos Bulls Co. in Col. Ira Allens Regt. Militia for service . on alarm to the Northward Oct. 21, 1781;" 27 names including Thaddeus,—served from four to fifteen days. "Pay roll of Capt. Silas Goodrich's Co. of Militia in Col. Ira Allen's Regt. for service done this State in Jan. 1782 for an alarm after Tories to the Westward for the relief of Lieut.<sup>8</sup> Blancher [Blanchard] & Hine when the former was taken and carried off by the tools of British tyranny;" 15 names including Thaddeus,—served one, two, and three days. Thaddeus and other officers had a violent controversy with Col. Brownson and other officers, which resulted in an order 4 Aug. 1788: "Whereas Thaddeus Munson adjutant of said Regiment [the Second] hath heretofore and still doth neglect his duty as adjutant," he is discharged from office.

He removed to Granville, O., in 1809. He was of Licking Co., O., 29 July 1813 when he paid $1000 for parts of lots 3 and 4 in the 8th Square of Zanesville. He and Harriet being "of Zanesville," Musk. Co., 26 July 1815 sold this property for $1500. He united with S. Being still of Zanesville 3 Feb. 1816 he bought of S. Adams ½ of lot No. 6 in the 8th square of Zanesville; his brother Jesse owned the other half.

He was educated at Williams College and studied law with Gideon Granger of Connecticut. His height was six feet one inch

He was the gentleman of the place," says Marvin M.<sup>7</sup>—was an extravagant fellow—needed four fortunes to support him; he was a silk-stocking chap and donned the gold knee-buckles and cocked hat,—was a cavalier and should have lived at the Court of Elizabeth or Louis XIV." He was an officer in the War of 1812; 18 March 1813 he was major of the 27th Infantry. He became Adjutant General of the State of Ohio. "I have heard it remarked that no officer in the service had a presence so fine and so commanding." It is sad to learn that the Major's mind was unbalanced by losses and other misfortunes, as a result of which he ended his own life, by drowning.

Augustine<sup>b</sup> was a soldier in the War of 1812 and was with Hull at the surrender in Detroit. Early in his career he had a sawmill, and provided lumber for the town. He and another had an iron-furnace and a forge, both in the direction of Newark, at different points. The furnace produced stoves, ploughshares, andirons, &c., for the regions farther west. The business on the whole was not profitable; they had expected to take ore from the hills close by, and were disappointed. Augustine<sup>b</sup> wore the military title of general. He was six feet tall (without boots), and well-proportioned. He is represented by his portrait as blue-eyed, handsome and stately. He was not a talker. He was a personal friend of Henry Clay. He was conservative, "and stuck to the Whig party as long as it had a button on its coat." In the new Republican party he had some company which he did not like, such as Salmon P. Chase. "He had no sympathy with those who would sectionalize one part of the country against another."

Though Ethan was only seventeen years old, both brothers were over six feet in height and very strong and active. One of them gained the top of the wall by mounting the other's shoulders and then aided the latter to make the ascent. Discovery and pursuit followed at once, and after a race of many miles they escaped by swimming the St. Lawrence. It was Ethan's last exploit, for he died in a few hours from congestion of the lungs.

Rufus<sup>6</sup> is said to have owned one of the best farms in his vicinity. In 1812 the most northerly dwelling-place in Manchester village was the Munson homestead, then occupied by the widow and children of Rufus Munson.

Revolutionary record: "Pay roll Capt. Gideon Ormsbee's Co. in Col. Ira Allen Regt. of Militia—for service done this State in the alarm in the month of March;" 57 men including Rufus<sup>6</sup> were paid for from one to seven days. He served in Capt. Thomas Barney's Co., Col. Ira Allen, "on alarm to the Northward* which commenced 11 Oct. 1780"; 58 men served from five to thirty-two days. He was on the pay roll of Barney's Co., Allen's Regt., "for service done this State in the alarm on the 21 day of Oct. 1781;" most of the men served eleven days. He was again on the roll of Barney's Co., Allen's Regt., in May 1782 "on an alarm to the Westward after Tories to retake Lieuts. Blanchard and Hine;" 31 men, served from two to four days.

On Rufus' tombstone, "erected by Bethiah," we read that he left four children: "the two first letters of their names are C. M., J. M., B. M., and P. M.

* Hon. Loveland<sup>8</sup> Munson writes: "After the Burgoyne campaign, the military service of this section consisted mainly of brief expeditions to the north, to strengthen the garrisons of the small forts erected in the central part of Rutland Co., wherever special danger was apprehended. The men performing this service were the militia of the State,"—not of the continental force.

1797, and was residing there twenty years later, Oct. 1817; meantime his children were born at Bakersfield. About 1817 he removed to Philipsburg, Can.

Dec. 8, 1795, Warren<sup>6</sup> received from Jared £100 for Lot No. 26, 1st Div., at Manchester. He and another 18 Feb. 1797 purchased a part of "Lot No. Sixty Two" at St. Albans; this property known as "the bay lot" he sold 7 Sept. 1805. He bought of E. Chapman Jan. 1800 nine acres of wheat; price, $48. In March 1801 he purchased "lot No. Sixty Three in the Town of St. Albans, Containing One hundred Acres;" this he sold in March 1806 to S. Burton for $1200. In May 1806 he bought 2¾ acres "on the road leading from the public square in St. Albans to the Bay;" which he sold in July following. In July 1815 he paid $2250 for "about one acre lying West of the Stage-Road opposite the Public square—it being the same Land and Situation now occupied by said Munson as a tavern." Munson was to pay the direct U. S. tax of 1815. This property, "now Occupied by John R. Phelps as a Tavern," was re-sold to J. Beaman for $2000, Oct. 23, 1817. Warren was a captain of militia, and is said to have been a "good, substantial business man, honored and respected."

Ephraim<sup>6</sup> lived in 1812 on the premises occupied by Mr. Shattuck in 1875. He assisted at the whipping post* about 1803. Loveland<sup>8</sup> Munson relates: "The sentence was thirty-nine lashes, and was partly executed by General Robinson, the high sheriff, and partly by Ephraim Munson, deputy sheriff. Sheriff Robinson struck his blows with surprising regularity, and it was remarked among the spectators that he must have had considerable practice. His less experienced deputy was quite excited and made bungling work of it."

 The Washington Post said in Aug. 1887:—"The announcement of the return of Frederick Douglass to his home in this city suggests that there is probably no living American who has in his personal history experienced such extraordinary vicissitudes of fortune. Born on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, at a time when his condition in life seemed as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, he lived not only to know the privilege of freedom in his own case but to see the boon extended to his entire race.

"When one hears of his first effort to learn to read and write, one naturally wonders at the facility and success of his subsequent literary work and the strong eloquence of his public speech. Indeed, his life has been full of contrasts. As a slave he ran away—or rather sailed away—from St. Michael's; but was overhauled and re-captured by the Sheriff of Talbot County and placed in Easton jail. A few years ago, by invitation, he lectured in the court-house at Easton, and the sheriff who had imprisoned him presided at the lecture and introduced him to the audience. Douglass's freedom was purchased by means of a fund raised in England, so that he was a freeman long before the period of general emancipation. But when speaking at Cambridge some-time since, his former master came to listen to his old-time slave, now famous and prosperous, and the contrast between the present and the past was so striking that both men were moved to tears."

The mother of Douglass was a negro slave and his father a white man. He was a slave on the plantation of Colonel Lloyd until he was ten years old, when he was sent to Baltimore. He learned to read and write from one of his master's relatives. He was allowed to hire his own time and worked in a shipyard. On Sept. 3, 1838, he escaped from slavery. Douglass gave some glimpses of his childhood in addressing a school for colored boys in Maryland: "I once knew a little colored boy who was a slave and had no one to care for him. He slept on a dirt floor in a hovel, and in cold weather would crawl into a mealbag head foremost and leave his feet in the ashes to keep them warm. Often he would roast an ear of corn and eat it to satisfy his hunger, and many times has he crawled under the barn or stable and secured eggs, which he would roast in the fire and eat. That boy did not wear pantaloons as you do, but a tow linen shirt. Schools were unknown to him, and he learned to spell from an old Webster's spelling book and to read and write from posters on cellar and barn doors, while boys and men would help him. He would then preach and speak, and soon became well known. He became presidential elector, United States marshal, United States recorder, United States diplomat and accumulated some wealth. He wore broadcloth and didn't have to divide crumbs with the dogs under the table." Miss Pitts who became his second wife was a clerk in the recorder's office.

Douglass has held the office of recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia at a salary of $15,000, and in 1886 was worth $200,000.

He has also served as U. S. minister to Hayti. When Douglass lectured on Hayti at Cooper Union, N. Y. C., March 14, 1892, Chauncey M. Depew introduced him, pronouncing him "the peer of any living American, as a man, as an orator, and as a statesman." "Theodore Tilton and Frederick Douglass," said the Springfield Republican in Feb. 1887, "have been renewing their old friendship in Paris, and the two tall, large men, with strongly marked features and snowy, bushy hair, are sometimes taken for brothers. Both of them feel flattered."

Mr. Douglass wrote several books. "He was one of the most distinguished looking men that appeared on the thoroughfares of the Capital." His death occurred 20 Feb. 1895. Among the thousands at his funeral were Justice Hanlan and Senators Hoar and Sherman. The legislature of North Carolina adjourned out of respect for his memory, and his body lay in state in City Hall, New York.

In the evening he was superintending the work of making up trains. "At one place in the yard," says the Marietta Leader, "five tracks converge at a single switch like a number of contiguous V's. He ordered a car which was quite a distance from him to be dropped down one of these tracks. He went on taking the numbers from cars in a stationary train by which he was standing. A mistake was made in operating the switch, and the car which he had ordered moved, came gliding silently down the track next to which he stood. The moving car caught him and pressed him against the side of a car in the stationary train where the tracks come together. His assistants after a time noticed a light burning between the tracks at the switch, and hastening thither found him standing lifeless with his lantern burning in its place on his arm." . . . "Mr. Putnam was a model railroad man. . . . He bore a reputation for courage and caution and thoroughness . . . He was marked for early and splendid promotion."

has been trustee of the State Agricultural College, and also member of the Legislature (c. g., 1890). He wrote regarding a visitor in 1887: "He has piety; I have none,—never knew a Munson that had any." He said to me in 1884: "I have rather loose notions about everything."

Judge Albert<sup>8</sup> said of him—"He is a remarkable bundle of nerves and brain in a wiry body." He has vigor and passion, possesses a fluent and strong utterance, and is an inveterate and powerful conversationalist. He is a public speaker, withal. He handles a racy and cultivated pen. He is full of historical facts, especially touching political affairs.

When Judge Munson was a member of the Legislature, Marvin M.<sup>7</sup> called on him at his hotel in Columbus. They sat talking until 2:30 A. M. when Albert<sup>8</sup> suggested the expediency of retiring. Marvin was not quite ready. At 3:30 Albert again proposed retirement. Marvin requested him to walk up to the O'Neal House with him, and so the talk was continued until daylight!

Warren<sup>7</sup> was six feet high and some of his brothers were taller. He seems to have remained in the States a while after his father moved to Canada; to have gone at length to Leeds Co. to the home of his Aunt Curtis. There he met the daughter of a N. E. Loyalist who had migrated to take possession of a grant of land; her he married in 1820. In 1831 he removed with her and six children to Darlington then a wilderness where he bought land for a farm. The latter part of his life he "was in good circumstances."

Warren<sup>7</sup> "and several of his brothers" were in the War of 1812. He also in 1837 took part in the Papineau Rebellion. This was a struggle between oligarchy and the constitutional principle in which Papineau was the leader in Canada East. Though the insurrection was suppressed, England abandoned her scheme; and the fact that Canada pays no tribute, according to Charles F.<sup>8</sup>, is indebted to that movement.

At about twelve years of age Charles F.<sup>8</sup> worked in Oshawa (then his mother's home); afterward in Toronto and Oswego. He graduated at the Normal School, Toronto, 1862; then taught four years in Bowmanville and Collingwood. He spent a year in a blacksmith-shop at Cleveland. He next adopted printing as his vocation, which he followed for some twenty years; he worked on the N. Y. Sun, the Times, and the Tribune, and was a year and a half in Boston. Having become nearly blind he opened a little grocery on De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn. He went to Cleveland 1864, Cincinnati 1866, Louisville, Chattanooga, Evansville 1867, N. Y. C. 1868, Boston 1870, Brooklyn 1872.

Desiring to overtake a class, at school, he learned in one day the last three or four propositions of the second book of Euclid, the whole of the third book, and a few propositions of the fourth, upon which he passed a satisfactory examination; result—numbness in the back of the head, and hot food in the stomach seemed like ice. On two occasions he has read forty-eight hours continuously without sleeping or eating, until the pages assumed various colors, such as pink, then dark-green, then green.

After the death of his father, Jesse<sup>7</sup>, being yet a child, lived with his uncle John Burton at St. Albans. He used to relate that when anticipating a certain journey, he sat up nearly the whole of the previous night, holding a tallow candle, that the itinerant shoemaker might have sufficient light for the completion of a pair of new shoes. At the age of thirteen he began to live with his uncle Curtis Burton at Greenfield, whose business,—tanning, shoemaking and farming, he subsequently purchased. One of his early successes consisted in opening a temporary store for the sale of boots and shoes in Canada, during the War of 1812; large quantities were disposed of to the soldiers. He added to his other business the sale of dry-goods, and also lumbering in the adjacent county of Essex. For twenty-six years he conducted his various branches of business to a financial success. His energy knew no bounds: he would often drive to the Hudson, twenty miles, so early in the morning that he would be obliged to waken some of the inhabitants to learn whether he could cross the river on the ice,—which bent and swayed under its burden.

Regretted by the whole community, he removed with his family to Bradford where there were better opportunities for lumbering. There in connection with his son-in-law H. Merriman, he purchased saw and gristmills, and timber and farming lands. Later, merchandising was added to the business of the family; and later still, there were purchases of vast tracts of pine and other timber in Potter and Clinton counties, Pa.

In April 1850, Jesse<sup>7</sup>, H. Merriman and A. Clement purchased 101½ acres "on the waters of Kettle Creek," in Leidy tp. In August following they purchased the "privilege of erecting a dam to raise the water in Kettle Creek," at a cost of $100. In Feb. 1852 they made a purchase "on the South side of the West Branch of the Susquehanna River." Jesse conveyed 19 March 1866 to his sons Rufus<sup>8</sup> and Edgar<sup>8</sup> and his son-in-law George R.

* To the present Mrs. Edgar<sup>8</sup> Munson. The age of telegraphs had not yet dawned; and I am told that friends who gathered for wedding festivity were greatly shocked to find a funeral.

Curtis "the undivided one-half part of all that certain large tract of land lying and being south of the West Branch of the Susquehanna river in the county of Clinton," 14,193 acres; price, $30,000. (Thirty-five years later, 200 acres cost $54,000.)

Jesse<sup>7</sup> and his family founded and sustained the Bradford Academy for many years. He contributed largely to the erection of the Episcopal Ch. (St. Andrews) and to its maintenance, while others did not fail to receive from his liberal hand. As supervisor, during the War of the Rebellion, the quota of soldiers for Bradford owing to his activity was filled earlier than that of any other in the county; he gave from his own funds from ten to twenty-five dollars for each man. He exerted himself vigorously in behalf of temperance. When some workmen brought a decanter into his field, he smashed it against a tree. The incident created great excitement, and figured in the temperance lectures of that period. Throughout his career, Jesse "was remarkable for his originality, activity and integrity." After the death of his wife he resided with his son in Williamsport.

Norman C.<sup>7</sup>, having acquired a common-school education, early left the farm, and struck out for himself. He began his railroad education as a laborer in building the Boston and Worcester R. R. After the road was completed, he was assigned the duty of keeping a section of the road in repair. When work on the Eastern R. R. was commenced, he became an overseer for the contractor; and after the completion of that road, he became a sub-contractor in the building of the Fitchburg R. R.

He next contracted to build the Feltonville branch of the Fitchburg R. R., from So. Acton to Marlboro, about 15 miles, which he completed. He then laid, by contract, the track of the Stony Brook R. R., from Groton Junction to Lowell, about 20 miles. From there he went to New Hampshire, where in partnership with another he built the Portsmouth and Concord R. R. In 1848 he built the second track for the Fitchburg R. R. from Concord to Fitchburg, 20 miles.

His next contract was to build the second tract on the Hudson River R. R. from Peekskill to Rhinebeck, 51 miles, which was completed in 1854. He performed an important service for the Phil., Wilmington & Balt. R. R., straightening that line near Havre de Grace. He constructed for the City of Baltimore in 1857 a fine boulevard known as North Avenue.

Norman C.'s personal magnetism, energy and faith in the future growth of the city, enabled him in 1858 to arrange a contract with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the City of Boston, and the Boston Water-Power Company, for filling the Back-Bay region, which included the site of the Public Garden; there were 300 acres, of which the State owned 100. His equipment to carry on this immense work comprised 14 locomotives, 225 cars, two steam-excavators, and 25 miles of track. For seventeen years he ran his trains and steam-excavators night and day most of the time. This was the greatest contract ever executed in Massachusetts; and by it, he became a millionaire.

While engaged in that enterprise, he contracted to build 26 miles of very heavy work for the Boston, Hartford and Erie R. R., extending from Putnam to Willimantic, Conn.; this he had nearly completed when the company failed, owing him $1,300,000. He had also large contracts for filling the South Boston flats, and for dredging Boston Harbor; and he was an equal partner in the business of filling the Church St. district in Boston. In 1870, he built the Middlesex Central R. R. in Mass., eight miles, and the Montpelier & Wells River R. R. in Vermont, 40 miles.

NORMAN C. MUNSON.

In 1871, he commenced the Massachusetts Central R. R., 117 miles in length, which he pushed rapidly forward until the panic of 1873 suspended all railroad construction in New England. He "went through insolvency proceedings," says the Springfield Republican, "and took hold of his pet scheme again in 1880. Building was begun all along the route. But the prosperity did not last long, and Munson failed again in 1882." He had however completed 38 miles of the road. Soon after the failure of 1873, he entered into a large contract with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for the reconstruction of the Troy and Greenfield R. R., which he carried forward to completion. The first locomotive which passed through the Hoosac Tunnel was his own, the "N. C. Munson."

The author was kindly received by the distinguished contractor at his office, 28 State St., in Boston, 24 Oct. 1882. His features were plain, and his form was stalwart. While he was executing his first contract, he adopted Shirley Village as his home. There he built several houses, and a large factory; and he fitted up a fine hall with all the conveniences for lectures and entertainments.

He enclosed the village cemetery with a fence, including a fine entrance, at a cost of $6,500. He paid three-fourths of the expense of a new church costing $22,000, and presented the society with an organ costing $3,000. He also generously assisted in repairing and decorating two other churches in the village, and he contributed liberally to the support of preaching in all these sanctuaries.

In 1880, Norman C. was elected by an almost unanimous vote to represent his town in the Legislature; he was appointed a member of the Committee on Public Lands. During the War, he supported the Government to the extent of his power, raising a company for three years' service at his own expense.

While busily working at his desk in his Boston office at about half-past one, he was suddenly stricken with great pain. He grew rapidly worse, and expired in his office a few minutes after 3 o'clock. His decease was caused by angina pectoris, arising in part from rheumatism. On the day of his funeral, business was suspended in Shirley, the bells were tolled, and all hastened to offer help and sympathy to the afflicted family.

Myron A.<sup>7</sup> is a handsome man. During an interview with his namesake, the author, who had been called to Boston to perform a marriage ceremony, he related that a few evenings previously while going out on his train, he had picked up a pocket memorandum-book which contained a marriage-formula. He put it in his pocket, presuming that it belonged to some clergyman of Newton and that it would be called for. On reaching home, he remarked to his family that he was now prepared to tie the knot matrimonial. A few evenings later when he returned home, his daughter had seen a notice of a marriage at which "Myron A." officiated, and she fired at the conductor a "guess" that he had found an opportunity to utilize his formula!

Nicholas B.<sup>8</sup> was the most athletic of Warren's sons. He was fond of adventure and inclined to a roving life. In 1854 he left Sandusky, O., for Panama, under contract to forage for the laborers on the Panama railroad. He captured huge lizards and a snake fourteen feet long. But as game was not plentiful, the hunters failed to satisfy the company, and their agents, violating the contract, ordered the hunters to assist in building the road. Nicholas refused, and though threatened with revolvers, took his belongings out of the store-house and made his way through the wilderness to the coast, where he shipped for New Orleans. A storm arose and he was wrecked near Carthage; but he escaped with his life. In 1855 he went to California; and he visited other parts of The Union.

At the breaking out of the Rebellion, he was in Petersburg, Va. In 1863 he was conscripted for the defence of Petersburg, but refused to bear arms against The Union, and made his escape to the Federal lines. His wife and two children joined him in Cleveland, O., where he remained until the close of the War, when he returned to Petersburg.

Edgar<sup>8</sup> was a student at the academies in Manchester and Bennington, Vt., after which until the age of nineteen, he was clerk in a store at Saratoga Springs. He followed his father's family to Bradford, Steuben Co., N. Y., engaged in mercantile pursuits, and at the age of twenty-seven became a partner of Munson & Merriman; he assumed control of the business eventually. In 1854 he became interested in saw-mills and timberlands along Kettle Creek, Pa.

He removed to Williamsport, Pa., in 1870, where also he had purchased sawmills, and where he subsequently established a planing-mill of large capacity. He has done a very extensive business as a manufacturer of and dealer in lumber. When the author visited him in 1884, he was handling 8,000,000 feet annually, and carrying $100,000 insurance.

For twenty years he was postmaster. He was president of the Syracuse, Geneva & Corning R. R. during its construction. He has been president of the West Branch Lumber Co., and was the first president of the Lumberman's Exchange. He is largely interested in the Kettle Creek Coal-Mining Co., being one of the owners of 14,000 acres of coal-lands in that region; and he is a member of the Lycoming Rubber Co. He is president of the Williamsport National Bank; and, finally, at the Munson Reunion of 1887, he presided handsomely over the exercises in Centre Church.

Edgar is of medium height, or a little taller, and his bearing is erect. He has a light complexion and bluish eyes; he wears a chin-beard, and his hair has turned white. He is genial and unassuming, passes easily among his fellow-men, and salutes his workmen; yet he is prompt and energetic, and commands respect. His domestic relations are most happy; the members of his family are affectionate, gifted, aspiring, prosperous, and they have regard to the claims of hospitality and of piety.

He became freight-agent, then general agent, and in 1864 Div. Supt. of the C. B. and Q. R. R. and general commercial agent for Mo., Kan., Tex. and Col. He held this position, though offered that of general supt. of other railroads, until 1 July 1878, when softening of the brain occasioned by breaking of the skull, necessitated retirement. After four years he was well again, when he resumed activity as secretary to the railroad commissioners of the State of Illinois.*

La Rue<sup>9</sup> graduated at the Episcopal Academy of Conn., Cheshire, in June 1871. He engaged in business with his father, but took a course in law to improve his qualification for business, graduating at the Yale Law School in 1875 with the degree of LL. B. He was admitted to the bar at Williamsport in August 1875. His enjoyment of the legal profession occasioned a modification of his business intentions, and he continues in active practice at Williamsport. He was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States in December 1883, and has been employed in the argument of cases before that Court. He is president of and director in a number of leading and important corporations, and is counsel for many other well-known corporations.

In October 1890 he was appointed a lecturer in the Law Department of Yale University, and in June 1891 received from his Alma Mater the honorary degree of M. A. The Palladium of June 3, 1892 said: "C. La Rue Munson . . . has finished his interesting lectures before the Law School on 'The Beginnings of Practice.' Mr. Munson is one of the most successful and prominent young lawyers in Pennsylvania, and his yearly lectures in his Alma Mater are hailed with delight by the students." Later in 1892, La Rue read a paper before the Social Science Association on "The Reading Leases," arguing that railroad combinations are beneficial; the paper 'merited the thoughtful attention which it received,' said The Congregationalist.

La Rue's geniality is worthy of note. He is pleased to do kindly and pleasant deeds, and has uncommon ability to do them. He has an elegant home. His talent for public speech will be remembered by those who heard his Response to the Address of Welcome at our Reunion in 1887. He is a director of the Munson Association. He is withal president of the Alumni of Cheshire Academy.

He is now extensively engaged (Hall & Munson Co.) in manufacturing and selling lumber on Lake Superior, in the Upper Peninsula of Mich.; the firm owns the Bay-Mills property. ## CHART 23—CIN LINES

Captain Munson. Returning from a voyage, Capt. Jabez brought with him a set of china; it passed into the possession of his daughter Eunice, and later became the property of her nieces, the daughters of Levi<sup>6</sup>. His home was in the present town of Hamden, just one mile west of the Canal R. R., and not quite a mile and a half northwest of the East-Plains M. E. Church; his house was on the east side of the road, north of Chester Dorman's, "on the highest land over which that road passes" northward of Dorman's, says Dr. Swift, and his old place is now owned by Dorman. Over the long hill on which he and his descendants lived, ran a north-and-south road which is even yet known as Munson Street. In 1884 Lewis Warner, aged 81, told me that his mother when a little girl attended the funeral of Jabez<sup>4</sup>; he had a very long nose, and she queried whether the lid of the coffin could be closed, in consequence of it.

When Jabez was twenty-one years of age, his father conveyed to him 5 Feb. 1749/50 seventeen pieces of land aggregating 184 $\frac{7}{8}$  acres: one piece "I bought of Ezekiel Sanford, Containing in Quantity Sixteen acres & a half . . . With y<sup>e</sup> house & Barn thereon Standing;" (for this tract of Half Division land, bounded south on Joseph Dorman, Stephen<sup>3</sup> had paid E. Sanford £102, March 18, 1744/5;) another of 18 acres was "at a place Called Davisses hill;" also 30 acres at "Northfield"; nine "at Daton hill"; 28 at Ridge hill; 12 acres "which I bought of Theop<sup>1</sup> Heaton and Moses Blackslee"; 4 acres of Half Division land "laid out in my own name," etc., etc. Within the next twenty-seven years, Jabez<sup>4</sup> made six purchases of land, 34 $\frac{3}{4}$  acres: one of 7 acres "Near said Munsons house," in 1774, bounded E. and W. on highways, N. on Joseph Dorman and S. on heirs of Israel Dorman; the last deed, a quitclaim from David Alling, was dated 22 Dec. 1777. He made ten conveyances, aggregating 43 $\frac{3}{4}$  acres, between 1771 and 1777: 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  acres were "at Dayton hill;" 3 $\frac{1}{4}$  acres were "on the blue hills," 1772; and a Ninth Div. lot of 2 acres, "laid out in the name of my father upon the Neck Rock," for £9 was conveyed to his brother Samuel<sup>4</sup> 23 Nov. 1773.

Jabez was elected highway surveyor in Dec. 1752, 1764, 1770 and 1777; he was chosen lister in 1756. He was admitted freeman April 13, 1761. Either he or less probably his son Jabez<sup>s</sup> was a member of the East-Plains train-band, (the 17th Co. of the 2nd Regt.,) organized before the Revolution.

Administration on his estate was granted to his widow Eunice and his son Amos, Sept. 1778; value, £1272.12.10; deducting debts, charges, etc., £1218.7. This was divided among eight children. The inventory included twenty-two pieces of land, aggregating 189½ acres: his homelot, 16½ acres with buildings (the first gift of his father) £285; 18 acres on Davises Hill £54; 26 acres at "Northfield" £60; 11 acres of woodland at Northfield £60.10; 4 acres "in the half Division Laid out to Stephen Munson" £18; "5 acres of Meadow Joining on the College Meadow" £20; "The house barn and homelot where Amos Munson lives about two acres and a quarter" £205; etc., etc.

Jabez<sup>s</sup> was of the 178 members of the First Society in New Haven who were set off by Assembly to constitute the White-Haven Society in 1769.

Amos<sup>5</sup>, entitled in the records Captain, as the eldest son had a double portion of his father's estate. His home-lot of two acres or more was bounded southwesterly on Broadway ; it contained his house and barn, Amos Munson and upon the east side of it was his goldsmith's shop. The shop with  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre became the widow's dower. The whole property passed into the hands of Capt. Peter Johnson. In a record Mrs. Hannah Munson is credited with—"Expenses arising on account of her Daughter Sally who was born after the death of her husband and lived Seven years," and "Other Expenses arising from Sickness of her Daughter Betsey." The estate of Amos owed Dr. Eneas<sup>6</sup> Munson £0.17.9. Hannah Hall was a sister of Major William Munson's first wife ; as a widow she married Stephen Trowbridge.

At the age of sixteen Joseph purchased of his father 3 acres, paying £10.10. Seven years later he paid his father £140 for 9 acres. In the division of his father's estate, Nov. 1805, he received  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the dwelling-house and  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the loom-house. In June 1815 he sold his cousin Russell<sup>6</sup> 7 acres of woodland on West Rock, bounded "Westerly upon the Ridge of the Rock ;" price, \$100. Three days before he died, he conveyed to Elam Warner 165 rods of salt meadow "at the oysterpoint ;" it was from his father's estate, and was bounded W. by 150 rods belonging to his mother ; price, \$60. The residuary devisee and legatee of his estate was Mrs. Deborah Thompson of Woodbridge. His inventory (\$2046.70) included military coat, gun, bayonet, cartouch and knapsack. He was fond of colors : had blue, and striped pantaloons, black, brown, Nankeen, and corduroy trousers, and white, red, blue, silk, and striped vests.

In the division of his father's estate Jabez<sup>b</sup> received about 12 acres "Lying northward of said Jabez dwellinghouse adjoining land of Thomas Warner." Between 1780 and 1796 he bought twenty-one pieces, nineteen of which aggregated 178½ acres: 16¼ acres bought in 1788 were "on the broad Rock in Hamden," 13 acres bought in 1789 were "on Broad Rock," bounded E. and W. on highways; and 8 acres, for which he paid £26, were "at Ox hill." His estate at death included 127¼ acres in eighteen pieces, besides a few other tracts: the "College Lot" had 7 acres, and there were 40 acres at Broad Rock. The estate was valued at $5,425.90. Among the unfamiliar articles were—"1 Sann tub," "1 Salt mortar," "4 Nebs," "1 Span shankle," and "1 Loom House."

The inventory includes the following items, hinting that the owner was a cooper: 1 bung borer, 1 shaving knife, 1 tap borer, 3 "four barrels," 2 tubs, 1 hogshead tub, 1 pickle tub, 1 cider tub, 1 turnip tub, 1 wash tub, 1 sann tub, 1 keg, 1 turnip cask, 1 tunnel, 1 bottle, 1 half barrel, 1 tierce for cider, 6 barrels, 1 cider pipe, 1 cider hogshead, &c., &c.

We have to add concerning Jabez<sup>b</sup> that he was admitted freeman Sept. 1800, and that he was chosen surveyor in Dec. 1789 and 1807, and grand-juror in 1794 and 1795.

The Will of Desire's father was proved 3 Nov. 1783; among the articles which fell to her were—"1 Pare Silver Buckels 0-7-0," and "152 Dollars Continental money 0-12-8"!

From her father's estate she received one-fourth of the dwelling-house and five pieces of land, three of which were in Hamden. Being still "Maria Munson" 14 Dec. 1836 she obtained $108 for woodland. Her reason is said to have been hurt by a kick from a horse.

Stephen<sup>c</sup> was "a tall, farmer-looking man," according to Mrs. Polly Pierpont Munson. Soon after 3 Nov. 1790 he removed from "West Woods, Hamden" to North Haven, where in 1792 Stephen Munson he was captain of the militia company which had been organized in 1718. His house-lot was bounded E., S. and W. on highways; it was perhaps a mile west-southwest of the village, and a little less than half way from the Quinnipiac to Mill River. He was an extensive farmer. In 1804 he was one of twelve North-Haven farmers who united with 35 others of seven neighboring towns in a joint-stock concern designed to facilitate the sale of farm-products. He was chosen a surveyor of highways in Hamden 1788, and grand-juror 1789. The records of No. Haven have been burned; but he was first-selectman in 1802, and signed as selectman 28 April 1803.

From his father's estate, April 1780, he received  $34\frac{1}{2}$  acres in four pieces. In Dec. 1788 he and Joshua<sup>c</sup> purchased 35 acres "at the Streights" in Woodbridge. Among his sales of real-estate was one in 1811 of  $22\frac{3}{4}$  acres which his wife Mary received from the estate of her father. The value of his estate at death, clear of claims, was \$7351.60. The inventory included sixteen pieces of land, aggregating  $160\frac{3}{4}$  acres.

We quote from Captain Stephen's monument:

"Friends nor physicians cannot save
Our mortal bodies from the grave;
Nor can the grave confine us there
When Christ doth call us to appear."

Mrs. Mary Munson was a member of the Congregational Church, North Haven.

Isaac<sup>b</sup> brought up his family on the Orchard Warner place. He had from his father's estate one-fourth of the house, barn and lot (of 16½ acres) where the deceased had dwelt, and 12 acres besides. Between 1784 and 1793 he purchased about 86½ acres in ten parcels: in 1791, of Capt. Samuel<sup>4</sup>, 5 acres 23 rods of 8th Div. on West Rock, laid out in the name of Stephen<sup>3</sup>; in 1793 he paid £300 and Jared<sup>o</sup> £100 for a farm of 40 acres with dwelling-house. His estate was appraised at $4006.22; there were about 80 acres of land.

He became debtor to Major William Munson—"May 22 1780 To Silver in 22 Buttons 7/6 To making 8/3 To Silver in 14 Coat Buttons 7/4 To making Do. 7/;" his credits were mostly wheat flour. The inventory of his estate included 1 pair velvet pantaloons, 1 pair striped do., 1 pair black breeches, 1 pair nankeen do.; 1 silver spoon, 3 wooden bottles; 1 Bible, 1 Psalm-book, Burkett's Exposition.

Isaac<sup>b</sup> and Amasa Dorman married sisters—Elizabeth and Phebe Todd. They all joined, Sept. 1808, in selling Ezekiel Chidsey 5/6 of Pew No. 6 on west side of Fair Haven meeting-house, which was encumbered with the dower right of Phebe Todd. Elizabeth's Will made Jan. 1816 bequeaths "to my sister Eunice Todd my muff & tippet." A record concerning the estate of Dearing Phipps of New Haven recognizes that two of his daughters married Isaac Munson and Amasa Dorman. It may be worth noting that Elizabeth's share in Isaac's estate was $1095.62, including "a privilege in the cellar, oven and well."

Isaac was made freeman 9 April 1800. He was chosen a key-keeper in Dec. 1781 and 1782; surveyor of highways 1786, 1794, '95, '97, '99, and 1811; tythingman 1806, 1808. (There is a trace of uncertainty in regard to the identity of this office-holder.)

"Levi<sup>s</sup> lived on ground now owned by Elam Warner"—"nearly west of the old homestead," and there died. It is remembered as "the Aunt Paty place." He received from his father's estate one-half of an anvil and three sheep, and about 40 acres of which about 17 acres were at "Northfield." Five acres on the E. side of the highway and directly opposite his house were bought of Jabez<sup>s</sup> in April 1792. Among his sales were 7 acres to Desire wife of Jabez<sup>s</sup> in 1788, and 12 acres to Joshua<sup>s</sup> in 1792. Joshua<sup>a</sup> told his son Kneeland J.<sup>b</sup> that he was present in New Haven when that town was invaded by the British in 1779; he was at the age of thirteen. He was fourteen years old when his father's estate was divided; there fell to him one-half of 26 acres at "Northfield," 5 acres of meadow joining the College meadow, etc. At the age of seventeen, March 1783, he paid Hez. Warner £79. 6 sh. for 8¼ acres "near where Jabez<sup>a</sup> Munson dec<sup>d</sup> Dwelt"—bounded E. and W. on highways, S. on said Joshua, and N. on heirs of Jabez<sup>a</sup>. Between 1785 and 1793 he bought as many as twenty-one pieces of land in Hamden, amounting to 141½ acres. Among these were 4½ acres bounded S. and W. on highway, with house and barn, in 1789, the year before his marriage; five purchases of 8th Division land on Broad Rock; and 20 acres of woodland "at the Plains." Among sales were 5 acres of meadow partly in East Haven and partly in North Haven, bounded N. on College meadow, W. on the river, and E. "on the great Creek"; 1¾ acres salt meadow, bounded S. on West River; to Jabez<sup>a</sup> 7 acres, to Isaac<sup>b</sup> 21 + 3½ acres, to Jared<sup>b</sup> 5 acres (£33) and — acres (£120), to Levi<sup>5</sup>, &c., some 8th Div. (on and near Broad Rock); the date of this last transaction, 5 March 1795, is the last connecting him with Hamden.

Joshua<sup>6</sup> purchased a large tract of land on Canaan Mountain*—there is a pond a mile long up there,—built a home for himself, and kept a dairy of forty cows: he "was quite a king" among his fellow-citizens. He is remembered by Mrs. Orrin Tuttle as being of medium height and not fleshy.

The people of Hamden have occasion to hold this native in pleasant remembrance on account of a deed dated 26 Sept. 1793: "Joshua Munson of Hamden for the good Will and regard I have and do bear unto the congregational Church & Society in the Town". . . convey "one certain piece of land near the Dwelling House of Cap<sup>t</sup> Caleb Mix on which for them to build a meeting House, containing in quantity one half acre," bounded S. on Enos Bradley, W. and N. on my own land, E. on highway ("Cheshire road, so called"),—to be eight rods wide on the road and ten rods long E. & W.

 Dr. E. D. Swift in 1849 began his professional life in Hamden, where he is still in practice (1893). He is tall, dignified, benignant, and redundant with medical lore. His son, Dr. Edwin E.<sup>s</sup>, took part of an academical course at Yale, when his health was inadequate, and he spent a year in Montana. He finished his medical course at the University of N. Y., graduating unc. 1880. He was a year and a half with his father, then a year in a hospital, and has since practiced in the City of New York.

In 1831 Kneeland J. went to Louisville, Ky., where "he engaged in the clock trade, and acquired some property." He returned East with his wife and one child in the summer of 1846, bought out the heirs to Kneeland J. Munson's his father's estate, and established himself in the old homestead. In 1856 he represented Canaan in the Legislature. While residing on Canaan Mountain he was made president of Norfolk (Ct.) Bank. He removed to Claverack, N. Y., in the Spring of 1867. There in March 1866 he had purchased 12 acres bounded north on the Hudson and Boston R. R., paying \$4,500. In Sept. 1868, he bought  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre for which he paid \$3,000. In April 1870 he paid \$7,000 for  $2\frac{1}{2}$  acres. He sold 16 rods in April 1868 to Alonzo Flack, and he sold  $10\frac{1}{2}$  acres in 1869 for \$5,500, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre in 1870 for \$4,000. In April 1870 he removed to Millerton which is his present abode. While dwelling there he has been engaged in the manufacture of charcoal-iron, and at the date of our latest information, though no longer active in business he owned one-half of the furnace at Chatham Village. In 1877 he paid \$15,256 for the furnace with  $2\frac{3}{4}$  acres. He was president of the Millerton Village Corporation in 1876.

Later.—In Sept. 1894 Mr. Munson wrote: "I have lost forty thousand dollars in recent years."

 The Millerton Telegram of Aug. 7, 1885 has a communication from Alice<sup>7</sup>, entitled "Cured by Faith." Two years she suffered from lameness in her knee, sometimes severely; and she began to despair of recovery. April 6, 1885 she cast aside every earthly remedy, and giving herself entirely to Jesus, asked him to heal her. The answer came—"If thou canst believe"—Then Satan—"These things come not forth but by prayer and fasting; you ought to fast at least one day." I said—"Jesus, heal me." He said again—"If thou canst believe"—Satan said—"Jacob wrestled all night; if you are not willing to fast one day, you ought at least to pray one night." I said—"Jesus, heal me now." He said—"If thou canst believe"—Satan said—"Wait a little; it is about supper-time," etc. I said—"Jesus, heal me now." Jesus said—"According to your faith, be it unto you." I said—"Lord, I believe." Jesus said—"Arise and walk." I arose without my crutches and walked across the room, back and forth, the pain all gone, and I have been walking ever since. . . . Even now if my faith wavers, my knee feels lame.

He had occupied the hut for 12 years, living the life of a hermit. Munson's relatives removed the body, but did not trouble themselves to examine the hut, supposing it contained nothing of value. Jan. 1, 1847 Samuel Simpson sold his britannia manufactory at Yalesville to John Munson, who had been associated with him a number of years. The art of electro-plating was introduced about this time, and was applied to britannia. Simpson, purchasing the Humiston Mills property, engaged in the manufacture of silver-plated ware,—applying silver to rolled white-metal by the voltaic battery.

“On Jan. 1st, 1853, John Munson, to whom Mr. Simpson had previously sold the manufacture of common britannia goods, associated with him two enterprising young men by the name of Wilcox, and under the joint-stock law organized an incorporated company by the name of the Meriden Britannia Company. This new company, energetic, enterprising, and fully alive to passing events, induced Mr. Simpson to stock his business with theirs. This arrangement took effect Jan. 1, 1854. After this Mr. Simpson took an active part in the new company and was not known separately in the market until 1866.”*

“The Meriden Britannia Company . . . is preëminently the corporation which has caused the name of Meriden to be known in nearly all parts of the civilized globe as the ‘Silver City.’ It is, moreover, the corporation which controls the largest establishment in the world devoted to the manufacture of silver-ware and silver-plated goods, producing 4,000 different articles and having an annual output of nearly $4,000,000 worth of goods.”† Its buildings have an aggregate floor-space of nearly ten acres, with over 5,000 feet of shafting, while nearly 1200 hands are employed. George R. Curtis has been treasurer from the beginning.

Mr. Munson sold out to the Meriden Britannia Co., after which he engaged in the grocery business. Too trustful and generous, he lost severely by selling goods to the dishonest and by endorsing paper that was not substantial. He was once worth thirty or forty thousand dollars. He has been president of a savings-bank, has served as selectman, and was second warden of the borough of Wallingford, an office which he held four years—until 1874. In 1853 and 1855 he represented his town in the Legislature. He was recently one of the wardens of St. Paul’s Church. “John Munson is one of the finest of men,” said a prominent townsman to me.

† Hist. of New Haven Co. I. 491.

Mr. Munson participated memorably in the tornado of Aug. 9, 1878, by which 29 lives were destroyed. Two black storms, one from the north-by-east and another from the southwest, united, after which the terror moved east-southeast with great velocity. The time between "the formation of the cyclone" and the ending of its destructive work in the village, did not exceed one and a half minutes. A fragment of the tin-roof of the school-building was found twelve miles eastward, in Haddam. A receipt was carried from the home of John Cline into Rhode Island—65 miles as the crow flies. The tornado was followed by torrents of water during ten or twelve minutes.

Mr. Munson was looking out of his west window: he saw the air thick with sand and flying fragments, and turning grasped the door-casing. The next moment he was in the cellar, while the house was hurled forward into the street; the upper story was gone, and what remained was a complete ruin. Mrs. Munson, Mrs. Isadore Munson, Miss Sarah Fields, and the hired girl, were confined under the timbers; by cutting and prying they were removed and found to be uninjured, save by bruises. Their escape from death seems wonderful.*

The loss of Mr. Munson on Main St. was $4,500, and on The Plains, $2,000. In the evening after the tornado, Rev. J. E. Wildman picked up a case containing two gold watches belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Munson. The watches were uninjured, though in the breaking up of the house they had been thrown into the middle of the road.

The New Haven Evening Register had the following :

"The funeral of the late Henry Munson, of Dixwell avenue, was conducted from the Whitneyville church Friday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives and sorrowing friends.

"Mr. Munson, who was nearly 86 years of age, was born in Hamden and was one of the best known residents of that town. His wife, who died about 20 years ago, was Miss Jane Ford. Mr. Munson, Griswold I. Gilbert and William Atwater married three sisters. Mr. Munson was the father of six children, but only two survive—Henry W. Munson, with whom he had resided for several years, and Mrs. George H. Gorham.

"Mr. Munson learned the trade of gunmaking at the old Whitneyville armory and was an expert at his trade. Afterwards he became a contractor. He was the first man to make a gun out of a piece of solid steel. It was always the custom to weld the barrel, building it up from several sections. His employers finally decided to try and make guns from one piece of steel, as the product was likely to be much better. Mr. Munson contracted to make a large number of guns from solid steel and set to work on his contract. His first work was discouraging, however, the great drawback being the inability to bore the barrel straight, because it was impossible to tell just in what direction the drill was boring: it was bound to bore at one side or the other of the center.

"Having spoiled many guns, Mr. Munson set up a great thinking. He was of a scientific turn of mind and he attempted to solve the trouble under which he labored. After much study he evolved a principle that solved the trouble and was able to bring out a little device by means of which he could control his drill and bore a straight hole. One of his friends said this afternoon that if Mr. Munson had only patented his invention it would have yielded him millions of dollars. Somehow Mr. Munson did not realize how valuable an invention he had and allowed the golden moment to slip by. Afterward when the device was used in all the armories of the country, he saw what he had lost. This little machine is still used in boring out the barrels of steel guns.

"Mr. Munson worked at gun-making for many years, and was able to lay the foundation of a considerable fortune. Leaving the Whitneyville armory, he became the senior member of the firm of Munson, Morse & Co., dealers in saddlery in Temple street. Mr. Munson retired from this business about 20 years ago, but was a very active old gentleman up to the time of his last illness from pneumonia, which was of only 30 hours' duration. During his later years he settled many estates in Hamden, and many of the older residents thought no one could perform this business quite as well as Mr. Munson.

"Up to the breaking out of the War of the Rebellion he was a democrat, but then became a republican. Twice he represented his native town in the legislature, and during his useful life had held all of the principal offices in the town. Early in the Rebellion he was an active assistant in helping Hamden fill her quota of troops and none did so much in this line. These services were so much commended that the town presented him with a handsome clock and a gold-headed cane.

"He was a man rather under the usual height, but thick-set; he had for many years thick locks of whitened hair; and he possessed a genial countenance. For years he would drive to this city nearly every day in a covered phaeton, and was well and favorably known" here.

We add a few particulars. In 1807 nineteen boys were born in Hamden; five of them were surviving in 1887, of whom Henry<sup>7</sup> was one. A townsman remarked to me in 1882 : Henry Munson "is considered to be the man in Hamden for any important business." His town however is Democratic.

He was admitted freeman in Nov. 1828 ; was chosen highway-surveyor in 1846, and selectman in 1846 and 1847 ; was elected assessor in 1853 and member of the board of relief in 1857 and 1863 ; was made a justice of the peace in 1870 ; represented his town in the Legislature in 1847 and 1854.

The value of his estate is reported as about $50,000. Mrs. Munson was admitted to the East-Plains Congregational Church July 2, 1843 ; Henry was admitted (by profession) March 4, 1860. "He is one of my best friends and supporters," said his pastor in 1885 ; "A dear old man !" exclaimed a later pastor in 1892, when Henry's name was mentioned ; he added concerning Henry W.<sup>8</sup>—"And Deacon Munson,—I don't know what we should do without him ! You have reason to be proud of them."

Forbes<sup>7</sup> was handsome and gifted : Judge Hitchcock thought if he could do as well in the Assembly as Forbes Monson, it would suffice. For a time he ranked among the first people of his town ; but when Forbes Monson cramped in business, he drew a note on Douglass, and escaped. Being of Canaan, 9 Nov. 1855, he disposed of his interest in an iron-ore bed in Amenias to Charles Edwards of Kent. The Waterbury American of March 20, 1891 quoted the Conn. Western News as follows : "Truth is more strange than fiction. The life and adventures of Forbes Munson would form a story more lengthy, thrilling and wonderful than even Rider Haggard ever dreamed of writing."

Mary E.<sup>7</sup> attended boarding-school at Woodbury in '61 and '62; So. Berkshire Inst. '64-'65, and Claverack Coll. '66. She "consecrated her entire being to God" Feb. 3, 1867, and "received the full baptism of the Holy Ghost" at Pine-Grove camp-meeting Aug. 27, 1869. She first met her future husband at Claverack College. For a year and a half previously to their marriage he had resided on Paris Island (Port Royal) where he owned a homestead. Around their home ("Ocean-View") were various forts which became famous during the Rebellion; in their possession are cannon-balls, grape-shot and shell, from Fort Beauregard. Near them was Fort Charles, built by the French in 1562,—the oldest in the U. S.

The last night in Aug. 1881, "Ocean-View" was attacked by a hurricane and inundated, obliging the family to take refuge in a strong barn on higher ground. The night was terrible with the storm, the creaking of the barn, the crash of an adjoining shed and of falling trees. When morning dawned they found their house still standing, though ruined. They resorted to Mrs. C. W. Niver's place on the same island, where Hubert was born. Two weeks later they proceeded to Wellwood, Mrs. W. H. Niver's place, on Hilton Head Island; and a week later they settled in Bluffton. There J. C. S. built a store.

The residence of Agnes A. has been on Paris Island, 1878 Jenkins Island, and since 1886 Bluffton. She and her husband are church-members. Mrs. N. writes May 1893: "Nearly all of my father's family believe in the four-fold Gospel, viz., Christ our Savior, Sanctifier, Healer and Coming Lord, and most of us have accepted Christ as our own healer. For five years he has been my only physician,"—except in two instances; once she "could not trust the Lord" in a case of croup, and again in a case of dysentery a human physician was summoned. But in other cases of croup, and in cases of spinal injury, and broken ribs, "the Lord has always been faithful."

He united with Brocketts 23 Feb. 174½ (15th of George II.) in quitclaiming to Browns all right to lands laid out in New Haven from the 1st to the 7th Division inclusive, "which came or fell to us by our honoured Grandfather Samuel Brown" (b.p. 9 April 1645.)

Jan. 7, 1735, 148 citizens voted in favor of ejecting intruders from the common lands; Caleb<sup>4</sup> was among the 125 "decenters." The public archives at Wallingford preserve this: "May y<sup>e</sup> 25, 1741. The debts amounted to £19..18..6; adm<sup>n</sup> and funeral charges, £9..4..8; allowance for family three months, £20; for bringing up youngest child to four years, £44; next youngest to four years, £12; mourning suit for y<sup>e</sup> widow, £20.13.11; laid aside, £10; balance, £997.7.5. The widow had one-third, and the residue was divided among five sons, the eldest having a double share.

Widow Abigail married 22 Nov. 1750 Isaac Bronson b. 27 March 1707, the first child born in Middlebury, whose father Isaac* born 1670 was the first permanent settler in Middlebury. I. B. removed his new family to Middlebury, (where were born Titus 5 Oct. 1751 and Abigail 12 Aug. 1753.) Four of Caleb's sons established homes in Middlebury;† in the Revolutionary struggle, Abner, Benjamin and Caleb espoused the patriot cause, while Hermon and Cornelius sided with the Tories.

The five brothers received from their grandfather Caleb<sup>3</sup>, 7 May 1752, 58 acres 69 rods in the west part of Waterbury—"that Called the Village," "it being part of the Sixty third Lott;" Abner had a double share. In 1756 the brothers were presented by their grandfather with 132 acres (three pieces) of land in Farmington; "Abner the Eldest is to have a Quarter Bigger share then" the others. Abner received by his grandfather's Will, in 1765 app'y, twenty shillings, and each of his brothers received ten shillings.

 At the age of six years Cornelius<sup>5</sup> received in the division of his father's estate "12 feet of the Top of the House the East End Chamber and Garret," 3 ft. 8 in. of the barn next to Hermon's section, and 6 rods 5½ ft. of land. He made sale of real-estate in Wallingford for £10 in 1763. He was "of Wallingford" 9 Nov. 1768 when he and Benjamin<sup>6</sup> of Waterbury divided between them 58½ acres in Waterbury—a "part of the 63<sup>d</sup> Lot in that Division of Land Commonly Called the Village." He sold David Brown 1 Feb. 1769, for £50, 32 acres in the Parish of Westbury, "at a Place called Welton Hill." He bought of the selectmen of Wallingford 2 April 1770 (10 George III.) 1 acre, dwelling-house, barn and shop, near St. Paul's Ch., bounded W. and N. on highway; price, £126. This property he sold 29 Feb. 1772, for £96. About the same date app'y he bought of the estate of Lieut. Joseph Robinson 3 hogsheds, a half-bushel and a hoe.

Cornelius was admitted freeman at Wallingford in April 1770. C. C. Bronson states that the principal business of a silversmith was to manufacture Spanish milled dollars into spoons, shoe-buckles, and knee-buckles; he also wrought in brass and other metals. O. Doolittle brought suit against him in March 1773 for £9.7.7, which debt he "acknowledged." In the Revolutionary struggle he sided with the King and died in the British army. During his absence probably, he was sued 28 Jan. 1777 for an account of £1; he was sued 23 April 1779 by Oliver Hitchcock and wife for an account of £2; judgment went against him by default in both cases.

Abner's choice of his uncle Joshua<sup>4</sup> as his guardian was allowed by Court in Dec. 1750. He had from his father's estate the south half of the "East Room" (ten feet "all across the Room"), the south side of the cellar five feet wide, a section of barn seven feet four inches wide, and land 12 rods 11 inches by 32 rods. At the age of twenty-one he sold 4 April 1757 one-third of 11½ acres which had belonged to his father's estate in Wallingford. Abner, Hermon and their three brothers, 24 Oct. 1765, paid their step-father £75½ for 85 acres "in the first Society South of Breakneck Hill;" this purchase was in two tracts on opposite sides of a highway, and the two tracts appear to have been utilized as homesteads by Abner and Hermon. These two brothers made a sale for £15 in 1769; and Abner in April 1797 bought 4 acres 60 rods on the north side of the highway "about 80 Rods East of the Meeting House, in the Parish of Middlebury."

Abner's home was in the valley about half a mile north of the meeting-house, and on the west side of the road, where Samuel S. Fenn now lives, though not in the same house. The land on which he settled lay "south of what was anciently known as the Bronson farm," writes Charles C. Bronson; he cleared it of timber, built a house and barn, and spent the residue of his days upon that place. C. C. B. remarks that Azubah "began to keep house about half a mile from where she was born and on the same farm," and that she lived with her husband over forty years. She lived to see all her children except one settled in homes of their own. Abner and Azubah had forty-eight grandchildren.

Capt. Chester Curtiss remarks that Abner cultivated considerable fruit,—probably produced the best fruit in Middlebury; some of his pear-trees, and the Captain thinks some of his apple-trees, are still standing west of Fenn's house. In May 1757 thirty-three persons living in the western part of Waterbury and that vicinity, "petitioned the Assembly for winter privileges;" not granted. In May 1760 the petition was renewed, this time for parish privileges; the First Society remonstrated. Among the petitioners was Abner Munson residing at West Branch, three miles or more from the meeting-house,—£35 "list." His age was twenty-four. Among the forty-one subscribers to the fund for erecting the first house of worship, only three contributed as much as he.

According to Bronson's History of Waterbury, Abner was "engaged in the old French War."* In 1757 a company went from Waterbury under the command of Capt. Eldad Lewis at the time of the Fort William Henry alarm. It is related that Abner would carry the knapsacks of his fellow-soldiers who were unwell that they might not throw them away, or fall behind in the march and become the victims of the Indian and French scouts. He is described as a man of stalwart frame, and it is said that he prided himself upon his endurance. "In the War of the Revolution he was an uncompromising Whig, and was ready to aid the Colonies in every way he was able."

Abner is said to have been somewhat eccentric. We are indebted to his daughter Sarah for this story: While he was excavating a well, he had reached a considerable depth, when he prepared a blast; the fuse was lighted and he retreated to a place of safety. But as the charge failed to take effect, he finally descended into the well, when suddenly there was an explosion. The family ran out expecting to find him blown to pieces. To their amazement he called from the well—"Is anybody hurt up there?" He was uninjured.

He died of apoplexy. The following Monday, Dec. 14, his funeral day perhaps, was made memorable by the explosion of a meteor over Weston, Ct., with a tremendous report; a fragment of it was sent to Yale College.

Value of estate $2747.76. The inventory included 72 acres of land, 1 gray horse, 1 woman saddle, 1 loom, 1 cheese press, 1 flax mill, 50 bu. of potatoes ($8.34), 11 barrels of cider ($11), 1 large pewter platter ($1.25), 1 pewter gallon basin ($1.34), 1 castor hat, 3 pr. tow trousers, 2 Bibles, Psalms and Hymns, Doddridge's Rise and Progress, Baxter's Call, Whitfield's sermons.

At the age of ten years, Hermon had from his father's estate the "North side of the East lower Room," a section of the cellar four feet wide next to Abner's, a division of the barn three feet eight inches wide, and 6 rods 5 feet of land. About three months before his marriage, Hermon sold 16 acres to Isaac Bronson, Jr., and the same day bought 50 acres, bounded E. on highway, paying £200. For a time his home was on the East side of the road, opposite

Abner's. About four months after marriage he sold 6 acres "a little southward of Breakneck Hill;" and about four months and a half later (6 April 1770) he sold D. Thompson 50 acres with house and barn "in the first society about Three Miles West of y<sup>e</sup> old Meeting House."

At some date which does not appear, Hermon removed to another part of Waterbury described (apparently) 11 June 1799 as "Northward from the Town at a place a little southward of the Deer Stakes so called and commonly called Mount Taylor." He had purchased 30 May 1771 of his father-in-law 10 acres "situate North of Steels Plain so Called, beginning at Scovils Gate so Called;" and the same day Anna was presented by her father with several pieces of land valued at £120. Among eight purchases within the next thirteen years, was one in 1772 of 22 acres bounded N. on his own land and W. and S. on lands belonging to his wife—"at a place called Steels Plain;" and another of 10 acres in Oct. 1814 included "the rock spring lot so called." Among conveyances were 3 acres "situate by Hancocks Brook" in 1780; a gift of 5 acres to Mary<sup>e</sup> 6 Jan. 1792; a gift to Nabbe<sup>e</sup> of 4 acres about three miles from town 29 April 1801, and a gift the same day to Anna<sup>e</sup> of 4 acres "about three miles North from sd town adjoining that given to Nabbe." Finally, 19 April 1820, Hermon and Anna deeded "our farm where we live," 109 acres with buildings, and 16 acres on the E. side of the river, to Victory Tomlinson; price, $2400.

Hermon<sup>e</sup> was admitted freeman at Waterbury 11 April 1785. He was chosen a tythingman Aug. 1779 and Dec. 1781; highway-surveyor in April 1787, and fence-viewer and grand-juror in Dec. of the same year.

Early in the Revolutionary struggle, Hermon took his stand with the Loyalists, and bore arms with the red-coats. But he received such treatment that he deserted the British service, and returned home. He was closely watched; but the animosity subsided, and a prosecution against him (and sixty-five others) was dismissed in March 1778. He became a faithful adherent of the patriot-cause. Jan. 7, 1781 he was chosen one of the nineteen "Collectors of the Classes they Respectively belong to;" each "class," if I rightly conceive, was to procure a recruit for the Continental army. Emeline Clark Sheridan, a great-granddaughter of Hermon<sup>e</sup>, asserts that her grandmother Mary Clark began pioneer life at Medina on Government land bestowed upon her father "for his services in the War of the Revolution."

About 1818 Mary Munson Clark emigrated to Medina. In 1820 the two younger daughters desired to settle in the same wilderness ; and Capt. Hermon, aged 82, and his wife, concluded to remove and live with their children. The three families, comprising seventeen persons, started from Waterbury about the first of October, employing two large wagons, each drawn by two yoke of oxen. The cows were driven. Mrs. Munson, aged 67, rode in a carriage ; for thirty years she had been dependent upon crutches, her hip having been fractured by the kick of a horse. The Captain was remarkably healthy and strong and walked a good deal of the way. The procession halted to do baking, when necessary. On the morning of the last day, when eighteen miles south of Cleveland, a wagon broke down, after which the patriarch, his two daughters, and their children, completed the journey on foot—the women carrying the two youngest children who were too young to do much walking ; they found their route by blazed trees, and forded the streams, swollen by recent rains. They reached their destination after night-fall, having been forty-two days on the road.

Captain Hermon (Waterbury records of 1794, '96 and '99 so entitle him) "would walk to Liverpool and Columbia, ten or twelve miles, make a visit, and return." "I remember," continues Mrs. Hannah A. Bradley, "I remember seeing my grandfather at the age of eighty-five, teach my brothers by example to perform various feats of agility, such as walking on the tight-rope, standing on their heads, etc." He remarked during his last brief illness that it was the first time in his life when he had been confined to his bed. His Will was proved 2 March 1829 ; it is on record at Medina.

At the age of four years Benjamin's share in his father's estate consisted of twelve feet from the "East End of the House both Garret and chamber," a section of barn 3 ft. 8 in. wide, and 6 rods  $5\frac{1}{2}$  feet of land. We find that in August 1767 "Benjamin Munson Late of Derby, Now Residing in Waterbury", purchased of Stephen Miles 2 acres with buildings "in the Southwest Part of Waterbury on the North End of Bedlum Hill so called." He became the owner of lands north, south, east and west of the meeting-house in Middlebury. In Aug. 1773, about two years before marriage, he bought of A. Palmer several pieces of land at a cost of £200.

His home was on the corner south of the southwest corner of The Green, in a mansion-like house which is still standing. The site of the blacksmith-shop is a few rods south of the house, and around about are lands which he cultivated. A purchase in 1782 comprised 9 acres "on the East side of the great Hill so called"; and another in 1793 was located "about a quarter of a mile North of the Meeting house and the West side of the highway."

Among his sales of real-estate were 20 acres in the Parish of Westbury—"Part of 63<sup>d</sup> Lott in y<sup>e</sup> Village,"—date, 1769;  $15\frac{3}{4}$  acres to Ashbel<sup>6</sup> 13 Nov. 1793 "about Sixty rods North of the Meeting house;" to Aaron<sup>6</sup> 2 Sept. 1795 land one-half mile east of the meeting-house, £130,—22 Dec. 1795, 48 acres a little west of the meeting-house; and to David Munson 7 acres a few rods south-east of the meeting-house and also land with a blacksmith shop.

Benjamin was elected highway-surveyor in 1770, 1784; brander of horses 1771, '73, '76, '77; grand-juror 1784; the first of fifteen listers, among whom were Maj. Phinehas Porter and Capt. Samuel Reynolds, in Dec. 1777.

Benjamin<sup>6</sup> was a decided patriot in the Revolutionary period. He appears on the Waterbury records as a member of a committee of fifteen (once eighteen) chosen to provide the necessities of life for the families of soldiers in the Continental Army; this position he occupied by successive elections in 1777, 1778 and 1779; he was chosen as the head of the committee in 1778. Early in 1781 there was a pressing demand for troops for Horse Neck. Waterbury, having resolved to raise its quota, chose a committee of six to procure the men; Benjamin<sup>b</sup> was the first member.

The first house of public worship, 30 feet square, and a story and a half high, stood on the S. W. corner of The Green; the subscription-paper providing funds for erecting the house, dated 29 March 1786, prescribed that the edifice was "to be Set on the top of the Hill north of Benjamin Munsons near the South East Corner of Josiah Bronson Jr. lot." The Green or Park was a part of Benjamin's farm, and according to Capt. Curtis and others, was presented by him to the Society.* There were 41 subscribers to the building-fund—£69.16; the four largest were Benjamin<sup>b</sup> £6, Amos Scott £6, Josiah Bronson, Jr. (Abner's wife's brother) £5, and Abner<sup>b</sup> £4. But as Benjamin's subscription was partly in cash, the only one among the 41, he should rank as the first and largest contributor, without taking account of the site which was his gift. He engaged to pay his subscription—10 s. in cash, £1.10 in nails or glass, £1 in shingles, £1 in oak-boards, £1 in provisions at the market price, and £1 in labour; while Abner<sup>b</sup> was to pay £1 in oak-boards, £1 in provisions, £1 in white-wood clap-boards, and £1 in labour.

The History of New Haven County states that the "Ministerial Fund" was begun 17 March 1790, and was raised to £1,086; and that the contributions varied from £1 to £105, the latter being given by Benjamin Munson.

When his eldest son was about twenty-one years of age, and six other children were fast advancing towards maturity, he deemed that it would be for the advantage of his family to migrate westward. He made a journey into "the Whitestown Country", as the county of Oneida was then called,—“almost on the western limits of civilization.” In the south part of the town of Paris, he bought a tract of primeval forest; it bore a heavy growth of beech, maple, basswood, elm and hemlock. Thither he removed his family in 1797, at the age of fifty-three, and began clearing and fencing his lands, and raising crops.

At the age of one year and two-thirds, Caleb<sup>6</sup> received from his father's estate "12 Feet of the North End of the House, both the Garret and Chamber, and to have Liberty to pass and Repass into the lower Rooms and out at Each Door, and his Right in the Barn is Three Feet 8 Inches in the Weadth of the Barn at the East End from the Top to the Bottom, which is the Sum of £22 .. 4 .. 5 $\frac{1}{8}$ "; lands valued at £25 .. 11 .. 1 $\frac{1}{8}$ ; and moveables £63 .. 0 .. 6. At the age of twenty-one, in Feb. 1769, he sold 2 acres of this inheritance.

Caleb<sup>6</sup>'s home was where his grandson Noble<sup>7</sup> lately lived, in the north part of Middlebury, on the Watertown road, just south of Watertown line. He appears to have made his first purchase there eight years before marriage: he paid J. Wells £150 for 104 acres "at a Place Called the Three Mile hill;" "he erected one of those old-fashioned lean-to houses, and a barn." He bought in Feb. 1775 of E. Tompkins, Jr., 4 acres at "Three mile Hill", paying £6; he re-sold it in May 1779 for the same price. He bought 6 May 1785 of Jonathan Northrop 5 acres in Watertown, parish of Westbury, bounded northeast on said Munson's land. He presented his son Caleb<sup>6</sup> in 1805 with 15 acres, Joseph<sup>6</sup> and John<sup>6</sup> in 1814 with 40 acres, and Cornelius in 1823 with 16 acres.

Caleb<sup>6</sup> was a builder: "I can show you a house which he built," said Capt. Curtiss; "he rived the clapboards for it; when the building was repaired by Buckingham, I told him I wished he would let them stand, and he did." In Jan. 1781 the town chose him one of five collectors, his name being first; he was chosen highway-surveyor Dec. 1778, '83, '84, '86, '87, '88, and 1801. By the distribution of his estate* Wid Lucy received $1751, each son $859, and each daughter $368.

The tradition that Caleb<sup>6</sup> was in the Revolutionary Army is robust. Thomas<sup>7</sup> affirms it, and says his grandfather was "quite a military man." Edward A.<sup>8</sup> writes: "Abner<sup>6</sup>, Benjamin<sup>8</sup> and Caleb<sup>6</sup> were strong patriots, and I think they were all in the Am. army; certainly Caleb<sup>6</sup> was." Dr. Byron<sup>8</sup> has always believed that Caleb<sup>6</sup> was in the Revolutionary service: "My father has told me so; my uncle, Hawkins W., has told me so; my grandfather, Joseph, has told me so." The Doctor says his great-grandfather marched with Putnam for Bunker Hill and was at the battle of Saratoga; and he has a musket which his ancestor is reputed to have used in the service.

Caleb<sup>6</sup> was a very large man, about 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighing 300 pounds, while his wife was correspondingly developed; none of their sons weighed less than two hundred. And his alertness and strength were commensurate with his size. "He was spry as a squirrel," says Capt. Curtiss; "when he was young, he climbed the lightning-rod of the steeple, turned the vane to point northwest, and fastened it there; when the wind was blowing from the northeast, the people beheld the contrary vane and were astonished. He once arranged his pumpkin vines so that all ran right west towards Breakneck." When he was about sixty years of age, he was present at a game of "goal." The players said he was too old to run,—he might keep tally; but he thought he could run. When occasion arose, he chased one of the players, gained upon him, overtook him, and hit him. "You didn't hit me!" cried the fellow. "I can!" retorted Caleb<sup>6</sup>, sped after him, overtook him again, and gave him a lunge which sent him tumbling.

"He was a spunky, set man," said Capt. Curtiss,—“you couldn't turn him; but he was a good, straight man, square as a brick.” Caleb<sup>6</sup> subscribed 15s. in oak boards towards the erection of the first meeting-house in Middlebury.

the smaller boys. "One day he lay down on the descending ground between a large, half-rotten saw-mill log and the brook, and told the boys they might roll the log over him,—not dreaming that the little imps could move it. They laid hold of the log with a will, and it yielded to their united strength. Before Miles could get out of the way it had flattened him down and gone over him into the brook."

At the age of twenty-four or twenty-five, Caleb<sup>6</sup> settled in Winchester: he was "of Waterbury" 12 Dec. 1788, and was "of Winchester" 3 Sept. 1790. He had purchased 20 acres in Winchester of S. D. Sackett 27 Nov. 1787; about a year later he bought of the same man 20 acres "in the Society of Winsted;" in Sept. 1790 he bought of J. Sweet 62½ acres, bounded N. on Caleb's own land, paying £82½; and in Aug. 1792 he increased his real-estate at a cost of £100; in June 1795 he paid £300 for 61 acres with a dwelling-house and barn in Barkhamsted; and 24 Dec. 1798 he bought 42 rods of land with a dwelling-house at a cost of $267.

There was a highway laid out through land belonging to him in Dec. 1792. We note the following sales in Winchester: May 5, 1795, "my home lot on which I now live and contains seventy-nine acres and an half," £320; Aug. 25, 1795, 66 acres, £145; Oct. 8, 1800 to Ashbel<sup>6</sup> of Waterbury land "near where the old Potash stood"—"with a dwelling house standing on the same."

In Winsted, according to Annals of Winchester, Caleb "owned and occupied the David N. Beardsley farm, on the old hill road to Colebrook, living on the west side of the road in a house now torn down. About 1800, he lived in a house (now torn down) on Lake St., near the 'Old Factory house'." He was still "of Winchester" 29 Dec. 1807 when he was appointed an administrator (with Ashbel<sup>6</sup>) on his father's estate; his share of the property was $205.

Caleb<sup>6</sup> appears to have spent some time in Winchester before settling there; for in Oct. 1785, before he was twenty-one, he was one of forty-six who covenanted together at Torrington as follows: "We will join together in our endeavor to procure steady preaching, and to keep up and maintain the steady worship of God among ourselves." They had Rev. Lemuel Haynes to preach for them,—a colored man, of great shrewdness and wit, and a useful minister of white congregations for about fifty years. In Sept. 1786 it was voted that "Ensign Beach set the Psalm, and that Noah Fowler, Seth<sup>a</sup> Munson and Remembrance North be appointed to assist Ensign Beach to set the Psalm." In March 1787 they put forth a declaration of principles, according to Hist. of Torr., and formed themselves into a regular body under the name of "The Strict Congregational Society," the principle of voluntariness in every respect being the peculiarity; Caleb was one of the thirty-nine signers. (See Clan Moses<sup>a</sup>, John<sup>a</sup>.)

In 1808 he emigrated to Tyler Hollow in Marcellus, N. Y., whence he moved to Vesper, and finally to Sodus, whither his whole family accompanied him.

Some verses "On the Shakers," composed in 1815, were printed; we sample the sixteen stanzas.

"A new religion's come to light:

"The greatest tenets they proclaim,
Are to deny the loving flame;
No marriage contract they allow,
Nor aught connected with that vow.

"No suffering man though he be poor,
Is e'er sent hungry from their door;
No trick in dealing like a fraud,
Can by this people be allowed."

Sarah<sup>e</sup> and Stephen "lived in the house nearest to Colebrook line on the west side of the old Still River Turnpike;" Stephen had come to Winchester in 1786. Sarah received from her father's estate $205. They were still "of Winchester" 15 Feb. 1818 when they released their right in the dower of Sally's mother Azubah; but they moved West in the fall of 1826.

Sarah<sup>6</sup> and her sister Azubah<sup>6</sup>, writes C. C. Bronson, possessed good native talent, and though their means of education were limited, acted well their part in the drama of life. If daughters could read, spell and write, people thought that schools had done enough; it was deemed far more important that girls be early initiated into the various arts of housekeeping. Besides the ordinary housework of to-day, in winter and spring flax and tow were to be spun, and made into cloth for male and female wear in summer, and for various household uses; some of it was to be whitened for sheets, pillow-cases, etc. In summer and fall wool was to be converted into fulled cloth for men's wear, and into flannel for women's wear, in winter. Then there was all the sewing and knitting for the family. These sisters were women of untiring industry, great energy, and prudent economy. And they were well informed by reading and observation.

Illustrating the nerve of Sally<sup>6</sup>, D. B.<sup>7</sup> Hart writes that her husband and two boys (Chester and Roseville) went to the sawmill intending to work all night; that presently a great weight of snow on the roof brought it down suddenly with a crash, precipitating Mr. Hart through the pitman-hole eighteen feet into the water; that having escaped with the aid of the boys, they all returned home, when Sally replaced the scalp which was badly torn and hung down the patient's back, and sewed it up so nicely that there was hardly any scar noticeable after healing had occurred.

Daniel B.<sup>7</sup> remarks that this worthy woman was very sociable, willing to afford aid at any time, and that she readily made friends wherever she was; that she read extensively, had a good memory, and took great interest in politics and public events; that withal she was fervently anti-slavery more than twenty years before an anti-slavery party was known. "She delighted to relate incidents of the Revolutionary War, when the French army, on their march northward, encamped in Middlebury."

 Chester<sup>7</sup> is believed to have been the first of the descendants of Abner<sup>6</sup> who emigrated to Ohio. He drove an ox-team the whole distance from Winsted. After remaining three years, he returned on foot, averaging forty miles per day. A day's journey west of Albany, he applied for passage in the stage, but as there was no room, he continued afoot. Several times the stage passed him and was passed by him; finally towards night, as he passed the vehicle stuck fast in the mud, some of the passengers inquired if he would not like to ride. He replied that he was in a hurry. His ambition then was to reach Albany before the stage, which he accomplished. The passengers next morning cancelled his bill at the inn, saying that anyone who could outwalk the stage should be without expense one night.

Having remained in Conn. a year, Chester went to Virginia and took charge of a set of hands engaged in turnpiking, after which he returned to Ohio. He formed a partnership with Granson Newell for casting plows—the first cast plows on the Western Reserve. In 1826 he again visited Conn., this time going by stage. There were two rival lines, and each agreed to carry passengers gratuitously unless it should arrive first. An over-driven horse, at one stopping-place, dropped dead, whereat an Irishman expressed the opinion that the animal was dead two miles back but hadn't time to lie down!

In 1828, the year before his marriage, Chester dissolved partnership with Newell, took up a tract of heavily timbered land in Mentor, cleared it, and put up good buildings; there he spent his days thenceforward. "He was a thorough farmer;" the assessor of his township once complimented him with having the best stock which he had assessed that year.

Ashbel<sup>a</sup> owned land on both sides of the highway running northward from The Green or common. His home was where Dr. De Forest recently lived: he bought of his uncle Benjamin, 13 Nov. 1793, 15¾ acres "about Sixty rods North of the Meeting house on the West side of the highway," paying £70; Abner Munson's corner was one of the bounds. He bought of Hermon<sup>a</sup> in Dec. 1809 two pieces about half a mile N.E. from the meeting-house,—there were 5 acres bounded "East on Derby road"; transferred in 1818 to Lamberton<sup>a</sup> and Abner<sup>a</sup>. In Aug. 1810 he bought of Larmont Townsend two pieces: one was bounded west on highway and N. on Ashbel's land; the other was about "Ninety rods North of the Meeting House." He made purchases in Winchester also: 13 acres in 1795, and land with a dwelling-house in 1800.

He sold John Bradley 3¼ acres "situate a little Northeast of the Meetinghouse," bounded "South by the green or common and highway," N. on his own land, and E. and W. by Bradley's; the N.W. corner was "a little South East of my shop"; date, 29 April 1802. He mortgaged 29 acres "with my Dwelling House," on the west side of the road, in 1811. Among other sales were 4 acres "about a quarter of a mile Eastward from the Meeting house on the North side of the highway" in 1813; to Cyrus Curtiss 37 acres "near the centre of" Middlebury on the west side of the road running northerly from the meeting-house; and 2 March 1821 to Marcus Bronson 28 acres on the east side of the road a quarter of a mile north of the meeting-house and 1 acre on the west side of the highway.

Ashbel<sup>a</sup> built the present Congregational parsonage some time previous to 1812. It was designed for a tavern. Candace, wife of Ashbel<sup>a</sup>, united with the Middlebury church in 1814.

Mrs. Clarissa A.<sup>r</sup> Bronson writes that her father "moved to Mentor, Lake Co., O., July 21, 1821;" means of conveyance, an ox-team; time occupied, seven weeks. It was near harvest-time; wheat was worth twenty-five cents a bushel; a man's labor twenty-five cents a day. There was a family of eight; "my mother said she cooked fifty bushels of wheat the first year." The wool in which their crockery had been packed for transportation, she carded and spun and wove into cloth. Mrs. B. adds that before the country was cleared of timber, the winters were not so cold as at present.

Mrs. Cortentia Munson Atwater writes (1885): "The three families, Munson, Parmelee, and Hart, have for more than sixty years lived near together, and their associations have been of the most intimate and affectionate character. The heads of the three families, with those of their children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren who have passed away, with few exceptions lie buried near together in the same cemetery at Mentor."

May 14, 1795, the year of his marriage, Aaron<sup>e</sup> "of Winchester" bought 64 acres in W. at the price of £92; he sold this (64½ acres) for £103 to P. Shepard of Colbrook,—date not noted. He migrated from Middlebury to Marcellus, N. Y., in 1807; being employed by David Howe, the latter, Sept. 1807, went to Middlebury for Aaron's family; and the following winter, Aaron<sup>e</sup> went to Middlebury for Caleb<sup>e</sup> and family, who returned with him. A record dated 21 Jan. 1808 speaks of him as "late of Middlebury, now of Marcellus." He worked the farm of N. Leonard two years, when in 1810 he removed to Vesper (Tully tp.). Thence he removed to Otisco: he was "of Otisco" 9 Nov. 1816 when he joined Sarah<sup>e</sup> of Winchester and Hermon<sup>e</sup> of Barkhamsted in conveying their right in their mother's dower. His habitation for a time was a log-house; he built his frame-house in 1825.

Hermon<sup>6</sup> appears on the list of Winchester in 1808 "and several following years." He purchased for $125 the claim of a Barkhamsted man to "one Certain Sawmill" 11 Sept. 1809. He was already a resident of Barkhamsted 13 April 1816 when he made a purchase of property in that town: "he lived on the Great Woods turnpike, about half a mile east of the town line, until his death," says Ann. Winch. His transactions in real-estate at Barkhamsted are recorded over the dates, 1818, 1834, 1836 and 1837. His death is said by the record to have been "accidental,"—believed by Philander S.<sup>7</sup> to have been occasioned by the fall of a barn-door.

Lamberton<sup>s</sup> was a shoemaker in his younger days, and twice went to the State of Georgia to work at his trade. While there the second time, a Southern friend advised him to leave, as he was fearful there was trouble in store for him on account of his Northern principles, and he left that same evening. The slave-owners believed that his mission to Georgia was to aid slaves in escaping from bondage.

He sold Abner<sup>s</sup> 4 Dec. 1815 "a certain Shoemakers Shop standing in said Town situate on the west side of the highway a few rods Southward from the Wid<sup>w</sup> Azuba Munsons dwelling house;" price, $75. The previous year in March he had sold Marcus Bronson the land distributed to him from his father's estate: 5½ acres "lying Southeast of my shop across the road," bounded S. on Abner<sup>s</sup>, W. on highway, and E. on Ashbel<sup>s</sup>; 3 roods 14 rods of woodland bounded E. on "the old Derby road", N. on Lucy Munson, W. on Ashbel<sup>s</sup>, and S. on Abner<sup>s</sup>. He transferred to Abner<sup>s</sup> 1 Feb. 1819 for $490 his right in his mother's dower, together with those of Ashbel<sup>s</sup>, Aaron<sup>s</sup>, and Hermon<sup>s</sup>, which he had purchased.

In the Spring of 1819 he removed to Otisco where his brother and sister, Aaron and Azubah, were already living. He subsequently removed to Fayette in Seneca Co. We may add that he was admitted by letter to the Middlebury Church in 1806, and that his wife was received in 1814.

The homestead where Abner<sup>6</sup> lived 30 April 1832, which he then sold to Marcus Bronson, was bounded east by a highway, etc., "West by the burying ground," N. by Leonard Bronson, and S. by Tuttle and highway ; it comprised 14 acres, and was doubtless his father's old place ; after his mother's death he bought up the rights of his eight brothers and sisters in the property between 1817 and 1822. With the homestead he sold also 3 acres, 19 acres, and 1½ acres : price of the whole, $1250.

He purchased 11 April 1832 of J. F. Welton 108½ acres "in the Southwest part of Middlebury"—beginning "at the N. West corner by County road." This place he sold, 105 acres with dwelling-house and barn, bounded E. on highway, N. partly on highway, to David Stone 19 Feb. 1839. A month before purchasing this property he had sold 51 acres (further south) "about a Mile south of the Meeting House," which he had owned about three years and a half.

The estate he last occupied, (after returning from Watertown,) now known as the Dibble place, was purchased by him and Stiles F.<sup>7</sup> of Nathaniel Richardson 3 April 1849 ; the six pieces, comprising 72 acres, included "the house piece or homestead with the dwelling house wood house and other buildings"—"situate near the East line of said town" (Middlebury). Widow Rachel conveyed this property, said to be located "two miles North East of Centre Square," to Stiles F.<sup>7</sup> ; date, 22 March, 1869.

Among other transactions he and his son in 1848 bought 80 acres with a barn in the northeasterly part of the town ; and in 1833 he sold John Hine 3 acres in Middlebury and Woodbury, "with a saw mill & Dwelling House." In 1834 he conveyed to Marcus Bronson and three others, one-fifth of 3 acres (which included the present parsonage land), with a dwelling-house and barn, "situate on the North side of the Green or Publick Square ;" and in Oct. 1849 he united with Asa and Harris Fenn in leasing for 900 years a bit of land "situate on the east side of the Congregational Church lot, to be used and improved for the erection of Horse sheds thereon and for no other purpose."

"Abner cried out with conviction under Dr. Tyler's preaching," said Capt. Curtiss. "He was a stanch supporter of the Congregational order," said Julius Bronson. He became a member of the Middlebury Church 6 Jan. 1832, and Rachel became a member 10 Jan. 1832; both were again admitted by certificate 30 Sept. 1849, after their return from Watertown.

We deeply regret that the plan of this history requires us to condense and mutilate his fine work. About four years after marriage Mary<sup>6</sup> received from her parents (6 Jan. 1792) a gift of 5 acres in Waterbury. By her father's Will she received (1829) 56 acres of land "abutting East on Rocky River, West on the State road." She is characterized by a granddaughter as full of loving-kindness, friendly towards the poor, and faithful to her church; another remembers her grandmother as an interesting and unique character; and it is added that her many good qualities shone with increased lustre as she advanced in years.

It is very remarkable that four of her sons, and three of her grandsons, were physicians, while two granddaughters were wives of physicians. At her death she left behind her sixty-one grandchildren.

In April 1801 Nabbe<sup>6</sup> was presented by her parents with 4 acres about three miles from Waterbury. She received 50 acres by her father's Will. The family removed to Medina in 1820.

Mrs. Bacon writes that Chauncey Prindle removed to Medina in Oct. 1821, being six weeks on the road; that in the Spring of 1823 he moved to Carlisle, then a howling wilderness, having cut a road for himself one mile of the distance; his shanty had a floor of earth and a roof of bark, but neither door nor chimney,—fire was built on the ground and the smoke allowed to find its way out through crevices.

Children :

- i. Addison<sup>7</sup>.      ii. Tamerlane<sup>7</sup>.
- iii. Francis Fenelon<sup>9</sup>; we quote the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette of 15 Dec. 1883: "The Will of Francis Fenelon Munson was admitted to probate yesterday and his brother appointed executor. The estate, consisting of $25,000 worth of real-estate, is left to the brother, and both of the daughters of the deceased are disinherited. The Will gives as reasons for this that they 'did not show a daughterly solicitude for me during my long sickness'." Divorced.
- iv. Parnell<sup>7</sup> b. 5 Jan. 1821; m; d. 19 June 1890; res. Chicago, Ill. Amherst, Ms.;  see below.
- v. Cecelia<sup>7</sup>.      vi. Amelia<sup>7</sup>.

Lewis<sup>6</sup> was presented with a farm by his father, but he "was not a successful business man." He was a man of intelligence and extensive reading, but he was very eccentric in his intercourse with his fellow-men, and his manner of expressing his opinions was not always pleasant.

 The Springfield Republican of June 27, 1890 states that Parnell removed to Amherst from Chicago six or eight years ago. "After spending one or two summers there, he built the costly residence at South Amherst and moved there permanently. Previous to his coming he had held the office of United States marshal for the District of Chicago, and was largely interested in real-estate speculations and in city contracts. Since making his home in The East he had manifested great interest in the prosperity of the town, and was a member of the board of selectmen for several years, spending much time in superintending the improvement of the highways. The last two winters he spent with his wife in travelling South and West, visiting Mexico, Southern California, and other points, and had only recently returned from a tour of six months on the Pacific Coast."

Parnell<sup>7</sup> went to New York the Wednesday previous to his death, for a pair of horses, and returned with them to Amherst by the freight train Thursday night at 11 o'clock. It is supposed that the caboose in which he was riding, stopped over the College-street bridge, that he stepped off into the darkness, and was precipitated through the open space between the tracks fifteen or twenty feet to the ground and was instantly killed. At 12.45 Friday morning the engineer at the electric-light station closed the building and started for home with a lantern. As he passed under the bridge he stumbled over the feet of a man lying on his right side and breathing heavily. Near by was the lifeless body of an older man lying on his face, the heads of the two men being close together. The latter was Parnell, the former, "Con." Shay, a former employé of Parnell. Shay could remember only that he talked with Mr. Munson at Palmer, that the latter had the horses watered there, and that he was anxious to get to Amherst with them.

By his Will all his property was left to his wife. It was stipulated, however, that a monument to cost not less than $10,000 should be placed over his grave at Rose Hill Cemetery in Chicago.

Caleb<sup>6</sup> 23 April 1811 received from his father the gift of 23 acres in Wangum neighborhood "with a small house standing thereon, it being the Boardman farm," bounded E. and part southerly on the highway and N. on Joseph<sup>6</sup> and Cornelius<sup>6</sup>. This place he sold in April 1826 for $575. In April 1828 he purchased 13½ acres which had been distributed to his sister Sally from her father's estate; and in the following November he bought two acres "in the Park, so called" in Waterbury, bounded eastward on "Worlds end Rocks." After removing to Pittsford he conveyed to N. Nettleton, 5 Feb. 1831, 50 acres in Wangum district, butting N. on Joseph<sup>6</sup> and Cornelius<sup>6</sup>, and 6 acres besides.

At the first town-meeting in Middlebury, 16 Nov. 1807, Caleb, Jr., was elected highway-surveyor. He is reported as having been a soldier for a short time in the War of 1812. He was called by his neighbors an honest man: he once walked to a place thirty miles distant to identify the owner of a purse which he had found and to return it. His daughter Harriet<sup>7</sup> who was at the age of fourteen when he died, remembers him as fond of story-telling, as a patriot, and as a religious man; she adds that he was more desirous of affording his children facilities for education than he was of making money. The five children who survived him have raised families who are an honor to them. Three of the daughters were in Chicago at the time of the Great Fire; and the four all now live "within a radius of one hundred miles."

Sally<sup>8</sup> in 1828 sold Caleb<sup>6</sup> 13½ acres about 2½ m. N. of "the Public Buildings" in Middlebury; and in 1830 united with other heirs in conveying 54 acres to Cornelius<sup>6</sup>. J. J. F. at marriage was a member of Coe and French, tanners; the Beacon-Falls Woolen Factory now occupies the site of their works. After three years, he engaged in tanning and mercantile business in Ulster Co., N. Y., whence he removed to Utica and there carried on merchandising three years. He arrived in Texas in Nov. 1833 and took possession of 4428 acres under the colonization laws of Mexico. In the autumn of 1835 he removed his family to Texas, losing the first John J. en route; they arrived "just after the battle of San Jacinto." This venerable man, writing 9 Oct. 1884, said: "We have acquired much property under adverse circumstances." He had three children living, 28 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. His wife's death and his own occurred at Merkel, Taylor Co., Tex. John J.'s brother Stiles French "ran the collegiate institute* on Wooster Square in New Haven about forty years."

When his father came from Middlebury, Ct., and settled in Mentor (1821), Edward S.<sup>7</sup> was thirteen years of age. He experienced the hardships of Western pioneer life, of which he was wont to relate amusing incidents. By his industry and business tact he acquired a good deal of property, and his later years were spent in comfort. His usual weight was about two hundred and forty pounds, and there were few men of equal strength.

He was scrupulously honest. He would never create any debts; we illustrate. He once purchased a cow four miles from home; he lacked ten dollars of the price; the seller of the cow insisted upon his taking her and paying the balance at his convenience, while also a nephew of his who was present offered to loan him the ten dollars; but he declined both offers, drove home and got the money, and paid in full for the cow before taking her away.

His good humor and social temperament won for him a large circle of warm friends. No man within his acquaintance was so great a favorite with children and young people. He was very fond of music. He was exceedingly charitable. His example in life has left its impression throughout a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. His widow, for many years a great sufferer, resided on the old homestead with her son.

June 1878 in H., (3) Catherine Estelle<sup>9</sup> b. 29 April 1885, (4) Stiles Sheridan<sup>9</sup> b. 29 Jan. 1887.

- ii. Orson Wilson<sup>9</sup> b. 24 July 1851 in Th.; m. 24 Oct. 1876 Addie Cecelia dau. of Charles Singletary, of Columbus, O.; farmer; Rep.; res. Tallmadge; 4 ch.—(1) Charles Bronson<sup>9</sup> b. 2 Oct. 1881 in Mentor, O., (2) Lona Edna<sup>9</sup> b. 15 Nov. 1883, (3) Ned Orson<sup>9</sup> b. 22 April 1890, (4) Theodore Paul<sup>9</sup> b. 24 Feb. 1892.

C. C. B. was a grandson of Titus Bronson who was a half-brother of Clarissa's grandfather Abner<sup>5</sup>. With the aid of an ox-team his father emigrated to the Connecticut Western Reserve, arriving 23 Oct. 1819. "About 1824 the township library was established in Tallmadge. Books were at a premium in those days, and once a month the use of them was sold to the highest bidder. C. C. Bronson had read all of them and proclaimed their merits as he cried the bid. For years upon years he was librarian and auctioneer."

"He was a born historian," says The Beacon, "and his acquaintance with a large portion of the pioneers of this region, with his retentive memory and his indefatigable labor in collecting historical facts from others, has enabled him to put on record a vast amount of historical reminiscences which will prove a rich bonanza to the future historian. In 1858 an Historical Society was organized in Tallmadge. Mr. B. was the moving spirit in its formation and it has owed its usefulness to him in large measure. He has left eight large books of manuscript containing his recollections and researches into the early history of northern Ohio. These have been given to the Tallmadge Historical Society.

"It was a great delight to him to commemorate the virtues of the fathers and mothers of the early days. He united with the Congregational Church in Tallmadge Nov. 6, 1831 with fifty others, and has lived a consistent, Christian life. He always manifested a deep interest in the welfare of the church. He has written a very complete history of the Tallmadge Church and Sunday-school which he has presented to the church."

Let the author testify to the extreme fondness of his genial and generous friend for genealogical and historical inquiry, and the industry and success with which he prosecuted his researches. The copious genealogies of the Abner<sup>5</sup> branch are mainly the fruit of his zealous labors; a few records of the Hermon<sup>5</sup> and Benjamin<sup>5</sup> families were furnished by him; while a variety of valuable facts concerning the early Munsons of Middlebury were from his treasury.

In Jan. 1846 Stiles F.<sup>7</sup> bought of E. B. Tyler 69 acres. He was "of Watertown" 22 July 1846 when he bought 85 acres, mostly in Watertown, partly in the N. part of Waterbury, with dwelling and out-houses.

Abner<sup>6</sup> and Stiles F.<sup>7</sup> of Watertown in May 1848 bought 80 acres in Middlebury, with a barn. Being still "of Watertown" Stiles joined his father 3 April 1849 in buying six pieces of land in Middlebury, with a dwelling-house and other buildings, about half way from Middlebury to Waterbury. He was recorded as a citizen of Middlebury Oct. 6th following.

He kept "big teams" and executed "big wood-contracts," hauling the fuel to Waterbury. In March 1869 his mother conveyed to him about 72 acres about two miles N. E. of Centre Square; also, various other pieces. Being still "of Middlebury" he was an assigning debtor 28 July 1872. He was invited by a son in Iowa to migrate and live with him, which he did (abt. 1875); he there died.

Harriet N. became a member of the Middlebury Church 1 Nov. 1863; Stiles F. united 5 Jan. 1868. His cousin Philander S. speaks of him as the "oddest genius that ever was,"—full of fun, and a great talker.

The wife of Julius<sup>7</sup> was living in 1886 (as were five of her sisters and two brothers).

 James E.<sup>8</sup> attended Rome Academy and Cazenovia and Fort Plain Seminaries, and was for a short time at Amherst College. "He has a clear eye, a ruddy complexion, quiet habits of movement and speech, and easy, affable manners. He is no less self-possessed than he is modest and unassuming, and his methods of stating his convictions would warrant any one in setting him down as a positive man."

James E. Munson

"Very early in life he gave intimations of what culminated later in his chosen profession. He says this fact is impressed deeply on his mind in the remembrance of a severe flogging inflicted by his teacher for borrowing a big boy's slate without his leave, and making thereon mysterious hieroglyphics. As he was but four years of age, it is not likely that all the requisites of modern phonography were met in this effort, but probably it had one quality which some of our correspondents claim for phonography—the writer was troubled to read his own notes. However, as he called it 'short-hand,' and nobody was found who could dispute the assertion, we must conclude that, in some occult way, the foundation of Munson's phonography was here laid."

At the age of seventeen, he met with Wooster's "Phonographic Teacher." He had just before mastered a few "decoy" lessons in the rudiments of the subject which had appeared in the Youth's Cabinet, and so was in the best possible condition for this new book. The book was a small one, and did not carry the learner very far; he soon exhausted it, and with an appetite thus whetted, looked around for more substantial food. He looked in vain, for at that time there was no book published in this country which gave a knowledge of the reporting style of phonography. In the course of two or three years, however, Benn Pitman, of Cincinnati, brought out his "Reporter's Manual and Vocabulary," and with this in hand he pushed ahead with his work and was soon able to write correctly and well one hundred and twenty-five words a minute.

In 1857 he went to New York. For a short time he did amanuensis work for E. F. Underhill, Charles E. Wilbour and others, but this did not satisfy his ambitious soul. He did not care to "play second fiddle," and he wanted to test his reportorial powers. Within ten days after his arrival in New York, the Burdell murder occurred, and on the first day of the inquest, he walked in and took his seat at the reporter's table. In 1858 appeared "Graham's Hand-book" of phonography, which he had anticipated with lively interest, in the hope that it would afford him practical assistance in his art; but it was a disappointment to him. "He saw, of course, that with the numerous word-signs and contractions a greater degree of speed might be attained, but he felt that this result had been accomplished at the expense of legibility."

"He then, in connection with a number of other phonographic reporters, took up the work of reform for himself, aiming to simplify the old phonography, and rid it of its cumbering load of anomalies and exceptions. . . The fruits of this combined labor, as finally shaped and put in practice by Mr. Munson, were published in 1866, as the "Complete Phonographer." He spent three years in the preparation of this work, after having tested its qualities in four years constant practice. . . . In 1874 Munson's "Dictionary of Practical Phonography" was published, and in 1877 the revised edition of the "Complete Phonographer." The "Dictionary" furnishes the means of getting the best outlines of 60,000 words, and over 5,000 proper names. In 1879 was added to the list "The Phrase-Book of Practical Phonography." This is a most useful book and has met with great favor. The list of phrases is taken almost entirely from illustrations gathered from the author's notes made in his court practice."

In regard to the preparation of transcripts, his mode is to have them written out directly from his short-hand notes by an amanuensis, and then personally comparing them with the notes. "His reporting of the celebrated Beecher trial ten years ago for the New York Sun is said to have been the greatest feat in that kind of work on record. The trial went on from day to day for six months, and Mr. Munson reported it single-handed, always having the copy in time for publication the next morning. His orders were to give only what was interesting, and so the amount of transcription varied. But on two certain days it ran as high as seven and a half columns, agate, each day. Fifteen columns agate in the New York Sun will aggregate 144,180 ems."

"Mr. Munson has held official positions as court stenographer in the courts of New York for over twenty years, the last nine of which have been in the Superior Court. For several years he has been engaged in developing a number of important inventions. On account of the pressure of business in other directions, he has been forced to give up publishing and dealing in phonographic publications."

The foregoing sketch has been extracted from Packard's Short-Hand Reporter for February, 1885. The same issue has a communication from James E., which concludes as follows: "Making suggestions in Phonography is somewhat like making weather predictions. Our signal service officers, with telegrams from every station in the country before them, can give us something that is tolerably reliable. But there are men, who, by simply looking through a knot-hole in a barn-door, can tell us the weather for the whole ensuing year."

James E.* has invented, and obtained patents for, the following:

1. A Type-setting Machine, which being operated by means of a previously prepared ribbon or strip of paper, automatically sets a column of corrected, justified and leaded type.

2. Machines by which such ribbon of paper is prepared.

3. A Telegraph which, being also operated by means of the same ribbon of paper, after it has been so prepared, causes an exact fac-simile of the ribbon to be automatically produced at a distant point, ready for use in operating a type-setting machine there located, with precisely the same results as if the first ribbon were employed.

4. A Selecting Device with which, by using only a small number of perforated plates, and moving them in various combinations, he is able, at will, to produce any particular single result, out of a very large number of possible results. "This Selecting Device is the foundation upon which rest most of my other inventions relating to type-setting and telegraphy."

5. A new Process of Setting Type.

"My Method, in most of its prominent features, is entirely new." The inventor has taken out letters-patent in the United States, England, France, Germany and Belgium. He not only enables to set type (corrected and justified) automatically, but to print and publish in several different places simultaneously a newspaper composed at one place. The processes are quite too abstruse for the comprehension of the unskilled.

Esther C.<sup>7</sup> lived in Canton over thirty years. She "was a most worthy lady," says a newspaper notice. She bore her sufferings with the fortitude of a Christian. She was greatly interested in temperance reform, always wore "the white ribbon," and requested that she might wear it to her grave. The W. C. T. U. "resolved" that they would "strive to profit by her beautiful, patient character," her example of zeal in the cause of humanity, and her devotion to the building up of Christ's kingdom.

H. W. McF. at the time of his marriage was a county surveyor. At the time of the Munson Reunion in 1887, it was reported that he was owning several elevators, and paying $14,000 in taxes. His three sons are associated with him in the business.

Mrs. Eva Munson Smith, writing to the Springfield (Ill.) State Register, said : Mrs. McFadden, of Havana, Ill., was the only person, besides myself, present from the Sucker Harriet Munson McFadden State. Strange to relate, we had been associated in temperance work for some years, and had even corresponded, without either knowing the other was a Munson, until meeting at the Reunion. Both had started the same evening, unknown to each other,—I on the Wabash from Springfield, she on the ill-fated excursion train, over the same road, from Havana. Her recital of the horrors of that night was pathetic in the extreme.

His second wife was an aunt of Joseph O.'s wife, and a sister of Hon. John M. Smith of the Hawaiian Legation at Washington. His home was in Middlebury on the east side of the Watertown road, perhaps two and one-half miles N. of the village. In 1843 he removed to Newtown where he remained until the Spring of 1859 when he returned to M.

His father conveyed to him, 9 April 1859, 50 acres with two dwelling-houses and two barns, and 5 acres more; and to Sarah his wife 13 acres; in April 1862 Hawkins conveyed to his sister Lucy Curtiss of Plymouth 6 acres.

Mr. Munson taught school several years, has served his town as acting school visitor, several years held the office of justice of the peace, and in 1862 and 1878 represented Middlebury in the Legislature. He was also captain of a military company.

We quote the New Haven Journal and Courier of Feb. 4, 1885 : Judge Munson "was a native of Middlebury and learned the trade of a carpenter. He studied law in the office of Charles B. Phelps, of W.B. Munson Woodbury, and had been a practi-ing lawyer for forty years. He was a county-court judge" at the age of thirty. "His administration gave much satisfaction to the people, owing in part to his strong common-sense and vigorous administration of justice. He was a pronounced advocate of the Democratic party and a strong man in politics. During the last presidential election he came out for Blaine. In the last few years he had spent much time in the management of his farms and in raising fine cattle. He was taken ill while transacting business before the Supreme Court at Hartford."

Harris B.<sup>7</sup> was "of Derby" 10 May 1850; in that year he was active in advocating the division of the town of Derby, and the excised section was at his suggestion named Seymour. He was elected a justice of the peace in 1852 and 1856, was master of Morning Star Lodge F. and A. M. 1853, and was member of the Legislature in 1853, '54, '63, '64, '65, '66 and '67. About 1859 or '60 he spent a couple of years in The West. His height was five feet, eleven and one-half inches, and his weight was at least two hundred and eighty pounds, to which he was adding five pounds yearly. He is reputed to have belonged to the Benj. F. Butler school of lawyers, whose intellectuality exceeds their conscientiousness.

The Ansonia Sentinel of Feb. 13, 1885 had this concerning Judge Munson: "When he appeared to be examined for admission to the bar, his appearance was so uncouth that the rest began to make fun of him, sneering particularly at his cowhide boots. Something in the young man's answers and intelligent appearance, however, so interested the late Judge Phelps, of Woodbury, who was present, that, on the candidate's rejection, he said, 'Young man, come and read law with me; I will make a lawyer of you.' Then turning to the other candidates, who had been more successful, he said, 'Young gentlemen, Harris B. Munson will some day stick those cowhide boots over the bar at you.' . . . The prophecy, in the sense that was meant, was actually fulfilled, much to the mortification of New Haven's toniest and best, to whom the circumstance was often recalled. At the outset the rustic attorney did not know much about law, for he was never a close book-student. He made it up in his rugged common-sense view of things, ingenuity in preparing his cases, and, withal, in a sort of sublime assurance that made juries and judges think he was right whether he was so or not."

Children :

- i. Edward Spencer<sup>s</sup> b. 12 March 1870 in Knoxville; unm.; grad. St. Louis Manual Training School; res. St. Louis.
- ii. Sam Boyd<sup>s</sup> b. 28 Aug. 1872 in K.; drowned 16 June 1883; Edward S.<sup>s</sup>, in the endeavor to save his brother's life, nearly lost his own, —was unconscious when taken from the water.

Spencer<sup>s</sup> had arrived at his twentieth year and had started on a regular course of study at Willoughby University, when Fort Sumpter was fired upon and the President called for 75,000 volunteers: he was one of the first two in his town to volunteer, and in five days the two patriots raised 105 men; the company entitled themselves The Union-Savers. Spencer's first service continued only a few weeks; but in Aug. 1861 he enlisted for three years in Co. G, 2nd Ohio Cavalry, and was constantly on duty until 25 Feb. 1865; his resignation was accepted by the War Department 10 Jan. 1865.

He received 1 Nov. 1863 from Andrew Johnson, Military Gov. of Tenn., a commission as 1st Lieut. and Adjutant of the 8th Tenn. Cavalry, three old regiments being consolidated into one comprising 1200 men. The whole duty of organizing, equipping and disciplining the new regiment fell upon him, as the field and staff were lacking in experience and knowledge. There was a prejudice against Northern men; three men who had filled the same positions in the three old organizations, had vacated them by request; and Spencer was not unfrequently reminded that a rope might relieve the new organization of an adjutant: but by the endeavor to do simple justice to all, with a rigid enforcement of discipline, sometimes by severe measures, he soon gained the confidence of men and officers. More than this; they strongly petitioned that he might be made colonel of the regiment,—a position twice tendered him by proper authority, but declined. As he was only twenty-three years of age, and among strangers, he deemed that his acceptance would involve too much risk.

While organizing troops under Gen. Burnside and Gov. Johnson, he became acquainted with Tennesseans, and particularly those in the loyal Eastern section: on leaving the army, he determined to utilize the knowledge thus acquired, and engaged in the collection of all classes of claims in that region, against the Government. This employment "proved very successful and remunerative." He added subsequently business in real-estate and insurance.

He quitted Knoxville in Jan. 1876, and during the four years ensuing, was general manager for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of N. Y., at Cleveland, O. Since resigning that position, he has been "engaged in prospecting and mining coal and iron-ore, and purchasing large tracts of land in both Canada and the United States."

of Muddy River. Caleb<sup>3</sup> in his Will described his dwelling-house as "by Cooks Rock (so called)"; and in the distribution of Joshua's estate his daughter Lucy<sup>6</sup> had  $6\frac{3}{4}$  acres 15 rods (at the south end of the homestead) "bounded East on Muddy River," and  $7\frac{1}{2}$  acres 31 rods in the homestead, bounded "East on Muddy River," were assigned to Anne<sup>5</sup>. This place was a mile or mile and a half north of Branford line.

A year after his first child was born, Joshua<sup>4</sup> purchased (27 Feb. 1751) of Lemuel Brockett  $1\frac{1}{2}$  acres "Joining upon the Southwest corner of Serj<sup>t</sup> Caleb<sup>3</sup> Munsons Land." June 18, 1752 Joshua<sup>4</sup> received from his father one-half of his house and one-half of the barn, together with one-third of his land—meadows, orchards, etc. In 1765 this gift was enlarged by his father's Will: "Item To my Son Joshua Munson I give and bequeath my Dwelling House and Barn and all the Rest of my Land that is not otherwise disposed of,"—reserving the use of one-third part to the widow. His wife Anna, by the distribution of her mother's dower 18 March 1769, received £19.5.4, to wit: "A right in the house y<sup>t</sup> part set to y<sup>e</sup> Wid. £5," together with 4 acres "in y<sup>e</sup> farm where Sam<sup>l</sup> Atwater Dwells." In the distribution of David Atwater's estate she received £92.5.2, including  $6\frac{1}{2}$  acres "north of the Peeked Rock," and one-half a "Lot laid out on the Mill Rock in the Name of David Atwater in the 9th Division."

In Dec. 1750 when Joshua gave a bond as guardian to his nephew Abner, he signed with "his mark;" both Joshua and Anne subscribed conveyances with their mark in July 1765 and November 1768; and the same kind of signature is appended to Joshua's Will.

We quote from the horse-branding and traffic book, 348 pp., 1733-1770: "June 7. 1754 then for Joshua Munson a Bay mair colt coming 1 Years Old Branded Y on Left Sholdr," etc.

Joshua<sup>4</sup> was chosen a surveyor of highways in Dec. 1757. He was admitted to communion by the First Church in Wallingford 24 June 1769. The widow Anne married Oliver Hitchcock 29 Sept. 1773; the ceremony was performed by Rev. James Dana. July 16, 1772 Joshua "being this day week in Body" made his Will, giving his wife one-third of the movable estate and the use of one-third of the real-estate, to his son Joshua one-half of the residue, and to his six daughters the remaining half; he nominated his brother-in-law Capt. James Rice as executor. His estate was appraised at £509.2.8, and included dwelling-house £30, barn £2.15, "The farm on which the House stands",  $71\frac{1}{2}$  acres, £278.17.1, "a Sabbath day House" £2.10; corn, rye, wheat, barley, oats and flax ; 2 mares £16, pr of oxen £10, pr of steers 54/, 5 cows £14. 8, 3 heiffors £6. 15, 3 calves 49/, 10 sheep 55/, 4 shotes 52/, 11 geese 18/4 ; loom, 3 wheels, reel, hetchel ; sword and bullets, time peice, and two Bibles. Among the articles assigned to the widow were the "old Sorrel mare," a warming pan, "a pare of Silver buttons," "a Small punch bole," and "a Great Bible."

Later.—A note from O. H. D. Fowler, judge of probate, dated June 23, 1893, says: "The address of George Munson is Wakefield, Neb. He is a farmer, and he is married, I understand."

In an old file of the New Haven Register, 8th May, 1841, Scribe Nettie C. Smith discovers the following :

"Information Wanted.

"My son George Munson left my house on the 3d inst. under circumstances which leave his friends in doubt whether he is living or not. He is about twenty years of age, six feet in height, well-proportioned, light complexion, brown hair and eyes, speaks slowly & is agreeable in conversation; wore away an old dark woolen dress and an old hat. He is a person of good abilities and of unexceptionable character. Whoever will give information of him will confer favor on his deeply afflicted parents.

- v. William<sup>7</sup>, was admitted freeman at Wallingford 4 April 1853; sold 72 acres in the southeast part of Wallingford 1860; bought a part of Asenath's estate the same year; was executor of his father's Will in 1869; and an account of the distribution of his own estate to George<sup>7</sup> and the daughter of Hoadley<sup>7</sup> was recorded 7 Aug. 1880. His residence was in the parish of Northford. His widow has been (1893) many years insane.

Michael D.<sup>6</sup> was admitted freeman at Wallingford 10 April 1809. He made a purchase of real-estate in April 1808, and in 1834 he bought land "on Long Hill." In 1766 she united with her mother, John<sup>5</sup> and Thomas E.<sup>5</sup> in selling 1½ acres bounded N. on Samuel Munson, W. on Joshua<sup>4</sup> and S. on Caleb<sup>5</sup> (minor son of Moses<sup>4</sup>).

- vi. Moses<sup>5</sup> (posthumous) b. 13 Aug. 1750; d. æ. 13 months. The record of the settlement of Moses<sup>4</sup>'s estate mentions "y<sup>e</sup> Heirs of y<sup>e</sup> Dec<sup>d</sup> Posthumous child."

Moses' home appears to have been south-southeastwardly of the village, perhaps three miles, and apparently westward of Muddy River, say, W.N.W. of Peck's or Tyler's Mills, and E. of the Air Line R. R.; in that neighborhood the records locate his real-estate, and there his father lived. Half a year before his marriage, he purchased 1 Jan. 1739 "a messuage or tract of land south east of y<sup>e</sup> town near adjoyning to a place called Cooks rock,"—10 acres, cornering on Abel<sup>4</sup>. Jan. 31, 1741 Caleb<sup>3</sup>, "yeoman," for the "love, good-will and fatherly affection" which he had towards his "true and dutifull son Moses<sup>4</sup> Munson of Wallingford," conveyed to him 20 acres, "bounded West and North on my own land." And Moses<sup>4</sup> bought, 4 May 1742, 4½ acres "North Eastward from Munsons Homestead," bounded W. on Caleb Munson and highway, and S. on Moses and Abel Munson's land.

"Oct. ye 15th day 1735 then sold by Moses<sup>4</sup> Munson to Benjamin Curtis booth of Walingford A bay mare 2 yers old last spring branded Y on the left sholder three pounds."

Moses<sup>4</sup> was sworn as freeman at Wallingford 15 Sept. 1747. In Dec. 1748 he was chosen a highway-surveyor.

As the death of Moses failed to be recorded at Wallingford, and as many persons, according to the records, "died" or were "killed" at Port Royal during three or four years from about 1747, my Scribe suggests that Moses lost his life on a foreign military expedition; this theory receives countenance from the fact that administration on his estate was not granted until a year and a quarter after his decease.

Widow Phebe was appointed guardian to John<sup>5</sup>, Thomas Ensign<sup>5</sup>, Caleb<sup>5</sup>, Margaret<sup>5</sup>, and Hannah<sup>5</sup>, in Nov. 1751; and at the same court she was appointed administratrix. The estate of Moses included: "20 acres of Land wth y<sup>e</sup> House & Barn thereon lying West of y<sup>e</sup> Highway £900; 14½ acres on y<sup>e</sup> East of the Highway £350;" "an Horse Hide & some leather 90/ 24 lasts 24/ an Heel Knife 15/ Shop Hammer, 5 awls, a Gimblet, old Buckles 15/ a Rasp 5/ Compasses 3/"; wheat in barn £30, rye do. £60, oats do. £20, flax do. £4, Indian corn on y<sup>e</sup> ground £5; old mare 40/, young mare £40, cow £20, heifer £15, 2 swine £5, 7 sheep £10. 10, 3 hives of bees £9; warming pan 40/, peel 20/, grid-iron & flesh fork 05/, two trammels 30/; loose coat £5, blue coat & vest £13, blue breeches 10/, white breeches 15/, flannel coat £5; Bible, psalm-book, pamphlet, etc.

The estate was appraised at £1688. 6. 6. There were "allowances" amounting to £148. 15, such as—"Charge of Lying inn with y<sup>e</sup> Posthumous child of y<sup>e</sup> dec<sup>d</sup> £14"; "Supporting it 13 months till death £19. 10"; for bringing up y<sup>e</sup> youngest child till 4 years—2 years—£36; for "Moorning" £20. Two-thirds of the property went to the six children, the deceased infant being reckoned as an heir; the eldest son had £293. 5. 0½, a double share, and each of the others £146. 12. 6½. There was added to the inventory in Dec. 1752 an acre of meadow land valued at £60.

Caleb<sup>5</sup>, by his Will made 1761 and executed 1765, gave the children of Moses<sup>4</sup> a strip of land eight rods wide along the northward end of that which he had presented to Moses<sup>4</sup>, bounded S. and E. in part on Stephen Todd; "and about seven or eight acres of Land, upon the Eastwardly Side of the Highway near my dwelling House, by Cooks Rock (so called), bounded Southwardly and Eastwardly upon Land belonging to said Moses s Heirs, and to extend North to the Brow of the Hill": "Each Son shall share in said Lands equal with two Daughters."

Wid<sup>w</sup> Phebe married 9 April 1752 Josiah Bartholomew* of Branford, Warham Williams, pastor of the No. Branford Ch., performing the ceremony. They had two sons and one dau.; one son, Jesse, has grandchildren in Elmira, N. Y., and the daughter Phebe m. Eli Bradley; Miss Lydia Munson remembers Jesse and Phebe.

John<sup>5</sup> was a respectable owner of lands, and owned also (e. g., 1824) "a Bark mill and Tan Vats" located in Litchfield. He was residing in New Haven (Parish of Mt. Carmel) Nov. 1764 and Oct. 1765; in Goshen as early as Oct. 1767, and as late as May 1807; his wife was "of Litchfield" in June 1808, and records locate him there in June 1809, July 1810, and Oct. 1812; in Sept. 1815, in 1818 and in 1824, he was in Lee, whither he went "to live near his daughter Lucy," writes his granddaughter Lydia<sup>7</sup>. He dwelt in Goshen forty years. The invaluable manuscript collections of Dea. L. M. Norton (of Goshen) inform us that he "lived on the road to Milton where Abraham Wadhams now lives—say ½ mile S.W. of the Ambrose Collins place." He and his two brothers made their early purchases "in the southwest part of the town, near together." There is record-evidence that Caleb<sup>6</sup> was already settled in the town 12 June 1766, John<sup>6</sup> 5 Oct. 1767, and Thomas E.<sup>6</sup> 5 Jan. 1768.

As the eldest son, John<sup>6</sup> received a double share of his father's estate, amounting to £293.5.0½. Lydia, being "of Mount Carmell," 31 Oct. 1765 was presented by her parents with 4 acres "Lying near Joel Munsons in s<sup>d</sup> Mount Carmell." In Feb. 1762 John "of Wallingford" obtained from Levi<sup>6</sup> of Branford £10 for real-estate. In Nov. 1764 John, Jun<sup>r</sup>, "in y<sup>e</sup> Parish of Mount Carmel in the Colony of Connecticut in New England," made a £19 sale to Samuel Munson, Ju<sup>r</sup> (index, "y<sup>e</sup> 3<sup>d</sup>"), of land "near Muddy River," "on ye West side of y<sup>e</sup> highway that goes from my Hon<sup>d</sup> Grandfather Mr Caleb<sup>3</sup> Munsons Dwelling House by Levi<sup>6</sup> Munsons to Muddy River"; this land was from his father's estate. He joined Lydia, after they had removed to Goshen, 5 Oct. 1767 in conveying to Abner Todd about 5 acres: "it lyes about Northwest from Mount Carmel Meeting house in y<sup>e</sup> 2<sup>d</sup> Teer of Lots near s<sup>d</sup> Meeting house."

His earliest purchase in Goshen which I have found on record was dated 11 April 1768; he acquired 60 acres in the S.W. part of Goshen, "west of Mushupoge stream," bounded part on the river and part on the heirs of Moses Lyman, Esq<sup>r</sup>, dec<sup>d</sup>. In Oct. following he bought 30 acres, bounded N. in part on Caleb<sup>6</sup>. He purchased, 4 Feb. 1773, 46¼ acres for £60: "Lyes most of it west side of Masshupoge Stream near Litchfield North Line." He secured the undivided ½ of 70 acres 19 May 1784, and in March following he bought of Capt. Moses Lyman the other half. In Sept. 1785 he added 8¾ acres bounded S. on his own, and "East on Nath<sup>l</sup> Munsons Land." His first sale of £20 worth, bounded "North part on my own land—East on my own land," was dated 15 Dec. 1767: "Lyeth in the Southwest part of s<sup>d</sup> town west of Musshupoge Stream." He sold an acre "on Shipoge river," at the price of £1, in 1780. And being still "of Goshen" 7 May 1807 he conveyed 50 acres "cornering on Mashapoge stream"; consideration, $1600.

For a little over a month in 1787 John<sup>6</sup> owned 10 acres "with a Log House & Barn" in Litchfield; but his first permanent purchase in that town was dated 4 May 1807. His wife, being "of Litchfield," 8 June 1808 paid $130 for 10 acres 26 rods; and he, being "of Litchfield," bought 2½ acres in Milton Soc., bounded W. and S. on land belonging to Lydia. He made several sales in Milton Society—10 acres in 1810, 10 (or more) in 1818, and 2 pieces in 1824, one having a dwelling house and the other "a Bark mill and Tan Vats." In 1812 he and Lydia sold another 12 acres in Litchfield.

John<sup>5</sup> was "entered freeman and sworn" at Wallingford in April 1759; he took the oath of fidelity at Goshen in 1778. He was chosen highway-surveyor in Dec. 1773, '75, '77, and '85, and tythingman in 1779. In Dec. 1774 the town chose an agent to "prosecute" those who should "Refuse to Serve as officers," and such as refused "the last year." "Sept. 25, 1777—voted that fish Beech be Quorister to tune the psalm."

John and Lydia were admitted to full communion by the Northford Church 20 Sept. 1761. The following is a town record at Goshen under 1782: "These may Certify whom itt may Concern that Mr. John Munson hath Been a member of the Strict Congregational* meeting att Conwell† [Cornwall] for 10 months past or more and hath Done his part." "My grandfather was a deacon of the Presb. Ch. when he lived in Goshen, I think," writes Miss Lydia. And Asahel<sup>7</sup>, formerly of Goshen, who belongs to another branch, recollects that "a Deacon Munson" was one of the citizens.

* The "Strict Congregationalists" (or "Separates") objected (about 120 years ago) to the ordination of ministers by councils; each of their churches ordained its own. They objected to the support of the ministry by taxes authorized and regulated by civil law, and adopted the voluntary policy, thus making an advance in religious liberty. They abhorred the (now obsolete) civil enactments which authorized and regulated associations and consociations. The church at Torrington and one in Middletown joined these reformers, but soon reverted to their original connection. The churches instituted by the champions of liberty, continued for a generation or two, when—their sentiments concerning ordination having been corrected, and the obnoxious civil enactments having passed away—they were merged again into Congregationalism.

Thomas E.<sup>e</sup> in 1752 at the age of 10 received from his father's estate £ 182. 12. 4½. In 1765 he sold Ludd Munson 4 acres bounded N. on Caleb<sup>e</sup> a minor.

He united with his wife the Thomas Esq. Munson year of their marriage in conveying 30 acres which Ruth had from "her father Isaac Brockitt" of Wallingford.

The same year, "17 Dec. 7th yr of Geo. 3<sup>d</sup> 1766," being "of Wallingford," he paid Jer<sup>b</sup> How £40 for 56 acres 108 rods in Goshen; and the same day Ruth paid How £40 for 44 acres 52 rods in the s.w. part of that town. He was "of Goshen" 5 Jan. 1768 when he bought of E. Hill 6 acres 40 rods. "His principal place of residence," says Dea. Norton, "was on the east side of the North End of West Street about half way from Freeman Starr's to the Turnpike. In the latter part of his life however he lived at the West Side (so called) on the west side of the road—some distance north from Lewis C. Wadham's."

He added other acres—six in 1777, 24 in '82, 4½ in '85, 6 in '93, 4 in '99. Among sales of real-estate in Goshen were 25 acres for £35 in 1771, 47 acres in '73 (including 10 from the farm which Ruth brought), 2 pieces for £105 in '77, and 19¾ acres at "a place called Canada" in '82.

"Nov. 11 1791 Thomas E. Munson sold to — Pratt of Cornwall a Black Dutch horse 6 years old . . . price £10 a Starr in the forehead and a Small Streak of white Down the Nose a Ring bone on one of the hind Legs."

This Munson took the oath of fidelity at Goshen in 1777. The records show that he was chosen sealer of leather in Dec. 1779, 1797, 1800, the first member of a school-committee of eight in 1781, highway-surveyor in 1791 and '92, packer of beef, etc., 1792, '93, '94, '95, '96, '97, '98, '99, and 1800.

Thomas E.<sup>e</sup> was a Revolutionary pensioner under the act of 1818, indicating that he had served for nine months or more in the Caleb<sup>5</sup>, while yet a child, received from his father's estate £146.12.6 $\frac{1}{2}$ , besides his share of £60 additional. He is mentioned in the records of Wallingford as an owner of real-estate while yet a minor.

He was "late of Branford, . . . now of Goshen," 12 June 1766, when he bought of Sam Brown 15 acres "in y<sup>e</sup> south west part of s<sup>d</sup> Goshen:" he sold the same 14 Nov. 1768; and the same day sold also to Samuel<sup>5</sup> Munson 3 acres in Wallingford, bounded N. on sd Samuel<sup>5</sup>, S. on Lud<sup>5</sup>, and W. on Joshua.<sup>4</sup> A committee of Proprietors had already conveyed to Caleb, 27 Nov. 1767, 2 acres 128 rods; and he added to his real-estate, 6 March 1777,  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre at a cost of £6; while he is recorded as having sold 2 acres, and, 3 May 1770, 2 pieces at £25 "in a place called Canada," and 8 March 1777, for £20,  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre with a dwelling-house and shop.

During Caleb's residence in Goshen, the Revolutionary War was making sublime history. "He enlisted," writes Mr. Miller, "in the latter part of 1776 or the early part of 1777. He was under the command of Gen. St. Clair at the time Ticonderoga was evacuated on the sixth of July 1777. After the surrender of Burgoyne Oct. 17, 1777, he returned home. Reënlisted in the latter part of 1778. He was taken prisoner by the Hessians: how long he remained a prisoner is not known. He returned to his home in 1781."

In the possession of the cousin just quoted is "a brass-kettle which was purchased with money earned by Caleb's in baking bread for another company than his own, at Fort Ticonderoga. It was in constant use from 1777 to 1880, since which it has become too precious a relic to be used—after a century's faithful service."

After the War, certainly in 1787 and 1788, Caleb<sup>s</sup> dwelt in Torrington. Albert<sup>s</sup> shows a deed by which Elijah Barber 3 Jan. 1787 conveyed to Caleb Munson of Torrington, for £11, "40 rod" of land in Torrington "With one fourth part of a Saw mill Stand- ing thereon," bounded W. and S. on highway, E. on Beach, and N. on Hill.

N. E. M. exhibits an instrument made by Stephen Goodwin of Goshen 21 Feb. 1788, which conveyed to Caleb<sup>s</sup> Munson of Torrington "one full Right or Share of Land in the Town Ship of Waterbury," Vermont. "Said Township Lyeth on Onion River." The grant was issued under the great seal of the Province of New Hampshire.

Caleb removed to his new purchase, arriving "on the last day of March," 1788. His family comprised his wife and six sons, ranging from twenty years to six. These Munsons were among the early settlers; three years previously, there was only one family in the township. "They located," according to Reuben L.<sup>7</sup>, "on the first farm south of the bridge crossing from Waterbury Street to North Duxbury Corner, and east of the Onion River."

Sometime in the year 1800, Caleb<sup>s</sup> moved into Canada and located on the North River, where he died in Dec. 1802.

Mrs. Munson is said to have been "a very large, heavy woman." The sons all settled in the latitude of Montpelier and Burlington. One of them died at the age of 89 $\frac{2}{3}$  and another at 94.

Earliest record at Goshen concerning Moses<sup>6</sup> :

"These Certify that Moses Munson is a Steady Attender to the Babbtist meeting held at Warrin having Manifest itt to be most Agreeable to his mind & he doth Contribute his due proportion, &c. May 25, 1789." Only one other record was noticed: he was chosen highway surveyor 3 Dec. 1792.

Sometime before 1800 he removed to the town of Jericho (now Bainbridge), Chen. Co., N. Y. In the quarter now known as Bennettsville, he erected a gristmill. "I once visited its old site. A hill near by, still bears the name of Munson's Hill."—H. B.

Within a few years after 1800, he moved to Lisle (now Upper Lisle), Broome Co., bought some 500 acres of land, and erected on the Otselic River a sawmill and a gristmill; he also cleared quite an area, and built a fine house. He organized the first Baptist church in Lisle, "and often himself used to preach. I do not know whether he was ever ordained."

† Miss Lydia Munson.

‡ William C. Munson repeats the affirmation.

About 1810 or '11, he disposed of his property and advanced to the site of Rochester; he bought a farm about one mile from Genesee Falls. There he followed farming until about 1825 when he again sold out. Accompanied by his youngest son, he proceeded to the site of Pontiac, Mich., and bought a section, or mile square of land. He and his son "laid out or assisted in the plotting and starting of that city." His wife died, after which writes H. B., "he visited us at Lisle." While in that neighborhood, "he married a Widow Hard, with whom he lived a short time, I think less than one year. I remember visiting them once in sugar-making time, probably about 1829 or '30, at their home—a place then called New Connecticut Hill, about four miles from my home."

"Soon thereafter", according to H. B., "about 1830 or '31," according to Oreon S.<sup>6</sup>, Moses<sup>6</sup> visited his son Asa<sup>7</sup> in Leon Co., Fla., and did not return. Mrs. Saxon, a sister of Asa's first wife, told Mr. Baker that she well remembered Moses Munson, and said she had often heard him preach. Mr. B. adds: "I was at his grave on the old Asa Munson plantation, on the Ocklockonee River, in Feb. 1885. The place was still owned by Grover, who had obtained it from Asa.<sup>7</sup> "Mr. G. pointed out to us the place where my grandfather's grave was located, and also that of the first wife of Uncle Asa. They were buried side by side, a large tree of sassafras standing at the foot of the graves and an old stub near the head. I asked Mr. G. if he would allow me to have a monument erected, which he declined."

Rachel<sup>8</sup> and Samuel were living in Goshen when their eldest child was buried; they then moved to Sharp's Landing on the Hudson; about 1806 to Lenox, Ms.; thence in 1810 to Bloomfield, N. Y.; and in 1814 to Groton, N. Y., where S. N., according to Mellona D., owned the largest farm in the county, a store, and a dye-house. Charles A.<sup>8</sup> writes that his grandfather's "business was to manufacture army blankets, near Rochester I think, during the war of 1812-15; and afterward to carry on a cloth dressing and fulling mill, at Groton,—as well as farming at the same time." In 1846, being old and infirm, he gave his affairs into the hands of Sylvester<sup>7</sup>, and removed with him to Homer, N. Y.

Charles A. considers the "uniform decency" of our Family as a remarkable characteristic. He finds more satisfaction in contemplating "a good average" than in seeing one a President while another is a defaulter and a third a debauchee.

Anson grew six inches in six months when eighteen years old. He was admitted freeman at Goshen 10 April 1797. His wedding trip was on an ox-sled, in winter, to East Bloomfield where the Buells and other Goshen folks had settled. The possessions of the bridal pair were not worth $100. Anson began tanning on a small scale, and adding one piece of land to another, acquired a farm. Frederic<sup>7</sup> remembers that the Indians used to stay over night at his father's. They would build wigwams near by and remain for days. Anson, "shoemaker," purchased, 3 Sept. 1799, 2 acres; price, $50. In 1811 he bought 10 acres at a cost of $150. The tannery was conducted several years by Luther<sup>7</sup>, and last of all by Harlow<sup>7</sup>; it was abandoned about 1865. Anson had blueish eyes, a generous nose, was six feet two inches tall, and very erect. At the age of sixty-two he suffered a shock, which destroyed all feeling in one side. Mr. and Mrs. Munson were professors of religion. Anson's Will was dated 12 Dec. 1840; his seven sons were appointed executors.

He had a slaughter and carried meat around through the community. He was admitted freeman in April 1804. He bought of Scovil Hinman 24 Aug. 1819 "one Pew in the Meeting house of the First Ecclesiastical Society in New Haven, the same being one hundred and twenty four;" price, $108. He was a resident of Goshen as late as 1835. As early as 19 Jan. 1837 (and apparently earlier) he was a resident of Middletown, where he still was 8 April 1839. At Weedsport, in advanced years, he had the care of a garden and a cow. His picture represents him as having a long face.

John<sup>6</sup> accompanied his father to Waterbury, Vt., in March 1788. In the summer of that year, being eighteen years of age, he went with another man to Burlington Bay, some thirty miles, after salt. He returned carrying half a bushel of the article on his back. The course he was to take was indicated by marked trees. The Winooski was bridged by a log thrown across the narrows at Bolton Falls.

He became a resident of Williston in 1797, previously to his marriage. His first deed in that town was dated 3 Oct. 1797. His home was in the west part of Williston village on a beautiful and sightly location presenting westerly an extended view of Lake Champlain and the valley which embosoms it, with the blue peaks of the Adirondacks rising in the background; eastward was a fine view of Mt. Mansfield, Camel's Hump, and the valley of the Winooski.

In Dec. 1814 he made a small sale of real-estate in that part of Burlington which is now Williston. The same month he removed to the west part of the town (Williston), where he built a sawmill and engaged in lumbering. In Feb. 1820 he obtained judgment in the county court against Asahel Stacy, being awarded $119.

During the Administration of Madison he was custom-house officer. He had his under jaw broken while attempting to seize some smuggled goods. In 1814 he shouldered his musket as a volunteer to repel the British troops at Plattsburgh. He held a commission from the Governor of the State as cornet, or standard-bearer, in the troop of horse (light dragoons or troopers).

In 1842 he moved to Burlington where he was still living in 1850. He died at the residence of his eldest daughter in Williston.

John<sup>6</sup> was temperate in all things and possessed a vigorous constitution. In the month of June, at the age of ninety-one, he started from Burlington in the company of his youngest daughter, youngest grandson, and others, at four o'clock in the morning, rode twenty miles in a carriage to the foot of Mt. Mansfield, walked two miles to the summit, and then back to the carriage, whence he drove homeward, arriving late at night. Next day he was walking the streets apparently as fresh as ever.

The day he was ninety-four years of age, he walked from the home of his eldest daughter in Williston to the city of Burlington, four and one-half miles, went about the city calling upon friends, and returned,—a journey of ten miles or more on a cold raw day in November.

Capt. John was independent in thought, speech and action. He became a Free-soiler at the time the Free-soil party was formed, and a stanch Union man at the breaking out of the Rebellion. Though a Universalist he generously aided in building the first Congregational church at Williston. He was a lover of his fellow-men, ready to help the poor, and to advance any cause that would benefit society or his country.

Norman E.<sup>6</sup> Miller, to whom we are mainly indebted for the above sketch, furnishes the following story of Betsey Taylor's girlhood: it is derived from Thompson's Gazetteer, and is here presented with trifling changes.

On the 31 of May 1780, Keziah aged seven and Betsey aged four, daughters of Eldad Taylor, a citizen of Sunderland, wandered into the woods near Roaring Branch. As they failed to return, the parents became alarmed and commenced a search, which with the aid of a few neighbors was continued through the night, without success. The next day the search was prosecuted by large numbers from the towns in the vicinity and was continued until the middle of the afternoon of the third day, when it was relinquished, and those who had participated in it came together with the intention of dispersing to their homes.

Of this company was Ethan Allen. He thought that the search should not be abandoned. He mounted a stump and soon all eyes were fixed upon him. In his characteristic manner, he pointed to the father and mother of the lost children, now petrified with grief and despair—urged all who were present and especially such as were parents, to make the case of these parents their own—and then say whether they could go contentedly to their homes without making one further effort to save those dear little ones, who were, probably, now alive, but perishing with hunger and spending their last strength in crying to father and mother to give them something to eat. As he spoke his giant frame was agitated and the tears rolled down his cheeks, while in the gathering of several hundred men, few eyes were dry. "I'll go!" "I'll go!" was at length heard from every part of the crowd. They betook themselves to the woods and before night the lost children were returned in safety to the arms of their distracted parents.

It appeared that the first night they lay down at the foot of a large tree, and the second they spent upon a huge rock. They obtained plenty of drink from the stream flowing near, but were weak for want of food. They however both survived, and Betsey the younger, is now (July 1842) the wife of Captain John Munson of Williston.

To this picture, Albert<sup>s</sup> adds two or three touches of peculiar interest. He informs us that the little girls went out to pick berries, that when they were found they were sheltered in a hollow log, and that they had seen searching parties go past several times, but were so frightened that they did not disclose themselves.

 Jehiel<sup>s</sup> was conspicuous for his mechanical gifts and attainments. He is described as "a natural mechanic." When a lad of fourteen, he took the dimensions of a cymbal, which a strolling musician was playing on the streets, and in a few weeks had constructed a very nice instrument, which attracted a good deal of attention at the time.

As a manufacturer of piano-fortes he was self-taught,—never served an apprenticeship. His initial knowledge was obtained by examining an instrument and taking its dimensions. He was about twenty years of age when he began the construction of his first piano. We quote an editorial in the Iris and Burlington Literary Gazette of Feb. 17, 1829 :

"Pianos.—We are informed by the publications of the day, that the manufacture of this elegant piece of furniture and agreeable instrument of music, is prosecuted in some of our large cities to considerable extent and in a good style of workmanship ; and we now congratulate the ladies of this vicinity upon the fact, that Mr. Jehiel Munson, of Williston in this county, manufactures pianos, which are pronounced by good judges, to be equal both in elegance and tone to any made in this, or brought from any other, country."

In 1863 Jehiel removed from Burlington to New Jersey, with a view to engaging in the raising of strawberries. He first settled in Hammonton, but in 1865 moved to Redbank, where he died. He is said to have had an adopted daughter.

Caleb<sup>6</sup> “owned a large farm in Duxbury.” As constable he arrested a man for debt, according to the custom in those days. The friends of the debtor promised the constable that if he would release the prisoner, they would see that the debt was paid. Under this promise, in the kindness of his heart, the constable released his man. Though the debt was only $30, the debtor ran away; and his friends refused to fulfil their promise. Caleb brought suit against those who had dealt falsely, and prosecuted his claim until his farm was consumed. Thenceforward he never accumulated property. He engaged in carpentry, working in the ship-yard at Sherburne, building bridges, etc.

He participated in the Battle of Plattsburgh, serving as captain of the Duxbury Company. He was shot through the nose in that battle. He might have obtained a pension, but said that he did not go into the battle for money.

Ammi<sup>6</sup> (as he has commonly been called) "used to make a salve and sell it," says Albert<sup>6</sup>. He served in the War of 1812. His granddaughter Eva relates that her father often referred to the severities of his early life in a sparsely settled country: once, when he was a boy, the family were obliged to gather wheat from the fields and prepare it by hand—pounding and beating it—for bread, in a region where mills were not easily accessible. "It was there and then that his mother, who was always gentle and choice in the language used toward her children, sometimes felt compelled to say to him while at table, 'Be prudent of the butter, Billy.'" Orson H.<sup>7</sup> states that Ammi was a justice of the peace, and entitles him "Capt."

Reuben<sup>6</sup> first settled on a tract of new land in South Duxbury. He was a large and powerful man. While building his barn, in the lack of a team he carried up-hill on his shoulder the rafters for his barn, which were eighteen feet long and proportionately large, a load which two ordinary men of our day would sweat under. By the severity of his labors, his health was impaired to such an extent that he was obliged to sell his farm, when he moved upon the country road where he built a shop over a water-privilege and made wagons and sleighs, sawed lumber into shape for others, and did miscellaneous work. He made pumps, and put in water-works. As age came on, he transferred his property to his son Bethuel, and took up his abode with him at Stowe. In his latter years he became very corpulent, weighing about three hundred pounds. The last of his life was spent at Morrisville.

As Bethuel's wife entered the room in the evening, she found her mother-in-law lying on the bed, and remarked that she had better retire, as it was getting late. "What time is it?" "Just past nine o'clock." "And you have not gone to bed yet?" "No, I am going to take care of you." The aged lady signified her willingness to retire. While the daughter was absent a few minutes, a granddaughter entered the room, when, with a single groan, the grandmother's life ended. It was supposed that she had fainted, and measures were taken for restoring her. Within ten minutes of her decease, and uninformed of the occurrence, Reuben himself with three gasps expired. They had lived together nearly sixty-four years.

Mary became a Christian soon after marriage, and Reuben and she united with the Congregational church in each town where they lived.

Reuben L.<sup>7</sup> tells us that during the War of 1812, when the British were threatening Plattsburgh, his father was called up in the night to go and resist them. "He responded to the call, his good wife packed his knapsack, he kissed his sleeping babes, and was on the road in twenty minutes. Such was his promptness in all matters." The battle had been concluded, however, before he arrived.

In politics, Reuben was first a Whig and Anti-Mason, then Free-soil, and finally Republican. He was a man of sterling integrity and conscientiously followed religious principle. His disposition was genial towards the members of his family, and towards friends and neighbors as well.

Reuben L.<sup>7</sup> illustrates his conscientiousness as to matters of reform. In the old days when the use of strong drink was universal, he erected a grater cider-mill, operated by water-power, and for two or three years did a good business each autumn. But the temperance movement arose, and he early enlisted under its banner. As he was pleading with one of his neighbors who was addicted to the use of intoxicating beverages, the latter hung his head for a moment; then looking up with an arch expression on his countenance he retorted: "You are a pretty man to preach to me about habit, when you yourself are indulging in a habit as vulgar and obnoxious as taking an occasional glass of good New-England rum,—snuffing up that nasty yaller stuff into your nose!" Reuben now dropped his head, in deep thought; looking up presently, he took out his snuff-box and emptied its contents upon the floor, saying: "I thank you; never more will I indulge in so much as one pinch of snuff."

Asa travelled, spending some time in South America and the West Indies (e. g., Cuba); he spoke Spanish. After completing his travels, he settled in Florida, where he married. "He was demitted from a Masonic lodge in Ontario Co., N. Y., in 1819." He attained to comfortable circumstances, owning servants, land and stock; he owned also "a set of mills near Tallahassee which are known by his name to-day" (1885).

Harvey Baker contributes extracts from Asa's letters, all from "Tallahassee." Sept. 25, 1836: "I am in a very distressed situation at present. On the 10th of this month we lost our little daughter. She died of palsy caused by worms. And on the 17th my wife died of quinsy." Dec. 3, 1839: "Joseph<sup>7</sup> Munson [his cousin, son of Caleb T.<sup>6</sup>] came from New York State by way of New Orleans and arrived here three days since in good health." Nov. 13, 1842: "I have built a house this fall . . . 38x54, and am now finishing it." In this letter, he quotes a resolution which was before an association, doubtless Baptist—"That we will not fellowship any church or churches that are in favor of Missionary, Bible, Tract or Temperance societies, Sunday-schools, or any societies that may hereafter be formed under pretense of spreading the Gospel." He adds—"But part of us being temperate, and wishing liberty of conscience, withdrew and shall form a new association in March next."

"Some years after his second marriage," he removed to the St. John's River. His place on the Ocklockonee, "containing some 1500 acres," was sold to Joshua Grover "about 1840 to '45." He was buried at Welaka, on the east bank of the St. John's, "which place he first settled." "He stood high in the respect and confidence of all who knew him."

* G. W. Saxon, a merchant of Tallahassee, is her sister's son.

† Thus, Oreon S.<sup>8</sup>

The author is sorry to add that Asa's widow married C. N. Brackett—who disposed of the family inheritance and absconded. Accompanied by her young daughter, Mrs. Munson then went to Calvary, Ga. In 1885 she was living at Palatka, Fla.

Lois' and her husband settled on a farm adjoining that of his father. Within the following year they rented their farm and moved to the wilderness where Rochester now is. Both Thomas and his brother-in-law Asa Munson killed bears where the city now stands. In 1811 Thomas Baker erected or assisted in erecting the first frame house and barn which were built in Rochester.

During the War of 1812, T. B. was called to the defence of Sackett's Harbor. His son remembers often hearing him describe an incident connected with this service. He and a neighbor of his sat conversing side by side upon a log, when a British cannon-ball came and severed his companion's head from his body, leaving the headless trunk still upright upon the log by Baker's side. After the close of the War, T. B. and Asa' Munson spent some time in repairing the injuries inflicted by British cannon upon the city of Detroit.

In 1817 Lois' and her husband returned to their farm in Lisle. Their house was built of logs. It was in this habitation that Harvey* was born. In the latter part of the decade of 1820 they erected a good framed residence. About 1831 Thomas and Lois sold their place and began to occupy the farm (at Upper Lisle) upon which Lois' father Moses* settled when he moved to Lisle. Both the farm and mills were then owned by one Wheeler. While residing there, T. B. and his sons Hollister and Harvey worked at farming and also at carpentry in which they all excelled. They moved into a house erected by Harvey at Oneonta May 1, 1842. Their removal from Oneonta to Westfield occurred early in 1850.

 The boy Harvey* was fond of learning. Before he was fourteen, he had read Goldsmith's History of Rome, Plutarch's Lives, Rollin's Ancient History, and Seneca's Morals. As he and Hollister 6 May 1823 were playing on the wood-pile near the house, cutting boxes in the beech bark with an Indian tomahawk which their father had brought home from Detroit (having there purchased it of an Indian chief), by an unlucky blow Hollister severed at the first joint the second and third fingers of Harvey's right hand.

In 1836 Hollister and Harvey hired themselves to H. Brockway, who was rebuilding the old Munson gristmill, with a view to learning the trade of millwright. After that work was completed, they assisted Brockway in building a flouring mill, with four run of stone, at M<sup>c</sup>Lean. Both then engaged in mill and bridge building as a pursuit.

In early manhood, as well as later, Harvey's achievements were remarkable. Having rebuilt three gristmills and several sawmills in Broome, Cortland and Tioga counties, he removed in 1841 to Oneonta, Otsego Co., where he erected the dwelling in which he now lives. That same year, at the age of 23, he supervised the rebuilding of eleven sawmills, while he furnished plans for the reconstruction of several others. He also established a machine-shop, as auxiliary to his mill-building. In 1842 he built three sawmills, one river bridge and two dwellinghouses, and rebuilt two gristmills. In 1843, besides farming and lumbering, he erected a foundry for himself, built a sawmill and a river bridge, and constructed the motive power for a paper-mill. In 1844 he had both bones of one leg broken and the measles at the same time, but was confined only two weeks, and was off his crutches in six weeks; besides his other business, he built a gristmill and repaired another.

He carried on his numerous forms of business until 1850 when he sold the mill property; in 1855 he sold the foundry and machine-shop; after which he carried on lumbering, farming, mill-building and bridge-building more extensively than before. In 1856 he constructed a bridge over the Susquehanna at Otego, one near the mouth of Otego Creek, and one near the mouth of the Charlotte River.

Many are the enterprises which he has conducted to success in later years. We may name the organizing of the Howe's Cam Lime and Cement Co., of which he is president; he and his brother-in-law, Eli Rose, own four-fifths of the stock, $100,000. He is the owner of sixteen dwellings and stores in Oneonta, besides village-lots, farm and forest lands, bonds, mortgages, stocks and money, while he owes nothing. Let us add that this able and successful man has never used liquor or tobacco in any form.

We have reserved Mr. Baker's crowning achievement as the originator of the Albany and Susquehanna R. R. He made the first move in behalf of the undertaking several years previously to 1857, and was one of the charter-members of the association. In the year just named, he devoted himself to the project in dead earnest. Various towns were induced to vote to take stock in the road, by which nearly a million of dollars were added to its funds. But the enterprise had enemies, more enemies than friends; and a measure was proposed in the Legislature repealing the law which authorized certain towns to subscribe to the stock of the projected road. Only a little had been done towards construction, a little grading. To repeal this law was to destroy the enterprise.

Feb. 24, 1858 the enemies of the road appeared in force before the Senate R. R. committee, of which Dr. Brandreth (of pill notoriety) was chairman. Martin of Albany, their spokesman, urged the repeal of the law above-mentioned; he occupied the whole day's session from before noon until night, presenting every conceivable argument against the construction of the road. Then the few friends of the enterprise who were present, including Hon. Jedidiah Miller, Gen. Lawyer, Joseph H. Ramsey, and Gen. S. S. Burnside, all able lawyers, held a consultation, and chose Harvey Baker as their spokesman for the next day's session.

When the committee was convened at 10 o'clock, Mr. Miller, a distinguished lawyer and statesman, introduced Mr. Baker as a farmer from Oneonta, a town near the centre of the proposed road. Mr. Baker pointed out on the State-engineer's R. R. map the line of projected road, showed its relations and connections, and urged attention to such facts as that his own village was forty miles from any railroad. It soon became noised among the members of both legislative branches that a farmer from Otsego Co. was making an argument in favor of the Albany and Susquehanna R. R. before the Senate committee, when the members crowded into the room and the adjoining rooms to listen. So convincing was the speaker's presentation of the importance of the road that the committee reported against a repeal, while nearly every enemy who was present was converted. Among such converts was the Hon. Erastus Corning who had come from Congress, of which he was a member, to aid in the repeal of the law. He was ever after an unwavering friend of the enterprise. Harvey* zealously aided and defended his project until its completion, ten years later. Twice afterwards was it in imminent peril, but his superior foresight and adroitness rescued it. We are pleased to add that he judiciously ascribes his executive ability to the Munson blood in his veins*.

* Since the above was prepared, I have received the proof-sheets of a lengthened biography of H. B. covering twenty-one double-column pages of the "Biographical Review." The Munsons would read the whole of it with great interest. A few items are quoted: "In 1800 Moses Munson sold his land and mill, and moved in boats down the Susquehanna to Chenango Point, and then up the Chenango, Onondago and Otselec rivers, to the place now known as Upper Lisle; he erected the first sawmill and the first gristmill built on the Otselec." Hollister and Harvey "had both studied geometry and surveying with their grandfather, . . . and algebra with private teachers." At the age of 42, Harvey "had constructed new and rebuilt 14 gristmills, 47 sawmills, and put in the wheels for driving 13 other kinds of machinery, among which were one paper-mill, one ax and one woolen manufactory; he had erected 12 bridges, 11 dwelling-houses, and five barns. He had made a large building-full of patterns of various kinds for foundry business. He had manufactured about 100 sleighs, and sold about 30 lumber wagons. He had manufactured over 2,000,000 feet of lumber. He had purchased and equipped three farms"; and so forth. Baker's railroad speech before the Senate committee occupied three hours. In constructing some portions of the road, he displayed understanding, self-reliance and energy which were remarkable. He has been president of a savings-bank. He has made hundreds of speeches and written addresses. He has five or six scrap-books filled with newspaper articles written by him, on all sorts of topics. He is now contributing to the Oneonta Herald a series of articles "which will form by far the most full and correct history of Oneonta and its vicinity ever published." His acquaintances claim that he is "a regular cyclopedia."

At the age of 17, Samuel C.<sup>7</sup> started for the Territory of Michigan ; he passed through Buffalo, which contained twelve build-ings, and Cleveland, which had seven. On reaching Detroit in June 1817, he engaged in trading with the Indians. He visited Saginaw when Governor Cass made a treaty with the Indians in 1819 ; the conference occurred at the fort which stood where the Taylor House now stands. H. Baker represents that Samuel C.<sup>7</sup> served as guide to the Governor and his party on this occasion.

Removing to Pontiac in 1830, he joined Eurotas Hastings, presi-dent of the Bank of Mich., in purchasing the property of the Pontiac Mill Co. In 1831, they built the first steam-sawmill in the State, eight miles N. of Pontiac. About 1834, S. C.<sup>7</sup> formed a partnership with Robt. Le Roy of Fentonville, and in 1838 removed to that place where they built a flouring-mill. About 1841 he moved to Groveland where he bought a tavern-stand, and started a line of mail-stages between that town and Shiawassee. Renting his property in 1843, he took possession of a hotel in Pontiac, but returned to Groveland in 1845. He bought the "Genesee House" at Flint in 1848 and removed thither. In 1850 he assisted in building the plank-road from Flint to Saginaw. He moved to East Saginaw in 1853, when there were only five or six houses in the town, and opened the "Valley House" ; in 1855 he went into the "Kirby House." He removed to the farm now known as "the Munson place" in 1861. He served as township clerk in 1866, as justice of the peace in 1864 and 1874, and was school-director for about fifteen years.

It is alleged that at the time of his death he was the oldest Mason in the State. He was made Master Mason in Welles Lodge, Rochester, in 1822. He sat in lodge with Wm. Morgan, who is generally supposed to have been murdered, for disclosures, in 1826. He was master of a lodge at Pontiac over 20 years, was a charter-member of the first chapter in Detroit, and had the orders of knighthood conferred upon him, by Detroit Commandery No. 1, over forty years before his death. He assisted in organizing Saginaw Lodge 77. He assisted in laying the corner-stone of the Territorial Capitol at Detroit in 1836, and was one of the two Masons participating in those ceremonies, who took part in laying the corner-stone of the State Capitol at Lansing in 1874. "For ten years, Sir Knight Munson was the sole survivor of the Master Masons who participated in laying the corner-stone of the old Territorial Capitol." He was regarded as a model "brother," and was buried with honors. The banner and swords of the Sir Knights were draped in mourning thirty days.

At the first call for three months men, he enlisted in Pittsburgh; he served three months, was discharged, and returned to his office. Responding to another call in the autumn of '61, he returned to his home in E. B., and enlisted in the 85th N. Y.: of the fourteen Bloomfield men who enlisted in Co. B, only two came back. During the siege of Richmond, Charles H. was taken prisoner at Fair Oaks, was confined in Libby prison, was transferred to Salisbury, and about Aug. 1st, was exchanged, being then sick. He advanced homeward as far as Bellevue Hospital, where he was met by his father; his death occurred in Oct. 1862. Whenever prison-life was mentioned, he would shudder, saying—"Do not mention it."
 When Charles was in school he learned with great facility. He had a mirthful temperament and was endowed with comic gifts,—was always saying something which would make people laugh. His pleasantness and pleasantries were blessings in prison and hospital; his colonel said that he was worth more than any doctor.

On the morning of the day his Cousin Buell was mortally wounded, Anson was detailed to perform duty in the hospital, which he regretted, wishing to stay with his cousin; the regiment was cut to pieces. He has since lived in different States of The West; at one time in Lincoln, Neb.; in a music-store, 1883, with his brother-in-law in Fresno.

- iv. Frank<sup>8</sup> b. 8 July 1851, m. 17 Sept. 1879 Jennie Isadore Braman; merchant; res. East Bloomfield.

Frederic<sup>7</sup> was supervisor of his town five years, including the busy war-time. He has served the church of which he and his wife have been members, as deacon,—characterized as “the backbone of the church.”

 Buell<sup>8</sup> enlisted Aug. 1, 1861 at Rochester, Co. B, 26th Regt., N. Y. Vols., Capt. Shirley. He started for Washington via Elmira Aug. 9th, arrived Aug. 11th, and was at Camp Maxwell until Aug. 16th, when he went with his regiment to Camp Vernon, Va., and helped build Fort Lyon. In Oct. and Nov. he was sick much of the time and in hospital where he assisted as nurse. Dec. 14, 1861 he went to Mansion House General Hospital at Alexandria, Va., where he remained as nurse till Oct. 14, '62 when by his own request and against the remonstrances of the physicians he was discharged to join his comrades in the field, though as he said he felt sure he was going out to die. He was sent to camp near Fort Ellsworth and was employed there, on guard and at work on the forts, till Nov. 2, when he went to Washington, and thence to Harper's Ferry, then to Manassas, and came up to his regiment near Warrenton, Va., Nov. 12, '62. They marched towards Fredericksburgh and were encamped at Brooks Station and Belle Plains till Burnside attacked Fredericksburgh Dec. 12.

Buell's diary says: “Dec. 13th, 1862. I was hit before we commenced firing; but my pocket-book saved me this time. After I had fired one or two rounds, I was hit by a spent ball in the left hip; it stung some but I kept on while the boys were falling around me. After I had fired the 4th round and was about to fire the fifth, I was shot in the right thigh. It nearly knocked me down. I started for the rear but could not go far. I lay down in a dead furrow until two of our regiment helped me." He was sent across the river to Division Hospital at 7 P. M. that evening, was removed Dec. 22nd to Acquia Creek, carried thence by a boat to Washington, and was sent to Lincoln Hospital, where he died Jan. 2nd.

His body was brought home and buried Jan. 12th. Buell was known and respected by his company as a Christian, and his piety, patience and gentleness both in the hospital and in the field made him many friends. Of the 116 volunteers from East Bloomfield, he was the twelfth soldier who fell. An elegant freestone monument has been erected to the memory of the men who died in defense of the Union; the first name on the west face is that of Private Buell Munson.

Frederick T.<sup>7</sup> "was quite an inventor." He had some contrivances in hand which he hoped would prove valuable. He was killed in Pennsylvania by an explosion of nitro-glycerine, I believe. His father used to live with him at Weedsport.

About 1875 Mrs. Munson removed to Oberlin to educate her daughters. After Frances and Nettie were married, she studied at the Homeopathic Medical College in Cleveland, took her degree in San Francisco in 1886, practiced medicine four years in Los Angeles, Cal., then opened an office in Toledo, O., and is now (1893) in Chicago. A very pleasant family.

While Hosea<sup>7</sup> was a school-boy, as he was shooting cat-tail arrows with a bow, he gazed upward to see how high they went, when one of the missiles dropped into his left eye. It has often been said of him that he would see more occurrences with one eye than many people would see with two. He was a good hand at moving buildings, and at pulling stumps with a machine invented by his brother. He was a man of great physical power: "I have heard him say that he had lifted five hundred pounds with one hand." It is said that he made much use of beverages.

Before marriage, Russel D. was engaged with Jehiel<sup>7</sup> in the manufacture of pianos at Burlington. Later he had a farm of 50 acres, and had also a shop where he made and repaired a great variety of articles, such as clocks, music-boxes, &c. Mechanical work seemed natural to him; he never learned any trade. His family have some very nice and very valuable specimens of his workmanship.

His head was full of ideas, and he devoted some time to invention. In Jan. 1849 he obtained a patent on a wagon-hub. Then he applied for a patent on a stump-puller. He made models of horse-powers and several other inventions; but as the application for a patent on the stump-machine was rejected, he lost confidence in patenting. With the money obtained from his wagon-hub invention, he bought land and commenced building a two-story brick house; this was unfinished twenty-eight years later.

The last fifteen years of his life he spent in building the Universal Time Indicator—a masterpiece of mechanism. This instrument—while keeping track of the month, the day of the month, the day of the week, and numerous other particulars—indicates where, at any time, it is 12 o'clock noon, and 12 o'clock midnight, and where the sun is rising, and where setting,—making clear that there is a new day commencing every moment, and where it is occurring. Another complicated clock has a dial which marks the year of the Christian era, the month, day of the month, day of the week, the hour and the minute. It is made to run nine days; six hours before the expiration of that period, it rings a bell. It includes a musical instrument made by the maker of the clock, which plays seven tunes: at the end of each hour Sunday, it plays "Old Hundred"; Monday, "Old Folks at Home"; Tuesday, "Swiss Waltz"; Wednesday, "Star Spangled Banner"; Thursday, "Hail Columbia"; Friday, "Yankee Doodle"; and Saturday, "Sweet Home." In the ball of the pendulum is a chronometer, keeping time accurately, which derives its motive force from the vibrations of the pendulum; of course it does not require winding.

A newspaper published in Sept. 1882 contained the following: "A great genius, in the person of Russell D. Munson, died at his home in Williston on Wednesday last, aged 73 years. He was the builder of the celebrated 'old farmer's clock,' that has been exhibited east, west, north and south, eliciting the wonder of all who chanced to see it; he also constructed the universal time indicator, telling at a moment the exact time on any part of the globe; his last conception, which he quite successfully carried out, was a 'musical box,' worked by both reeds and vibrations. All these were constructed with rude instruments of his own manufacture, yet every part showed most skillful mechanism ; in fact he was one of the greatest born geniuses of his age, who made everything a study, and acquired a vast fund of information, which he brought out in a manner surprising all who met him. His knowledge of astronomy would surpass that of many a 'professor,' and his kind, homely ways won for him friends wherever he went."

"A handsomer family of girls and boys was never seen," writes Eva Munson Smith. "A peculiarity deserving mention is that the eldest was a boy, with blue eyes, the next a girl with brown eyes, the next a boy with brown eyes, then a girl with blue, and so on alternating to the end of the list." Harrison W.<sup>8</sup> writes—"You notice the first born was a son, with opposite sex at each birth to the end; and all were married in the same alternate form." Miranda P. and husband moved from Potsdam, N. Y., to Wellsburgh in Oct. 1837, when there were only eight houses; they remained until death. Both were interred at Wellsburgh. Their golden wedding was celebrated in 1874. The number of their descendants with sons-in-law and daughters-in-law is 210, "and their combined ages are about 2997 years." They hold this year (1893) their seventh annual reunion.

During the War he was surgeon of the 108th N. Y. Volunteers; and he was in Libby prison. He was a church-member; indeed he began studying for the ministry, but on account of a throat difficulty, turned to medicine. He is said to have been a fine singer and composer; the music which he composed for the Lord's Prayer, is especially commended by Eva Munson Smith.

For years William C.<sup>7</sup> taught vocal music, and being greatly interested in the musical education of the young, he wrote many glees and choruses which were especially adapted to schools. Patriotic music was his delight, and he composed a number of pieces of that sort. Eva F. writes in regard to her "dear, sainted father"—"He taught me to revere and love the Munson name and to be proud of the Munson blood in my veins." His wife, Hannah Bailey, a native of Massachusetts, "was descended from Hannah Bailey of Revolutionary fame, who, when the wadding for the guns gave out, tore up her red flannel skirt" to supply the need.

The family home was in Winchester, Tenn., at the outbreak of the War, which was in the path constantly traversed by armies, now the Union and now the Confederate. "The nervous strain was very great, as Mr. Munson was a staunch Union man, and the sufferings endured led to his death."

 The Woman's Magazine for April 1888 says of Eva<sup>8</sup>: "She sang before she could talk, warbling little melodies of her own, like a happy bird. Song was her natural expression, and when only five years of age, she composed little airs which she played herself upon the piano. None were written until she was fourteen, but her special gift was developing under most favorable circumstances." The president of Mary-Sharp College, Winchester, said in the Winchester Home Journal: "Years ago there lived among us a young girl, a pupil of the Mary-Sharp College, Miss Eva F. Munson, whose exquisite singing carried a thrill of delight through the ears of those who listened to it."

EVA MUNSON SMITH.

We quote again from the Woman's Magazine: "In 1868, Eva Munson set to music Mrs. Henry's beautiful song of 'Joy.' This was followed by 'Woodland Warblings' which prima donnas render at concerts to the delight always of their audiences. The breath of the leaves, the birds, the breeze, the shimmer of soft sunlit air, the charm of fern and wild-wood flower, are in these 'Warblings.' Later publications are 'American Rifle-Team March,' and 'The Home Sonata,' published in St. Louis, in 1877."

A newspaper has the following: "'Woodland Warblings' is numbered in the list of classical music, and is sung by prima donnas in this and other countries, while 'Joy' is considered a gem of song, as are others to the number of fifteen or twenty. Her instrumental compositions also have long been popular, and have been arranged for brass bands. Mrs. Smith has been national W. C. T. U. chairman on music for the past two years." She has written three home-protection songs in the interest of temperance. The Munsons at the Reunion were charmed with Eva's singing of "Woodland Warblings," and every singing Munson should possess the song.

Eva has wrought in the field of literature as well as that of music. Her first school-composition, written at the age of seven, was in rhyme. When she graduated at Rockford, she had the honor of writing both the words and music of the class-song. She has done a great amount of writing for various newspapers,—contributing several years to the Illinois State Journal and during twenty years to the Illinois State Register. She is the author of a missionary drama, entitled "The Field is the World," which has been presented in nearly or quite every State of the Union, as well as in several foreign countries. Her great achievement however is "Woman in Sacred Song." In regard to this, Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton writes: "Mrs. Eva Munson Smith has undertaken, and after years of patient labor has successfully accomplished, a noble work for woman. She has prepared a volume of nine hundred pages, comprising the best poems of about eight hundred and twenty women in the last three hundred and forty years. Such a work is the labor of a lifetime." The collection "has devotional, missionary, temperance and miscellaneous poems, nearly three thousand in all, with one hundred and forty pieces of music. Mrs. Smith, being herself gifted in both music and poetry, has been able to do her work well. Miss Frances E. Willard writes an eloquent preface, and wishes the book might go into every home. The book is handsomely illustrated."

"The work manifests extraordinary industry and research," says the Sage of Greystone (S. J. Tilden). "It is a most meritorious endeavor." Mrs. Gen. Hancock writes: "No where have I seen compiled in one, two, or many volumes, so many exquisite gems of thought, either in poetry or song, as is contained in this."

We learn that Eva has an invitation to deliver an address Aug. 16th before the Woman's Congress at the World's Columbian Exposition; subject—"Woman in Sacred Song."

Mrs. Smith's Christian philanthropy should receive a passing glance. The receipts from her drama she conscientiously devotes to missions. She has established in her city a reading-room for boys and a circulating library for young people. In the temperance field, she is especially zealous, energetic and indomitable. "She is," says Editor Kidd of the Daily Monitor, "one of the women of America who are elevating the sex,—honoring woman-kind by making a pathway for women yet unborn to walk in."

After Brackett had robbed the family, Oreon's grandmother did all she could to promote her improvement and happiness; her girlhood was pleasant and happy. She became a school-teacher. At the age of 23 she married a man of merit, whose family had been wealthy but lost all by the War. After a few years her health failed, and in 1885 she had been eight years an invalid. They migrated about 1882 from Calvary to Palatka.

While a child, Oreon was the idol of her father, and she idolized him; but she lost all trace of his people. For five years at least, 1880-'85, she sought by correspondence and newspaper inquiry, to discover some one of his relatives; but without success. The author's search, somewhat protracted, was successful.

We quote "The Adventures of 1000 'Boys in Blue' from Aug. '62 to June '65," a history of the 126 Reg't N. Y. V. :—

"Capt. Ten Eyck Munson was by occupation a clerk. He assisted in recruiting Co. F, and was commissioned and mustered Second-Lieutenant on the 15th day of August, 1862, the date of his company's organization. He was sick at Chicago from Oct. 14th, 1862 till Jan. 17th, 1863, when he rejoined his regiment, and was promoted to be First-Lieutenant Oct. 22d, 1863. He was absent, sick, from April 4, 1864, on duty with the Provost Guard at Headquarters 2d Army Corps till Nov. 5, 1864, when having been promoted to be Captain Sept. 1st, 1864, he was on the 5th of Nov. 1864 appointed Assistant Provost-Marshal, at Headquarters 2d Army Corps, and remained on such duty till the muster-out of his regiment, when he was discharged.

"He was in the following battles: Harper's Ferry, Gettysburg, Auburn Ford, Bristow Station, and Morton's Ford, and was with the Corps in his appropriate duty during the subsequent battles in which the Corps was engaged, till the close of the War." He "was the only original line officer of the regiment who returned with the regiment."

An article in a Canandaigua newspaper adds some points: "After the battle of Gettysburg he was promoted to a First-Lieutenancy. In Sept. 1864 he was made a Captain, and thereafter served as Assistant Provost Marshal of the Second Corps, on the staffs of Generals Hancock and Humphrey. He participated in all the battles in which the 126th Regiment was engaged—including Harper's Ferry, Gettysburg, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, Petersburg, Auburn Ford, Bristow Station and Morton Ford. The disease which caused his death was contracted [by exposure] at Camp Douglass, Chicago, while the 126th men were there as paroled prisoners of war, after the surrender" to Stonewall Jackson at Harper's Ferry, Sept. 15, 1862. The Author was told by the Captain how on one occasion, while lying behind a fence, in the skirmish line, a ball passed through one of the rails and struck his thigh, but with spent force.

After Ten Eyck resigned farming (which was his vocation), he was an officer in the N. Y. Juvenile Asylum, N. Y. C., for several years; and he occupied also a position in a charitable institution at Rochester. But the last seven years, he was unable to engage in active affairs, and dwelt in Canandaigua.

In writing to me on the last day of his last January, he said: "I hope when Spring shall come, to gain in strength. The Lord knows what is best, and may my will be His." "His patient waiting for the call," wrote one, "with never a murmur through months of intense suffering, and with perfect resignation to his Father's will, was beautiful, and was felt through all the village."

The gentle yet gifted man, with the keen, brown eyes,—he was eminently noble. Post No. 162, G. A. R., say—"We desire to make public our recognition of the manly virtues which he so conspicuously possessed." Gen. Hancock, on whose staff Ten Eyck was serving in 1864 and '65, wrote from Governor's Island—"I regret to hear of Capt. Munson's death, and beg that you will express my sympathy to his widow and child in their bereavement."

And in the wreck of noble lives
Something immortal still survives.—H. W. L.

It had ten commissioned officers killed, losing more than any other Vermont regiment. It was in thirteen battles: Albert was sick a part of the time, but participated in the battles of The Wilderness (May 5, 6, 1864), Spottsylvania (May 12), and Raritan River.

A part of Albert's business is the manufacture of steel stamps and stencils. A communication conveying information which he had gathered for this history, closes thus: "If you wanted any mechanical work done—a gun, a watch, or a music-box, I should be at home; but this biographical work is too long-legged for me."

We quote a newspaper: "For some time past, Mr. Munson, of the Opera-House Store, has been at work on an electrical clock for the C., B. & Q. that would act as a time-setter for the clocks along the entire Burlington system. His efforts have at last been rewarded. For more than two years the company has been vainly trying to get a clock of this character, and in that time has had all the prominent clock-manufacturers of the country at work, but without success. Finally, Mr. Munson was sent for, and matters explained to him. He set to work and in a short time produced a model that was shown to the officials in Chicago. On account of its simplicity, Mr. Munson's idea was adopted, and he was told to go ahead with his work. During the past three days Mr. Raymond Gregg, who has charge of all the clocks on the C., B. & Q., has been in the city in consultation with Mr. Munson, and as a result an order was left for 3,000 clocks to be made as soon as possible."

He was a member of the Grand Army Post, was twice a delegate to the State convention, and once cast the votes for five delegates. "The town of Munson, Neb., was named in honor of my father," writes Noble O.<sup>9</sup>

The latter testifies that the family to which he belongs are all light-complexioned and have dark-blue eyes, while on the average they exceed the average stature of men. He adds, "We are all strong and robust, and all Republican."

Charles N.<sup>8</sup> served three years and eight months in the Federal Army with the rank of captain, in the War of the Rebellion. He was wounded at the battle of Cold Harbor, losing his left arm, was a prisoner in Libby Prison, and was exchanged at Annapolis.

Eva<sup>8</sup> writes of this cousin, "late of the Twenty-sixth New York Volunteers," as follows: "Capt. Charles N. Munson was severely wounded in the left arm and taken prisoner. Becoming almost insensible from pain and loss of blood, he was very weak, when, after weary and wretched hours of suffering, the inspecting surgeon came around and declined dressing the wound or amputating the arm, remarking—'O, he can never get well; no use wasting time on him.' But as he yet breathed, he was not removed with the dead; and when the surgeon made the next round, seeing him lying there still he said—'What! that man alive yet? Carry him off! he'll die—can't recover;' and he passed on, refusing to do aught even to make what was supposed to be his last hours more comfortable. Finally he was removed to the hospital, and the steward passed him by with very strong language, wondering why men so far gone as he, should be brought there. Next morning, hearing again the words—'What! that man alive yet?' the Munson blood was so aroused in the wounded man's veins—the little left remaining, but it was all pure Munson blood—that he determined he would get well for spite, if nothing else. He rallied and recovered, and avers that it was his own persistent spirit and determination that kept him alive. His arm was amputated, but he received no care or nursing. His recovery shows the purity of the Captain's blood—not poisoned by alcohol or tobacco.

"Captain Munson's clothes were all taken from him when he was captured, as the enemy were badly in need of wearing apparel themselves, and a blanket was all he had during the entire year, day and night, winter and summer. When the time for his exchange came, at the close of the War, or thereabout, he could obtain possession of nothing save an old dressing-gown, in which scant garb he went jubilantly forth into liberty. He made his way to Sterling, Ill., where he found employment, and soon owned the stock in a boot and shoe store."

The Portsmouth Race of Munsons.

In the 15th year of Charles II, Nov. 1, 1664, Richard Munson paid James Drew of Portsmouth £19.10<sup>s</sup> for one-half of a dwelling-house with eight acres; and Jan. 16th following he purchased of Samuel Drew the other half of the same property at a cost of £22. This Richard was the progenitor of the Portsmouth Munsons, so far as known. Whether Robert Munson who died in 1677, twenty-five years before the death of Richard, was Richard's father, is not apparent; very likely he was. His inventory included "olde sea clothes" and a "share of fishe weare."

The probate records at Exeter entitle Richard a "ffisherman."* His inventory in 1702 included "2 Shallopps with Sales Rigging and fishing Craft"; also "70 Quintles of ffish," and "3 Barrells of Mackerell."

Samuel<sup>2</sup>'s children included Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Jun., who had Mary<sup>4</sup>; the latter married a Richard Munson, whose wife she was in 1761 and 1763. This Richard who was a citizen of Portsmouth in 1763 and 1780, appears to be the same as he who was a citizen of Rochester, N. H., in 1797 and 1798, and a citizen of Milton, N. H., in 1810; in 1780 and 1810 his wife's name was Susanna.

Richard Munson, the husband of Mary<sup>4</sup>, is probably the sea-captain who migrated in his old age—about 1810—to Colchester, Vt., and there finished his earthly course. He was rather small of stature. He taught his grandson William B. "how to tie all sorts of sailor knots." He d. 13 Aug. 1813, and was buried in Colchester. The names of his three sons were William<sup>5</sup>, Theodore<sup>5</sup> and Daniel<sup>5</sup>.

WILLIAM.

DANIEL.

Sons of Theodore Munson.

(Portsmouth Race.)

William<sup>a</sup>, born in New Hampshire, 1766, m. in Colchester, 1695, had fourteen children, was a lumberman, and died in Colchester, 1830. Theodore<sup>a</sup> came from New Hampshire to Colchester, had five children, and in 1830 removed to Rushville, Ill. Daniel<sup>a</sup> also came to Colchester from New Hampshire; he had two sons; he died in C. about 1835.

Theodore<sup>a</sup> had three sons, William<sup>a</sup>, Daniel<sup>a</sup> and Eliphalet P.<sup>a</sup> Their portraits appear in the engraving opposite. William<sup>a</sup> b. 1808, d. æ. 82, cultivated a farm near Astoria, Ill., until 1879, when he removed to Denison, Texas. His six children reside there, and thereabout, a family of very marked ability—enterprising, prosperous, wealthy, influential. Daniel<sup>a</sup>, now deceased, resided in McComb, Ill. Eliphalet<sup>a</sup> resided in McComb, but at date of last report, in Tennessee, Ill.

It is extremely probable—it is beyond reasonable doubt, that Robert Munson who was a citizen of Scarborough, Maine, in 1726 (perhaps considerably earlier), was of Portsmouth stock. His wife was Abigail. He died before 1758. (His son Stephen died in 1751.) His son Joseph (wife Sarah) removed from Scarborough to Machias in 1765, where he has had a numerous posterity.

Observe that the surname of the Portsmouth Munsons was often spelled Manson; indeed in a single document the same name may be written several times with a u and as many times with an a.

While numerically the Portsmouth Munsons may be to the New Haven Munsons as one to twenty, it is much to be desired that the available information concerning them should be preserved in a small volume. Another Munson Record may appear; if so it will doubtless be due to the intelligence, loyalty and enterprise of our namesakes in Texas.

THOMAS VOLNEY MUNSON.

The most widely known of the Portsmouth Munsons is the proprietor of the Denison Nurseries, and President of the State Horticultural Society, of Texas. T. V. Munson is the son of William<sup>a</sup> (mentioned above) and was born 26 Sept. 1843 at Astoria, Ill. He graduated at Ky. Un. as B.S. in 1870; degree of M.S. conferred in 1883. The University employed him one year, as instructor in the natural sciences, when failing health diverted his energies into the nursery-business. He transferred his abode and his business to Denison in 1876, where he has devoted original and wide-awake study to his calling, and conducted affairs on a large scale.

Outside of his vocation as nurseryman, his specialty is experimental horticulture. Mr. Munson says: "Among my large number of seedling grapes, many are remarkably fine, and of entirely new and peculiar hybrid strains." In 1884 he was preparing "a collection of plants of all species of American grapes with wild and artificial hybrids and varieties, to be displayed growing in pots, scientifically classified according to botanical characteristics," in the World's Exposition at New Orleans the ensuing winter. The exhibit was to be supplemented by a display of seeds and leaves, mounted and classified. It was probable this would be "the most complete botanical display ever made of the grape genus in the United States."

Thomas V. has written and published much, and is a member and officer of various societies relating to nurseries, horticulture and forestry. He was invited to the Horticultural Professorship in the Mississippi State Agricultural and Mechanical College, but declined.

Unlocated.

At an early day, Jesse Munson removed from South Carolina or Virginia to Kentucky, and again removed to Mississippi. There his son, Henry William was born 15 Jan. 1793; m. 12 May 1817 Ann Binum dau. of Wm. Pearce, b. 18 April 1800 in Georgia; he d. 6 Oct. 1833; she d. 6 Sept. 1865. Henry W. was a farmer. He removed early to Louisiana, and thence to Texas.

Children :

Henry W.'s papers were destroyed in a burning house. He had several cousins in Louisiana; one of them, Telfair, a large and fine-looking man. "Some members of the family still live in La., I think about Plaquemine or Iberville, whilst several went to California."

All Col. Munson's children are living (1895). In 1883, Thomas V. Munson called our attention to Mordello as an attorney-at-law who had been "a prominent and exemplary member of our Legislature and Senate several terms, and a man of fine standing."

Though proof is wanting, there can be little doubt that the Senator is of the Thomas Munson race, a member of one of the lost tribes. At any rate, he is a most loyal Munson, and an honor to the Family name. He writes that a neighbor of Dr. Henry J.<sup>7</sup> Munson accosted him when a young man, and extended cordial greeting to him as one of the Doctor's sons whom he had known from childhood : "it was with difficulty I could persuade him I had never met a member of Dr. Munson's family."

Thaddeus Munson is said to have belonged to a Cheshire, Ct., family ; ran away from home ; conceived by a grandson to have been "a little wild." He became a resident of Canandaigua (P. O., Cheshire), N. Y., where he married first — Mack and then — Norman. He was a sutler in the War of 1812 ; but when the British crossed over at Buffalo, "his kit was cleaned out." He then made some arrangements for his family, and went away to make some money ; but in a short time he died at Syracuse, when his son Lacey "was about three years old."

By his first wife, Thaddeus had Gorham, Rensselaer, and Sally ; by the second, Lacey and Luman (twins),—all born in C. Gorham removed from Terre Haute, Ind., to the Parish of Natchidoches, La. ; a Union man and Republican, he was obliged by the Rebellion to retreat to Illinois. Rensselaer moved from Terre Haute to Little Rock, Ark., where he owned many slaves. Sarah married Dresser and moved to Canada. Lacey, b. 1809, d. 1876, res. Cheshire, N. ### The Ferry Path.

The Ferry Path, so often named in locating lands (e. g., in 1707 or 8, vi of Anne) is disappearing from the knowledge of men. Within less than half a century, it was entire, and in common use as a cart-path. Mr. Horace R. Chidsey, to whom I am indebted mainly for the facts here presented, has often traversed it, sometimes with loads of oysters. The Path was first obstructed about 1849 by the utilization of the lot at the S. E. cor. of Exchange and Poplar streets as a dwelling-place; the place is now owned and occupied by Mr. Chidsey. Between Alton St. and the Shore Line R. R., there are four houses standing on the old Path, though it is no longer open to the public; and further north, beyond Lombard St., another house marks the ancient route to the Ferry. From Alton St., southward, the Path lies in the misnamed Monroe St., and then in Blatchley Ave. as far as the S. W. cor. of the Nonpareil Laundry building, No. 271; it passed through the site of the F. H. & W. R. R. car-buildings, across the grounds of Woolsey School, at the S. W. corner of the building, through the site of the little store at the N. W. cor. of Exchange & Poplar, across the S. W. corner of H. R. Chidsey's home-lot, across the site of house No. 20 on Wolcott St. (built by Mrs. Bush), thence directly to the

N. W. cor. of Ferry and Saltonstall, into Ferry St., along past the old site of Jim Way's abode (of malodorous memory), on past the foot of Houston St., and curved around through the grounds now occupied by the brewery to the vicinity of the house of Ely Sanford, S. W. cor. E. Pearl and River Streets, and terminated (presumably) at Sanford's Point, whence a boat transported travellers across the river to the north end of the Red Rock. Half a century ago, no labor was expended upon the Ferry Path to keep it in order; and it was not fenced.

Notes.—On the accompanying map, the course of the Path as far south as Grand Ave. is that laid down in the map of R. Whiteford. The remainder is constructed from particulars furnished by Mr. Chidsey. The Path crossed not only the Bush place, but Capt. Joe Hutching's, next eastward: it was a little more than one-third of the distance from Poplar to Ferry. Way's place, owned by a Tuttle family, was an old cellar covered with fence-rails, thatch, etc., on the east side of Ferry St., now the yard of the saloon on the corner of Ferry and Houston Streets. The west-side ferry-landing was somewhat north of the present Quinnipiac Bridge. Neck Bridge was probably built in 1638, for in Feb. 1642, N. S., it was the subject of the following Act: "It is ordered that the Neck Bridge shall be repaired forthwith." The path from Neck Bridge to Grove St., along the course of State St., was called Neck Lane.

No. V. OUTSIDERS :

A SELECTION FROM THE NAMES OF PERSONS MENTIONED WHO ARE NOT DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS MUNSON NOR MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY BY MARRIAGE.

A large yet designedly incomplete list is presented in this Index, and the references are rather samples of what the book has than an account of its contents. In connection with the record of persons who have married Munsons, we have often named their parents, especially fathers; there are as many as 650 such names. These names, in virtue of the parental relation merely, do not appear in this Index, as they are readily found under the references to their children in Index III. The following Index distinguishes only names, not persons. The number of names is 1473; the number of surnames is 696. Number of references, 2246.

The commencement of Index V. is appropriated to some special groups of names; the miscellaneous portion begins in the third column below.
